Mercer County, Ohio History 1978

The map on the opposite side graphically displays the allocations of lands through various grants of the part of the old Northwest Territory that became the great state of Ohio. Ohio became the 17th state in the United States of America through congressional action on March 1, 1803. However, as the map indicates the occupation of lands west, northwest and north of the meandering Ohio River were officially occupied several years earlier. The first of the 18 land grants in the area that is now Ohio was made in 1784; entitled Virginia Military lands. These lands were awarded to Virginia soldiers of the Revolutionary War, including our First President (The Father of Our Country) George Washington, and Generals George Rogers Clark and Daniel Morgan. General Washington's four tracts of land, comprising 3,051 acres, were located in what is now Clermont Country, just north of the Ohio River and east of what is now Cincinnati.

Mercer County is in Western Ohio, in the section, Congress Lands, 1819.

(This map is made available to the public by the Auditor of State in the hopes of generating further interest by Ohioans in the development of their great state.).

PREFACE

The Mercer County Historical Society welcomes the reader to the Mercer County, Ohio History 1978. Almost a century ago, in 1882, the first Mercer County History was written. A biographical history of Mercer County was printed in 1896. The 1907 History of Mercer County was the last major history of the county written.

Three factors gave the Mercer County Historical Society the opportunity and the responsibility to publish this Mercer County, Ohio History 1978. One factor was the steady request for historical research from local students and Wright State University students, and for historical and genealogical research from Mercer Countians and people across the nation and Europe. Another factor was the increasing number of requests from schools and organizations for lectures on local history by Museum Director Joyce L. Alig. The third factor was the need for incorporating the history of Mercer County for the last seventy years into the history books.

Many authors have endeavored to write the individual histories, which as a total, will present the story of Mercer County, Ohio. Specific examples of histories include Mercer County Officials and buildings, Townships, Villages, Schools, Churches, Libraries, Professional and Civic Organizations, recreation areas, and businesses. The family histories reflect the heritage of the county and how each family has played an important role in the development of Mercer County. An extensive index of family names and subject interest will contribute to historical research. May the reader have a gentle understanding of the shortcomings of this book. Any errors of commission or ommission are quite unintentional.

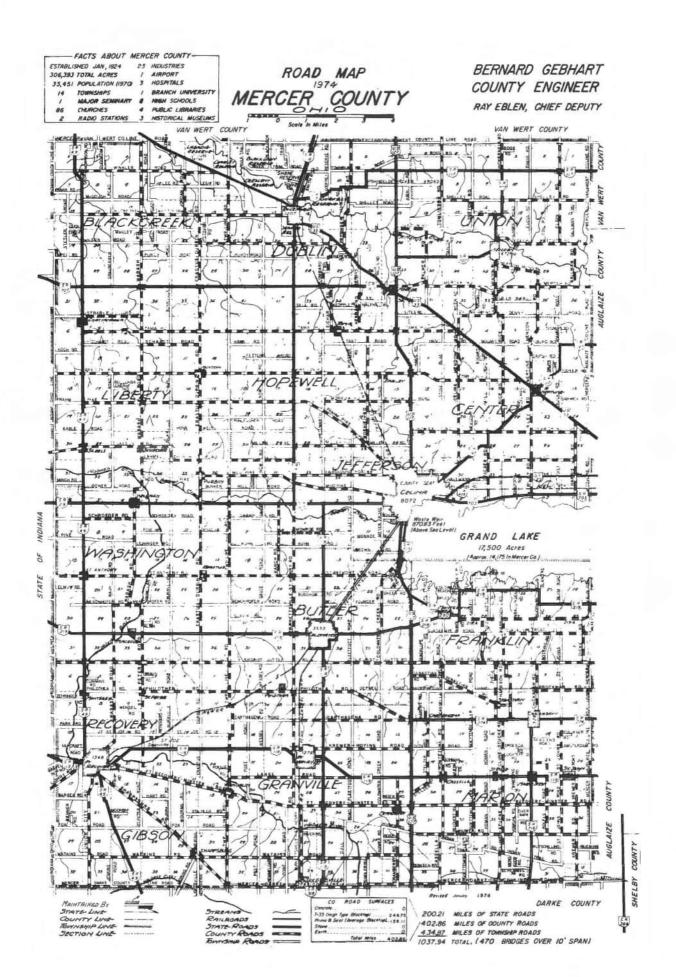

A number of persons have helped in the production of this book. Mercer Countians wrote the histories. Carol Thees, Florence Gause and Helen Godfrey are acknowledged on the Copyright page. Vera Speicher and Ralph Schindler offered invaluable support, time and encouragement to the Editor during the two year period of preparing this book. Don Muhlenkamp and Eugene Hirschfeld took responsibility for Museum maintenance. Ray Eblen and Bernard Gebhart are responsible for the keys to the plat maps.

May future generations look upon this Mercer County, Ohio History 1978 as a keepsake. May future generations be inspired to accept the responsibility of taking pride in recording their heritage. May future generations respect and honor the people who gave of themselves to make Mercer County the fine community it is today.

INTRODUCTION TO HISTORY OF MERCER COUNTY, OHIO

Mercer County is located in the West Central part of Ohio, approximately sixty miles northwest of Dayton and about one hundred miles southwest of Toledo. Mercer County is bounded on the north by Van Wert County, on the east by Auglaize County and on the south by Darke County. The western boundary of Mercer County borders Jay County, Indiana. Rivers traversing the county are the Wabash and the Saint Marys.

In Mercer County, Wisconsin age glacial deposits have been superimposed over middle Silurian age dolomite. Mercer County lies in the Till Plains Region. The Fort Wayne recessional moraine passes through Mercer County. The Wabash, St. Johns, and Mississinewa recessional moraines pass through portions of Mercer County. The lobate pattern of the recessional moraines is responsible for trapping low areas, the sites of small glacial lakes in the past, and the present site of Grand Lake Saint Marys. The area around Cranberry Prairie in southern Mercer County is a peat bog, and the former site of a glacial lake.

The Ohio Legislature passed an act for the erection of fourteen counties in Northwestern Ohio, February 12, 1820; Mercer County was one of the fourteen counties. Mercer County was attached to Darke County, and was subsequently detached in 1824. The 1820 Census for Mercer County is in the Darke County Records. Mercer County was organized by an act of the Legislature, dated January 2,

Prior to this, Indians had lived in this land. As settlers had moved north and west of the Ohio River in the late eighteenth century, conflicts arose between the Indians and Whites. During that time, two forts were erected in Mercer County. On December 23, 1793, General Anthony Wayne gave orders for the erection of a fort after General Saint Clair's disastrous defeat at that site in 1791; the fort being named Fort Recovery. General Wayne's troops also built Fort Adams in section 24 of Dublin Township, in 1794. The Indian Wars were concluded with the Greenville Treaty in 1795; the Greenville Treaty Line was drawn. This Line crosses southern Mercer County. The land north of this Treaty Line was not ceded by the Indians until the Treaty of 1818. After the Federal Government acquired this land, Captain James Riley began his survey of the land.

The Census of Mercer County in 1830 was listed at 1,116. Nine Mercer County Villages were platted in the 1830's. The 1840 Census of Mercer County was 8,277. This sudden growth was due to the development of the Miami-Erie Canal. The Miami-Erie Canal bounded the eastern edge of Mercer County, which became part of Auglaize County in 1849. Grand Lake Saint Marys was developed in the 1830's, as a feeder to the Canal. The hand-dug canal provided commerce, employment, and transportation for settlers. The immigrants could work for fifty cents a day on the canal and save their money to purchase a farm. Land cost a dollar and a quarter per acre; an eighty acre farm cost one hundred dollars.

The canal provided quick access to the market at Cincinnati. Wheat jumped from ten cents a bushel to one dollar.

Auglaize County was set off from Mercer County and the surrounding counties in 1849. Therefore, the towns of Saint Marys, Minster and New Bremen, previously a part of Mercer County, became a part of Auglaize County. An epidemic followed the canal north from Cincinnati. The Asiatic Cholera hit cities along the canal, and Mercer County as well, in 1848 and 1849. The canal continued contributing to Mercer County growth in population. The 1850 Census of Mercer County was 7,712; the 1860 Census of Mercer County was 14,104; the 1870 Census of Mercer County was cer County was 17,254.

During the early nineteenth century, life in Mercer County was rural. Life centered around the home, the church, and the school. Neighbors had barn-raising parties, quilting bees and platform dances. Many churches were established in the 1830's and 1840's. Log schools were built. In 1825, there was a tax of 0.5 mill on each dollar of taxable property for the support of common schools. Citizens of this area paid their taxes by hunting and trapping; in 1838, raccoon skins brought $1.00; deer skins $2.50 and venison $.20 per pound. When the boys were not working or hunting, they went to school if their parents saw fit to send them.

The first businesses were the general stores, many times operated out of the kitchens of homes. Post offices often were a part of the general stores. Early industry was tied to the abundant forests of the area. There were saw mills. Stave factories made barrels. The farmers had first used horse-powered mills to obtain their flour; these mills yielded to water-powered mills, which yielded to the steam grist mill by 1900.

Another contribution to transportation was the completion of the Ohio and Indiana Plank Road, extending from St. Marys to Fort Wayne, Indiana. The building of this road, passing through deep swamps and almost pathless forests, was a great undertaking. The road, extending through Neptune, Mercer and Shanesville, was built during the years 1850-52. Taverns and other businesses were built along the way.

During the Civil War, railroad companies were purchasing land in Mercer County. Three steam railroads were to be built. The Lake Erie and Western Railroad, passing through the county in a direction from northeast to southwest, reached Coldwater and Fort Recovery in 1879. The Cincinnati, Hamilton, and Dayton passed through Marion Township to the County Seat. The Cincinnati, Jackson, and Mackinaw (the Cincinnati Northern) crossed the north-south direction of the county in 1884. The railroads were sources of business interaction and communication to the outside world. Grain mills were erected at intersections of railroads and communities. The farmers utilized the rail service. Rockford flour mill was built in 1880. Sawmills were numerous, and exported ship timber, hickory, ash, oak for spokes, bending timber in wagons, buggies and machinery in the cities. Blacksmiths, tinsmiths; carpenters were the craftsmen of the times. In Saint Henry, a new sawmill, a livery stable, a tavern, and a general store were built in 1884, after the Cincinnati-Jackson Railroad had come to town in December 1883. Newspapers were established. Celina had had the Western Standard since 1848 and the canal days; Fort Recovery had the newspaper, The New Era in 1878; Rockford, the Shanes Crossing Tribune in 1879; the Rockford Press in 1883; the Coldwater Change in 1884; the Celina Der Mercer County Bote in 1883; and the Mendon Herald in 1895. Opera Houses came with the railroads; Rockford Opera House was built in 1882 and Fort Recovery Opera House in 1884. Banks were initiated: Celina Commercial Bank was begun in 1870; Coldwater Bank in 1887; Rockford Farmers Banking Company in 1887; Fort Recovery Banking Company in 1881. Dry Goods stores, hotels; restaurants were built. The railroad played a tremendous role for two villages; Macedon was larger than Coldwater before Coldwater got the railroad. The 1880 Census for Mercer County was 21,808; the 1890 Census was 27,220.

Oil wells and gas wells saw their rise and decline at the time of the railroads. Fort Recovery's first gas well was in 1887; Celina's first gas well was in 1888. Oil wells were drilled on the reservoir in the 1890's. The anticipated wealth was short-lived. (Speculators had anticipated the wealth of Lima's oil fields.)

By 1900, Mercer County population had stabilized; the Census was 28,021. The entire nation was prospering at the turn of the century. Schools were being supported. Libraries were formed: Celina Library was formed in 1898; Rockford formed a library in 1902; Fort Recovery's library was formed in 1928 and Coldwater's library was formed in 1936.

As the communities were incorporated, village councils were formed that directed police protection and cared for the calaboose with the wooden stove. Coldwater had a town building, gravel streets, and a fire department by the 1880's. Fires which took the entire towns inspired fire departments and water systems. Celina lost the west side of Main Street, south of Market Street in the 1894 fire. Mendon lost the west side of Main Street in 1900 and the east side of Main Street in the 1907 fire. Saint Henry lost the north side of Main Street in 1905. Coldwater Fire Department was organized in 1886; Rockford in 1895; Celina in 1904; Saint Henry in 1905. Celina installed the water works in 1895; Fort Recovery in 1900; Saint Henry in 1909; and Coldwater in 1916. Electric power plants were built. Rockford formed the Electric Lighting Power Co. in 1888 and in 1899 Rockford had street lights. Fort Recovery had street lights in 1900; Coldwater in 1914 and Saint Henry in 1915. The telephones soon followed. Rockford had a telephone system as early as 1902; Marion Township had the Marion Telephone Company in 1898. Agribusiness grew in response to the needs of the rural community. Avco New Idea was begun at Maria Stein in 1899. Celina's Wilson and Bomholt, Inc. International Harvester Products began in 1888. Celina Lumber and Supply Company began in 1893. Industry was growing; Mersman Brothers began in 1900; Reynolds and Reynolds had been in business since 1866. The health needs of the county were being served. The Mercer County Medical Society was organized in 1903 with thirteen members. Dentists were serving the county.

World War I was a sad time in the county. Many Mercer Countians' parents and grandparents had emigrated from Germany. Mercer Countians spoke German in their homes and corresponded with their German cousins. The war with Germany brought a time of conflict within the hearts of Mercer Countians. A Prisoner of War Camp was maintained at the present site (1978) of the 4 H Camp, near Grand Lake Saint Marys. Schools stopped teaching German and burned German textbooks. Many families stopped all communication with their German relatives. (Today, in 1978, many Mercer Countians are trying to renew these family ties and contact their relatives in Germany. This 1978 Mercer County History Book has encouraged many Mercer Countians to seek information on their ancestors.)

Prior to the twenties, The Western Ohio Traction Company and its electric railroad was an asset to the transportation opportunities of the county, as well as helping to pay the county taxes. The advent of the automobile initiated new business; for example: car sales, garages and service stations. Spriggs Garage began in 1919; O. L. Johnson and Son Ford Dealer in 1922; Sam Dixon Motor Sales began in 1926; Liberty Tire Shop began in the 1920's.

The 1930 Census of Mercer County was 25,096. The depression of the thirties hit Mercer County with unemployment and low wages. The W.P.A. projects of building and bridge construction brought employment to Mercer Countians. It was also during the thirties that electricity reached many rural areas of Mercer County. Radios were bringing news and entertainment to the homes. The 1940 Census of Mercer County was 26,256. World War II brought another time of sadness to Mercer County homes.

The 1950 Census of Mercer County was 28,311. The fifties brought good times. Even teenagers had good employment and bought their own automobiles and went to Drive-In Theatres, and listened to Elvis Presley Records. Families watched "I Love Lucy" on their new television sets. New ranch-type homes were being built throughout the county.

The 1960 Census of Mercer County was 32,559. In the sixties, riding lawn mowers were replacing the power mowers that had been pushed. Environmental Protection publicity encouraged local citizens to work for better development of Grand Lake Saint Marys. In the homes, kitchen appliances included dishwashers, trash compactors, garbage disposals, charcoal grills and microwave ovens. Civic-minded citizens founded the Western Ohio Education Foundation to bring higher education to the four-county area of Mercer, Auglaize, Van Wert and Darke Counties.

The 1970 Census of Mercer County was 35,451. Environmental Protection of the sixties was followed by energy conservation of the seventies. People turned down their thermostats in their homes and insulated their homes. People wore more clothes; the "layer look" became a part of the clothes fashion as people added more clothes, with layers of a shirt, blouse, vest and sweater. Drivers slowed down to 55 miles per hour. In 1976, the Penn Central Railroad closed. Tom Zitter began his private railroad. The Norfolk and Western Railroad continued its operations. Local communities celebrated the Nation's Bicentennial in 1976. People stood in line to receive their swine flu shots. Snowmobiles were used in recreation and in helping stranded people in the 1978 Blizzard. Ambulance Rescue Squads were formed and volunteers served the county. Citizen Band Radios were installed in cars and homes. Garage sales and mini-calculators were also a part of the scene of the seventies.

INDIANS OF THIS AREA

Mercer County's terrain and vegetation was conducive to two varieties of historic Indian; the woodland or forest people, and prairie or grasslands people. The woodland people were gardeners, gatherers, and hunters by the time they started roaming the area of Mercer County. At first they were occasional occupants along the streams and watering places of the larger animal they hunted. Mercer County was the hunting region for the two or three major hunts they participated in each year, but not their permanent home. As well as hunting, they gathered the edibles of the land during the various seasons i.e. nuts, berries, wild fruits, and seeds. The prairie people came into the county to hunt the large animals such as deer, elk, and buffalo and probably were more regular visitors than the woodland because they depended more on hunting as a source of food than the woodland people.

Besides the different environment and ways in which they procured their food, the woodland and prairie people differed in the style and the raw material used in housing. The woodland lived in long houses covered with bark and skins if they were Iroquoian. If Algonquin they lived in wigwams or circular shaped houses covered with bark or skins. The prairie people lived in wigwams covered with grass matting or skins. In both cases the houses were multiple family rather than single family dwellings. After white contact this architectural habitat was greatly changed and many changed to single hut or cabin type.

During the time of the exodus of the late prehistoric peoples until the first or second decade of the 1700's, there was no Indian activity in Mercer County. During the second and third decade of the 18th century, Algonquin speaking woodland and prairie Indians started to use this region as a hunting area. Possibly an occasional hunting or raiding party of the Iroquois speaking woodland people passed through Mercer County during this time. The Algonquin people were of the Miami, Shawnee, Ottawa, Mohican and Potawatomies tribes. The Iroquois people were of the Seneca, Wyandot, and Mohawk tribes.

Each of these groups had migrated to the Ohio area but were used to the life pattern they would lead in this area. The Potawatomies and Ottawa had come from upper Michigan and lakeshore Wisconsin. The Miami came from the Illinois River Valley by way of Indiana and southwestern Michigan. The Shawnee from the south and probably had lived in Ohio some 300 or 400 years prior to their return as Fort Ancient people. The Wyandot, Seneca, Mohawk, and Mohican were northeastern Indians who migrated from that area because of inter-tribal wars and white invasion of their lands.

The Indian activity in Mercer County by mideighteenth century had experienced a drastic change. The northern part, around the "Half-Way Cross" was considered Wyandot hunting area who allowed some Ottawa and Mohawk to use the area. Activity had increased to the point that some of these bans or fragments of tribes were "wintering" in northern Mercer County along the St. Marys. The southern area of the county was considered Miami and Shawnee hunting area.

After the British gained control of this area the Miami people became more active in the northern half. The Ottawa remained, but the activity of the Wyandot and other Iroquoian people lessened. Temporary encampments during the hunt or over the winter probably dotted the St. Marys River up until the Revolutionary War period.

During the period of the struggle between American and British control of this region (1776-1795) the Indian activity in this area experienced another change. Early in this era Miami and Ottawa were the most dominant people, but toward the end the Ottawa bans moved north and Shawnee activity from the south started to intrude. Early in the 1780's, Mark, a Mohican convert of the Moravians who had lived with the Shawnee was joined by a few other Mohicans and some Shawnee settled on the St. Mary's, a mile or so above present Mendon. Mark died in 1783 but his son Stephen held the ban together in this area. The village is referred to by various early recorders as Stephentown, Muhheconnuk, Gaunschiechgunk, or Mohican Town. This village is recorded in existence as late as 1792, and 1808 by early recorders. Regardless of this single settlement it is safe to say that Miami were still the dominant users of the land in and around Mercer County.

After the treaty of Greenville, Mercer County became part of the Indian Territory until April 1, 1820. During this period the northern part of the county was used for hunting purposes by Miami and Potawatomies. A trading station ran by Charles Murray was in operation at the site of Fort Adams in 1800 and shortly after that Anthony Shane opened trade with the Indians at the site of Shanesville. It is recorded that some Delaware from the Indiana area were active in Mercer County hunting and gathering. The southern part of the county still was considered Shawnee country, but no permanent villages

Until the county was created, Mercer was not truly the home of any sizable group of Indians. During their occupancy in the general area, the Shawnee, Miami, Wyandot, Ottawa and Potawatomie all hunted its forests and fields. Only a small group of Mohicans and Shawnee used Mercer County as their homesite for an extended period of time. by Randal Buchman

MERCER COUNTY COURT HOUSE

The construction of a new court house was the topic of conversation in Mercer County at the turn of the century. The Mercer County Court House, which had been built in 1868, had become too small and lacked electricity, telephones, modern heating and means of sanitation. In the April 27, 1920 presidential primaries, a $500,000 bond issue for Court House construction was carried by a majority vote in Mercer County. The Building commission was appointed in May. Peter M. Hulsken, Lima, Ohio — originally from Holland — was the assigned architect; his General Specifications and Plans were approved by the Mercer County Court House Building Commission February 26, 1921. Contracts were awarded. Ground was broken May 19, 1921; the cornerstone was laid July 20, 1921.

The elegance of the Grecian architecture seemed to inspire awe in Mercer Countians and their guests on the day of dedication of the court house, September 3, 1923. The court house today is as it was the day of dedication. The Gray Bedford Limestone of the court house is cut straight and clean, to be complemented by the forty-foot high Corinthian columns. The bronze doors open for guests to be greeted by a hall of marble.

The stair well encircles the heart of the court house as the stair railings are cut concave to the radius. The baluster rail in black marble and carved newel posts lead rotunda are high panels of Vermont Marble on the circumference of the rotunda's highly polished marble floors.

Mythological figures of Greece in the frieze bordering the top floor rotunda feature the motif of Greek figures from the Athenian Parthenon, 432 B.C. Theseus killing the bull is symbolic of the law in its struggle against evil. Theseus killed the Minotaur, half human and half bull, who fed on human flesh and lived in the palace Labyrinth. The female equestrian represents the mythical combat between the Amazons, the female warriors, and the Greeks. Prometheus, with earth and water, fashioned the body of the first man and thus was creator of the human race. The mastery of fire is symbolized by Vulcan tying Prometheus. The mastery of fire was a prelude to the creation of arts and science. These scenes are repeated throughout the frieze.

The dome is shining colored glass crowning the Grecian edifice. The sun's rays filter through the art glass, forming a halo and warming the corridors below. The visitor is impressed with the quiet grandeur of this place of honor.

The elevator and restrooms were a sign of engineering and progress echoing Vulcan's mastery of Prometheus. Even the offices had restrooms — quite a change from the old 1868 court house. The 1923 newspaper stated, "Never a day in a week but that motorists passing through Celina stop at the court house to let the women and children rest." The elevator was not replaced until 1972.

The Mercer County Court House has received special care over the years. Arnold and Daniel Schoch, under Schachne & Co., original interior decorators of the court house, worked with the decorations in 1934. L. Strong, Lima architect, directed decoration in 1948. In the physical plant, new boilers were installed in 1968. The decade of the seventies included rewiring of the court house and new sidewalks around the building.

Architect Hulsken, sensitive to the beauty of Greek architecture, made his choice in reflection of the Grecian values of peace and law. The strength and symmetry of the ancient temples of Greece remain steadfast in the classical elegance of the Mercer County Court House today — standing on the acropolis of Celina.

Mercer County Courthouse (1868-1923)

MERCER COUNTY COURT HOUSE

The first Court House was a frame structure, 20 by 24 feet in dimensions, two stories high, built in 1828-29 by W. McCluney. The price paid, $291.49, included price for lot 57, which was valued by two disinterested men at $40.00. The furniture was provided by Joshua Warfield at a cost of $57.37½. Previous to the erection of this building, the Court of Common Pleas had held sessions in the tavern of John Pickerell, to whom the commissioners on December 3, 1827 allowed $5 for the use of the same.

On September 12, 1839, the commissioners and auditor met to select 34 lots donated by the proprietors of Celina to aid in the erection of public buildings in the town. On November 5th of that year 20 of these lots were sold for $327.25 and on the 7th eight additional lots were sold for $292.50.

On September 13, 1839, the commissioners put under contract the building of a new Court House at Celina. The contract was let on December 3, 1839, to Samuel Hunter and John McGee for $1,350. The building was completed in June, 1841, but it seems that the Court House as first constructed was not plastered for on June 7, 1843, Milton M. Miller received the contract for plastering the rooms of the second floor, which were used for court purposes, consisting of a court-room and two jury rooms. At the same time W. Brandt was awarded the contract for plastering the upper story and Franklin Linzee the contract for building a fence around the Court House. In April, 1846 John Carlin and John Bolton were awarded the contract for plastering the rooms in the first or basement story. In April, 1850, William Auguster was given the contract for roofing the Court House with pine shingles and the contract for the finishing of the court-room was given to Stephen McVicker, each contract being for $110. In July of this year the contract for painting the Court House was awarded to Levi Dibble for $165. In April, 1851, Abraham Miller was awarded the contract for the underpinning of the Court House with stone and for walling and digging a well. In September, 1858, the commissioners built an office of brick for the county treasurer, 16 by 24 feet in dimensions, with stone foundation.

On April 13, 1866, the commissioners resolved to erect a Court House 58 by 70 feet in ground dimensions, three stories high, including a stone basement. At a subsequent meeting held the same month, the dimensions were changed to 60 by 97 feet. The first bids, which were opened on May 18, 1866, not proving satisfactory, no contract was awarded. On March 13, 1867, Mr. Rumbaugh, an architect of Lima, Ohio, submitted plans for a Court House which were adopted. The plans provided for a building 56 feet 6 inches by 81 feet 4 inches, two stories high — with main tower 16 feet square, four stories high and a smaller tower 14 feet square, three stories high — to be of brick work, cut stone, plastering stucco work, roof slating, court-room, painting, clock, etc. The building was to be finished by September 15, 1868. Ten bids, ranging from $39,000 to $44,850, were considered, the contract finally being awarded to R. G. Blake and F. C. LeBlond. By consent of the commissioners this contract was transferred by Messrs. Blake and LeBlond to M. P. Guffey, on the same conditions. On June 22, 1869, the commissioners sold the old Court House lot (No. 276)

General Hugh Mercer

Mercer County, Ohio was named in honor of General Hugh Mercer, a distinguished officer of the Revolution. General Hugh Mercer was born in Aberdeen, Scotland, in the year 1723 (1720?). Educated as a physician, he acted in the capacity of surgeon's mate in the army of Prince Charles Edward, the hero of the Civil War of 1745, at the Charles Edward, the hero of the Civil War of 1745, at the battle of Culloden. In the year 1746, he emigrated to America. He migrated to Pennsylvania in 1747, and settled on the western frontier of the colony of Cumberland County, west of the busquehanna River, and within a few miles of Mercersburg, now Franklin County. After the peace of 1763, he settled in Fredericksburg, and married Isabella, the youngest daughter of John and Margaret Gordon. At the outbreak of the American Revolution he joined the Continental Army attaining the rank of brigadic registeral. At the outbreak of the American Revolution he joined the Continental Army, attaining the rank of brigadier-general. B. R. GEBHART Mercer County Engineer

(from 1951 to present date (1979) with the exception of one term from 1961 to 1965)

Mr. Gebhart, a Professional Engineer and Surveyor, received his engineering background from Tri-State College and Valparaiso University. He lives at 204 Dogwood Drive, Celina, Ohio with his wife, Ethel, and has one son, Bernard II (Skip), whose mother, Harriet Allen Gebhart, was deceased in 1970.

Mr. Gebhart's work career started with a small contracting business and then on to Engineer with Civilian Conservation Corps from its inception to its close; a stint with Bureau Agricultural Engineering; Soil Conservation Service; Public Roads Administration on the Alaska Highway where Mr. Gebhart was in bridge layout and field construction.

According to Mr. Gebhart he has seen the Mercer County Highway Budget increase from approximately $300,000 in 1952 to the present budget appropriation of $1,393,000 in 1979. The road surfaces have improved from 80 miles of bituminous treated and 320 miles of stone or gravel to approximately 263 miles of asphaltic concrete and 137 miles of Bituminous treated with no gravel or dirt roads in 1979. The County Engineer's Office and Highway Department, under Mr. Gebhart, has built 101 new bridges, 34 new bridge culverts, and widened and repaired 183 bridges plus many abutment repairs and guard rail installations. Since 1952 there have been 172 Ditch Petitions filed in this office with 115 of these constructed by contract. Forty five of these ditches are now under permanent maintenance. Some of the larger ditches constructed under Mr. Gebhart include Beaver Creek, Big Blackcreek, Montezuma Creek, Prairie Creek, 12 Mile Creek, 8 Mile Creek etc.

Along with the major jobs of black topping, center line and edge line striping, building and painting culverts and bridges, designing and constructing of farm drainage ditches, the Engineering Department has found time to maintain roads, mow road right of ways, install guard rails, plow snow (a major job), plus a hundred and one jobs included in the County Engineer's work load.

Mr. Gebhart says that most of the credit for the work completed should go to the men and ladies of the Engineer's Office and the Highway Department. Without these loyal people, little could have been accomplished. Mr. Gebhart can point with pride to the many improvements made in the County in his thirty years of service. Some improvements are the naming and installing of road name signs on all County and Township roads in Mercer County; the building of a modern County Garage in the County Fairgrounds; the building of an auxiliary garage building to accommodate equipment storage and certain work projects; the erection of a covered salt bin; instigating a house numbering system for all residents of the County; a complete file and detailed coverage of all bridges and culverts in the County and Township Highway System including condition and current load limits. Mr. Gebhart and Chief Deputy Ray Eblen drafted and compiled the first Mercer County Sub-division Regulations as adopted in 1966 and the Mercer County Sewerage Regulations as adopted in 1968.

Mr. Gebhart says that he designed a letterhead when he became County Engineer containing the slogan — "MERCER COUNTY — OUTSTANDING in AGRICULTURE and DRAINAGE". Today this slogan is more true than ever before.

FARM FACTS ON MERCER COUNTY

Mercer County is one of Ohio's leading agricultural counties.

Measured by cash receipts from farming, Mercer County ranks second among Ohio's 88 counties with $78,893,000 for farm operators. (Darke County — our neighbor to the south — leads all Ohio counties with $93,701,000 in cash receipts. Darke County however is larger geographically and Mercer County loses 14,175 tillable acres with Grand Lake).

In Ohio, Mercer County ranks:

First in poultry.

$12,049,000 in cash receipts

Second in dairy.

$16,643,000 in cash receipts $11,879,000 in cash receipts

Fifth in hogs. Seventh in corn.

$12,926,000 in cash receipts

Mercer County has about 2,080 farms, and farmland totalling 274,000 acres. That's about 132 acres per farm. Cash receipts average about $36,024 per farm, or $262.00 per acre. The average age of a Mercer County farmer is 48.4 years old.

Crop production figures for Mercer County:

Corn 8,459,000 bushels

(average of 98 bushels per acre)

Soybeans 2,538,000 bushels

(average of 32.6 bushels per acre)

Wheat 1,891,000 bushels

(average of 43 bushels per acre)

Oats 1,097,000 bushels

(average of 59.3 bushels per acre)

Hay 70,500 tons or 3.00 tons per acre

In addition, receipts from fruits and vegetables in the county total $1,117,000, consisting chiefly of tomatoes but including melons, sweet corn, potatoes and strawberries.

MERCER COUNTY SCHOOLS

Section 3311.05 of the Ohio Revised Code states:

The territory within the territorial limits of a county, exclusive of the territory embraced in any city school district, exempted village school district, and excluding the territory attached thereto for school purposes constitutes a county school district.

Five local school districts comprise the Mercer County Schools: Marion Local; Mendon-Union Local; St. Henry Consolidated Local; Parkway Local; and Southwest Local. Each district has a board of education consisting of five members. The County Board of Education, comprised of five members representing all five local districts, attempts to provide those services for the local districts which the locals are not able to provide for themselves. The county system has a student enrollment of 4,939, employs 241 certificated teachers, and 15 local administrators which includes local superintendents, high school principals and elementary principals. The total number of school buildings in the county system is fourteen - five for high school and nine for elementary and junior high. The 1907 Mercer County history lists 129 school houses in the county, of which thirteen rooms were devoted to high school purposes.

Presumably, County School Districts in Ohio were created in order to provide some form of supervision for the educational program of all boys and girls of school age in Ohio, but with particular emphasis upon the rural communities. Prior to 1914, the village and rural schools in Ohio, in many instances, received little or no supervision. In addition, it was difficult for the state to secure valid statistical reports from the schools, or to disseminate information from the state to the schools because these reports had to be secured from the county auditors, or from clerks of boards of education. Consequently, even though public education was recognized as a function of the state, approximately two-thirds of the public school pupils were enrolled in the schools with which the state had very little contact, and there was little influence on the type of educational program which was promoted in these schools.

Since the county was already a political unit for administrative and governmental affairs existing in the state, it was natural to turn to this unit for liaison between the state and local school districts, with the County Superintendent acting as the important link — channeling information to the state in regard to schools within the county system — representing both the county and state as distinct from the board of education.

Through the years, the position of the county superintendent has grown and is continuing to grow in importance. County boards of education were given the authority and responsibility of appointing the county superintendent, who serves as the executive officer of the board. Professional standards were established for qualifications of the county superintendent, and thereby the office has been kept relatively free from partisan politics. State statutes and directives, as well as state and local policy, have broadened the scope of the position, making possible increases in professional staffs and providing new services through the county superintendent's office to local schools.

Typical of the duties and services of the county board of education and the county superintendent are: the appointment of all county school officials; planning the budget of operating the expense of the board; providing supervision for the regular and special classrooms; in general, providing for the betterment of education in the county. The County Office acts as a partner with the local school districts and the state in the operation of a sound school system. Additional services include a county film library service; coordination of inter-school activities; providing meetings with consultants and specialists as an in-service training program; issuance of working permits; and the development of curriculum guides.

The role of the county superintendent is that of the educational planner, educational statesman, educational leader, stimulator of local effort, and the promoter of local initiative. The local superintendent of the individual districts is the director of the local programs, the leader of local lay and professional groups, and the day-by-day practitioner of educational activities. Both leaders, working within the framework, have many common responsibilities, as each supplements the other in developing a good educational program for the youth of the county.

The staff of the Mercer County School System is comprised of ten certificated employees, housed in offices provided by the Mercer County Commissioners. These offices are located on the third floor of the Court House Annex, 311 S. Main St., Celina, Ohio. The staff includes one superintendent, Mr. Boyd Granger; two general supervisors, Mr. Jon Sidenbender and Mrs. Mary Alice Anthony; two school psychologists, Mrs. Ardyth Shaffer and Mr. Tom Mosier; two speech and hearing clinicians, Miss Julie Field and Miss Jackie Kelso; one supervisor for Special Education, Mrs. Sharon Williams; one work-study coordinator, Mrs. Lois Koch; and one audio-visual director (part time), Mr. Bob Miller. The secretarial staff consists of one administrative secretary, Miss Madge Shock, and one receptionist-secretary, Miss Linda Bollenbacher.

The members of the County Board of Education are: President Robert Beerbower, Vice-President Neil Diller, Edwin Elking, John Maurer and Roger Schwieterman.

The Special Education classes were accelerated in the county schools through the efforts of Mrs. Ardyth Shaffer and Mr. Boyd Granger during the 1969-70 school year. Mercer County Schools pioneered the Learning Disability program (at that time neurologically handicapped was the term) in this area of Ohio - with one classroom unit in the Southwest Local District, Ft. Recovery where Mr. Arthur Rose was the Superintendent and greatly spurred the effort. Mrs. Connie Stocksdale served as the first consultant. Other districts provided tutoring programs, and quickly followed with classrooms in the ensuing years. Today there are nine Learning Disability classrooms and seven tutoring programs in the county schools with additional units in Celina City and Coldwater Exempted Village districts. Mrs. Sharon Williams serves all the county Special Education units and Celina and Coldwater as well.

As the work load increased, an additional psychologist became necessary. Mr. Tom Mosier filled that position beginning with the 1974 school year. The need for a work-study coordinator became apparent as the Special Education students progressed to high school. Accordingly, Mrs. Lois Koch became the first staff member to fill that position — during the 1974 school year.

A few of the names of former Superintendents or Assistant Superintendents include S. Cotterman, M. O. Krugh, D. B. Spangler, Henry Bernard, Clarence W. Specht, Glen West and Howard Smith.

Familiar names of those who served on the County Board of Education include Wm. H. Romer, W. C. Skinner, J. D. Kremer, H. O. Purdy, H. J. Bobenmoyer, John C. Weigel, Sylvan F. Bihn, Arnold Schoch, Leo B. Hausfeld, Leo E. Romer, Arnold Cron, E. J. Bomholt, Eugene Springer, Norbert Vogel, Charles J. Kaiser, L. W. Merkle, William H. Post, Clarence Post, Roman Rose, Dr. Edward Meixner, Ralph Lewis, Richard Stephenson, Dick Mescher, Alfred Homan and Mark Schwieterman.

In the field of speech therapy, begun in the fifties, the names of Esther Smith, Ethelann Stump, Diana Gallman, Joan VonderHaar, Mary Ann Thomas, Teri Stephens, Kathy Winter, and Abby Herbst will be remembered. Elementary supervision, also initiated in the fifties, includes the names of Marie Morrow, Fern Friedly and Ray Cron. Joseph Schlotterer served as the first high school supervisor beginning in the sixties.

Those who have served as secretaries or part time clerical help through the years include Ruthana Shock Regedanz, Martha Jane Shock, Kathy Kramer, Mary Jo Schmitmeyer, Kathy Young, Pam Niemeyer, Cynthia Morgan and Karen Rindler.

The names of Fred Fisher and Vincent Muhlenkamp will be remembered as having been attendance officers.

In addition to the many supplemental services provided for the staffs and students of the county system, special services are provided through contractual arrangements to city and exempted village schools. Also, regional educational needs are met through coordination of many state and federal programs.

In conclusion, the County Office of Education is truly a vital learning link in today's public education in Ohio.

Cheryl Ann School, Mercer County Mental Retardation Program

MERCER COUNTY MENTAL RETARDATION PROGRAM

Dorothy C. Simons is superintendent of the Mercer County Mental Retardation Program. The program was started in 1956. A group of businessmen, clergy, and other interested individuals got together and decided it was time, or past time, to provide an educational opportunity for the mentally retarded.

The first class was held November 19, 1956, in space provided by the Coldwater School System with an enrollment of five. After several years the program was moved to Celina, Ohio, with a class at West Elementary School, Oak Tree Lodge, and the basement of the First Church of God.

The Cheryl Ann School was constructed with funds provided through private, civic, and industrial donations, and largely through volunteer or at-cost labor. During this time the program was financed by private donations and later by State Aid, Combined Charities, and donations. Later the Mercer County voters provided an operating levy of .3 mills.

1965

The Mercer County voters again provided an operating levy of .3 mills. Total enrollment was 30, 26 of whom were from Mercer County, and 4 from Van Wert County.

1968

In January of 1968 after having been under the Mercer County Welfare Department the program was placed under its own Board, as provided by House Bill #169. Total enrollment for the year was 38, causing an overcrowded situation at the Cheryl Ann School. In the summer of 1968 the Home Training Program was started.

1969

The Adult Activity Center Program was started in early 1969 and was provided with rented space at 306 East Anthony Street. Enrollment was 13 at the Adult Activity Center. The Pre-School program was started in September 1969 and due to lack of room at Cheryl Ann, this class of 6 met in the educational wing of St. Paul's Methodist Church.

1970

Total enrollment for the 1970-71 school year at

Pre-School, Community Classes, Adult Center, and Home Training programs was 93.

Total enrollment for the 1971-72 school year at Pre-School, Community Classes, Adult Center, and Home Training programs was 98.

1972

Total enrollment for the 1972-73 school year in all phases of the program was 104.

1973

Developmental Classes were started with space provided at St. Paul's Methodist Church in the educational wing, and a full time Speech Therapist was hired. Total enrollment was 119 in Pre-School, Developmental, Community Classes, Adult Activity Center, and Home Training. The Commissioners allocated $250,000.00 from federal revenue sharing for construction of the new facility. Kick off for the Building Fund drive was $100,000.00. Total pledges received were $120,000.00 with matching funds assured by the State.

1974

Total enrollment for the 1974-75 school year was 103 in all phases of the program. The drop in enrollment was due to transfers to other locations.

1975

Bids were awarded for the new facility at the corner of Fleetfoot Road and Mud Pike. Construction started in April of 1975 and is due for completion in February of 1976. Total enrollment was 105 for all phases of the program.

1976

The Office moved into the new facility in March of 1976, and the Adult Center moved into the new facility in May of 1976. Community classes moved into the new school in September 1976. The Dedication was held on Labor Day, September 6, 1976. Total enrollment for all phases of the program was 106.

1978

Construction began on new workshop facility near present workshop. Facilities will be shared with main bldg. Total enrollment in program at 107. Plans are for the construction of the first residential home for adult males to begin in the winter of 1978. Services offered are: Home training services, preschool services, developmental, community class program and Adult Activity Center.

Mercer County Fair Board, Secretary's Office

MERCER COUNTY AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY (FAIR BOARD)

In 1975, the Society obtained this metal building, and remodeled it and made it into the present "Mercer County Fair Board, Secretary's office." It is located west of the grandstand, on the fairgrounds. This building also serves as the monthly meeting place, with a conference room. At the far west end of the building, the Red Cross operate out of this special room, during the week of the fair. This building is a great asset for before the Secretary always had to move all the records to an area under the grandstand for the week of the fair. Now the Secretary's office is permanently in this newly remodeled building, year around.

The fairgrounds is approximately 631/2 acres, and there are 35 buildings on the grounds.

The Mercer County Agricultural Society was organized May 28, 1847, (Ohio Cultivator, 1847, p. 95) and reorganized March 27, 1852. The first fair was held at Celina, October 28 of the same year. "This was but an experiment but the result satisfied everyone, that we can and will have a flourishing society, and that the 'Swamps of Hoop-poledom' will yet be known in Ohio as second to no part of the state in fertility and productiveness." (Agricultural Report, 1852, p. 295.)

In a measure, the county fair has been the means of bringing about the raising of better grades of stock, and the using of better and more improved farming implements and machinery, which has resulted in the securing of better prices for all the products raised on the farm. (History of Mercer County, 1907, p. 62.)

The first fair was held on the east side of the town of Celina, on the north bank of Grand Reservoir, on a plot of ground owned at that time by the State of Ohio, containing about 17 or 18 acres. It was a beautiful tract of land overlooking the Grand Reservoir - Lake Mercer. The deed records show that the society in February, 1872, purchased this tract of land from the State of Ohio, and upon this the annual fairs were held. In June, 1878, the society, foreseeing the necessity of more ample grounds for the yearly fairs bought land from the Brandon heirs, on the west side of town, which tract constitutes the present Fair Grounds. On November 2, 1893, the society purchased some land from John W. Deford. This was the beginning of what we all know as the "Mercer County Banner Fair." Submitted By Ruth Myers

Mercer County 4-H Camp

4-H CAMP

Harbor Point 4-H Camp located on Grand Lake St. Marys, near Celina, Ohio has a campground situated on 8 spacious acres of land in a picturesque setting. For 30 years it has been providing campers with hours of recreational fund and activity.

The camp has much interesting history, having made the transition from an Indian burial grounds to a Prisoner of War Camp and finally to a 4-H Camp within a time period of 150 years. Various artifacts, arrowheads, and trinkets have been found but relatively little is known about the Indians who occupied this land. In 1944 some 300 German War Prisoners aged 17 and 18 came to Mercer County to pick tomatoes for local canneries and were housed at Harbor Point. When the war was over it became the 4-H Camp as we know it today.

Harbor Point Camp is ideal for swimming, fishing, and boating as a result of its being situated on a lake, although out-of-state residents will need an Ohio Fishing License. Two sandy beaches border the camp and a beautiful wooded area on the grounds allows for nature hikes and plant and animal studies. There is also a large activity field for softball or any other field sport and a large concrete court that has enough space to accommodate four (4) basketball hoops and two (2) volleyball nets.

The camp has modern restrooms with heated showers and a nurse's station and quarters for a camp nurse. There is not a phone installed for regular use but many do have one installed for the duration of the installed for the duration.

tion of their stay at camp.

There are food stores, gas stations, hospitals, and a swimming pool all within a ten minute drive.

The main camping area is shady, quiet, and a very peaceful place to get away from it all. There is a plenty of space for recreation of all kinds.

Mr. Leon Shaner is caretaker of the camp. The Cost is $35.00 per day plus 40¢ per person camping overnight. For further information contact The Mercer County Cooperative Extension Service, Court House, Celina, Ohio 45822.

4-H HISTORY

4-H began in Ohio in 1902 through the efforts of A. B. Graham in Clark County. He believed that rural boys and girls should learn about the scientific nature of farm activities and elevate the standard of living in rural communities. That first club was called the Boys and Girls Experimental Club.

Not satisfied with what he had done, Graham wrote the Dean of the College of Agriculture at Ohio State University for help. In later years, the youth work started by Graham became part of the educational efforts of the Cooperative Extension Service as 4-H. Learning by doing has remained the major theme of all 4-H projects, as 4-H expanded into urban as well as rural areas.

The first 4-H club in Mercer County was started in 1920 in Blackcreek Township. Jesse Sell, Rockford, was its founder and first advisor. Early 4-H projects included raising market pigs, pullets, sheep, dairy cows, clothing, foods and nutrition and gardening.

The oldest 4-H club still going strong is the Chatt 49'ers. In April, 1928, Alonzo Bollenbacher helped to organize the Chatt Livestock Club. Although its name has changed, the club celebrates its 50th year in 1978.

4-H clubs are now active all over Mercer County. Young people ages 8-19 from both towns and rural areas select 4-H projects from many topic areas. Over 188 different projects are available in photography, livestock, gardening, clothing, rocketry, small engines, home furnishings, bicycle, creative arts, food and nutrition, dogs and cats, child development, woodworking and many more.

Eden Haven Park

EDEN HAVEN PARK

In 1969, Mr. and Mrs. Orville Crouch, Celina (Hopewell Township), decided on a way to leave the world a little better than they had found it. "To make payment for all the great gifts that God has presented us," is the way Mr. Crouch explained their decision. They proposed to donate twenty-two acres of land on Hellwarth Road north of Mud Pike (northwest of Celina) to anyone who would develop it for permanent public park land for all residents of Mercer County.

However, even a free gift can attract problems. Various groups were interested but had no funds for developing the area. The situation was resolved when in 1971 the Mercer County Commissioners were able to accept the donation, comply with the donors' developmental stipulations, and provide funds for maintenance as well as construction of certain park facilities. The ground work was accomplished through the efforts of Lee Garman, County Commissioner¹ and Lee Kuhn, local Real Estate Broker. The land was officially accepted October 22, 1971.

¹taken from story by Scott Garwick, THE DAILY STANDARD, Lake Edition, July 2, 1974, Number 155.

In December, 1971, the County Commissioners established the Mercer County Park Board which would be responsible for developing and administering this park. Members of this first board were: Orville Crouch (for a one-month period), Lee A. Kuhn, Robert Eichar, Hugo Fahncke, Homer Frahm, Don Hover, George Carpenter, Joe Lersky, Elden Houts, Betty Dabbelt, Bernice Cisco, Tom Garman and James Tingley.

Some of the stipulations made by the Crouches included construction of a two to five-acre pond, two wells to be drilled and two windmills erected, new trees to be planted as needed, control of undesirable underbrush using proper forestry procedures, a ban on hunting, and that a name be chosen of Biblical context.

The new park board sponsored a contest for naming the park. Edith Slabaugh was awarded the winning $50 for the name Eden Haven. Miss Slabaugh lived nearby on Morrow Road and had always loved the woods. She also donated the money back to the board.

Today, the park, with approximately eleven acres devoted to natural woods with foot trails, attracts school and scout groups as well as area residents. The pond has been built, the wells and windmills erected as well as a shelter house, 24 by 60 feet with cook-out grill and restrooms. In 1978 board members hope to provide a play area for small children, procure a flagpole and also plant some new trees. Present members of the park board are: Joe Lersky, President, Mrs. Bernice Cisco, Hugo Fahncke, Homer Frahm, Robert Eichar, James Tingley, Mrs. Russell Howell, Linville Gagle, Mike Sovinski, Morris Koch, Wilfred Rosenbeck, Louis Gross, and Lee Kuhn.

In 1978 Mr. and Mrs. Crouch have discussed with the board the possibility of donating another 60 acres. This land is located across Hellwarth Road from the present Eden Haven. A federal grant is available for park development if the land donation plans are worked out.

A place for people of Mercer County to be at peace with nature was a prime intention of this area. The deed states: that it was donated "in the name of the Lord to be forever available to the public as evidence of the majesty and greatness of the Lord's work in nature."

THE MERCER COUNTY HIGHWAY GARAGE

B. R. Gebhart is the Mercer County Engineer. Ray Eblen is the Chief Deputy. The Highway Superintendent is H. E. Kuhn.

The Mercer County Highway Garage is located inside the South gate of the Mercer County Fairgrounds. This building is all brick construction, 80 feet wide by 160 feet long and is partitioned with office space, time room, mechanics room and stock room with approximately three fourths of the building for equipment parking. The building was designed by Ralph Fanning, Architect, Celina, Ohio and was constructed by H. U. Tuttle Company at a cost of $126,914.00 and was occupied in 1951. The County Engineer was J. K. Mollenkopt and Assistant Engineer B. R. Gebhart. The County Commissioners were Ed Fleck, John Dorsten and Sam Rhodes.

The Mercer County Highway Storage and Utility Building is an all metal storage building and is located in the Northwest corner of the Mercer County Fairgrounds on two and one-half acres of fenced in storage area. The building is eighty feet wide by one hundred sixty feet long with no partitions. This building was designed by Moulenbelt & Seifert, Dayton, Ohio and was constructed by Alexander & Bebout Co., Van Wert, Ohio at a cost of $140,000.00 and was occupied in 1975. The County Engineer was B. R. Gebhart and Assistant Ray Eblen. The County Commissioners were Ralph Klosterman, George Bihn and Lee Garman.

AGRICULTURE DEPT. OF SOIL CONSERVATION

In 1943 a Sponsoring Committee was formed for the purpose of promoting a Soil Conservation District in Mercer County. Through the efforts of this committee, a referendum was held in the County in September 1944 resulting in 122 for and 14 against.

On September 28, 1944 the Ohio Soil Conservation Committee legally established the District. Five Supervisors were elected as follows: John Post, Albert Pax, August Dirksen, L. R. Menchhofer and John Huwer.

The District office was located in the First National Bank Building until 1976 when it moved to its present location at 301 North Riley Street, Celina, Ohio.

THE MERCER COUNTY HISTORICAL SOCIETY

Persons instrumental in founding the Mercer County Historical Society were Roscoe D. Riley, Carleton C. Reiser, and Carroll A. Stubbs.

The first meeting of the Mercer County Historical Society was held January 28, 1958. Founding members elected officers: President Roscoe D. Riley; Vice President Carleton C. Reiser and Secretary Treasurer C. A. Stubbs. At the June meeting, Bronsart Gilberg was employed as Curator. Representatives from each township were appointed and public interest grew. Officers leased the second floor of the Richardson-Bretz Building, which still stands on the northeast corner of Main and Fayette Streets. The Mercer County Commissioners allocated $4000 for the initial expenses of opening a Museum.

Mercer Countians were most generous in donating items to their Museum. September 8, 1959 the Mercer County Historical Museum opened to the public. In 1960, 3400 guests toured the Museum. Bronsart Gilberg wrote an History of Mercer County. During the years 1960 to 1964, the Society held an annual meeting. The Celina Jaycees moved the old Mathias Smith Tavern, a log structure, to the park and restored the first floor of the building in

No meeting was held between January 1967 and November 1970; the society was inactive. At the January 1971 meeting, Lee Kuhn, John Suhr and Ralph Schindler were elected as the officers of the Society. That year they sold reprints of the book, Biographical History of Van Wert and Mercer Counties, 1896. Vera Speicher contacted volunteers to open the Museum Sundays and was Chairperson of membership. The Society became active again. The Society presented Bronsart Gilberg a certificate of appreciation and a lifetime membership in honor of his years of dedication to the Museum, in 1972.

President Joyce L. Alig held quarterly meetings in 1973 and 1974. March 18, 1973 a successful display of Indian Relics was held, with Ray Eblen as Chairperson. Public interest in the Museum grew. Historical Books were rebound at the Museum; old clocks were repaired, documents and newspapers were preserved. Cemetery Research was begun. A new building for the Museum was discussed.

Members voted to have monthly meetings with special programs for 1975 because the Mercer County Historical Society was becoming so active. At that time, the Museum was given notice to move, because the lease had expired at the Richardson Bretz Building. The Mercer County Commissioners purchased the Lena Riley home from David Riley, a descendant of Captain James Riley who surveyed this territory after the Treaty of Saint Marys, and his son James Watson Riley who platted Celina. The summer of 1975, the officers and a few volunteers moved the entire museum to the Riley Home. The Autumn of 1975, Joyce L. Alig was employed as Director of The Mercer County Historical Museum.

April 25, 1976 Open House was held at The Mercer County Historical Museum, The Riley Home. Over 1300 guests toured the new Museum that first month. Over 3000 guests visited the Museum before Christmas. The bell from the old Court House, later used in Old Town Church of Center Township, was placed on the lawn between two stately brick columns by Eugene Hirschfeld. Two bronze plaques were placed; one with the name of the Mercer County Historical Museum, The Riley Home, and the second plaque, with the Riley Family History. That year, Parker Snyder, also a descendant of Captain Riley, placed a collection of Captain Riley's papers in the Museum Archives.

The following year, the Historical Society was very active. A few thousand guests visited the Museum to tour the Museum, to do Genealogy Research, and to do Historical Research. Museum Director Joyce Alig gave guided tours and gave lectures to organizations on local history. Florence Gause and Patricia Olding served as co-Chairpersons of Cemetery and Genealogy Records and Research. Eugene Hirschfeld is Director of Maintenance; assisted by Donald Muhlenkamp. Vera Speicher continued as Chairperson of Membership. Society members helped with every project. In the Autumn of 1977, the Society made the decision to publish the 1978

Mercer County History Book.

The current year 1978 has been a very successful year. Museum attendance has grown to an average of thirty to fifty guests a Sunday, many doing genealogy research for the 1978 Mercer County History Book. Mercer Countians are still donating items to the Museum. Some farm tools are in storage until another building, which is large enough to display them, is found. Deloris Imel and Bernice Baker keep the interior of the Museum shining clean. Ferd Muhlenkamp keeps the grounds in perfect condition. The 1978 officers of the Mercer County Historical Society are President Joyce L. Alig; Vice President Eugene Hirschfeld; Secretary Patricia Olding; Treasurer Ray Eblen; Three Year Trustees Vera Speicher and Don Muhlenkamp; Two Year Trustees Ralph Schindler and Lee Kuhn; One Year Trustee Florence Gause. Joyce L. Alig is Director of the Mercer County Historical Museum.

Mercer County Home, 1978

MERCER COUNTY HOME

"Over the hills to the Poor House is not a pleasing thought, yet the dread of having to live at the County Home is some what lessened when it is known that the home in which all the modern improvements for the comfort of man or woman are to be found and under the charge of a kind-hearted superintendent. The Mercer County Infirmary is just such a home as above alluded to. It is located two miles west of Celina, on a beautiful spot of ground, presenting a perfect picture as the buildings raise their stately heads from a knoll, and the green field and long lanes spread out in refreshing grandeur."

The above quote was taken from an "Atlas of Mercer County", published in 1900.

The original brick building, now the living quarters for the Superintendent and Matron, was constructed in 1860. In 1893, a structure was built for the male residents; another wing for women was added to the first building in 1916. The Mercer County Home throughout the years was continued to be kept modern in service and facilities for its approximately 50 residents.

Mercer County Jail, 1876-1939

THE MERCER COUNTY JAIL

The Mercer County Jail as shown, operated by Sheriff E. J. Gilmore, is one of the finest jails in any rural county in the state of Ohio.

The present Mercer County Jail was constructed in 1939 at a cost of approximately $41,000 of which Mercer County paid $23,000 while the other $18,000 was paid through a grant from the federal program, Public Works Administration. The Sheriff, L. M. Davis, moved into the new jail and residence on August 4, 1939, and the old jail, located on the Courthouse square, was sold on August 25, 1939 to Shartzer Wrecking and Excavating of Dayton, Ohio for $51.00. County Commissioners at the time of the new jail were Henry Lechner, Daniel Moeller and A. E. Morrow.

There were two major renovations and additions to the jail and residence, one in 1966 when an enclosed entrance ramp was added to the rear of the building and an enclosed porch was added to the residence at the front of the jail. The largest addition and renovation occurred in 1973, when Sheriff W. C. Sunderhaus moved from the jail residence and the area that was used for the residence was converted to office spaces, more holding cells and larger radio control room. In addition to the remodeling of the residence area, a drive through garage was built on the west side of the jail for added security in transferring prisoners from cars to the jail. The latest additions and renovations cost approximately $162,000 of which 50% was paid through a federal grant from the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration.

MERCER COUNTY JAIL

On December 29, 1825, the County Commissioners awarded the contract for the building of Mercer County's first jail to Asa Hinkle, for which he received lots 31, 34, 37, 42 and 50 and $150 in cash, settlement taking place June 6, 1830. In 1833 it was repaired by covering the inside of the door with sheet iron, using wrought iron nails with large heads set four inches apart.

On July 1, 1842, the contract for building a new county jail was awarded to Gustavus Darnold which was to be finished on September 28, 1842, the price of the same — $397 — to be paid in part in town lots. On March 4, 1849, the commissioners ordered an addition to the jail and debtor's room (which was a frame building) and awarded the contract to H. L. Johnson for $630, at the same time giving the contract for plastering to Levi Lipps and that for iron work to Hezekiah Trenary.

On January 11, 1860, the contract for erecting a sheriff's residence on the northeast corner of the Public Square was awarded to Valeau & Jacobs, of Cincinnati, Ohio, for the sum of $5,000. The Plans for the building provided for a structure 38 feet 6 inches by 29 feet, with an elevation of 22 feet 8½ inches to the top of the cornice, to be built of brick with stone foundation and covered with sheet iron.

In the spring of 1875 the contract for a new county jail and sheriff's residence was awarded to E. W. Wilson, of Van Wert, Ohio, for $25,500, according to plans and specifications which were prepared by T. J. Toland & Son of Delphos, Ohio. On March 8, 1876, the jail was ordered to be heated with steam and the contract was awarded to C. Buehler & Company, of St. Marys, Ohio for $935.

LAKEFIELD AIRPORT

Lakefield Airport began in 1945 as a private airport of 20 acres owned by Perry Noll. The runway was turf and 800 feet long. More facilities were added in 1947, but from 1952 to 1954 the airport site was owned by three individuals who turned the hangars into stockyards. In the late 1950's, a group composed of area industrialists and concerned citizens formed the Lakefield Area Airport Founding Committee. The Committee purchased a 34 acre site which included the old airport. Then, in December 1961, the Mercer County Commissioners accepted the real estate from the Committee for the purpose of creating a county airport. The Lakefield Airport Authority was created by the Commissioners in June 1962 and a Board of Trustees was appointed. Two public subscription campaigns and funds obtained through Governor Rhodes' aids-to-airports legislation were used to upgrade the airport. Two runways were provided - one east-west runway and a smaller north-south runway. Eventually, the north-south runway was closed. In 1965, 24.07 additional acres were purchased and 10 more in 1976.

A facilities and service description of the airport is provided in Table 2-1.

Lakefield Airport, located on the South-West corner of Grand Lake St. Marys, serves Mercer County and the surrounding area. This facility has developed under local support combined with grants from the State of Ohio.

The runway is blacktop, 75 feet wide by 3800 feet long. This is capable of handling most airplanes in use today, including heavy twins. A Radio beacon assures all-weather operations. Hangar space is available for 30 aircraft.

Lakefield is owned by Mercer County and is directed by the Lakefield Airport Authority under authority of the Mercer County Commissioners. The airport operation is by Spillers Aviation.

WESTERN OHIO EDUCATIONAL FOUNDATION

On January 24, 1962, the Western Ohio Educational Foundation (WOEF) was incorporated. Its purpose was "to provide the means and facilities for the establishment and operation in west central Ohio of a program of education beyond and above the high school level." This program of higher education was to be taught by the faculty or other qualified agents of accredited Ohio colleges or universities. The WOEF Board of Trustees were pledged to do "any and all things necessary or incidental" to accomplish the above stated purpose.

The WOEF was the creation of a group of interested citizens of Mercer and Auglaize Counties desiring a better education program than was then being offered through evening division courses at the Celina Senior High School by Ohio Northern University of Ada, Ohio. The original Board of Trustees consisted of ten members: Four from Mercer County, three from Auglaize County, and three from Darke County. Van Wert County had no representatives on this first Board. These were: Mercer County: Boyd Granger, Vic Fuhrwerk, Mary Esther Dasenbrock, and Wallace McMartin. Auglaize County: S. G. Burgess, John F. Herkenhoff, and James Dicke. Darke County: J. C. Patty, William McPherson, and B. D. Hensel. William Meikle, Attorney, was secretary of the corporation.

Roger Stauffer, formerly of New Knoxville, Ohio, was the first resident director of education. He served with vigor and enthusiasm for this school until it was reorganized in 1973.

Through the hard work and perseverance of these Trustees, the WOEF college program opened in the fall of 1962. The situation was unique in that Ohio Northern University served the academic program and was paid for its services, while the Board of Trustees of WOEF were responsible for all financial obligations.

An initial fund drive sponsored by the WOEF Board of Trustees raised $53,000.00 for the purchase of furniture and equipment. They leased the three-story office structure located at 315 South Main Street in Celina from the Celina Insurance Group for their physical plant. This building was purchased in December of 1965 after a second fund drive during 1964 had yielded sufficient funds to keep the program operating and to indicate the community's support of and interest in the Western Ohio College.

A. C. Lachstadter was chairman of the first drive that resulted in exceeding the goal by 100%. This drive reflected the community support of the goals of this institution.

Harold Potts, Superintendent of Schools in Celina, was Chairman of the Building and Grounds Committee. Daniel Ells of Auglaize County assisted in later successful fund drives.

An enrollment of 120 was anticipated for the fall of 1962; however, 285 students were registered when classes began. The academic program at the Western Ohio College consisted of a full two-year program toward a degree in liberal arts, pre-law, preengineering, and secondary education. A three-year program was available toward a degree in economics and elementary education. As the enrollment continued to grow, the development of a resident faculty became necessary.

In 1967 the WOEF Board of Trustees, anticipating the termination of Ohio Northern University's involvement in the Western Ohio College program, explored several possibilities: 1) establishing a four-year college, 2) establishing an independent junior college, or 3) affiliating with a state university as a branch campus. Discussions with the Ohio Board of Regents led to the affiliation with Wright State University, Dayton, Ohio, as the Western Ohio Branch Campus in June, 1969.

In his remarks at the dedication of the Western Ohio College as a Branch Campus in June, 1969, Governor James Rhodes promised funds for building a permanent campus if the community would provide a suitable site. A site was purchased through community donations and ground for the first building was broken in March, 1971. In September, 1972, a student body of 757 students began classes in Dwyer Hall on the new campus.

WOBC, from the time of its affiliation with WSU, was administered by the Division of Continuing Education. During the 1972-73 academic year a proposal for reorganization of the WOBC was drafted by the WOBC Faculty Senate and approved by the WSU Board of Trustees. WOBC was then granted the status of a college at a level equivalent to that of other colleges within the university with a resident dean responsible directly to the provost. The Dean of Branch Campuses took up residence at WOBC July 1, 1973.

Currently the Trustees serving the WOEF are: Joyce Alig, Raymond Bergman, Roger Clapp, Louis Dammeyer, Dane W. Dicke, Victor Fuhrwerk, Boyd Granger, Charles J. Hein, Alma Kuffner, William Meikle, Ramona Nickol, Edward S. Noble, Kay Riffle, Marlin D. Thompson, Robert L. Wilhelm, G. Dale Wilson, and Perry Wise. Dean James Uphoff and Assistant Dean Thomas Knapke head the academic and administration staff.

WESTERN OHIO BRANCH CAMPUS WRIGHT STATE UNIVERSITY

Currently the college is administering to the academic needs of over 700 students, sponsoring a Community Arts Program, and is busy with plans for a new technical building which will add four to six technical education programs beyond the high school level.

Branch campus academic programs have been designed to meet the needs of students in our area, many of whom attend classes on a part-time basis. Varied curricula are offered which lead to a bachelor's degree in one of several four-year degree programs available through the Colleges of Business and Administration, Education, Liberal Arts, and Science and Engineering. Students are able to complete at least the first two years in these programs at WOBC, and in many cases they are able to complete much of their junior year work and some of their senior level courses. Some graduate courses in education are also offered to meet local needs.

Class sizes at WOBC are smaller than at most colleges, enabling the students to get to know the faculty better and to receive much more individual attention. As a result, WOBC students have experienced great success when they have transferred to their colleges or sought admission to various graduate programs such as law, medicine, education, and business.

All courses and programs taken at WOBC are fully accredited by the North Central Association o Colleges and Schools. This means that all academic courses taken at WOBC have full credit value at any other university or college.

The Western Ohio Branch Campus offers a twoyear Associate of Arts degree program that introduces the student to the major disciplines of the humanities and the natural and social sciences. The program includes the university's General Education requirements and is so flexible that students can tailor their programs to provide the background required for transfer to baccalaureate degree programs at Wright State University or at another college or university. Area concentrations are available in the humanities and social sciences, community rehabilitation services, elementary education, business and administration, and science and engineering. Specific requirements for the Associate of Arts programs are available from the branch campus office.

The two-year technical education programs leading to the associate degree have been offered at the Western Ohio Branch Campus since September 1974. Technical programs offered are accounting, automotive (scheduled to start in 1980), business management, data processing, electronics, mechanical drafting/design, manufacturing, retail marketing management, secretarial (executive, legal, and medical), and law enforcement technology (a cooperative program with Lima Technical College). Graduates of the technology programs are qualified to work in industry, business, or service organizations. In addition to the technical programs, specialized technical courses in real estate, banking, and agriculture are available at the Western Ohio Branch Campus.

For those individuals who are interested in learning for the fun of it, a selection of noncredit courses is offered each term for pleasure and personal development. These courses are changed periodically so the needs of the greatest number of people can be met.

A variety of extracurricular activities are available to interested students. The Student Senate seeks to improve the academic, recreational, and social conditions of the students and works cooperatively with faculty, administration and the Board of Trustees. Last year, the student senate sponsored hot dog roasts, rollerskating and swimming parties, free films, Spring Fling Day, and various tournaments. The drama club produces children's plays for presentation to area schools. The 1977 production of Androcles and the Lion helped finance the club's participation in a trip to the Shakespeare Festival in Stratford, Ontario. Sports enthusiasts can participate in basketball and softball. The Lakers, WOBC's basketball team won the WOBC Invitational and the Northwest Technical College Invitational, finishing with a 14-5 record. The softball team plays in local industrial leagues and participates in various tournaments.

Western Ohio Branch Campus, Wright State University

During the winter of 1970, several college and community representatives in the Mercer County area began to consider possible ways of expanding local cultural and artistic opportunities.

Present at an initial discussion meeting were two faculty members at the Western Ohio branch campus of Wright State University, Dr. Bill Norris and Kenton Strickland; three WOBC students, Susan Heckler, Beverly McOmber and Wayne Wenning; and three community representatives, Mrs. Lester Brandewie, Mrs. Louis Hierholzer and Mrs. Charles

Out of that meeting, the College-Community Arts Council was formed. Its announced purpose was to present, promote, encourage and expand all forms of art within the geographical area served by the local Wright State branch.

The new council's first formal meeting was held in September of 1971, with 24 interested persons in attendance. The initial program offered to the community was a concert by the Albon Berg Quartet at a cost of $230. The performance drew a positive response and, shortly thereafter, the WOBC student senate proposed to support further ventures of the fledgling arts council in the form of a subsidy equal to 60 percent of each performance's cost. This guaranteed financial support provided the background for the council's gradual growth in the years to Articles of incorporation for the local arts council were approved June 6, 1972, and the council gained its tax-exempt status Aug. 29, 1972.

The council's annual artist series in the years that followed brought a wide range of performing artists and art displays to the local area. A university-community chorus was formed. Funding was obtained from area corporations, businesses and individuals, but, with contract fees rising and council members seeking to expand programming, the council was faced with the need for additional money.

In 1974, a council application for funding was approved by the Ohio Arts Council. This additional money, combined with the continuing support of some 24 area corporations and dozens of private citizens, permitted the artist series to be expanded.

In 1975, the council sponsored eight performing arts programs, visual art displays, a film series, a lecture-demonstration and an in-school residency program.

The council further expanded its efforts the following year when, to commemorate the bicentennial, its first annual spring arts festival was held. The WOBC campus became a hub of activity during that two-day event, which featured 14 live performances and classrooms and halls filled with artists and craftsmen displaying their wares and their talents. The entire festival was open to the public at no charge.

The spring arts festival subsequently became an annual event.

In 1977, the council established a piano fund to raise money for the purchase of a grand piano for use during WOBC and council functions. The piano seemed about to be purchased in September, 1978.

Past presidents of the arts council include Dr. Bill Norris, Carol Snyder, Kenton Strickland, Joe Garcia, and Dr. Byron Kauffman. The current president, Joan Noren, is serving her second term, and other incumbent officers in 1978 include Mary Molitierno, vice president; Karen Geist, treasurer; and Lela Mae Baker, secretary.

The arts council's goal in 1978 is unchanged from its original plan eight years earlier. Its members are proud of what they have achieved to date and hopeful that newer and bigger challenges remain to be met in the future.

MERCER COUNTY MEDICAL HISTORY

Since the last time the Mercer County Medical History was written in 1907 many changes have taken place in the medical field. Great advancements have been made, and the practice of medicine has changed dramatically.

Before 1907 transportation was definitely limited as the automobile had not yet come into prominence, and doctors saw their patients in the patients' home most of the time. All babies were delivered in the home. There was no preventive medicine, so no shots or vaccine could be given for typhoid fever, diphtheria, cholera, lockjaw, polio, measles, whooping cough, mumps and pneumonia. Insulin had not been discovered for the treatment of diabetes. Tuberculosis was very prevalent, because the contagiousness of it was not recognized, and there was no specific treatment, so it was frequently fatal.

Very little surgery was performed because it was always dangerous. Asepsis was poor, and the techniques had not been perfected as we see it today. Operations that were absolutely necessary were performed in the home. In some cases patients were transferred by train to Dayton, Ohio, to the nearest hospital. The first hospital in Mercer County was Otis Hospital, Celina, founded in 1915 by Dr. L. M.

Otis.

Many women died in childbirth, and many people died of typhoid fever, pneumonia and other infectious diseases. There were no miracle drugs like sulfa, penicillin or antibiotics. Sulfa became available in the 1930s, penicillin in the 1940s, and antibiotics in the 1950s.

Due to the advancement of medicine life expectancy rose. The estimated average length of life was 47.3 years in 1900 compared to 72.4 years in 1975.

In 1907 there were 42 practicing physicians in Mercer County. Celina had fifteen; Rockford, six; Ft. Recovery, five; Coldwater, three; St. Henry, two; Mendon, two; Chattanooga, two; Burkettsville, Chickasaw, Mercer, Montezuma, Neptune, Wabash and Maria Stein each had one.

mood Mir, Dr. James J. Otis, and Dr. Kenneth H. Ziegenbusch. Coldwater: Dr. Robert W. Albers and Dr. Cecil E. Pennington. Rockford: Dr. Duane Bradrick and Dr. John W. Chrispin. Maria Stein: Dr. Donald J. Schwieterman and Dr. Edgar J. Willke. St. Henry: Dr. Emiliano I. Feliciano. Ft. Recovery: Dr. Paul Schreibman.

The population of Mercer County was 28,021 in 1900 compared to 35,265 in 1970.

Physicians who practiced in Mercer County over a long period of time and were practicing in the county within the past fifteen years were: Coldwater: Dr. Charles P. Adkins, 1934 to 1972; Dr. John Helfrich, 1946 to 1974 and Dr. Manning Harnick, 1947 to 1965. Ft. Recovery: Dr. J. M. Huerkamp, 1919 to 1964 and Dr. Julius Schwieger, 1950 to 1970. St. Henry: Dr. Robert Slusser, 1936 to 1970. Celina: Dr. Ralph J. Beare, 1932 to 1965.

There are two hospitals in the county. Gibbons Hospital, Celina, was established in 1923 by Dr. John T. Gibbons, and now has 28 beds. Community Hospital, Coldwater, started as Our Lady of Mercy Hospital in 1950 with 38 beds. The Mercer County Joint Township took over its possession and operation in 1971. It was improved and enlarged to a 93 bed hospital.

Otis Hospital served the county from 1915 to 1977.

Dr. L. M. Otis and Dr. John T. Gibbons, founders of Otis and Gibbons hospitals were practicing physicians in Mercer County for many years.

There are five Nursing Homes in the county with a total of 385 beds. Colonial Nursing Home, Rockford, has 34 beds; Shane Hill, Rockford, 100 beds; Briarwood Manor, Coldwater, 100 beds; Totalcare, Celina, 50 beds, and Celina Manor, Celina, 101 beds.

The Mercer County Home, can accommodate 50

residents.

The hospitals in the county today are well staffed, have the most modern equipment, have an excellent intensive care and coronary care unit, and have full time emergency room coverage. Available are specialists from nearby cities who come to the hospitals on certain days to see patients who need specialized care.

MERCER COUNTY UNIT OF THE AMERICAN CANCER SOCIETY

The Mercer County Unit of the American Cancer Society grew out of early efforts of a group of Celina women (members of Phi Beta Psi sorority) who were interested in fighting cancer.

In the early 1940's cancer as a subject of polite conversation was largely taboo and education as well as research was paramount. The American Cancer Society was reorganized in 1945 to bring education, service programs and fund-raising right into the communities — in Ohio there is at least one local unit in every county.

The Mercer County unit received its charter April 20, 1948, with a number of Phi Beta Psi members serving on the first executive committee. It was largely through the efforts of Mrs. D. R. Smalley that the sorority was persuaded to sponsor the unit in its formative years.

First officers were Mrs. Hugo Rentzsch, president; W. W. Purdy, Rockford, vice-president; Eugene Ensman, Ft. Recovery, secretary; Earl Dull, treasurer, and Dr. A. J. Rawers, medical advisor. A few months later Mrs. Jack Davis replaced Ensman as secretary. Other charter members were Mrs. Robert Van Fleet, Mrs. R. A. Smalley, Don Coate, Mrs. Hubert Dabbelt, Mrs. D. R. Smalley, Charles A. Dick, L. Heitkamp, Floyd L. Kugel, John J. O'Grady, Aloys H. Reichert, Arthur Elam, Mrs. Charles Hess, Mrs. John Longley, John Shank and Floyd Young.

Even as the unit was being organized Don Coate and Charles Dick were heading a campaign to raise $2500, Mercer County's quota in the 1948 National Cancer drive.

Mrs. Mabel (Jerry) Ahlers was the first executive director and filled that position for six years. Head-quarters were in the Stubbs building on West Market St. Mrs. Reynolds Galloway was executive director from the mid-1950's until her retirement in February 1971. At a dinner in her honor she was referred to as "Mrs. Cancer Society," for she had served tirelessly for 16 years, first in the downtown office and then from her home. (The Mercer County Cancer office has been located in the executive director's home ever since that time).

The emphasis during Mrs. Galloway's term was on public and professional education. Uterine cancer was a leading cause of death and women had to be convinced to act for themselves. The Pap Test was available, but they had to overcome the fear, take the initiative, and ask for the simple and painless examination. Dorothy Galloway and her public education chairman, Quinn Schindler, "stumped" the county, showing the ACS film, "Time and Two Women." The film explained uterine cancer, the Pap Test and the urgency for action. To promote the Pap Test the unit furnished kits to doctors and paid for the laboratory work. Eventually, the unit had to discontinue underwriting the cost of the Pap Tests because of lack of funds. By this time, however, women were convinced of the value of a yearly test.

Following Mrs. Galloway as executive director were, for a brief time, Mrs. Phillip Schultz, and from September 1970 until mid-1973, Mrs. Warren Cooper. Mrs. Duane (Carol) Puthoff assumed the position in July 1973.

As stated in the current service policy, the purpose of the Mercer County Cancer Unit is "to relieve or minimize suffering chiefly through patient services and to aid in the prevention of deaths from cancer through education."

Services available to patients are counselling, cancer dressings and bed pads (made by volunteers), numerous equipment from the loan closet, assistance on drug and transportation costs where there is financial need, and assistance on rehabilitation expenses, including colostomy, mastectomy and laryngectomy needs.

Between 1962 and the present the number of patients has increased from 45 to over 90. We have many cured cancer patients today in Mercer County, people who are free of symptoms five years after di-agnosis and treatment.

The current budget is between $25,000 and $30,000. The Unit meets most of this obligation with contributions from the community during the Combined Services Appeal in Celina and the Combined Charity Drives throughout the rest of the county, which shows wholehearted support. Special Events, memorial gifts, and other individual donations are also a valuable source of income. Over fifty percent of this money remains in the county and 45 percent is allocated to state and national education and research programs.

Three chapters of Phi Beta Psi sorority in Celina and Coldwater continue to support the unit with many volunteer hours on special projects and regular contributions to the budget and loan closet.

And groundwork laid by people with foresight thirty years ago cannot be overlooked. Their names are too many to list, but the eventual victory over this disease will be their reward. by Carol Puthoff

MERCER COUNTY SOCIETY FOR CRIPPLED CHILDREN AND ADULTS

The Easter Seal Society, as it is known today, started many years ago in a small Ohio town. Edgar F. (Daddy) Allen is credited with forming the first unit of the Crippled Children's Society on April 19, 1919.

A serious accident had injured several teenaged students, leaving some of them with permanent disabilities. Their parents were very concerned for they could not find even one clinic or hospital that offered any type of rehabilitating treatment for their children.

As they searched for an answer to their problem, the local Rotary Club became interested in their cause. Eventually enough money was raised to build a small hospital that could be staffed with doctors and nurses trained to work with handicapped children. From this small beginning the idea spread from state to state. Finally a National Society was formed and the word Adults was added to the name.

Although early records have been lost, there is evidence that an active Society for Crippled Children existed in Mercer County in the late 1930's. Mr. and Mrs. Adam Houser of Rockford had guided the formation of the group with help from Albert Dudgeon, Fred Tolan, Lloyd Iler and Richard Lloyd from the Rockford area. Like Daddy Allen, the Houser's son needed special therapy for a physical handicap but there were few competently trained therapists to work with him.

In 1947 the records list C. J. Rasmus, Superintendent of the Celina Schools, as president of the society. Other board members that year were Harry Buckley of Coldwater, Richard Feltz of R.R., St. Henry, Walter Mersman, Emmet Ashton, William Baucher and

B. A. Rodgers from Celina.

A survey was made through all the schools in the county to locate the handicapped children. Parents sheltered their special children and many were seldom taken away from home. That Christmas thirtyone fruit baskets were delivered to the homes of disabled children by the board members.

As word of the society and the kinds of help they were providing spread throughout the area, the organization purchased braces, wheelchairs, typewriters, looms and crutches which were loaned free to any child that needed them. Medical and surgical services were also provided, one of which was open heart surgery. Speech and hearing clinics were held each summer.

During the month of August camperships were provided for two week sessions at a YMCA camp, later named Camp Pittenger near Tiffin, Ohio. These vacations were enjoyed by both child and parents. A registered nurse was always on duty to give any needed medication. College students served as counselors, lived in the cabins and supervised hikes, swimming and campfire programs. In 1962 Mercer County was honored for sending the largest number of children to camp.

In 1948 the society purchased an Audiometer for Dr. A. J. Rawers who tested 4,228 school children for hearing impairment. When further diagnosis was needed the students were taken to ear specialists and hearing aids were provided as recommended by them.

Early in the history of the Mercer County Society it was decided to try to interest responsible citizen: in each town and township to serve on the board. A child's problem was more easily explained to a friendly neighbor who was able to give a more complete history of the case before the society's directors. Serving from Mendon were Mrs. Charles Adams and Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Krogman; from Ft Recovery were Mrs. Fay Hart, Don Riffle, Mrs. Gertrude McCain, Mrs. Gene Wilkerson and Arthur Rose. From Celina were Judge Paul Dull, Judge Don Purdy, Robert Brandon, Dwight Raudenbush, Dr Tennyson Guyer, Glen West and Dr. John Gregory Mrs. Hubert Dabbelt represented the Chickasaw community, William Preston and John Dorsten the Montezuma area and Anthony Doll and Jerry Forsthoefel served the Coldwater citizens. Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Grubbs covered Rockford.

In 1957 the list of loan items had grown until it became necessary to find a permanent caretaker and storage space. Lowell Birley was contacted and he agreed to serve as custodian of all loan equipment. After his death, his parents continued to serve for more than twenty years. By now there were more than 60 wheelchairs, a dozen hospital beds, many walkers, several Porta-Lifts and other needed invalid

Several thousand dollars were spent each year to keep the loan closet stocked and the items repaired. Much more was needed to buy orthopedic shoes and braces, glasses and artificial limbs. Many trips to doctors and hospitals for diagnosis and surgery were required.

How to finance all these services became a critical problem. Until 1955 money was solicited from door to door and by mail each spring when the Easter Seals were sent to each family on the mailing list. This year a new method of solicitation was tried with all the charities joining together in a Combined Drive. This proved very successful. Mercer County was awarded several plaques for having the highest per-capita contribution in Ohio.

During the last two decades more members were added to the board. Joseph Hartings and Carl Franzer from Maria Stein; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Fahncke and Mrs. Edwin Schaadt from Liberty Township; Mrs. Kenneth Pummell, Franklin Township; Mrs. Richard Copeland and Mrs. John Woodruff from East Jefferson Township; Mrs. W. K. Wolford, Donald Tangeman and Robert Klingshirn from Coldwater; Bruce Barber, Oliver Gratz, Dr. William Dorsey, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Detrick, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Huddlestun, James Highley, Mrs. Steve Reese, Mrs. David Riley from Celina; Mrs. Phillip Larue, Washington Township; Mrs. Dale Sutter, St. Henry and Mrs. John Cheeseman from Ft. Recovery.

Father Leo J. Gaulrapp of St. Charles Seminary, a registered audiologist, serves as hearing consultant and in recent years has supervised the annual Easter Seal mailings. The envelopes are prepared by students and retired priests at St. Charles.

The Easter Seal Society is the oldest and largest voluntary agency in the world that provides direct services to the handicapped. Over the years those colorful Easter Seals have been the symbol of many useful services that are avilable to Mercer County's handicapped children and adults. by Dorothy Pummell

HISTORY OF MERCER COUNTY UNIT — MULTIPLE SCLEROSIS SOCIETY

On the evening of March 4, 1976 a group of interested people met to discuss establishing a County unit for Multiple Sclerosis. As a result of this initial meeting, ten members of this volunteer group conducted a meeting on May 3, 1976. The following officers were selected: Wanda DeMott, Chairman; Vera Speicher, Vice Chairman; Dorothy Pummell, Secretary; Jill Bradley, Treasurer; and Wanda Hemmelgarn, Patient Services Director. Mr. Robert Melig, Executive Director, West Ohio Chapter gave a general outline of the Chapter area coverage. Three important areas, Patient Services, Public Information and Fund Raising, were covered. Mr. Melig explained that MS strikes most frequently in young adults and many financial, emotional and physical problems are present.

A patient survey was conducted in the fall of 1976. There were fourteen (14) known patients in Mercer County. A visitation program was established. Information on the disease was published in local newspapers. Reserved seating spaces were obtained for the Lake Festival and Coldwater Parades. A booth was shared at the County Fair and literature was distributed.

The officers for 1977 were Mary Williams, Chairman; Vera Speicher, Vice Chairman; Dorothy Pummell, Secretary; Pat Brookhart, Treasurer; Pat Now, Patient Services Director. The Patient Services were expanded to include a summer picnic for all patients and their families. The picnic was held at the Norval Sealscott residence. Birthday, Thanksgiving and Christmas cards were sent to patients. The Parades spaces and the Fair activities were continued. In January Lela Siebert replaced Dorothy Pummell as Secretary. The other officers remained the same as 1977. Cards for all holidays were sent and a flower was delivered to all patients during the Easter season. The summer picnic, the parades, and the Fair activities were continued. Recreational and Educational MS groups were established during 1978.

The fund raising goal is met each year through Combined Services Appeal, M.S. being one of the service organizations participating in the campaign.

Mercer County Branch, CENTRAL OHIO HEART CHAPTER INC. AMERICAN HEART ASSOCIATION, Ohio Affiliate

In 1947, Dr. R. W. Kissane, Columbus, invited a group of local physicians to sit down in his office and discuss the merits of a Heart Association for Central Ohio. From this has grown the 47-county Central Ohio Heart Chapter Inc., of which Mercer County is a branch.

Mercer County branch began in 1953 when a consultant from the Chapter office met with Dr. James J. Otis, who was to be first president; Dr. George H. McIlroy, a later president, and Mrs. Lola Ruell, first secretary.

Others were invited to join in the Voluntary Plan to raise funds for research, public and professional education and community service — the prime objectives of the Heart Assocciation. Mrs. Reynolds Galloway became, and still is, program chairman. William Marbaugh succeeded the late John Fisher as treasurer. Richard Staugler, Fort Recovery, became part of the unit as did Dr. Donald R. Fox, who now is president.

When the Heart Association efforts were directed to expanded teaching in cardiopulmonary resuscitation, Junior Robbins, now retired fire chief, and his wife, Helen, pooled their efforts.

Today, thanks to funds obtained by this branch and others, Research has been furthered, educational efforts have reached many thousands, and current statistics show a gradual decline in deaths due to cardiovascular disease throughout the United States. Mercer County Branch is proud that it has played a part in this great effort and is continuing its efforts in the conquest of heart disease.

FARM BUREAU, INC.

In 1917 Congress passed a bill providing money to pay part of the cost of an agricultural agent for every county provided an organization was formed to sponsor an agent and share the cost of employing him.

These county groups were called Farm Bureaus and in February, 1919, farmers of Mercer County met at the Celina City Hall for the purpose of organizing the Mercer County Farm Bureau.

Officers elected were President — F. B. Birkmeyer, Vice President — Fred Goettemoeller, and Secretary-Treasurer — Harry S. Lewis. Department heads were: Livestock — Daniel Spriggs, Farm Management — D. W. Hawkins, Soils — D. R. Mott, Boys and Girls Club — W. A. Hamilton and Home Demonstration — Miss May Nuding. George F.

Henning was employed as county agent.

Farm Bureau activities were many and varied in the early years with thirty-one projects underway in 1922. The Farm Bureau Service Company was formed and pooled orders for fertilizer, twine, etc. with large savings for farmers. A livestock shipping service was established and this was the forerunner for Producers Livestock Association. Activities of this kind encountered many difficulties because sources of supply were often cut off due to opposition of established dealers and manufacturers.

Mercer County Farm Bureau joined the Ohio Farm Bureau which is a member of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

Needed state legislation dealing with schools, highways, and taxes was passed and farmers found that if they worked together their voice was effective in government.

In 1926 the Ohio Farm Bureau formed the Farm Bureau Insurance Company, which resulted in considerable savings on auto insurance. Some of the early agents were Frank Birkmeyer, Lou Merkle, Lawrence Will and Arnold Cron.

In 1948 the insurance companies were separated from Farm Bureau and are now known as Nation-wide Insurance. However, strong ties still exist on a sponsorship basis and cooperation on programs and services keeps these ties strong.

In 1934 the Farm Bureau Co-op Association was formed on the state and local levels and is now known as Landmark. Mercer Landmark Incorporated now has nine locations serving in Mercer and Van Wert Counties and has a wide variety of marketing services and farm supplies available to farmers.

About this same time Ohio Farm Bureau was instrumental in getting a law passed that set up the Rural Electrification Administration and Farm Bureau helped set up rural electric co-ops all ove Ohio.

In 1936 the first Farm Bureau Advisory Council were formed and shortly thereafter the first Advisory Council for Mercer County, Council 1-A, wa formed in Blackcreek Township consisting of fou couples, Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Bollenbacher, Mr. and Mrs. Heber Martz, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Miller and Mr. and Mrs. Lou Merkle. This council is still very active. Advisory Councils are the grass roots of Farm Bureau and are action groups in forming and carrying out policy on local, state and national levels by practicing and helping preserve the American tradition of democracy.

Councils work together through the Women's Committee, involved in promoting programs of health, safety, public relations, etc. Public Affairs Committee is another council supported arm of Farm Bureau and Mercer County farmers have a voice in state and national government to assure fair taxation, government regulations, etc.

Farm Bureau has always been active in local projects such as good roads, bridges, good schools, solid waste disposal and more recently obtaining extended area toll free telephone service for many exchanges in Mercer and surrounding counties.

A Farm Bureau Youth program was begun in 1937 and Mercer County has a Youth Council, the "Mercer Cletonians", who are quite active and support local and state youth activities.

The publication of the "Mercer Co-operator" was begun in July, 1952 by Farm Bureau and Landmark and was an effective member publication until 1975, when it was discontinued due to high costs of publication. Editors were Les Brandewie, Don Dammeyer, George Reichert, Rodger Storck and Billy Perry.

Farm Bureau leaders who served as president are Frank Birkmeyer, Ben Desch, Grover Nuding, John Dorsten, Lester Miller, Theodore Weinman, Alonzo Bollenbacher, Heber Martz, Russell Laffin, Albert Hassan, Lee Siebert, Paul Homan, Cletus Menchhofer, Raymond Fishbaugh, Cletus H. Homan, Luke Springer, Jerry Laffin, Leander Moeder, Carl Bettinger, Paul Eichler, Fred Rose, Dale Klosterman and Allan Adams.

We have been served by several organization directors some of whom have been Les Brandewie, Don Dammeyer, George Reichert, Rodger Storck, Bill Perry, John Wood, Leonard Ott, Tom Archer, Ned Basinger, Dick Burch, and Carol Davis, who presently holds that position.

Present Board Members are John F. Adams, Paul Eichler, James Fennig, Jerome Homan, Glenn Kable, Ted Kunkler, Carl Pleiman, Cletus Prenger, Mary Schwieterman, John Smith, Luke Springer, Mark Stose, Roy Thompson and Cletus Tobe. Women's District members of the Board are Catherine Eichler, Anna Evers, Irene Homan and Virginia Zumberge. Committee Chairmen are Women's — Anna Evers and Esther Homan, Public Affairs — Dale Klosterman, Information — Cletus H. Homan, Councils — John F. Adams, and Youth — Mark Evers.

Present membership of Farm Bureau is 995. Twenty-three councils meet monthly to discuss farmers' needs and problems and provide leadership to carry out the goal of Farm Bureau — "To improve farm income and the standard of living in rural America."

N.F.O. The National Farmers Organization

The N.F.O. was started in 1955 in Iowa and Missouri as a protest group consisting of $1.00 a year members to go to Washington to legislate for better Farm Prices. By 1957 after very little success, being only a small percentage of the vote, the members with help of legal advice drew up the present N.F.O. Membership agreement of Collective Bargaining to unite enough production together in one block in all commodities to be able to demand cost of production plus a reasonable profit for producers as well as protection for the processors by orderly deliveries. Also fair return to Agriculture would bring free money in the National Economy to help pay off the National Debt.

By 1961 the N.F.O. had expanded to the state of Ohio and by 1962 Mercer County, after several meetings, a number of County Farmers decided this would be a just way of helping each other get justice at the market place and true money in the economy. In September the County organization was chartered

Also much of the grain is being moved through Joseph Nieport's grain set-up. The N.F.O. has been through many trials and lawsuits and has been proven legal and just in every way and accepted by the industry.

Walter Albers is one of the three National Directors from the State of Ohio, he is also assistant Dairy Director. Tom Bertke is working on the Dairy Staff and Richard E. Langenkamp is on the Organization's Field Staff.

MERCER COUNTY SPORTSMEN'S ASSOCIATION

The Mercer Co. Sportsmen's Ass'n, became active during the thirties, they cooperated with the State Wildlife Dept. in the rabbit and pheasant programs — Education and Game propagation — Building pens and furnishing feed for Wildlife. The back water pool was built on the west end of the lake, also the public fishing dock and boat ramp at Celina. The club was instrumental in starting the goose program by obtaining the original flock of 23 geese, which developed into the present goose refuge.

Then in 1956 events started to happen, the club was reorganized and incorporated. In 1957 they purchased 16.91 acres of land located 5 miles east of Celina on the north side of the lake. Then in 1961 the adjoining Starr farm, consisting of 73.83 acres was purchased, which increased the club area to 90.74 acres. Since that time much has been accomplished as finances permitted. A modern Club House was built — Trap and Skeet Ranges — Out-door Rifle Range — Indoor Rifle Range at Celina — Rifle Instructions made available — Built 2 Shelter Houses — 2 toilets — 24 Picnic Tables — Dug 2 Wells — Established 4000 feet of Fishing Channel for members — Rip-Rapped Channel banks — Buried 600 stumps for better fishing — Built Boat Ramp and camping areas for Scouts — Planted trees and Multiflora Rose for Wildlife Habitat. Provided Scholarship Fund to W.S.U. for students who work on the Lake Ecology Study. We still have 70 acres of land to be developed, future generations can and will plan to develop this area. The possibility of more lakes for fishing, planting trees and Multiflora Rose for Wildlife cover and building of Nature Trails.

We are members of League of Ohio Sportsmen and have maintained good relations with State and local departments. We welcome residents of Mercer County to join our club and enjoy the life of a Sportsman. The membership is $25.00. Annual Dues $5.00.

THE MERCER COUNTY ARS NOVA CLUB

The Mercer County Ars Nova Club is an arts and crafts club. Ars Nova means "new art". The motto is "Art for, and by the people, enliven and enrich the land." This organization was formed in 1953, when a group of local women met to work on crafts and to do some painting. It was decided to meet once a month to enjoy the various projects, and the Ars Nova Club became a reality.

In 1973, the 20th anniversary was celebrated and this year of 1978, we are celebrating the 25th anniversary with a special dinner in July and on September 23 and 24 with the Art Show in the Richardson-

Bretz Memorial Building.

This is the only club of this kind surviving in Mercer County. There have been many art shows by Ars Nova though the years. Some were held in the Mercer County Court House. Others were at the Celina Fairgrounds and at the Branch Campus of Wright State University, Celina, Ohio. However, the first art exhibit was held in 1966 at the former home of the late Dr. D. H. Richardson. That included art work, crafts, and antiques and was well received by the people of Mercer County.

The Ars Nova Club gave the beautiful statue, "Girl at the Well", to the Richardson-Bretz Memorial Building. This club also donated $50 to help defray the cost of the P.A. system for the memorial building.

The Ars Nova Club meets the third Tuesday of each month in the Richardson-Bretz Memorial Building at 7:30 P.M. After a business session, a project on art painting or on a craft is held; then a social hour is enjoyed. A membership of 50 adult members is maintained. Anyone interested in becoming a member has their name placed on a waiting list and as a vacancy occurs, a new member may be accepted into the club. by Mildred J. Lininger

MERCER COUNTY SOCIAL SERVICE ASSOCIATION

This association was formed by the members at the last meeting of the Ottawa Valley Association. The hospital in Lima, Ohio, was closed by the commissioners of seven counties as there was no more need of it for patients of tuberculosis. A vote was held, and it was decided to have a new charity organization to help the nursing homes, county home and any others in need. This was April 1, 1973. The meeting took place in the former home of the late Dr. D. H. Richardson, now the location of the Richardson-Bretz Memorial Building. This group was called the Celina Social Service Association.

In 1974, this group donated an electric range and a refrigerator to the Celina Senior Citizen's Center. This same year, a wheel chair was purchased for the use of ill citizens of the community.

In 1975, since we were helping people countywide, it was decided to change the name to Mercer County Social Service Association. Cancer pads are made during meetings and articles are purchased and given to nursing homes, such as house slippers, lap robes, favors, etc., thus to make patients more comfortable. This year a wall clock, pictures and a mirror were taken to Total Care Nursing Home. We also contribute to people who have the misfortune to have their home destroyed by fire.

Anyone interested in becoming a member may meet at 7:30 P.M. the fourth Monday of every month in the Richardson-Bretz Memorial Building. New members are cordially welcomed. by Mildred J.

MERCER COUNTY INDIAN RELIC COLLECTORS SOCIETY

The first meeting of the Mercer County Indian Relic Collectors Society was called to order September 19, 1962, at the home of Ray Eblen for the purpose of appointing officers. Those elected to serve were: President, Ray Eblen; Vice President, Lloyd Grapner; Secretary-Treasurer, Dick Gray. Others in attendance were Doug Eblen, Herb and Dan Meyer, and Hap Smith.

Throughout the years the members have been following the object of the organization stated in their constitution and bylaws. "To encourage and promote interest in Indian relics, to cultivate friendly relations among collectors, students, and dealers, and to especially encourage and assist amateur collectors, and to provide a time and place to buy, sell or trade relics."

Membership is not limited to Mercer County residents. Many members and officers have come from the neighboring counties of Ohio and Indiana because an organization of this type was not available to them in their locale. The present slate of officers demonstrates this as President, Herb Meyer, one of the original founders, is from Celina, Mercer Co.; Garry Mumaw, Vice-president, is from Sidney, Shelby Co.; and Paul Leasor, Secretary-Treasurer, is from St. Marys, Auglaize Co. A portion of the annual two dollar membership dues is used to subscribe to amateur archaeological journals that the members may borrow to study. The journals have articles on excavations, types of relics, book reviews, and announcements of shows.

The members share their kowledge and time with the community by speaking at other area organizations, sponsoring speakers and special movies, and providing displays. The public has been invited to attend the numerous shows sponsored by the society. The members have displayed much of their personal collections and answered questions concerning

Many people do not realize that the Mercer County area had been occupied by Indians for a long period of time. Relics continue to be brought to meetings that prove Mercer County has served as a home for Indians of all the major archaeological periods. Fine fluted points show that Paleo Indians roamed the area some time during 9,000 BC thru 6,000 BC. Near the end of this period lancolate blade makers from the Plano Complex left long slender points dating 7,500 BC to 6,000 BC. As the archaic hunters occupied the area from 6,000 BC to 1,500 BC they brought flint dove tails, beveled points, bifurcated points, granite axes, and slate banner stones. The Glacial Kame Indians 2,500 BC to 1,000 BC also left their distinctive slate bird stones, gorgets, pendants and shell sandle sole gorgets as burial offerings in the various natural gravel beds left by the glacier. The Adena Indians, 1000 BC to 700 AD left their celts, leaf shaped blades, stemmed points and slate gorgets showing the distinctive feature of being drilled from one side. The Hopewell Indians 300 BC to 600 AD left an abundance of highly colorful flint ridge corner notched points and parallel sided flake knives. The Hopewell and Adena people were probably the first farmers to cultivate crops here. The bird points and triangular arrowheads of the Fort Ancient and Erie Indians 800 AD to 1,600 AD can be found also. The Historic Indians who traded with the white man left their silver ornaments and iron tomahawks behind as evidence that they too had once enjoyed living here.

GRAND LAKE RIDING CLUB

The Grand Lake Riding Club was first started on October 5, 1975, by a local group of horse and pony lovers.

The next meeting was held on October 19, 1975. The first meetings were held in the horse barn at the Mercer County Fairgrounds. At this second meeting, the bylaws were approved and officers were elected. The first president was Darrel Kinney, vice-president was Roy Christian, and secretary-treasurer was Ruth Christian. There were nineteen members present at this organizational meeting.

The club colors are blue jeans, red shirt, and a white neck scarf, which are to be worn at all parades and when in the public eye. The dues for club members are $3.00 for adults and under sixteen, $1.00.

These dues are annual.

The Club holds monthly meetings on the first Sunday of the month at 7:30 P.M. Some of the early meetings were held at a club member's garage. At present, most meetings are held at a Celina bank's community room.

The club was incorporated on November 22, 1977. The purpose for which the club was formed and incorporated are: 1. To promote the enjoyment of horses and ponies by horse and pony lovers of the Celina, Ohio and surrounding areas. 2. To conduct appropriate fund raising activities for the benefit of its purposes. 3. To conduct and appear in trail rides, camp-outs, horse shows, parades, and other related activities involving horses and ponies. 4. To do any and all functions and activities as allowed by the non-profit corporation law of the State of Ohio.

The club has participated in parades in Mercer, Allen, and Auglaize counties, for which they have received several trophies and ribbons.

Also, they have had several trail rides and campouts in the Mercer County and surrounding area. Fund raising projects for the club are bake sales, toy parties, jewelry parties, and horse shows.

The club has donated a trophy each year, (since the club's existence) to be presented during the 4-H horse show which is held during the Mercer County

Banner Fair

The Club holds annual holiday parties for Halloween, (which includes a hayride), Thanksgiving, and Christmas for all members and their guests.

The election of officers for President, Vice-President, and Reporter are held annually. Election of Secretary-Treasurer is held every two years. Present officers are President — Ralph VanGundy, Vice-President — open at this time, Secretary-Treasurer — Peg VanGundy, Reporter — Pauline Braun. The club has a present membership of 33 members. Respectfully submitted, Club Officers

C B GROUP 54

Citizens Band Group 54 was formed in 1974 by Sheriff W. C. Sunderhaus, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Miller and Mr. and Mrs. Dale Shively. It is the oldest C B disaster group in Mercer County, affiliated with the Mercer County Disaster Services and the Mercer County Sheriff's Dept.

The 54 in the group's name was suggested by Sheriff Sunderhaus because 54 is the Mercer County State Identification number. Each member's vehicle is identifiable by a Green and White decal of Ohio which is placed in the window on the left rear side.

Membership is open to residents of Mercer County who have a citizens band radio license. The meetings normally are held the 1st Sunday of each month at the Citizens Commercial Bank Community Room at 1:30 P.M. Our address is P.O. Box 432, Celina, Ohio.

Members of Group 54 gladly donate their time to aid citizens of Mercer County. We have numerous members with 4-wheel drive vehicles, snowmobiles, motorcycles, tractors, heavy duty equipment and horses. Five members are first-aid instructors. Most all members have had training in first-aid and traffic control.

Members of the group have used the above mentioned vehicles, C B radios and walkie-talkies in assisting with walk-a-thons, bike hikes, Crop walks and Tractor Pulls. Also in parades — Celina Lake Festival and Mendon parade. In festivals — Mary Help of Christian Church, Fort Recovery Festival, and Mendon festival. Also in the Mendon Rockfest, and M.D. H. Rockfest and Flea Market. We also helped round up run-away cattle. We furnished the Sheriff's Dept. with Traffic Control in the Land Mark Elevator Fire and the Train derailment.

Members donated a geriatric chair to a resident at Total Care who has Cerebral Palsey. Along with two other C B clubs, a base radio and three mobile units were donated to the Mercer County Sheriff's Dept.

Group 54 is affiliated with the Mercer County Disaster Services. We furnish communications and assist with traffic control, transportation and man power. The Disaster Services has had several mock disasters in which the group has participated. These mock disasters help prepare the emergency units for a real disaster. There has been a mock plane crash, a mock major fire, and two mock tornadoes.

During the "Blizzard of '78" the members evacuated people, delivered medicine and food to snow-bound residents. Last year's blizzard prompted the Disaster Services and Group 54 to set up a Central Control with a C B base and telephones in the basement of the Mercer County Courthouse. Anyone needing assistance may call. During an emergency the telephone number is 586-7001 and we will monitor channel 3 on our base.

BLACKCREEK TOWNSHIP

Blackcreek township is still mainly all farming. Where almost every family had at least a cow or so for their own milk at the turn of the century, now there is only Paul Miller, Max Shock and Jim Schumm, Herbert Brandt, Lloyd Gause with dairy cows and John Myers, Tom Brandt, Gene Koch, Tom Rogers who raise beef cattle. Roma Fickert has a baby pig set-up, David and Herman Kuhn feed out a few hogs on the side as does Gene Vinings. Gale Gause has some fancy poultry and rabbits but there's no large laying-house nor broilers raised, however, Gene Koch and Jerome Bollenbacher put turkeys out on range. There are very few sheep raised yet in the township with Woody Rogers having some, also Rex Bollenbacher. Roy Thompson's have several acres in various fruits and vegetables for sale. Race horses should come nearer the top of the list, as there are several. Leo and Tom Baker; Carl Cross; Chalmer Huston; Baders Stables; Roma and Dick Fickert.

The field crops have changed also. Instead of several small fields of about everything, it's mostly wheat, corn and soybeans planted in larger fields made possible after tearing out fence rows and plowing them smooth, or by cutting off the woods and grubbing them out. In a favorable season, the wheat comes off early enough for a second crop, which has been soybeans but this year there is a new sight that is beautiful when all in bloom and that is sunflowers. Like soybeans there are several varieties. Some best suited for oil, some for bird seed, and some roasted for human consumption.

Blackcreek township roads are all sealed and blacktopped except two short roads of one-half mile each that are still gravel and another one-half mile still 'mudroad'. In the late 1940's electricity was a hundred-percent available with telephone service soon after also.

The Township is also ruled completely different. The highest official used to be the Justice of Peace who held court for misdemeanors etc. with a constable to back him up, and could also perform marriages. Since these jobs have been taken to the county seat, the trustees are at the head. Their budget was set up for care of the poor; road building; bridge fund; ditch; cemetery; soldier relief; schools that included hiring of teachers, building upkeep. Each duty had its chairman and sometimes that caused competition and conflicts.

Blackcreek township is very proud of our present team of trustees and the way they work together with each other as well as for their people. Richard Figley has been the Clerk since 1964. He is the son of LaDoyle (Farmer) and Mable Strickler Figley. His Grandparents were James and Goldie Hook Figley and his great grandfather was Nathan and Belle Figley who were the pioneer settlers of the family here in Blackcreek twp. Dick started to school the last year it was held at Center and graduated from Rockford. In 1953 to 55 he spent in Germany in the Army and began farming after his return home. He married Janice McGowan and they are the parents of Mark and Beth.

The chairman of the board is Kenneth Luginbill, a son of Roy and Goldie Bollenbacher Luginbill. He also started to grade school at Center but then attended Willshire. Kenny learned farming from his Father while helping as he farmed for the Graubergers, has worked for others and just recently bought a farm of his own and is presently building a brick house on it. He married Clara Schott and they have four children, Ruth, Kenneth Jr., Jeff and Scottie.

Rex Bollenbacher was born March 25, 1925 in Blackcreek twp., the son of Alonzo and Faye Bollenbacher. He spent eight years in Grove school, then graduated from Rockford. Between 1944 and 1946 he spent overseas in Germany and Austria. He married Mary Catharine Schaadt and they have two sons, Randell and Dennis and one granddaughter Lori.

Robert Humbert was born in Washington twp. of Mercer county, started school at Prospect and finished at Celina High. During 1944 to 1946 he served in Germany and on his return married Dorothy Carr. They have three children, Larry, Diane and Rita Kay and three grandchildren, Marc and Douglas Rich and Tara Sue Humbert. Bob started to farm while in Washington twp., but now lives on a farm for which they have the original sheepskin and owns another that Mrs. Humbert's great grandfather, Rueben Carr, was given the patent for in 18??. Bob had been clerk seven years before taking the place of Vernon Caffee, who died suddenly last December 5, with two years yet to serve on his third term. Mr. Caffee was an exceptional leader, served as chairman of the board of Blackcreek and also was chairman of the county trustee's board. He had set up the co-operative system of sharing all the extra road work, especially on the snow plow during the winters of 1976 and 77. He was the son of Howard and Caroline Caffee, had been a heavy farmer as well as being active in Church, Grange, and Council. For a number of years he and his wife Donna had one of the top registered Holstein dairy herds in the county. He is so greatly missed by three children, Carolyn Sue, Larry and Connie and by seven grandchildren. Jeffrey Scott, Jon Stuart and Jenifer Jo Caffee; Michael E. Dale, SueAnn McDonna, Mark Allen and Megan Louise Kimmel.

Lenore Springer and Bernice Warrick organized the neighborhood women in a "Farm Women's Club" in 1916. A fore-runner of the Home Demonstration Club, it was mainly just a social get-together where they put on plays; held ice cream socials, etc. Sometimes they would charge, making a little money with which they gave wedding presents;

In 1922 a Home-Coming was planned by Frank and Nora Springer. The minutes of that Saturday, June 28, stated there were over 200 in attendance, using a flat-bed wagon on the west side of the building to hold food, and one on the east side for a program and speaker, using a local preacher as one of the speakers. The first Sunday reunion was in 1938, with tricks by Albert Stoner. Frank Springer had lived in the district over 80 years. Maggie Morrow came farthest, from Los Angeles, Calif. In 1955 Mrs. Ireland was the oldest present, age 91; Bob Meriner was the youngest. In 1956 Ella King was oldest at 86. In 1958 Wanna Sell gave the talk. In 1960 Rev. Walter Purdy read an old Rockford Press (1946). The last home-coming was held in 1972 when because of small attendance they voted to disband. The tables and chairs were given to the trustees who presently use the building for their meetings; occasionally it's used for a reunion and it's the voting place of the township. A Band called "The Blackcreek Specials" was organized here about 1912, lasting for several years. They would play for fairs and whenever called upon. After the band broke up some of the same men organized a baseball club with the late Bill Becher as coach.

Also on this same cross-roads was a home-stead; another corner had a store in a regular building with a high false front on it. It was closed in the early 1900's with the last owners a family named "Glass". At one time a family named "Pond" owned the store and would pick up mail when in Rockford and bring it to the store where folks could get it when in to the store. John Wileys also kept the store, Mrs. Wiley being a daughter of early settler Ernest Tickle. by Florence E. Gause

Duckcreek Church, Blackcreek Township Counterman.

In 1868 the Duckcreek schoolhouse had become too small and they built a church house across the road and north about a quarter mile, where a cemetery had already been started on a hill above the Duckcreek ditch. The oldest stone is that of Jonathan Emery s/o John and Sarah Emery who died August 18, 1841.

In 1869 they were put on the Willshire circuit, with members reporting to conference as C. Y. Hill, collector, Christiania Johnson, Mary Clark, G. Clark, J. Johnson, P. Counterman, Prescilla Wood, John

Frank, L. Tinkham and S. Hollinger.

In 1878 due to much dissatisfaction Duckcreek left the radical United Brethern circuit and went on a Shanesville circuit of Methodist churches, made up of Shanesville, Fountain Chapel, Mercer and Coss, and Willshire and Duckcreek as a Willshire circuit. 1879 officers were Stewards: John Davis, Moses Foreman; Class Leaders: D. Smith, M. Detro, H. Miller, Wm. Beall, J. Wechter, Reed Hopkins, Baldwin Clark and Alex Counterman.

In 1891 the conference notes read that they are out of debt. In an 1882 report Pastor M. M. Figley wrote "Smallpox in the spring very detrimental to the work." In 1903 the officers listed were Trustees: G. Marbaugh, Wm. Tinkham, J. Davis, A. Bailey, S. Tinkham; Stewards: Wm. Tinkham, Eva Morrison;

Class Leader Emanuel Stetler.

Late in the evening of March 21, 1920, just after dark, the church was completely blown apart by a cyclone. It destroyed the church building, knocked over or broke cemetery stones, but the bell came straight down and was later moved and used in the Mount Hope church in Adams county, Indiana which is some 4 miles west.

PLEASANT GROVE CHURCH

First called Pontius class, it was started February 20, 1859 in the home of Abraham Pontius. They later met in the Pleasant Grove schoolhouse which was the #9 school in Willshire twp. of VanWert County. Nearby they started a cemetery that is also known as 'Plank' with the oldest stone being 1850.

At conference of December 25, 1869 Trustees were Silas Jordan and Phillip Swanders. Pontius class had 40 members and were assessed $86.40. A church was built in 1870 on a corner of the Pontius farm, on south side of route 33 at the end of Hill road in section 3 and across the road from the ceme-

In 1889 they separated from the radical United Brethern conference and later joined a Methodist

They were disbanded ca 1918.

The building was jacked up and moved into Rockford, Ohio, where for a number of years it was a Nazarene church until they closed in early 1978. It has recently been sold and a Baptist group are presently holding services in it.

CENTENARY CHURCH

The conference of 1874 had granted permission to build a churchhouse, land that was centrally located had been found and lumber had been bought. Then a part of the lumber was re-sold and the church was not built until 1876 on the southeast corner of Thomas Spry's land located on Manley road at the end of Burrville. It was comprised of people who had left Pleasant Grove and had been meeting in King schoolhouse as Kings class; Manlies class at Manley school; at Center school and at Winklers.

The conference of Nov. 1890 notes 'The liberals had taken out an injunction against the trustees.' Jan. 24, 1891 conference held in Manley schoolhouse and church services again being held in the four schoolhouses.

In 1891 conference granted them permission to build. The members from Kings and Manley classes to build Fairview, and the members of Blackcreek Center Chapel who were meeting in the Center township-house and Winkler school to build Zion.

Mr. Spry took the building back and made it into a barn.

The church was closed ca 1916 and the building torn down. Mrs. Norah Linn has a baby cradle that was made from its wainscotting.

EAST BETHEL CHURCH

The first meetings held by Rev. Gillen in the log cabin home on a farm a short distance from where the first United Brethern church was built, ca 1855. He had organized the church of United Brethern at Montezuma in 1845, in the old Miami conference. Several relatives of the Montezuma class lived in Blackcreek twp. This class organized June 2, 1860 in home of Mother Henderson with another lady by the name of King who was well up in years. Rev. Abe Miller was the first pastor and he and Rev. John Hill were the organizers of this class. One of the first local Bible readers was a man named Martz. The first name was Pleasant-Bethel, but due to there being seven Pleasants in the community, they dropped the Pleasant and the name Bethel was used from 1884.

The name of Rev. Thomas Coates appears in 1867. The meetings were held for a time in this cabin of Henderson's until it became too small, then they were held in the Grove schoolhouse. In 1873 the effort was begun to build a church-house as they were again out-growing their quarters. In 1886 they accepted the offer from Henry and Laura Davis Morrison to buy a small tract in section 34 for $5.00. But before work could begin, this part of Mercer county was desolated by a cyclone that took many homes and other buildings, leaving a stricken but determined people who had to re-build. Add to that the next spring the community was hit with a snow storm when the fruit trees were in bloom.

The first deed to East Bethel was recorded at Celina courthouse on Sept. 18, 1886 at 1 P.M. with W. C. Snyder recorder at the time. They were members of the Pleasant Grove circuit, Auglaize conference of United Brethern (radical) at this time with R. G. Montgomery, Pastor and Willet Skinner, Circuit Steward. In May of 1886 they began a cemetery and appointed as trustees Jacob Adams; Reuben Martz; W. Steinmetz. The first burial was that of baby Floyd H. Adams, s/o Henry and Julia Ann Adams who had died Feb. 7, 1883 at age of 29 days. The new church was built that summer also and the conference under J. L. Luttrell as presiding Elder; Silas J. Robinson as secretary appointed (elected) as Church trustees: Caleb Martz; Joseph Harb and H. C. Morrison; Steward, Buel Nye; Class Leader, Wm. Steinmetz, Sr.; Sunday School Supt., L. E. Martz.

In July of 1889 conference dismissed trustees C. Martz; H. C. Morrison; Joe Harb; Wm. Steinmetz and John Ketro and elected as new ones A. B. Edmiston; F. M. Smalley; Jonathan Harb and Wm. Pontius. But the trouble persisted between the radicals and liberals and in January of 1890 they separated by Bethel leaving that conference.

Then in 1909, on April 10, the trustees of Bethel church bought more ground to enlarge the church site (for a parking lot) from John and Barbara Leistner, for the sum of $40.25. Those trustees listed on that deed were Andrew Harb; Wm. E. Counterman; Peter D. Cross; and J. J. Carr. (From the deed, the ground was from Wm. H. and Emma Leininger).

After pressure and vote of conference to close all with less than 50 on membership lists, and by vote of its remaining faithful members, on Sunday June 30, 1963, Bethel's doors were closed. The last members were Lillian Martz Carr; Edwin and Naomi Counterman; Lloyd and Florence Gause; Iris Roebuck Putman; Buress McBride; Lola Purdy Fisher; Zoa Miller Groth; Melvin and Mary Counterman Hull; Marie Counterman Schnarre; Nellie Purdy Cross; Carl Cross; Laura Wolfe Counterman; Lucille Gause; Beatrice Gause Huston; John and Icy Gehm and Melville and Louise Gehm; Glen and Sue Cross Counterman. Each family a descendant from the original members who had formed this little church group. Florence Gause

LOWER DUCKCREEK SCHOOL DISTRICT #3

The first school in Blackcreek Twp. of Mercer Co., O. was the Duckcreek School, started in 1852. The building is still standing along the west side of St. Rt. #49; ¼ mi. north of the Wilson Rd. intersection. At that time this school served the whole western area of the township, and was used for a while as a church.

Later, the township was divided into districts and Duckcreek became District #4. Another school north of it on a hill overlooking Duckcreek stream was called Lower Duckcreek District #3. This school is the subject of this sketch.

Lower Duckcreek was located 1 mile south of the Van Wert-Mercer County line and 1½ mi. east of the Indiana-Ohio state line in the extreme northwest part of Blackcreek Twp. on the Willshire-Chattanooga Pike. Later, when this road became St. Rt. #49, a big S-curve was made which caused the road to by-pass the school corner. This corner is now bounded by Short Rd. and Winkler Rd. The building has since disappeared from the scene.

In 1866, Louis Brandt bought considerable acreage in the area and granted to the school trustees ½ acre of land to be used for school purposes. The school became known as the Brandt School; and still later as the Dellinger School.

At that time much of the area was still forests and the roads were bad during the winter and the rainy season. All but the Willshire-Chattanooga Pike were mud roads. In the spring Duckcreek overflowed and covered some of the roads; in the winter the snow was deep. Most of the students walked to school except in the most severe weather. Then the parents took them to and from school in horse and buggies, sleds or carriages. Because some of the smaller students couldn't walk the distance from home to school in the winter, summer school was held for several years.

Many of the older boys were needed at home to help with the farm work; plowing, planting, tilling and harvesting; so their attendance was sporadic. Because of this, many only attended school 5 or 6 years altogether. Others were from families who did, not believe in sending their children to high school, so a pupil may be found attending the grade school until they were 16 or 18 years of age. Since this was a one-room building all pupils could hear the recitation of others. In this way, many of the younger pupils picked up knowledge well ahead of their own class level.

Slates and slate pencils were used to write the lessons. Much scratching could be heard all over the room; the loudest squeaks seem to be the intentional ones. Most of the spelling classes were conducted with the pupils standing in a line; spelling for "headmarks". If one student misspelled a word, which was in turn spelled correctly by the next person; the one spelling it correctly moved ahead of the one who missed the word. Whenever a student reached the top of the line it was called a "headmark". Some teachers gave a pencil for each "headmark" received — consequently, there were some students who seldom had to buy a pencil.

A wood stove stood in the center of the one-room structure. The wood for this stove was cut by the families of the district and was hauled in early in the season and stacked in a long pile outside the schoolhouse. Not only was this pile used to heat the school, but one teacher made his unruly pupils sit outside on it as a punishment. They were sufficiently chastened and embarrassed by the fact they could be seen by all passers-by on the road.

The country school was also the social center of the area. Many former residents will remember the two-night shows that the itinerant entertainer, Jimmy Rhodes, put on with his rattlebones, slight of hand tricks and many other acts that were a novelty for country folks.

The Little Red School House of Lower Duckcreek School District #3, of Blackcreek Twp., Mercer Co., Ohio was built in 1893. Early in the 1900's or at the erection of the new building, the name was changed to The Dellinger School. It served a period of 34 years; until 1929, when the schools were consolidated and the students removed to the Willshire Community Schools of Van Wert Co., Ohio.

During the 34 years several changes were made. Previous to 1912-13 the elementary school course of study had consisted of Readers; using the Primer through the 6th Reader. Some of the pupils remained in elementary school through age 16 and few went on to High School. Those who were interested in teaching, took the Boxwell Examination. If they passed that they were eligible to teach.

grades. Most pupils finished the 8th grade around age 14 and were required to attend high school until age 16. The double seats and desks were changed to single ones. The pot bellied cast iron stove that had stood in the middle of the room was removed and replaced by a wall furnace in the northeast corner of the building. The furnace was larger and gave more uniform heat but still on extremely windy, chilly days the children were grouped closer to the furnace. For many years the coal was carried in buckets by the teacher, from the coalshed at the rear of the schoolhouse. In later years, one of the bigger boy students was hired as janitor and have the chore of tending the furnace, sweeping the floors, cleaning the blackboard and dusting the erasers.

There was no drinking fountain so drinking water was carried from a pump on the east side of the schoolyard midway between north and south. The boys' and girls' toilets were small buildings on the back of the lot. Around 1916 the schoolyard was enlarged, double the former size. A new well was drilled at the southeast corner of the building at the end of the porch. It was in this period of time the public became aware of how important good personal hygiene was in their lives; so the subject, "Hygiene" was added to the Physiology class. The county nurse brought each student a tube of toothpaste and told them each one should have his own individual collapsible drinking cup for use at school. Previous to this, all the students had used the same common water dipper.

On the last Friday of each month, during the last period of the day, there was a 'program'. The children spoke pieces, recitations or sung songs. Sometimes they ciphered, or spelled and once in a while the older ones would have a debate. The school had an organ, which was usually played by one of the older girls; but, occasionally by one of the boys. Each group had the privilege of choosing a favorite song to be sung and played.

About twice a year there was a 'Special' program. The little platform didn't show the pupils to much advantage, so a farmer would donate his wagon hay rack and with the help of the older students, make a "stage." (We had blue curtains with rings on wire for our dressing rooms and state curtains.) The program consisted of 3 plays, with special songs and recitations during intermissions.

The last day of school was a Gala Occasion. All of the parents and pre-school children were invited for the day. Each family brought a basket lunch and if the weather was nice there was a picnic under the trees. Otherwise, the fathers, teachers and bigger boys put boards over the desks and made tables inside. The food was always plentiful and delicious. Following the 'feast' a short program of impromptu speaking and singing preceded the issuing of Report Cards, in the afternoon. Another year ended at the Little Red School.

Most hearts were saddened at the passing of the one-room country schools, which had contributed so much to the educational and social life of the boys and girls in the rural areas.

Some of the teachers of the Lower Duckcreek/ Dellinger School were: John Pifer, Emanuel Stetler, Elmer Snyder, Roy Kindle, Mr. Hoge, Ida May Short, Ray Hitchner, Sarah Platt, Ethel Layland, Grace Meyer, Louis S. Dibble, Mr. Golden, Ella Walton, Mollie Rettig, Clarence Vining, Herbert Springer, Naomi Hart, Albert Dudgeon, Lloyd Campbell, Ored Dudgeon, Esma Riley, Vera Fisher, Dorothy Jackson, Leroy Kreischer and Roxie Bienz.

Some of the families attending school District #3 were: Brandts, Harper, Dellinger, Hoblet, Baumgardner, Byer, Hopf, Snyder, Koontz, White, Krall, Miller, Morrison, Vining, Hill, Pethel, Mason, Roop, Irelan, Sapp, Nead, Lautzenheiser, Brindle, Ralston, McGough, Baker, Saum, Wicks, Debolt, Garwood, Colter, Riley, Michaud, Kidd and Tague. There are most surely more that this author cannot recall. by

Edith Adams

The Dellinger School Reunion was organized in 1954 by some of the former students and Clarence Vining, a former teacher. Since then it has been an annual event, held on the 3rd Sunday in July. Attendance has been from 15 to 92. This year, 1978, the attendance was 30. More of the younger exstudents are now taking an interest. The "youngest" ones are now 52 years old and the oldest one, Dora (Hupp) Riley of near Willshire, is nearly 100 years young. This group has been told by the Mercer Co. Historical Society, they are unique in being the only country school in Blackcreek Twp. to hold a reunion yet; and possibly all of Mercer Co.

The Dellinger School Reunion of 1978 was held at the Zion U.B. Church Hall; Corner of Winkler and Wabash Road in Blackcreek Township on Sunday July 16, 1978. The Former Students are — Back Row: Waldo Brandt, Ronald Saum, Carl Brandt, Eugene Vining and Lillian Krall Berry. Second Row: Harold Snyder, Fern Sapp Parrish, Madge Colter Shreeve, Larry Wick, Belle Ralston Overholt, Edith Snyder Adams and James Vining. Front Row: Margaret Brandt Dailey.

Zion United Brethren Church

ZION UNITED BRETHREN CHURCH

In the years preceding the conference years of 1890-1891, Pleasant Grove was a part of a five appointment circuit known as Pleasant Grove circuit. These were Centenary (later Fairview); Pleasant Grove; Union; Smith Chapel and Bethel. This Pleasant Grove church was located on State road #33 about 3 miles southeast of Willshire, Ohio. When Indiana court decision went in favor of the Liberals, Union and Smith's Chapel were dropped, leaving the two appointments of Centenary and Pleasant Grove. Centenary class divided for convenience and had two preaching places, Manley School house and the Center at the township house. In January of 1891 an injunction suit was filed, and Pleasant Grove's doors were locked. A group immediately prepared the old schoolhouse at Winkler Corners and organized a Sunday School class with John L. Hileman as class leader, G. H. Stetler, Sunday School Superintendent; F. Hill; J. M. Bilderback; Geo. Hurless; J. D. Spitler and G. H. Stetler as trustees. In this house in 1892 the Rev. W. H. Conner held a protracted meeting resulting in 28 converts and 35 accessions, making a total for the year of 34 converts and 44 accessions. Expelled, dropped, and withdrawn, 3, leaving an increase of new members of 41. Of the old members, 2 were dropped; 1 removed by letter and 1 died, leaving a membership of 53 at Pleasant Grove and 82 at Centenary. At this time it was voted by conference to build 2 new church houses and Zion was built on their land at Winkler Corners and was Dedicated on October 15, 1892 by Bishop H. T. Barnaby. The 1st conference was held there on Saturday, Jan. 14, 1893.

A baptismal service was held jointly with Fairview society, July 10, 1892, near the Feasel bridge of the St. Marys river at which time 25 were baptized. Zion and Fairview remained as a circuit until 1946 when it was voted for Fairview to disband, and Zion was put on a circuit with Willshire.

In the year 1949 the church house was in need of being redecorated, so the ceiling was lowered and covered with insulating tiles; the walls were paneled and light fixtures were installed which had been used by the Union Chapel church on Celina Circuit. In 1954 an addition 32 by 20 feet was built for class rooms and a recessed pulpit.

Under the leadership of Rev. Paul Parker during 1968, more footage was bought and a new sanctuary 54 by 34 feet was constructed which included a 10 by 15 foot foyer. Rev. Parker gave uncounted hours of labor, particularly to the inside finishing work. The men and women of the congregation gave many, many hours of their time and with liberal monetary contributions it was necessary to borrow only $6000.00 of the total cost of $25,800.00. This included work done in the former sanctuary which was converted to a fellowship hall. And this loan was paid in full and a note burning service was held on Sunday, April 1, 1973.

The first service in the new building was on Easter Sunday April 6, 1969. Isaac Hileman, Walter Winkler, Wm. Gamble, Paul Plikerd and Clarence Hamila was trusted at this time.

rick were trustees at this time.

In 1976 Zion church purchased the old farm house which is on Wabash road south of the church property and remodeled it into the present church parsonage.

MINISTERS OF ZION CHURCH

Zion has given several ministers to preach the gospel. Albert M. Johnson was granted his quarterly conference license on July 26, 1902, and was recommended to the annual conference the following year. He served the church as pastor; conference superintendent (presiding Elder) and Bishop for a total of more than 50 years.

In 1927 Omar Dellinger was granted quarterly conference license and became a member of the annual conference the following year. He has served for many years in a California conference.

Lee Winkler received quarterly conference license in 1929 and annual conference in 1930. He served for several years as a pastor in the Auglaize conference.

The name of Lawrence Dellinger first appears on the roll of the quarterly conference ministers at the quarterly conference of February 20, 1932 and at the 4th quarterly of that year, his license was renewed for another year. Local records give 1941 the year he was ordained. In addition to serving his conference as pastor and conference superintendent, he also served the General church as General treasurer and as general church extension secretary.

Rev. Paul Fetters was granted quarterly conference license on Feb. 10, 1951 and at the fourth quarterly conference of 1952 he was recommended to the Auglaize conference and was ordained in 1959.

John Goodwin received his quarterly conference license during the year of 1959-60 and his annual conference license in 1961. He graduated from Huntington College (Indiana) and Seminary and was ordained in 1965.

DEWEY CARR

Lillian Mae Martz, born August 11, 1898 in Blackcreek twp., the daughter of Luther and Iona Spry Martz. She attended Robinson rural school. When she went in to Rockford High School she would drive a horse and buggy to town, take her own food along and stayed with a Mrs. Karns all week. At the birth of her baby sister she returned home to do the housework. In 1918 she married Dewey Carr, born 1898, the son of Sam and Jessie Smalley Carr. They began married life by farming for a short time before he began doing construction work. During W.W. He heard the noise of the wind above the T.V., and stepped out on the porch to look, calling her to come see too. She said it looked like a huge sewer pipe coming, and they just barely made it down their basement steps and into the coalbin when it was 'passed' and they looked up to see stars and a big tree laying kati-cornered across and down in the basement.

RUBY BRINDLE DUDGEON

Ruby Brindle was born in the country home of her parents near the village of Rowsburg, Ashland County, Ohio, on February 11, 1903. Her father, Simon P. Brindle, was born and raised on a farm near Chambersburg, Pennsylvania.

Her mother was Louisa Ellen Vian, daughter of Jeremiah Vian, an early Mercer County settler who was a farmer, teacher, and preacher during his life-ime.

As a young man Simon (Ruby's father) accepted employment with the Bureau of Indian Affairs and was stationed on different reservations to teach the Indians "modern" farming methods. Once, when visiting a brother near Ashland, Ohio, Simon accepted employment at the Ashland County Infirmary where he met Ruby's mother.

Louisa Ellen (Vian) Brindle was born in Mercer County, Ohio to Jeremiah and Clarissa (Grub) Vian. As a young lady she "worked out" in other people's homes as a housekeeper and maid. She ultimately found herself working at the Ashland County Infirmary where she met and married Simon P. Brindle on August 28, 1897.

Simon and Louisa Brindle moved to Mercer County when their daughter was about three years old to occupy and improve the Vian homestead in Blackcreek Township. This homestead had been purchased from the United States of America on October 10, 1840, by William Vian, Ruby's great grandfather.

The Brindle family found the homestead to be in a very run-down condition, and were deeply in debt after buying out the other heirs. With long days of arduous labor Simon and Louisa were able to prosper and live comfortably. Louisa, Ruby's mother, died June 3, 1921, while Simon lived until February 27, 1941. Ruby and O. G. Dudgeon were united in marriage on January 28, 1922.

The efforts of her parents to salvage and develop the Vian homestead apparently made a lasting impression on Ruby, for she developed a penchant for preserving relics of her parents' and grandparents' day. Ultimately this led to her salvaging a log cabin from another farm her father owned in Hopewell Township. This cabin was dismantled, each log numbered, and re-assembled in a grove of trees west of Ruby's country home which she has named Belle Meade Acres.

Later Ruby moved a second cabin to her property from a neighboring farm. This cabin was originally built in 1852, by George Dellinger, in whose family it remained until 1928. Ruby appropriately named it the "Dellinger Cabin".

Both cabins are filled with all kinds of relics and antiques of early Mercer County history. Ruby has always been delighted to show off her cabins and their contents to anyone who cared to visit. She is particularly pleased to have school children and 4-H members see her museum.

Because of a broken hip Ruby is now unable to care properly for her cabins and contents; she has arranged for Glenn and Lucile Goodwin to take care of her museum and keep it open for visitors. Gerald

CARL F. MILLER (1896-1973)

In 1871 Johann Mueller, the grandfather of Carl Miller, was in his sixties when he left his native land Bierbach, Kindgom of Bavaria, Germany to come to America. Coming with him was his wife Marie Kesler Mueller and their three children Katherine age 32, Jacob age 28 and Margaret. It was not known why but Johann returned to Germany within a short time. Marie, his wife, resided in Mercer County until her death on May 26, 1886.

Not too long after arriving in America, Jacob looked for land to purchase and on June 7, 1873 he purchased 80 acres in Blackcreek Township from Jesse Hartzog. It is described on the deed as follows: West half of North East Quarter (¼) of Section 30, Town-4 South, Range-1 East. Jacob died on June 15, 1918 and the farm was purchased by his son Carl on January 16, 1919. Carl died on November 25, 1973 then his son Herbert purchased it on June 11, 1974. This is a Century Farm as it has been in the Miller Family 105 years.

In 1877 Jacob married Margaret Strobel and after bearing him two sons, Peter and Christian, she departed this earthly life. In 1883 Jacob married Christina Rueck. Christina came with her parents Jakob and Regina Rueck and 11 brothers and sisters fror Gemany in 1880. They stayed in this area of Ohi for several years before going west to Oregor Christina was the only member of her family to remain in Ohio.

Christina and Jacob Mueller resided on the farr and became the parents of 7 children, Mary (1884 1905), Jacob (1886-1913), Katherine (1887-1895 John (1891-1964), Caroline 1893 living, Carl (1896 1973) and Clara 1899 living. My dad (Carl) had tw half brothers Peter and Christian and a half siste Maggie Kallenberger.

The first house was a log house near the location of the present house which was built about 1898. The youngest child, Clara, was born in the new house. The family name was spelled Mueller untit the time of World War I, after that it was spelled.

Miller.

In 1919 Carl married Gertrude Brewster daughte of Philip Brewster from Adams County, Indiana They became the parents of the following: Rutl Miller Werner, 12-5-1919, Harmony, Pa.; Helei Miller Linn, 12-11-1921, d. 6-11-1967, Lima, Ohic Emeline Miller Weitz, 3-9-1924, Mercer Co., Ohio; Cath erine Miller, 11-29-1925, Mercer Co., Ohio; Cath erine Miller Eichlar, 11-9-1927, Mercer Co., Ohio LaVerne Miller, 11-21-1929, Monroe, Indiana; Ken neth Miller, 5-30-1933, Hebron, Indiana; Anna Loi Miller Kosier, 4-10-1935, Mercer Co., Ohio.

Gas and oil were discovered on the farm in 190: and for many years oil wells protruded the field with pipelines and rods crossing wheat and corr fields. Farming was done with a team of horses dodging the oil wells and rods. A childhood pastime was sitting on the rods which were about eight of ten inches off the ground and ran from the well to the pump house, and they would move back and forth, back and forth pumping the oil from the ground. Another childhood pastime was hunting for Indian beads along the ditch bank located in the South-east corner of the farm. Indian Arrow heads were found in the same area.

In those days store bought cookies and bread were a luxury. Most of the food came from the farm and the few staples bought were purchased from a "Huckster" which was a traveling grocery wagon. He not only sold but carried crates and containers to put the butter, eggs and chickens the housewife had to trade for the groceries she needed. I can remember one summer during the depression when the "Huckster" allowed my mother 5¢ a dozen for eggs. Things my mother used to take back in trade were coffee, sugar, salt, pepper and spices.

We walked a mile and half to school in the morning and a mile and half back home in the afternoon which eliminated the need for gym classes. Pupils from all 8 grades played together at recess time, usually baseball in Spring and Fall and Fox and geese in Winter when snow was on the ground. My first four years of schooling were in Wildcat School which was located on corner where Route 49 crosses 707. I remember the teachers Catherine McDougle, Clark Sipe, Dale Scholer, and Mable Morrison. The country schools were closed at the end of 1929-30 school year, we were then bussed to Willshire School in Willshire, Ohio.

My mother raised geese and each summer she would pluck their feathers. The feathers were put in huge feather tick and put on top of our straw tick lattress. The straw ticks were emptied each sumier and filled with clean new oats straw after the treshing was done, and we had very comfortable eds.

It's amazing in one lifetime the span has been om one room country school to calculators and omputors, from horse and buggy to jet airplane, ood burning kitchen range to Microwave oven and coal oil" lamps to electric lights. May first was a pecial day as then we could go barefoot for the ammer. Ruth Miller Werner, Harmony, Pa.

HERBERT M. MILLER (1925-)

My father, Carl F. Miller (1896-1973) was born eb. 20, 1896 on the Miller farm in the first house hich was a log house. He spent his entire life here keept for approximately 1 year. This was the first ear after he married Gertrude Brewster of Adams o., Indiana.

They had the following children: Ruth Werner, lelen Linn, dec., Emeline Weitz, Herbert M., Cathrine Eichler, LaVerne, Kenneth and Anna Lou Koer. All spent their childhood on the farm and gradated from Willshire High School.

I can remember doing farm chores. Threshing and ay making were most dreaded. Manure was hauled om barn to fields on mud boat using a team of orses. Every horse and cow was named and we ach had certain cows to milk each day.

At one time we grew tomatoes for cannery and we vere paid 3¢ a hamper (¾ bushel) for picking them. We had to carry the hamper to the road where a vagon picked them up. The youngest children were iven rows closest to the road. We also grew sugar eets for Central Soya in Decatur, Ind. Shortly after his time Mexican labor was brought to the farm nd they picked the tomatoes and did sugar beet lator. The current rate for picking tomatoes is 25¢ lamper.

The year 1940 was a special year as electricity was rought into area and electric lights replaced the coal oil" lamps.

I can remember oil wells pumping on the farm nd at one time there were 6 wells on the 80 acre arm. We had a large pump house which pumped all he wells plus one well on H. Caffee farm and another across road to Sipe farm. The rod went under oad thru a casing and this large casing was good for rabbit each time I went hunting. I can remember ny dad saying the underground river was discovered when oilmen drilled wells.

I volunteered for the draft in 1944 and spent Christmas of that year in Germany and Belgium in the Battle of the Bulge with the 84th Infantry Division. When we entered that battle we were told "No Retreat". We had to hold our ground. I was in Germany at end of war and spent a year with the Army of Occupation.

I met my wife, the former Florence Schumm, of near Willshire when going to the grain elevator where she was employed as the bookkeeper. She has been with this same firm for 31 years now.

My wedding in 1950 had to be postponed a week, as this was the year of the big blizzard and I could not make it to wedding but spent a night snow-bound in 1947 Studebaker.

In 1957 we built our new home on corner of 49 and 707 where Wildcat School used to be.

We have a daughter Karen Sue, born Jan. 21, 1952 who graduated from Parkway High School, attended Bowling Green State Univ. and graduated from Indiana University School of Denistry. She is employed as a Dental Hygienist in St. Marys, O.

On Nov. 3, 1973 Karen married Joe Bennett who is employed by General Telephone Co. They are now living in their new home on Now Rd. which they built in 1976. Herbert M. Miller

The Millers' have made many changes to the farm since its acquisition. In 1953 Paul and Betty accelerated the capital improvements to the farm making it one of the most modern in Mercer County. Their willingness to expand and experiment resulted in the Millers receiving the "All Electric Farm" award from Dayton Power and Light in 1955. JOHN HARPER NUTT

John Harper Nutt was born in Dauphin County, Pennsylvania, August 17, 1839. He moved to Mercer County, Ohio with his parents, while a small boy.

John Harper Nutt, at age 22, enlisted in the Union Army on November 20, 1861 and was assigned to Infantry Company "H" — Ohio 71st Regiment. He was made a Corporal on April 1, 1863.

At the end of his second year in service, he came to Mercer County, where he married Miss Sharlotte Pifer. Miss Pifer was born in Pennsylvania in 1842. She came to Mercer County, at age 14, traveling in an ox cart with her parents and family.

John Harper Nutt reenlisted in November, 1864, for the duration of the war. He was promoted to the rank of Sergeant on March 1, 1865. He subsequently mustered out, with his company on November 30, 1865. After which, he returned to Mercer County, where he and his wife purchased an eighty acre farm, from the government, at a cost of $8.00 per acre. They built a small house on that farm, in which they lived with their growing family, for twenty years.

In the year 1885, they built the house (as shown) using native walnut timber taken from their farm. The house has nine rooms, beautifully designed, with interior walnut trim. Mr. Nutt lived in this house until his death, April 12, 1924, at the age of eighty-five years, Mrs. Nutt having preceded him in 1916, at the age of seventy-three years, five months and five days. In 1917, John Harper Nutt's son James Walter, who with his wife Dencie (Smalley) Nutt and family had been living with his father, after the death of his mother, decided to move the house from its original location, one half mile back a lane, to the main road, thus enabling the children to attend high school.

It was a tremendous task, however, it was accomplished without damage. The plastered walls did not crack and the clock on the mantle never stopped. The maple trees, adorning the front yard, were brought as saplings from the woods across the road and planted by James Walter, and his wife Dencie (Smalley) Nutt and their children.

This beautiful old house still stands on Purdy Road, southwest of Rockford, OHio. Although no longer in the Nutt family, it is occupied and being tenderly cared for by Mr. and Mrs. Richard Samples, who really appreciate the history of the "HOME PLACE".

John Harper and Sharlotte (Pifer) Nutt had six children, born in Mercer County. Viola Forest (Nutt) West who had four children: Mildred (West) Grimm, Ilo (West) Bender, Zella West, and Orville West. Emma Della (Nutt) Petry who had two children: Stanley Petry, and Naomi (Petry) Longerbone. Thomas Franklin Nutt died at age seven. Mary Louella (Nutt) (Petry) (Werts) Merinar who had three children: Leona (Petry) (William) Stagg and Louise (Merinar) Harris. James Walter Nutt had six children: Florence Rebecca (Nutt) Turner, Oliver Eugene Nutt, Ruby Irene (Nutt) (Dixon) Brookhart, Wanda Mae (Nutt) Hubley, Esther Louise (Nutt) Bollenbacher, and Dorothy Alice (Nutt) Miller. Ida Mildred (Nutt) Lee had four children: Ruth (Lee) Newville, Paul Lee, Dorothy (Lee) Toirac and Arthur Lee. Ruby Nutt Brookhart, Celina, Oh. 45822

A PROPHECY OF AMERICAN SLAVERY

(See Note)

- I. You tell me of a bright land far over the sea, But Ah; can you call it the land of the free Where the image of God for a handful of gold Like a beast in the field in the market is sold.
- II. Where the child from the mother's fond bosom is torn, Where the father is chained leaving orphans forlorn Where the maiden is bartered like a merchandise ware Then doomed to the lash and the groan of despair.
- III. Where was the fair land far over the main For the canker of death dark slavery's stain Shall gnaw to thy vitals while every sigh From the victim's writhe mount for justice on high.
- IV. And He, the Great Lord of the universe wide Shall smite thee to earth in thy strength and thy pride And vengence must fall for foul cruelties done On the beings redeemed by His own Son.
- V. The sound of the war drums shall thrill thee at night
 As thy sons and thy brothers shall strike in the fight
 The slave and the cotton shall stab thee with pain
 And the North and the South be divided in twain.
- VI. And brothers against brothers shall strike in the fight And battles be fought in the dead of night And the white maid and widow in sorrow shall mourn And the flag of thy freedom is tattered and torn.

VII. The North in her might like a whirlwind shall rise

And the notes of the cannon be borne to the skies

And though the warm blood of her heroes be shed

The light of her freedom shall never be dead.

VIII. The stars and the stripes an Excelsior shall be Proud Liberty's banner from land and by sea And the Union though spared by the slave holders scorn

Shall be guarded by North men for ages

Shall be guarded by North men for ages unborn.

(Note . . . Origin of this poem . .

In a letter from Corporal John H. Nutt, in the Union Army, Co., "H" — 71st Regiment Ohio, to his wife Sharlotte, post-dated Decherd, Tennessee, July 12, 1864 which reads as follows:

"Dear Companion: This piece of poetry was prophesied in Europe, 20 years ago, and I think every word of it is coming out to be true. I saw it in a paper and copied it out.

I am well and hearty as I just wrote to you a brief time ago, I will not write much this time. I just wanted to send this poetry to you."

We were married (W. J. Reef and Clara Miller) the 25th day of November, 1925. We purchased our farm the 25th day of April, 1928 from Charles W. Baker in Blackcreek Township, Mercer County, Ohio, known as the East half of the Southeast quarter of Section 80 - 80 acres on the corner of State Road 49 and 707. The oil company put a house on the farm for the Field Boss of the oil company, William McDougle and wife and two daughters, Ann and Catherin McDougle lived in the house when we purchased the farm. When it was no longer used for the Field Boss, we purchased the house. Our farm house is a little west of this house on 707. My Mother, Christina Rueck Miller lived with us for 14 years after my Father died until she died on June 17th, 1945. Then by adoption a little girl came into our house, Cynthia Reef, in 1948. She married I. Dean Hileman, June 21st, 1958. They started housekeeping in the house on the corner of St. Rt. 49 and 707 and are presently living there.

They have 3 children, Randy, born — June 28, 1959, Curtis — March 8, 1962 and Julie born September 25, 1964. I have one great-grandson — Jeremy Lee Hileman born May 7, 1978, son of Randy and Debbie Hileman. Clara Reef, Willshire, Oh.

SAMPLES

In 1969 Richard Samples and his wife Sondra moved from Willshire, Ohio, to a farm on Purdy Rd. in Blackcreek Township in the northern part of Mercer County. This was several miles from the farm where he had been raised, the son of Stanley and Marie Samples.

They now live in this rural farm community with a daughter Susan (1961) and two sons, Kerry (1963) and Steven (1971).

The original land grant for this 80 acres in section 26 was made from the sale of Public Lands in 1845 to a James Antonides of Montgomery Co. A transfer was made in 1865 to John Nutt, and the land remained in that family until 1923.

The present frame farmhouse (see picture) was built in 1885 and is still in use today without major structural changes. Native timber taken from the farm itself was used in its construction. Originally it stood at the back of the farm, accessable by a lane nearly a half mile in length. Some 30 years later Walter Nutt had the house moved up closer to the road. This across-the-field journey was accomplished very slowly over a number of days. The house was placed on large rollers and moved with a horse and winch. This relocation was somewhat unique in that the household furnishings remained in place with the Nutt family still in residence. A step ladder provided temporary access to the backdoor when needed. To complete the new homesite in about 1917 a hip-roof barn was built and a stand of maple saplings planted. Some of these stately trees remain today.

Over the next 50 years ownership of the farm changed several times to A. M. Riley, Ed Bryson, Rufus Stober, and John McPheron until the purchase in 1969 by Samples. A pole-type barn was added by him in 1976 to better accommodate the larger farm implements of this era. Mrs. Richard Samples

Schumm home

AMOS SCHUMM

History of the Amos Schumm family who lived on 113 acres South side of the St. Marys river, in Charlie Reservation, Blackcreek Township, Mercer County, Ohio. The geneology of the Schumm family dates back to 1568 from church records in Ruppertshofen, Germany.

John George Schumm, born 8-4-1777 married Anna Fischer 4-28-1807. She passed away 2-5-1822. In 1833 he, a widower with 4 sons and 1 daughter, namely George Martin, Johann Friedric, Johann Jacob, George Ludwig and Maria Katherina, decided to come to America. One daughter remained in Germany to care for aging grandparents, altho they outlived her.

The journey to America was made in 62 days by sail ship. Mr. Schumm a religious man, brought the family bible, prayer books and the family trunk, made in 1814, containing family possessions. They presumably landed in Philadelphia, later traveling inland in a Conestoga wagon, settling in Holmes Co., Ohio. It was here the 5 children found their life partners.

Meanwhile, John George, not satisfied in Holmes Co., heard of cheap government land in Western Ohio and in 1837 walked 160 miles to what is now Van Wert Co., Ohio. He was favorably impressed with the land and decided to settle there. He walked back to Holmes Co., returning the following year with his family excepting 2 sons who followed in 1840. Here for $1,000.00 he purchased 800 acres of land and received a patent to the property signed by Pres. Martin Van Buren. This area was then called 5chumm, Ohio and for many years had a post office. Also, here they built one of the first log houses in the county from the fine oak and walnut timber as well as having established the first Lutheran Church in the area. The present homestead which was built in 1858 is still standing and in use and it is here that the family has returned bi-annually for reunions. In 1976 around 500 persons attended. The family tree numbers over 5,000 names.

In 1860 Johann Friedrich, son of John George, and his wife Magdalena decided to purchase land in Mercer Co., a part of a tract of land ceded 10-6-1818 to the United States by the Miami Nation of Indians in a treaty made and concluded at St. Marys, Ohio, portions of which were reserved for the use of the Miami Indians, one section being granted to Charlie, a Miami Chief, S/S of St. Marys river. In 1851 Sho-Pe-Qua, wife of Charlie, and Kil So Quah, their daughter, deeded this parcel to Samuel and Susan McClure for $820.00. 9-15-1860 the Samuel McClures and James Millers deeded the land to Johann Friedrich and Magdalena Meyer Schumm. Their children were William, John, Frederick (father of our subject), Catherine, Jacob, Hannah, Maria, Louis, George, Barbara, Henry and Ferdinand. 6-13-1874 this 113 acres was given to son Frederick Schumm for $1.00 and parental love and affection.

Frederick Schumm, born 4-1-1843, married Magaret Ehrman 10-26-1871 and they were parents of Catherine, Hugo, Leona, Henrietta, Mary and William. After his wife's death in 1885 he married Mary Buechner in 1888 and they were parents of Amos, Erna and Naemi. Frederick Schumm died 12-24-1907 and Mrs. Schumm reared the family. She died 2-16-1930.

Amos Schumm married Esther nee Schumm 5-15-1918 and purchased the land in 1936 from the remaining heirs.

Amos Schumm, a lifetime farmer, died 4-13-1974 having been born and lived his entire life in the 8 room brick home built in 1886 by his father for $2,000.00 and where Esther Schumm and daughter Betty still reside. Their other children are Ruth Buuck, Decatur, Ind., Amos Jr., Tempe, Ariz., Helen Muntzinger, Ft. Wayne, Ind., and Hildegarde Buxton, Celina, Ohio. Betty Schumm, Rockford, Oh. 45882

PHILIP F. SCHUMM

History of Philip F. Schumm family which lived on 100 A. S/E Sec. of Peter Labadie Reserve, South of St. Marys River in Sec. #1, Blackcreek Twp., Mercer Co., Ohio. This is part of a tract of land ceded to the U.S. by the Miami Nation of Indians in a treaty made and concluded at St. Marys, Ohio, 10-6-1818, portions of which were reserved for the use of the Miami Indians, one section being granted to Peter Labadie.

In 1833 the section was deeded to an Elnathan Corey of Clark Co. with the approval of the Pres. of the U.S., and in 1840 was deeded to Ebenezar Godard of Mercer Co. for $3,200.00. In 1840 the above 100 A. was sold off the East side for $600.00 to Benjamin Schock and was then owned successively by the following named: Zimmerman, Cox, Conklin, Gephart, Sidenbender, Fleming and Springer. Jacob F. Schumm purchased the land from L. C. Springer in Oct. 1907 and in May, 1911 was deeded to his son Philip Schumm.

Jacob Frederick Schumm was the grandson of John George Schumm, born 8-4-1777, who immigrated from Wuertenberg, Germany to America in George Martin Schumm, Father of J. Frederick, was born 11-20-1812, married Maria Pflueger of Holmes Co., May 1, 1838 and lived on one of the original 5 tracts of 160 A. in Van Wert Co., clearing the land and building a cabin. They were the parents of 13 children, one of whom, John, died in the Civil War. Geo. Martin died in 1871.

J. Frederick Schumm, born 6-12-1839, married Maria Germann of Harrison Twp., Van Wert Co., and took up residence in a log house on 297 A. in Charley Reserve, Dublin Twp., and Labadie Reserve, Blackcreek Twp. They were the parents of George, Louisa Schinnerer, Rosina Germann, Emilie Germann, Mary Weck, Charles J., Philip F., Ferdinand W. and Ida.

Philip F. Schumm, born 9-12-1882, was married on 11-5-1907 to Leona Schumm, a daughter of Frederick Schumm and granddaughter of John Frederick Schumm, one of the 4 sons immigrating from Germany. They lived their married years on the above 100 A. farm. Their children are Marie Fuelling, Emma (Mrs. Otto) Boerger, Velma, who lives at the home, and Anna (Mrs. Arthur) Bischoff who lives in Benson, Az. Leona died 10-2-58 and Philip 12-29-68. The farm was purchased by Marie Fuelling and her husband Erwin in 1970.

The roots of the Schumm family can be traced directly back to a tribe of colorful peoples of Northern Europe named the Franks. The first historical mention of them was made in 241 AD by Roman soldiers returning from wars along the Rhine. In the Fifth Century one branch of the Franks was distinguished on the battlefields as well as in peacetime by an insignia of footgear which was attached to their banner. Thus, any member of the group was hailed as "Schuh-Mann", and in laters years when surnames became popular, the name was contracted to Schumann, or still later, to Schumm. SNYDER FAMILY

Asa Snyder, was born 26 April 1838, Butler Co., O. the son of John K. and Amy (Hidley) Snyder, both natives of New Jersey, who migrated to Butler Co., O. then to Mississinawa Twp. Darke Co., O. and were the parents of 8 children: Sarah N., Asa, George W., Daniel, William V., James A., Cyrus G., and John W. The father died in 1849.

Asa was apprenticed at the age of 18 to his uncle, Thomas Gray of Butler Co., O. to learn blacksmithing. At the opening of the Civil War he enlisted in Co. "G" 40th Ohio Infantry where he served three years. He was wounded at Buzzard's Roost, Ga. and discharged. He returned to Rose Hill O. and blacksmithing. He married Mary E. McKibben, d/o Hugh and Demaris McKibben on 22 Dec. 1864 by J. B. Anderson J.P. They had 11 children: David H., Walter David, James Elmer, Albertus, Charles H., Magnolia, Nellie Gray, Rosey Bell and Mary Jane. Two others, names unknown died as infants. Asa died at Burkettsville, O. 2 Feb. 1912 and is buried in Rockford, O. Riverside Cemetery. His wife died 4 April 1908 and is buried at his side.

James Elmer Snyder was born 31 Oct. 1869 Darke Co. O. and when about 9 years old moved with his family to the Wild Cat Corners area of Mercer Co. As there was no rural mail delivery he would ride his horse to Chattanooga to pick up the mail for his and neighboring families.

He married 23 Aug. 1894 Martha Iona Harper d/o William Watson and Matilda Ann (Moody) Harper. She was born 11 July 1876 in Blackcreek Twp., Mercer Co., O. on what was then the Willshire-Chattanooga Pike (now St. Rt. 49). William Watson was the s/o William McKindry and Sarah (Young) Harper. Both the Youngs and Harpers were early settlers to Blackcreek Twp. The children of William W. and Matilda Ann were: Sarah Ambrosia (Broe), Martha Iona, Della, Pearl, Jesse, Maude, Grace and Mauna Loa.

James Elmer and Iona established a home at the end of Koontz Lane (now Frank Rd.). It was a 5-acre plot that had been the site of an old tile kiln and had a log house and barn. Elmer replaced the house and barn with new frame ones — doing the construction himself. For several years Elmer taught school, then worked as a pumper for an oil company that had several wells in the area. For many years he served as township enumerator, but his first love was building which he did until 1924. Many of the barns and several houses in the Chatt, Willshire, Wren, Rockford, O. and Bluecreek Twp., Ind. area are monuments of his work, still standing today.

J. Elmer and Iona were the parents of 9 children: Ralph Russell, born 29 March 1895; Robert Fulton, 25 Feb. 1898; Esther Almeda, 20 Oct. 1901; Boyd S., 30 Oct. 1903; Edith Elnora, 20 Nov. 1905; Jackson Loree, 26 Oct. 1907; Jesse Harold, 18 Mar. 1910; Grace Marie, 31 Mar. 1913; and Wilson Harper, 8 July

All 9 children attended Dellinger School 2 miles from their home down Koontz lane which was a mud road and the Willshire-Chattanooga Pike which was gravel, but still hard to walk in blizzards, thunderstorms, heat and cold. All the children walked to school so many close neighborhood friendships were accumulated. Rail fences lined the roads and most winters the snow drifts were top of the fence high. They crossed Duckcreek 3 times on the way to school. In the springtime the water was to the bridge bottom, the flood gates straight out. On rare occasions when the weather was too severe parents took the children to school in carriages or bobsleds.

In 1924, the Snyder family moved to Ft. Wayne, Ind.; where Elmer was a carpenter for the Pennsylvania Railroad Yards. The Depression of 1929 drove the family back to the farm home where Elmer resumed his carpenter work, road work, and was township trustee for 16 years. Here he died 3 Dec. 1947. His widow died 12 April 1971. Both are buried in Rockford Riverside Cemetery.

The only family member to remain in Ohio is Edith Elnora, who married 30 Nov. 1935, Harry E. Nye, a farmer, of Willshire Twp. Van Wert Co., O. He was the s/o Wilson and Ida May (Bowen) Nye, born 2 Sept. 1906. Harry and Edith were the parents of 2 children: Elodee Jean born 13 Nov. 1936 and a stillborn son born 16 Aug. 1940. They spent all their married life on the farm; Harry dying 16 Aug. 1955. On 23 Dec. 1961 Edith married secondly Glen P. Ad-

THE JONATHAN SPRY FAMILY

Jonathan Spry was born in Pennsylvania in 1805. He was reared on a farm, and went to Knox County, Ohio where he married Hannah Henkens. She was a daughter of William Henkens, who was also born in Knox County. Jonathan and Hannah Spry had eight children as follows: Hiram, a farmer of Bloom City, Wisconsin; Thomas Benton who served in the army of the Union several years, was wounded twice at Cold Harbor and at Williamsburg, and later lived in Wisconsin; Timothy, a carpenter of Wisconsin; Cynthia, wife of Wesley Parrot, of Mendon, who served in the war; Simon P., a livery stable keeper of Richland Center, Wisconsin; Mattie, wife of Wesley Webley, of Wisconsin, who served in the war and came out an invalid; and Mrs. Nancy Stevens, deceased.

After his marriage, Jonathan Spry lived in Knox County until the fall of 1836, when he moved to Mercer County, locating in Blackcreek Township, upon eighty acres of land which he cleared, improved, and later exchanged for another farm, upon which he lived until his death in the fall of 1851. This event was caused by his being bitten by a wild hog. After Jonathan Spry's death, his widow married James Young. She died in Wisconsin in 1885.

Thomas Benton Spry, son of Jonathan and Hannah (Henkens) Spry, was born in Blackcreek Township on January 12, 1837. He was the first white male born in Blackcreek Township. He was reared on a farm. He was one of the most prominent and successful farmers of Blackcreek Township.

Thomas B. Spry was fourteen years old at the time of his father's death. After his father's death, he was bound out to a man in Wisconsin, with whom he remained one winter. However, he spent four years in the Badger state. He then began traveling and working on farms, and before giving up this mode of life he traveled through seventeen states. On January 2, 1862 he enlisted in Company H, Seventy-First Ohio Volunteer infantry, and served three years, five months and 13 days. He was in the battles of Shiloh, Atlanta, Jonesboro, Franklin and Nashville, and a large number of minor engagements and skirmishes. He was wounded at Dechard, Tennessee, went to the hospital, and was discharged from the service at Camp Dennison, Ohio, in May, 1865. He returned to Mercer County and bought an eighty-acre tract of uncleared land, upon which he lived and labored, and which he enlarged to 160 acres in one square quarter-section.

On March 4, 1864, while home on furlough during his war service he married Miss Ellen Allison.

Thomas B. and Ellen (Allison) Spry had seven children. They were: Byron Spry - born December 26, 1864; Cynthia Allis Spry - born November 8, 1866; Martha Ellen Spry — born May 2, 1870; Charley Spry — born January 15, 1872; Iona Belle Spry born September 28, 1873; Thomas Garfield Spry born July 6, 1880; Infant daughter - born September 22, 1883, died October 18, 1883.

Byron Spry was born in Blackcreek Township on December 26, 1864. He never married. He moved to Price, Utah. He owned a sheep ranch. Date of death unknown, but it was about 1915.

Cyntha Allis Spry was born in Blackcreek Township on November 8, 1866. She married Joseph Walter Hesser on August 23, 1891. To this union six children were born. Two died before 1936. As of 1936 there were two sons Thomas Ralph, and Charles B. of Toledo, two daughters Mrs. Lela Hale of Dayton, Ohio and Mrs. Ruth Seltzer of Toledo, Ohio. There were two grandchildren; Laura Ruth Hale of Dayton, Ohio and Eugene H. Hale of Lebanon, Tennessee.

Few details of Martha Ellen Spry's life are known. She married Daniel J. Wollet of Rockford, Ohio. See story of Mr. Wollet also in this book.

Charley Spry was born in Blackcreek Township on January 15, 1872. He married and had two sons; Walter and Gerald. Charley Spry and family lived near Warren, Ohio. He died May 9, 1940.

Iona Belle Spry was born on September 28, 1873. Her mother Ellen Spry died when Iona was quite young and Iona had to earn her own living at the age of 15 years. She worked on farms in Blackcreek Township. She married Luther E. Martz on April 28, 1893. She died in Akron, Ohio on August 25, 1947.

Thomas Garfield Spry was born in Blackcreek Township on July 6, 1880. He married Ora Belle Fast on December 7, 1900. They had three children. Irvin deceased at age of 2 years; Roscoe, date born unknown, lived in Lima, Ohio; Paul James, date born unknown, lived in Lima, Ohio. Thomas Garfield Spry died June 19, 1932.

Thomas Benton Spry married Martha Jane (Carr) Baumgardner on October 13, 1889. Martha Jane Baumgardner, widow of Isaac Baumgardner, had 4 children as follows: Newton, Abbie, Harmount, and Carman Baumgardner.

Thomas B. and Martha Jane Spry had two children. They were: Jesse John Spry, born July 14, 1889 and Ansel Spry, born 1892. Jesse Spry moved to Jackson, Michigan and Ansel Spry moved to Mun-ith, Michigan.

In politics, Thomas B. Spry was a prominent republican. He and family worshiped in the faith of the United Brethren church. He was a member of Dolph Graves Post, No. 329, G.A.R. and was highly esteemed as a citizen, as a church member, and an ex-soldier. In 1896 Mr. Spry completed a very pretentious and imposing two story brick residence in Blackcreek Township. Mr. Spry was a hunter, and was widely known as an excellent marksman.

It is not known where Thomas B. and Martha Jane Spry spent the latter part of their lives. It is believed that they moved to Bloom City, Wisconsin about 1902. No record could be found as to the date or place of their deaths. Ronald B. Martz

E.O. STETLER

The E. O. Stetler family have traced their roots back to George V. Stetler, Berk Co., Pa. He was born August 31, 1739. He served in the Revolutionary War. Married Eva Catherine —. They had five sons and three daughters. George, Jacob, Henry, Daniel, J. William, Eva Catherine was the oldest daughter and she married Abraham Pontius, Elisabett married Jacob Schubert and Chadrina married Hammes Barlet (Borlott).

Henry, the third son of George is the line that I will follow to show where we begin as far back as we have been able to trace. We hope to go to Pittsburg, Pa. in a few years to find more about where George V. came from. Henry was baptised on Easter Sunday, March 13, 1769, at Altalaha Ev. Lutheran Church in Rehrersburg, Berks Co., Pa. Henry's father, brought his entire family from Berks Co. in the early 1800's like 1801 to 1803 and settled around Miamisburg, Ohio. There they settled and cleared land for farming. Each of the children had a piece of land even the girls. There they formed the oldest Lutheran Church in Ohio known as the Stetler Lutheran Church. Whether they gave the name because of so many Stetlers or whether a Stetler held services at first, I don't know but plan to find this out also. The Stetler Lutheran Church was started in 1803. We went to visit the church a few years ago to attend services but it was closed so we went on in to Miamesburg and worshiped at St. Jacobs, a sister church. Now we hear that the old church is to be kept as a historical site, and we wish to get to see this soon. Henry and his wife Margaretta had six sons and two daughters. One sons's name was Daniel H. Stetler born September 24, 1796, he married Rohoda Sharits Nov. 10, 1818, she came from Whythe Co., Virginia, of Welsh origin. They had 12 children, six boys and six girls. DALE WILMER VANTILBURG

The VanTilburgs of Mercer County are descendants of many generations in the United States. The first man, Jan Theunissen, was married in 1655 in New Amsterdam, the southern tip of Manhattan Island and indicated that he was "van Tilburg." Van, in Dutch, means from, of, or born in a particular region or city. By 1691, Jan and his sons adopted VanTilburg as their last name.

Then, six generations moved westward by way of Wall Street, New York City (anno 1686): Staten Island: New Jersey where one VanTilburg had a well known tavern that George Washington and New Jersey governors would frequent in passing from eastern towns to Trenton. They migrated to Eastern Ohio six years before its statehood and then to the Ashland, Ohio, area.

In the early 1840's two brothers, Nathan and Henry from Ashland, homesteaded in Blackcreek Township, Mercer County. Nathan had three sons and one daughter. His occupation was farming and he was also elected County Commissioner. For 18 years, he also served as treasurer of his township.

Hulbert, youngest son of Nathan, married Florence Muterspaugh in 1884 and lived on the homestead, and then later outside Celina. They had eight sons and three daughters with many descendants now living in Mercer County. His occupation also was farming, the occupation of many VanTilburgs.

Edward VanTilburg, sixth child of Hulbert, married Tabitha Ruth Hooper in 1910 and they were the parents of six children: Dale, Vernon, Max, Meredith, Lois and Sally. He farmed for ten years, was a tool dresser during the oil boom in Mercer County and worked 35 years at Mersman Bros. Tables as a cabinetmaker.

Dale W. VanTilburg was born Dec. 25, 1911, the first son of Edward and Ruth VanTilburg. He married Opal Boise in 1933, the daughter of Floyd and Nellie Boise. They are the parents of Ronald, Larry, Janice (Garwick), Bruce, and Keith. Dale learned the upholstering trade at Brandt's Furniture during the depression, became a brakeman on the Nickle Plate Railroad, and during WW II was a foreman at the Lima Tank Depot. Shortly after the war, he and his wife, Opal, began VanTilburg Upholstery which they owned and operated until their retirement. Larry Van Tilburg, Celina, Oh. 45822

Matt Winkler, The Boy who overcame Rabies.

THE BOY WHO OVERCAME RABIES

In October of 1970 in the darkness of his Willshire rural route bedroom, six-year-old Matt Winkler was bitten by a rabid bat. Two thousand years of medical history said he had to die. Matt is nearly 15 now, because one doctor refused to take death for an answer. And because Matt became the first person on record to survive the horror of rabies, other victims now have a chance at life.

On the battle line were Lima, Ohio pediatricians C. John Stechschulte and Thomas T. Weis and Dr. Michael Hattwick, then of the Rabies Center of the Atlanta Center for Communicable Disease Control. They knew the odds. Until Matt's fight at St. Rita's Hospital in Lima, no one ever had survived rabies, a virus that attacks the central nervous system, convulsing and choking its victim to death.

The horror began Oct. 10, 1970, when the Winklers were redecorating the upstairs of their 1888 farmhouse. A hole knocked into the attic was left uncovered. Matt woke the family that night with his screaming. His father, Nick, rushed upstairs to find a furry thing dug in and dangling from the boy's thumb. Winkler took the small bat in a jar to a Vet. the next day. Four days later, state public health officials reported it was rabid and Matt began a series of 13 daily, painful injections of rabies vaccine. No alarm yet. By the end of the month, he began drifting off before his bedtime and he didn't feel like trick or treating on Halloween. The Doctor diagnosed possible flu. No alarm yet. When Matt's temperature went to 104.6 and his neck stiffened, Dr. Stechschulte diagnosed a possible vaccine reaction and had Matt admitted to St. Rita's as a precaution. No alarm yet. The Alarm came Nov. 14. Matt's speech garbled, his left side stiffened, he lost coordination and finally dropped into a semi-coma. He was moved to a private room, hooked up to heart monitors and set up a round-the-clock watch and the Doctors went to work — symptom by symptom.

When Matt's heartbeat and breathing speeded, the doctors did a Tracheotomy to help him breathe. When his left hand began opening and closing they administered anti-convulsants. The breathing difficulty was the worst crisis, but when it happened they were expecting something worse would happen still. Instead the boy began to actually improve. Three months after Matt's ordeal began, on Jan. 27, 1971, the doctors released the boy.

Nicholas and Verna Winkler, Valerie and Matthew; and Verna's mother, Inez Marie Wollett.

NICK WINKLER

Nicholas Lee Winkler, son of Martin Lee and Mildred Adella Nicholas Winkler, and Verna Allison Wollet were married July 27, 1962 by Rev. Thomas Morrison at the Presbyterian Church in Rockford, Ohio. They moved into his grandfather's house which was built in 1888 on the corner of Winkler and Wabash Roads. Verna's parents were Kenneth Allison Wollet and Inez Marie Hole. They had two other daughters, Martha Lee (Schaadt) and Marianna (Sutton). They were raised at the T. J. Wollet farm one mile west of Rockford, Ohio.

Nick and Verna have two children, Matthew James born Jan. 27, 1964, and Valerie Kay born June 29, 1965. Dr. R. D. Bradrick delivered them both at Gibbons hospital in Celina, Ohio.

On a beautiful Palm Sunday afternoon, in April of 1965, Nick and Verna went for a walk, and Nick commented that it was tornado weather. Early that evening while Matt and Valerie were watching "The Ed Sullivan Show", and Nick was taking care of the hogs, a news bulletin came on saying there was something on radar west of Berne. Nick went upstairs in the west wing of the house, and by then it was a half mile west of us on the ground and looked about a quarter mile wide. It sounded like trains. We all sat down on the floor with our backs to the west of the house. In just a few seconds the house shook and the windows rattled, and then it was gone. This tornado came from south-western Indiana and went to Toledo with a continuous path of destruction. There were tornadoes everywhere that day, but this was one of the largest. We were lucky, but some of our neighbors were killed. They allowed the school children as well as other friends and neighbors to help clean up the debris.

Our son Matt was bitten by a rabid bat on Oct.

10, 1970 while sleeping in his bed up stairs. He had the series of shots, but still contracted the disease. We took him to St. Rita's hospital in Lima, Ohio where he was a patient for 85 days. His survival was the first documented case of anyone living from rabies. He received warm wishes from President Nixon as well as cards and gifts from people all over the world. Verna Winkler

BUTLER TOWNSHIP

Butler Township was constituted on June 4, 1838, by the county commissioners in accord with a request of 25 petitioners living in the area. The first election was held July 9, 1838 at the home of David Guy. Records do not indicate who was the first settler in the township, however, Joseph Shatto, who located near the present site of Coldwater in 1828, generally is given that honor. Other early arrivals were James Gray in 1835, Peter Stevens in 1837, John F. Hickman, Jerimiah Plummer, Jacob Baker 1836, William Bunch 1839, John Grunden and David Gray. Other arrivals up to 1858 were Henry Lennarts 1848, John Spoltman 1849, Joseph H. Smith 1852, John Bennet and Herman Nieberding 1855, Joseph Birkmeyer 1857 and Henry Roether 1858.

The first church organized in Butler Township was St. Marys Catholic at Philothea Sept. 6, 1851. The first building was a log cabin and the present structure was built in 1871. Holy Trinity Catholic church in Coldwater was formed in 1869 and the first pastor was Rev. Henry Drees. Coldwater Methodist church was organized about 1898. Three other congregations formed in Butler were Spring Valley, Burntwood U.B. and Ash Grove German Baptist Brethren.

Old schools in the township were Burntwood No. 1 and 2, Ebbing School, Smith School, Franzer School, Crouch School, and Philothea Special School. Presently Coldwater Exempted Village School is the only school left in the township.

Old cemeteries not in use at present include Burntwood and Young and are the responsibility of the township trustees.

The township census in 1840 was 340. In 1880 it was 1595 and July 1976 was 5673. On March 29, 1963, the old township hall was owned by the township trustees and the village of Coldwater, and then was sold by public auction to L. C. Werling also known as Werling Motors for $7000. The new township hall was built in 1963 for $9100.00. The present lot was purchased from Schoch Bros. at a cost of $3000.

Present trustees serving Butler Township are: Paul Hamburg, Chairman, Ray B. Dues, and Ed Ebbing. Leo Osterholt is clerk.

St. Marys Church, Philothea, Ohio (and school)

PHILOTHEA

Philothea is a profound example of a village whose growth is entertwined with its church. Its history cannot be told without mention of the establishment of the church, because as did several of the other smaller communities in southern Mercer County, Philothea was formed around its church, the Nativity of the Blessed Virgin Mary, or as it is now called, St. Marys.

The church's dedication September 8, 1853, followed years of planning and (what was then) long trips to the Archdiocese in Cincinnati by Philothea's founders to seek permission to form a church and exploratory trips from Cincinnati by Archbishop John Baptiste Purcell to view the local people and their land. At that time it took a month's traveling to arrive in Cincinnati.

Apparently viewing the local terrain with a positive eye, Archbishop Purcell eventually bought several tracts of land, including what later would be called Philothea, in the name of the Catholic Church, and platted it as well as several other county communities.

In Philothea, he platted the streets and they were named Bremen, Linzee and West.

The purchase of the land on which the church was built was made in February of 1851, by Philothea's nine founders — Henry Weiner, Frederick Albers, Henry Wendel, John Spoltman, Henry Zumwalde, Joseph Saalman, Gaspar Borgess, Henry Phelman, and Henry Lennartz. The nine purchased the forty acres of land for $100.

The original log church was dedicated by Archbishop Purcell, who, it is said, also gave the town its name. Based on the Greek words Philos (loving) and Theos (God), the name apparently was inspired by the townspeople's love of God.

Through the years, the original log church became too small to accommodate the church-goers, who numbered 65 families by 1868. It followed that June 11, 1871, a brick edifice costing $7,000 was dedicated by Archbishop Purcell, which was followed by the erection in 1886 of a house to accommodate the teachers of the parochial school and in 1905, the erection of the first parochial residence.

Still another dedication was conducted in Philothea with the completion of the remodeling of the church August 15, 1922, which saw an addition of a tower and an enlarged seating capacity of 200.

All through the years, the town's physical aspects also were expanding, tradesmen and shopkeepers came and went and houses began being built closer and closer to the center of Philothea.

According to the History of Mercer County and Representative Citizens, written in 1907 by the Honorable S. S. Scranton, Philothea at that time saw a population of twenty persons and its streets were graced with the J. H. Bruns grocery store, the H. T. Noble tailor shop and Ben Spoltman's blacksmith

Other business operations through the years included the post office, of which Irenus Quinter had charge, the Dues sawmill, and Gus Schwegman's threshing machine. Now Philothea's businesses include only two — Raffel's Store and Hemmelgarn's Poultry Co., both of which are prosperous ventures.

A name often mentioned when discussing Philohea's past is that of Henry Hemmelgarn, the vilage's long-time schoolmaster.

According to Leo Wenning, 86, one of Philothea's oldest citizens, Hemmelgarn was his teacher for all its years in school and taught every subject the chool offered.

He taught some 70 students, grades 1-8 in a oneoom school house, Wenning said, and in the oldime tradition, taught "with a hickory stick". The eacher's house was next to what is now Schulze's garage, Wenning said, and was received free with the salary.

Leo's brother, Lewis, 81, had Hemmelgarn as a eacher only for his first and last years, but remembers him nonetheless as a notorious and strict man, who also served as church organist for many years.

During his school years, he said, students were taught English and German grammar, English and German reading, geography, history, orthography and arithmetic.

The present school was built in 1924, and the former one-room school house still exists, but as a family garage for the persons who reside next to it. The land where the school, then labelled Uppenkamp School, and the church stand was then termed, "The Commons", both Wennings said.

The present school no longer is in use, as it was consolidated with the Coldwater Exempted Village. School System in recent years.

The Wenning homeplace, at 113 years, is one of the county's oldest, and was built by their grandfather, Joseph, after he was told that "Mercer County is the garden spot of Ohio" by an apparently smooth-talking salesman. Joseph moved to Philothea from Cincinnati.

The history of Philothea would not be complete without some mention of the black citizens of the county, some of whom lived for a time in the Philothea vicinity.

The written history of the blacks in the county is contradictory, but apparently a loosely-formed community of blacks did reside in the Philothea area and for a time attended St. Marys Church.

According to the History of Mercer County Parishes, written in 1950-51 by students of St. Charles Seminary in Carthegena, during 1857, the Rev. John Vanden Bosch baptized 43 persons at St. Mary's "practically all of whom were blacks."

In the face of both physical hardships and hostility by the white settlers, the community eventually began moving toward the Carthegena area, where a somewhat more structured and organized black community already existed.

Although a small village, Philothea has seen much during its years, the taming of the wilderness, the intermittent establishment of roads, churches, schools and businesses, the gradual changes from the German to Americanized lifestyles and both the Depression and the more prosperous years.

Philothea still is changing; young people are getting married and while some move out, still others stay or return to the village, ensuring its existence for some time to come. Shannon McFarlin

HEMMELGARN EGG COMPANY

The start of Hemmelgarn Egg Company: I Ed Hemmelgarn started on my fathers farm. In 1928 my father gave me interest in 300 laying hens. Due to this I started buying eggs and some poultry. I got marred in 1930 to Josephine Wenning, and then we started to buy eggs from other farmers. We started with $35.00 cash and graded the eggs in my father's basement. Had a model T Ford with a trailer and hauled the eggs to Cincinnati, Ohio. Three years later we moved to Philothea and by now we were able to buy a Model A Ford pick-up truck and ran the business out of a barn. We were up to about 100 cases per week along with some poultry. In 1936 we bought the Philothea dance hall and used it for a grading plant. In 1937 bought the first 1-1/2 ton Ford truck which held about 168 cases of eggs. We were handling about 300 to 400 cases per week at this time and had six employees. By this time we were going to a number of cities in the Ohio area on sales. The price of eggs when we started when the banks closed in the 1930's was as low as 6 to 8¢ per dozen. After the banks opened again the price raised to 13 to 18¢ per dozen. Each year we kept getting larger.

By 1945 we bought our first semi-tractor trailer. This was a Mack tractor and a Gram trailer. We were now up to 600 to 700 cases per week, with twelve employees. In 1946 we got our first electric grading machine which graded the eggs. In 1950 disaster struck — the plant was destroyed by fire. In July 1950 we had a new plant built and had around eighteen employees handling 1000 cases per week. From year to year we kept growing. In 1959 we incorporated the business along with our two sons Floyd Hemmelgarn and Jerry Hemmelgarn and changed the name to Hemmelgarn & Sons, Inc. At this time our business expanded so that by 1959 we were up to 5000 cases per week and had 40 to 45 employees. We also were handling poultry for which we had a plant in Coldwater, Ohio for dressing and live poultry. In 1963 the egg business got bigger so we discontinued the poultry and went completely to the egg business. By the close of 1977 we had handled 13,000,000 dollars worth of eggs for the year, or about 800,000 cases of eggs and we employed about 100 people. The square feet in our plant where the eggs are graded and candled is 23700 square feet — 13500 square feet of this is cooler. A warehouse where material is stored — 13500 square feet. We also have a 3200 square foot garage where we do our own truck repair. To handle the business in transportation we have seven tractor trailer and seventeen smaller trucks. We cover five states in sales.

We have a warehouse in Kent, Ohio and Corry, Pa. and own part interest in a warehouse at Youngstown, Ohio and White Feather Farms in Muncie, Ind. Along with the egg business our warehouses have added all kinds of cheese, butter, margarine and many other different items.

Our complete operation: The home plant at Coldwater gathers the eggs from the farms. The eggs are taken to the plant where they are graded, candled, and cartoned ready for the retail stores to sell. We are under U.S.D.A. supervision at all times. The eggs are then taken to our warehouses ready to be sold to the stores. We also deliver out of Coldwater to many other warehouses and super markets.

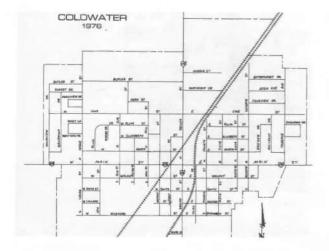

This is how the company which started from nothing in the 1930's to 800,000 cases per year by 1978.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Hemmelgarn, Floyd, Jerome, and Betty continue to support Mercer County in various community ventures.

COLDWATER by Eugene Weber

EARLY DAYS

What is now Coldwater and Butler Township, long with the rest of Mercer County, was virgin mber land when acquired from the Indians by the ew state of Ohio. As elsewhere, the first white setlers were squatters who lived on the land without itle to the land. It is not known who was the first in his area, but it is believed to have been Joseph hatto who located near what is now Coldwater in 826. Other early arrivals in the neighborhood were C. Grey, 1835; John F. Hickman, Jerimiah Plumner, and Jacob Baker in 1836, and Peter Stevens in 837.

The center of what is now Coldwater was divided ff by Federal surveyors as sections 27, 28, 33, and 4, Butler Township, Mercer County, Ohio. The our sections intersected at what is now the corner f Main St. and Second St., Coldwater. The north-ast quarter of section 33 was sold by the U.S. Govrnment to W. A. O. Munsel on March 20, 1837; the outheast quarter of section 28 to M. S. Franks on March 20, 1837; and the northwest quarter of section 34 to Samuel Snider on Feb. 5, 1836. These racts were divided and sold to others. Other early ettlers were William Bunch and Joseph A. Smith.

In 1838 W. A. O. Munsel built a log cabin at what 5 now the intersection of First St. and South St., and his date is now accepted as the birth of Coldwater. Ar. Munsel, Mr. Franks, and Mr. Snider were not peculators, but industrious farmers who were intersted in establishing permanent homes.

The area stayed as farm land until the Original lat was inscribed by W. A. O. Munsel on August 8, 1859. The original plat was 36 lots, bounded on he north by the present Main St., on the east by the present Second St., on the west by the present Mill it., and on the south by what is now the alley beween Walnut St. and South St. The South Addition vas inscribed by Mr. W. A. O. Munsel May 11, 867, and added 10 more lots, extending the plat to the present South St. The Riggs and Geller Addition on the North extended the platted hamlet to what is now North Street and made it almost a perfect square.

Coldwater was the center of a vast and dense area of the finest virgin timber and much clearing was necessary. These huge trees, hickory, ash, oak, elm, walnut, etc., were a great deterrent to the establishment of homes and raising of crops. These thousands of forest giants had no value and the easiest riddance of such hindrances to development were huge bonfires which darkened the sky with smoke for many miles.

It was not until about 1870 that timber men from Great Lakes shipbuilding companies came into the area and began felling trees which were then cut into proper lengths for ship timber. The erection of sawmills followed as a matter of necessity and a new industry was born which added greatly to the prosperity and economic growth of the community.

The first sawmill was built on what now is the north side of West Main St. between Mill St. and Wilson St. by Peter Fox. Other sawmills followed, making such things as wheel spokes, cants, and bending timber which were sold to manufacturers who used them in making buggies, wagons, and other equipment.

Before the railroads extended their lines through Coldwater, all shipments of timber were hauled on ox and horse drawn wagons, mainly to Celina, where they were stacked in huge piles along the west embankment of the Reservoir (Grand Lake) at the foot of Main Street. There they were lashed into rafts and poled across the Lake to the Miami and Erie Canal for similar shipment to Toledo.

At that time, a sound large oak tree brought $3 "of the stump" to the farmer and was the source of much of his cash income. Labor costs were about 75¢ to $1 per day.

The first railroad, the L.E. & W., reached Coldwater in 1879. After several consolidations and name changes, this is now the Norfolk and Western line. It was followed in less than a year by the Cincinnati Northern, which, after similar consolidations, name changes, and bankruptcies, is the Western Ohio Railroad. The coming of the railroad brought an economic boom, making it much easier and cheaper to transport the timber products, and allowing the shipping of finished timber articles. The first factory using local timber was established by Clark and Co. on the east bank of Coldwater Creek. It made stove headings and handle squares, producing 2 car loads of finished products a day and the road was always lined with teams bringing in the timber or hauling the finished product to the railroad for shipment east.

The growing hamlet, like many others, went through several name changes. It was originally known as "Buzzard's Glory", in honor of David Buzzard, who was a highly respected citizen who owned the first general store. Later it was known to some as "Franktown" because of the many families named Frank residing there. However, the name adopted by village was Cold Water, named after the clear, cold running water of Coldwater Creek. The two words later became one, Coldwater.

By 1883, the village was growing, but, and most importantly, had citizens of industry and foresight. It boasted two churches, a school system, two railroads, factories, mills, and stores. It was time for incorporation.

GOVERNMENT

In 1883 the citizens of the hamlet in the center of Butler Township decided to petition for incorporation. The following voters signed the incorporation petition: Peter Haubert, J. J. Shellich, Joseph Perkins, Walter Balls, Perry Arbaugh, Anton Diebolt, J. Omlor, H. H. Houser, J. L. Weis, W. H. Finley, Henry Moeller, J. R. Brucken, Isaac Backhouse, John Baker, J. B. Hoyng, Lawrence Woeste, J. T. Omlor, Fred Karch, George Hierholzer, Charles H. Williams, Henry Wills, Charles Pitchford, J. A. Hartzell, A. W. Teagle, Cornelius C. Copsey, Charles, Fisher, John Martz, John Will, L. N. Wagner, H. C. Fox, John Cencenbaugh, John Powells, E. C. Smith, C. Worthington, William Quniton, John Williams, R. C. McMillan, W. S. Isenhart, John Moore, C. F. Bohman, W. R. Wiggner, William Carts, and D. W. Frick. Peter Haubert acted as attorney for the petitioners. The petition was granted on July 14, 1883, by the County Commissioners, John Frahm, J. B. Snider, and William Lacy.

The first election for a panel of governing officials was held in the same year with the following results: Mayor, Joseph L. Weis; Clerk, Walter J. Ball; Treasurer, Henry Houser; Marshall, Joseph Wagoner; and Councilmen, Peter Haubert, J. B. Hoyng, John Martz, George Rosenbeck, Lawrence Woeste, and S. F. Johnston. The administration met, organized, set bonds for the various officials, and began passing ordinances for the governing of the growing village. The duties must have been heavy, since both Mayor Weis and Clerk Ball resigned within months. L. N. Waggoner was appointed Clerk, and D. W. Frick was elected the new mayor.

In September of 1883 the citizens of Coldwater asked that a Village Hall, housing a Council room as well as a jail and facilities for town meetings, built. The next meeting of the Council decided that they join forces with the Butler Township Trustee and erect a Town and Township Hall. Plans for the proposed building progressed under Mayor Fricand a bid of $1855.50 made by D. B. Shattuch was accepted and in July of 1884 the lot located at the corner of First St. and Walnut St. was purchased for the hall and construction began on a two floor bric building which was to serve the community for the next seventy-nine years.

The Old Town Hall saw duty for the communit in many ways. The first High School classes held is Coldwater were on the second floor of this building as well as being the first location in Coldwater of th Buckeye Overall Co. The second floor was the scen of many community controversial meetings, was th home of the Catholic Knights of America and thei dances for the community, and housed the Librar for over twenty years. The marshall's office and jai also was a busy place for many years. They even have a real western-style shootout about the turn of the century which left the marshall dead. According to legend, the gun fight was over a girl. The building also housed the fire department of the village. The building was condemned in 1928, but it con tinued to be used until 1960, when it was finally completely abandoned. In 1929 a bond issue was passed for the purpose of erecting a new City Hal and on February 4, 1935, the land at the corner o Main St. and Market St. was purchased. The build ing was completed in 1935 and contained a gymnasium, since the high school at that time did not have any athletic facilities. After the high school acquired their own facilities, the space was used for dances bingo parties, and other gatherings. Later, after a bond issue for renovation had passed, the library was moved there from the old Town Hall in April of 1962. The fire department was housed in the 1935 building until April, 1972, when it was moved into its own new building at the corner of W. Main St. and Wilson St. The police department is still housed in the 1935 building, although jail facilities had been abandoned for many years.

The village also continued to grow by annexation: 80 acres south of Main St. and east of Second Street in 1890; north of Main St. and east of Second Street in 1907; and other early additions. After World War II, beginning in 1947, a second expansion of the village began and has continued until this day.

The first street improvements were made in 1889, when gravel streets were built by Spriggs and Sons. These were followed in 1916 by asphalt paved streets and later in the 1960's by concrete streets and curbs. In the 1930's, Mr. Harold Romer, then a councilman, was influential in having the State of Ohio pave Second Street through the village. This was the first pavement by the state of Ohio through an incorporated village.

The village government also worked to improve living conditions through various public utility franchises, to be detailed later.

In 1976, the village government made another change, hiring for the first time a full-time village administrator. Mr. Ray Kremer became the first Coldwater Village Administrator.

As far as is known, a state record has been set as Mr. Walter Bernard served as village solicitor for 42 ears, from 1934 to 1976.

The mayors of Coldwater have been: Weis, Joseph ., 1883-1883; Frick, D. W., 1883-1884; Beams, D. H., 884-1885; Frick, D. W., 1885-1887; Schelick, J. No claim is made that any list includes all businesses in operation in Coldwater that year. The lists were taken from advertisements of the time. The oldest businesses in Coldwater were the Schindler Drug Store, which went from 1893 to 1978; the J. F. Hoyng Hardware, which, under several names, has been in business since 1891; and Willhoff Furniture, which began as Willhoff Hardware in 1899.

INDUSTRY

From the very beginning Coldwater has had more industry than most small towns. With the country covered with trees it was only natural that the earlindustry centered on wood, with sawmills coming first. In the 1880's and 1890's there were factorise manufacturing such things as wheel spokes, bencing timber and cants, handles, and stove heading An excelsior factory also existed. These wood industries were very susceptible to fire. A wagonmakin shop at Second and Walnut (Schindlers) was destroyed by fire in 1885 and in 1892 the Bettings Hoop Factory and Sawmill burned to the ground.

In 1898 Henry C. Fox and Edward H. Hes founded Fox & Hess Co., and built an elevator i Coldwater, on East Main St. at Third St. They mar ufactured flour, their three brands being "Mode Rose", "Water Lilly", and "Favorite". They discortinued milling in 1947, and the elevator was sold an demolished in 1971.

In the early 1920's a committee of Coldwater bus nessmen were busy attempting to lure another ir dustry to the village. Their efforts, under the leader ship of John Boeke, eventually bore fruit when Pe Milk Co. of St. Louis decided to locate a milk receiving plant in Coldwater. In November, 1927, the receiving plant opened for business. In 1936 the decision was made to build a full operations plant i Coldwater, and the building was opened in 1937. Several additions have been made to this origina plant, on East Vine Street, and the plant continue operations today as Pet Inc. The 1937 plant was built to produce evaporated milk, which is no longe produced in Coldwater; other milk products are nov

the output of Pet Inc.

In 1945 Bill Pax designed a new steel hog feeder The post-war shortages kept Pax from going into immediate production, but in 1947 Pax, along with N. J. (Dick) Smith, Henry Knapke, and Bartel Deschincorporated Pax Steel Products, Inc. Original home of the company was a 25 ft. by 50 ft. building of North Fourth Street. Today the industry has grown to Coldwater's second largest taxpayer, with many additions to the original plant, and also branches is other cities. The company, today under the presidency of Arnold Kramer, produces a complete line of farm feeders.

In 1949 Harold Sudhoff and Jerome Kaup began! & K Metal Products, Inc., in Kaup's garage on N Second Street. Their first product was toy metal gar den tools. About 1957 they constructed a building on East Vine Street. Today their main product is fur niture hardware. Presently they have about 20 em

he original New Idea Spreader Works in Maria Stein, Ohio ected in 1899.

From one idea in the mind of a school teacher in ne village of Maria Stein, Ohio, has grown Avco lew Idea, a company whose products are known nd respected by farmers all over the world.

Ohio school teacher, Joseph Oppenheim, was roubled over the regular Spring absence from chool of those children who were needed at home n the farm to haul out the manure accumulated ver the winter. It took a long time to spread it with nature forks. Oppenheim designed rotating padles to pulverize and spread the material as it was noved to the rear by conveyor chain, and this contituted the first successful manure spreader.

On October 18, 1899, Oppenheim broke ground or his first factory at Maria Stein, Ohio.

The first Coldwater, Ohio plant, erected in 1907, loubled production facilities. In 1910, the New Idea preader Company moved its entire operation from Maria Stein to Coldwater. The business was incorporated in 1920.

By 1924, Joseph Oppenheim's idea had greatly exlanded to meet the ever-increasing demand for arm machinery. The Coldwater plant had been en-arged to cover 20 acres of factory space.

New Idea continued to expand on two fronts in he late twenties. They introduced high-quality, inlovative farm machinery, and they purchased new acilities in order to continue their growth.

The Great Depression slowed, but did not stop, he progress of New Idea. In 1930, the Sandwich Manufacturing Company of Sandwich, Illinois, was surchased. It had a particularly fine reputation for ts line of corn shellers, portable elevators, side deivery rakes, and hay loaders.

In October of 1945, New Idea, Inc. was purchased by the Avco Corporation and became one of its ma-or manufacturing divisions.

Growth continued. In 1951, the Horn Manufacturng Company of Fort Dodge, Iowa, was purchased to give Avco New Idea a line of hydraulic loaders, vagon boxes, and stalk shredders. In 1953, Ezee Flow Corporation of Collegeville, Pennsylvania, the world's largest producer of fertilizer spreaders, was acquired by Avco.

Avco New Idea Farm Equipment Division, Coldwater, Ohio

In 1963, Avco New Idea took a bold leap forward by acquiring the "Uni-Tractor" line of self-propelled, interchangeable harvesting machines from the former Minneapolis-Moline Company. In 1965, Avco New Idea introduced its own design of the Uni-System. Because of Uni, it was necessary to again expand the Coldwater manufacturing facility in 1966, adding nearly 300,000 square feet.

Avco New Idea has continually expanded its Uni-System line since its introduction, to provide better performance and greater versatility. Eleven new pieces of Uni-System equipment were introduced in October, 1976.

Marketing of these new Uni products had again made the Uni line highly important to the company, accounting for approximately 40 percent of Avco New Idea's total sales.

In further reference to marketing, there are presently five regional offices which are located in Harrisburg, PA; Sandwich, IL; Fort Dodge, IA; Cambridge, Ontario, and Coldwater, OH.

Avco New Idea is represented by more than 1,200 farm equipment dealers located across the United States Corn Belt and in Canada.

In recent years, greater emphasis has been placed on overseas sales, with distribution in 24 foreign countries. The majority of Avco New Idea's international sales have been in western European countries.

Today, Avco New Idea is a truly modern manufacturing complex. It embodies the most up-to-date equipment and procedures for efficient operation. The complete facility is located on a 66-acre site with more than 33 acres (1,446,500 square feet of floor space) under roof.

Farming is still one area which is truly independent. Avoo New Idea continues to be optimistic about the future of the farmer, realizing that the farm family is still the backbone of American agriculture.

With a goal to constantly meet the ever-increasing needs of the farmer and knowing that mechanization and economics will force operations to expand, Avco New Idea remains strong to develop the highest quality machines designed to help farmers do their jobs better, faster, and easier.

THE BOEKE INSURANCE AGENCY

In the year 1914, John H. Boeke, who had been teaching school for 13 years in the southern part of Mercer County near Carthagena, decided to move to Coldwater. He formed a partnership with Aloys Link of Coldwater and they engaged in the Insurance and Real Estate business. They were known as the "Coldwater Insurance and Realty Company", and later as "Boeke and Link, Agents". Their office was located in the rear of the Peoples Bank Building at the corner of Main and First Streets. They remained at this location until 1930 when they moved into the Charles Morovilius Building, which stood at the present site of Willhoff's Furniture Store. They occupied this location until 1934 when they dissolved the partnership. In that same year, John H. Boeke's son, Werner, became associated in the business of selling insurance. In 1936, a plot of ground at 117 South Second Street was purchased from Tony Streacker and a brick office building was erected which still stands today. In 1959, John H. Boeke retired from the business at the age of 83 years. With the business growing at a rapid rate, the office building at 117 South Second Street soon became too small. Consequently, in 1973 an office building at 121 West Main Street was leased and renovated and is now the present location of the Boeke Insurance Agency. In 1974, John Boeke became associated with his father, Werner, in the business. This will be the third generation associated with the Insurance business in Coldwater, spanning the years 1914 to 1978 for a total of 64 years serving the insurance needs of the people living in Mercer County and the surrounding area. BUCKEYE APPAREL, INC.

Buckeye Apparel, Inc., one of the area's oldest ir dustries, was established in 1898 in Versailles, Ohio The founders were Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Grilliot an was called The Buckeye Overall Company. As busness increased, the Grilliots joined forces in 189 with the Versailles Overall Co., and incorporated i 1917 as The Buckeye Overall Company, Inc.

In the year 1916, with the demand increasing fo Buckeye-made working garments, it became neces sary to expand to another locality. A group of Cold water businessmen, headed by J. F. Hoyng, Jacol Willhoff, and Joe Droesch, contacted Mr. Grillio concerning the possibility of a sewing operation in Coldwater. Their endeavors were successful, and on November 4, 1916, the branch operation was started It was managed by Mr. Charles Fischer until his retirement in 1952, and then by his son, Wayne, until his retirement in 1974. In 1938, a new building wa constructed adjacent to the old Heirholzer building (pictured above) and it still houses the local operation.

The company manufactured men's and boy's shirts and pants during those early years, supplying many of the national chain stores, along with their own brand, Master Buck. During the depression years of the 1930's, Buckeye played an important role in maintaining the economy of the village. As the years and styles changed, the company found itself making more men's and ladies jeans and style garments.

In 1970, a major re-organization of the company took place. The name was changed to Buckeye Apparel, Inc., to more adequately encompass this wide range of work and leisure wear now manufactured. The Coldwater facility now manufactures a wide variety of men's swimwear and active sportswea which is sold coast to coast and in several foreign countries. Upon Wayne Fischer's retirement, the management of the Coldwater plant was assumed by Roger M. James, III.

Present officers of the company are: Roger M James, Jr., President and Treasurer; Wayne C Fischer, Vice-President; John T. Pepiot, Vice-President; and Roberta M. James, Secretary.

COLDWATER HOME SUPPLY

Coldwater Home Supply had its beginning in flarch 1948 when I, Arthur Pleiman, opened a Comnercial Refrigerator Service business in Coldwater. ater that year I purchased an interest in the Coldwater Car and Home Supplies. It was a Good Year tuto Supply Store that also sold household applinces. The store was located at 217 West Main St. in Coldwater.

In 1956 we leased a building from Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hess located at 119 West Main St. and moved ur store to that location. At this time we discontined the auto supplies and expanded our appliance epartment.

The year 1959 was a crucial year, our country was n the midst of a recession, and I barely made a livng. I almost took a job selling Nationwide Insurance iguring I wouldn't have all the money tied up in inentory. In 1960 Salome, my wife, entered the busiless and she deserves a great deal of credit for its uccess.

In the beginning a service call in the customer's some was $1.50. Due to our inflated economy the ast 30 years it now costs $15.00. The Westinghouse utomatic tumbler washer was on the scene when we started in business, however the conventional vasher with a wringer was used by most people.

In 1966 we leased our present building at 106 S.

Market St. from Bartell and Ann Desch. This is when we added furniture and bedding to our operation. This store has about three times more floor space than our previous one. Our business has grown every year since 1960.

My silent partner Dr. C. C. Feldhake was very instrumental in the success of this business from the beginning. He is no longer a partner but remains a close friend.

Our present employees beside Salome and I are; Carl Sutter, technician, he has been here 24 years. Frederick John "Bud" Bruns, salesman, 9 years. Ann Wenning, bookkeeper, 10 years. Also Richard Homan, my nephew, Lorraine Schwartz, my daughter, and Roy Pleiman, my son. He is 23 years old and says he has been here 18 years.

We purchased a building and 2 acres of land at the corner of Rt. 127 and Rt. 219 this year. Plans at this time are incomplete, however, it is possible that we might move to this location in the near future. If we do move we will adapt a new Marketing Concept that has been tried in other parts of the country.

Some of the main lines we carry are in appliances; White, Westinghouse, Maytag, Litton, Hoover and Kitchenaide. Also White in sewing machines. Furniture; Flexsteel, Sealy, American Drew, St. Johns, and many others.

I believe that the success of our business, besides hard work, was my philosophy of selling a quality product backed by good service to our many customers. 105 - 107 W. Main St.

Knap's Carry Out, 220 East Main

KNAP'S CARRY OUT

Knap's Carry Out is located at 220 East Main Street in Coldwater, Ohio. It is the largest and one of the finest beverage and pizza carry-out stores in Mercer County.

The carry-out was originally built in 1971 by Ivo and Helen Kremer, both natives of Coldwater. They had originally owned the successful Kremer's Restaurant in Coldwater and decided that a drive-thru carry-out would prosper in the growing town. The new store was opened in July of 1971 and was called Ivo's Carry Out. They carried beer, wine, soft drinks, ice, party and picnic supplies. They also carried hard liquor products at that time.

The relatively new business was only about one year old and going well when an unfortunate auto accident claimed the life of Ivo Kremer. After his death, his wife Helen continued to run the store until 1973 when she sold the business to James and Jessie Gibson of St. Mary's, Ohio.

Jim and Jessie had originally owned a carry-out store in St. Mary's, so they were experienced in this type of business. Along with other changes, the name was changed to Gibson's Carry-Out. Hard liquor beverages were no longer sold in the store, but a kitchen was added in the back section of the store for food preparation. This was the beginning of the pizzas, submarine sandwiches and french fried foods in the carry-out store. The pizza business did very well and the business continued to grow as the drive-thru convenience began to attract people from Coldwater and the surrounding community.

Jim Gibson kept the carry-out until March of 1975 when he sold the business to Mike Knapschaefer of Coldwater.

Having experience in retail sales while working for Brodbecks Supermarket in Coldwater and Mercer Beverage in St. Henry, Mike had a good idea of how to manage the business. The name of the business was changed to Knap's Carry Out, a shortened version of Knapschaefer. With the help of his parents, Martha and Hugo Knapschaefer, his fiancee Rita Kamlig, Bonnie Jones and Tim Heinrich, the business continued to grow rapidly.

Improvements were made on the exiting foods prepared at the store and other tasty foods were added. A wider selection of beer, wine, soft drinks, party ice and party supplies were added. More employees were hired, and after a time it became apparent the store was no longer large enough to serve the needs of the customer. In 1978, an addition was added to the store which nearly doubled the size of Knap's Carry Out. The addition included a completely remodeled kitchen, a walk-in ice freezer, a large walk-in cooler for beverages and a storage room in the rear area of the store.

The carry-out which started as a small business venture for Ivo Kremer has grown to become a thriving business for Mike and Rita Knapschaefer, thanks to all of the good people of Coldwater and surrounding communities.

CHRONICLE PRINTING COMPANY AND THE MERCER COUNTY CHRONICLE

The Mercer County Chronicle has been printing on a weekly basis for nearly 100 years.

When the name of the town was changed from Buzzard's Glory to Coldwater in 1884 the first newspaper was published by C. M. Smith and Frank Omlor. The paper was called the Coldwater Change. The two men together edited and owned the paper in partnership for 18 years.

In 1902 the paper was purchased by George Phillips, owner and editor of the Celina Advocate. The name of the paper was also changed to the Coldwater Chronicle. The paper was published every Thursday by the Chronicle Publishing Co., Coldwater, Ohio and entered at the Post Office March 15, 1902 as second class matter under the act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

During this period, Mr. George Phillips continued printing the Celina Advocate until May 25, 1907 when it was moved to St. Henry. The St. Henry merchants helped pay the expenses to move the equipment to St. Henry

But the Advocate in St. Henry had financial problems due to the lack of advertising, and it wasn't making any money. So in October of 1910 the Advocate was moved to Coldwater, where the Chronicle was making money for Mr. Phillips. Before 1910 the Coldwater Chronicle was printed in a small building behind the now Peoples Bank building, the same building in which the Coldwater Change was printed in 1884.

The paper was growing, and owner Mr. Phillips needed more space, so he rented a building that was originally the St. Lawrence Hotel then later the St. James Hotel. This is the same building the Chronicle still uses as its office.

In 1920 George Phillips sold the paper to Henry Coates, who married Phillips daughter Blanche.

In 1934 the Chronicle was sold to three brothers, Paul, Sylvester and Arnold Hoyng. In June 5, 1936 it was called the Mercer County Chronicle and it covered news from the entire county. In 1944 Paul Hoyng became owner and publisher.

Arthur E. Ranly became associated with the paper in November of 1959 and was news editor and advertising manager until Hoyng sold the paper to the Delphos Herald Inc. in June of 1971. Ranly was then named manager of the paper and in 1976 became pub-

After purchasing the paper in 1971, the composition and printing of the paper was moved from Coldwater to Delphos and was printed the offset method.

It was in Jan. 1973 when a fire damaged the printing facilities of the Ft. Recovery Journal, and owner Tom Hastings then sold his subscription list to the Chronicle, increasing the circulation of the paper by almost 1,000.

After selling the newspaper, Mr. Hoyng continued doing business under the Chronicle Printing Co., doing commercial printing in the same building.

The Mercer County Chronicle (Mercer Publishing Co.) has offices in the same building, gathering the news and advertising copy when it is gotten ready to send to the printers. The subscription list is maintained in Coldwater and the paper is also mailed from Coldwater.

MOORMAN & MOORMAN

In May of 1955, Anthony F. Moorman started in business as Moorman's Accounting and Tax Service. His office was located in a room of his residence on state route 219, two and one-half miles west of Coldwater. He provided accounting and tax services for a portion of the businessmen of Coldwater and the surrounding community.

Due to the growth of his business, he decided to move his office from his residence to a newly constructed building located on his property. For the next six years he continued to expand his practice and in the fall of 1963 he employed his first full-time employee.

In the spring of 1964, Anthony suffered a serious heart attack and was required to limit his work activities. He therefore sold the majority of his practice to Wilson's Accounting Service, who had an office in Celina, Ohio.

Mr. Moorman continued his practice on a limited basis and in 1966, his son Samuel, a student at Miami Univeristy, began to assist him. In 1969, Samuel was drafted into the U.S. Army, at which time, Robert, another son, joined his father.

In 1971, Robert and Samuel purchased the business from their father. They continued to use their father's office until the fall of 1975, when they moved into a new building located at 815 W. Main St., Coldwater, Ohio. At this time the name of the business was changed to Moorman & Moorman.

In November, 1977, the business of John Hartings and Associates was purchased. This purchase, along with continued growth required employment of additional employees and the need for additional office area. Therefore, in the summer of 1978, the building was expanded to its present size. Currently the office staff includes the partners, Robert E. Moorman, CPA, Samuel J. Morman, PA, and also Virginia Cron, Cindy Goettemoeller, John Hartings, and Gary Gaerke.

He had also sold used cars part time for Rudy's Auto Sales in Celina. Eventually he started a used car lot called Midway Auto Sales located on State Route 118 between Coldwater and St. Henry. A year later his father, Carl J. Werling, joined Peanuts as a partner in the used car business. Dusty Bomholt, an implement dealer from Celina, financed and held an interest in this business till 1953 when Peanuts and

Carl purchased his interest.

In July, 1954, the Werlings took over the Ford Franchise known as Willett Motors in Coldwater and the Ford Garage building was sold to and is presently occupied by Dayton Power and Light Company. The Werlings then leased the former City Garage owned by Ed Stukenborg and remodeled it to become the new Ford Dealership. In 1956 the father and son team purchased the St. Marys, Ohio, Ford-Mercury Dealership and Carl Werling managed that establishment. The St. Marys dealership was sold in 1957 and Peanuts purchased his Dad's interest in Coldwater in 1959. Peanuts Werling was the youngest dealer.in the Detroit District at 28 years of age. COLDWATER SCHOOLS

The first school built in the area to serve the children of Coldwater was north of the village and opened on December 8, 1848. The teacher for this one room school was Mr. D. Franks.

The first school built within the village was a frame building consisting of one large room and erected at the corner of Second St. and North St. This building was erected, during the summer of

On July 21, 1880, construction started on a two room brick school building on the corner of Market and North Streets (the present site of the Methodist Church). The first teachers in this two room school were J. L. Weiser and H. C. Fox.

The first High School classes, a few years later, were held on the second floor of the Old Town Hall, on the corner of First St. and Walnut Street. This was unsatisfactory, so in 1898 the citizens made the decision to erect a High School building. This building was erected adjacent to the 1880 building at the site of the present United Methodist Church. It was expanded again in 1921 and last expanded and fully modernized in 1933.

Earlier, in 1882, Joseph L. Heis started construction of a privately owned Coldwater Normal School between South Street and College Street along First Street. Before the building was completed, he sold it to Ben Hoying, Peter Haubert, and Peter Wagner, who completed the building and opened it for instruction on the first Monday of September, 1883. The instructional staff consisted of Thomas O. Farrel, H. F. Mooney, P. Biovenac, L. N. Wagner, and P. C. Fox. The college continued for six years, then in 1889 the Normal School moved to Portland and was incorporated into the Portland Normal School and Business College. The building was destroyed by fire in 1896.

In 1913, after the great increase in the size of Coldwater due to the growth of New Idea, the Holy Trinity Catholic Parish decided to form their own school. Construction of their building started in 1913, but the school started operations before the building was built. Sisters of the Precious Blood from the Maria Stein convent provided the teachers, and rooms were rented from the Public School, and also the Hall of the Knights of St. John was used. The first teachers were: Sister Innocentia, principal; Sr. Alodia, Sr. Adalinda, and Sr. Illuminata. In 1914 the school moved into their new building located north of the Holy Trinity Church at the corner of Second and North Streets. The building had six classrooms and an auditorium. Later the auditorium was converted into classrooms, as was the basement area. In 1935 the Holy Trinity school system ceased operations, and the building was rented by the Public School system as East School. The students became public school students.

In 1938, after a very close election decided by one vote over a 65% majority, the citizens of Coldwater began the erection of a new High School, which was opened in 1939. The new school was built on North Second Street on the west side of the street and north of Elizabeth Street. The old high school on the site of the present Coldwater United Methodist Church was razed.

In 1953, the members of Holy Trinity Parish buil a new elementary school on First and Elizabeth Streets, which was rented to the Public School. At addition was constructed to this building in 1960.

Meanwhile, in 1955, an addition was built on the North Side of the High School, also for elementary purposes, complete with multi-purpose room and cafeteria kitchen. An addition to the High Schoo was completed in 1964, and another addition to the north side in 1967.

These additions were necessary not only because of the growth of the village, but also, under Ohio's changing laws, from 1930 on rural one room schools were closing and students were being transported into Coldwater's schools.

Presently, the Coldwater school district stretches west to the Indiana border. The 1913 building serve: as East Primary, the buildings built by Holy Trinity in 1953 and 1960 serve as West Elementary, the north additions to the high school built in 1956 and 1967 serve as North Intermediate School, and the High School consists of the 1938 building with the 1964 addition.

The Coldwater School System became an Exempted Village School District on July 1, 1952 which made the system independent of the Merce County School System.

The superintendents of the Coldwater Schools have been: 1907-1916, August H. Bernard; 1916-1936, Hugo J. Antony; 1936-1953, Perry N. Noll 1953-1963, Thomas M. Ryan; 1963-1975, Hugh D Rossi; 1975-1977, Walter J. Schrof; 1977-, Wayne E Miller.

In 1904 Coldwater graduated its first Class of 4. Ir 1978 168 were graduated.

In 1938 Coldwater won the first County Basketball Tournament Trophy. The baseball championship was also won.

The same year, 1938, Coldwater presented the first operetta, The Sunbonnet Girl. Coldwater's debating team won the County Championship. The band made the highest rating at the state contest ir Columbus.

Coldwater's first Annual, called The Telescope as published in 1937. The next annual was in 1938. No further annuals were published until 1946. Since 1948 an annual has been published each year. Ir 1948 the name of the annual was changed to Cava-

The first Coldwater High Newspaper was printed at Coldwater High School when Hugo Antony was superintendent. Type was set and copy run by high school students in the print shop from 1916 thru May 1936. The first name was The Comet. Later the name was changed to Cavalier and was printed by the Mercer County Chronicle.

Soon after implementation of a 1937 study or Mercer County school district reorganization, Butler Township, Dahlinghaus Special school districts, and parts of Franzer-Uppenkamp and Oakland districts became a part of Coldwater district. In September 1946, part of Burntwood became part of Coldwater and the larger remainder was assigned to Celina Exempted Village. In September, 1950, part of Washington Township district joined Coldwater, and ir 1958 Philothea Local became part of Coldwater. Ir 1958, also, a corridor of land to the West was transferred out of the newly created Southwest Local School District to Coldwater, which enabled St. Anthony (combined in 1937 with Loughridge) to join Coldwater in that same year.

Enrollment peaked in school year 75/76, in which it was 1874. After declining birthrates, experienced throughout the state and nation, of the past few years, it stands at 1,708 for the 78/79 year. However, appearance of new households in the district will result in stabilization and growth in succeeding years.

Staff now includes (95) certificated personnel and (39) non-certificated employees.

Since 1920, 46 citizens have served as Board of Education members. Only 5 were appointed to serve out unexpired terms, due to death and/or resignations. 3 of these were subsequently elected to a successive term and 2 chose not to run. Long-term members include: Paul J. Froning served as an elected member for 16 years from Jan. 1926 thru Dec. 1941, with 4 of those as President. He was appointed Clerk-Treasurer in Jan. 1936 and served until his death in Feb. 1956 in that office for a total of 30 years of association with Board and district.

John F. Hartings served as Board member for 15¹/₃ years from Jan. 1962 thru Apr. 22, 1977 (resigned) and as President 31/2 years.

MEDICAL

The citizens of the village of Coldwater have always worked to assure themselves of adequate medical care. The directory for 1882, at the time of the incorporation of the village, lists three physicians -Drs. Whittaker, Baldwin, and Schuyler. In 1900, the three physicians listed were Drs. Chas. Mackenbach, C. F. Bolman, and P. F. Weamer. Dr. P. F. Weamer was in Coldwater many years, serving as mayor from 1924 to 1930 and again in 1932, dying in 1934. Then Dr. Charles Adkins began practicing in Coldwater, continuing until his death in 1972. Dr. Brumm also practiced in Coldwater during the '30's. Dr. Manning G. Harnick practiced in Coldwater from 1947 until 1964. Dr. Helfrich maintained a practice from 1948 until his death in 197. Dr. Harnick built a medical clinic at the corner of W. Sycamore St. and S. Oak St. during the spring of 1959. This clinic has been staffed since July, 1959, by Dr. Cecil Pennington, and since July, 1960, by Dr. Robert Albers.

Since August 1, 1975, a mental health clinic has been in operation.

Also, for medical care Coldwater presently has two optometrists: Drs. Chas. Dickman and Wayne Kettler; three dentists: Drs. C. Feldhake, K. Grossman, and R. Hoyng; and one chiropractor, Dr. J. Rudd.

In 1968, a nursing home, Briarwood Manor, opened on West Main Street, immediately west of the hospital.

MERCER COUNTY JOINT TOWNSHIP Community Hospita

In 1942 there was talk of a need for a hospital in Coldwater, Ohio but it all began in 1945 in an empty storeroom where Hibner Jewelry is presently located, Joseph A. Oppenheim, part owner of New Idea Inc., felt it essential the community have ready access to medical services. He asked all interested persons to attend the meeting. That evening nine persons were appointed to a Board of Trustees, with Joseph A. Oppenheim as president. This new corporation was to be named Coldwater Mercy Hospital Association. The corporation agreed to financially support the construction of such a facility. The project was to be erected as a non-profit organization. Those who formed the incorporators were: Joseph A. Oppenheim — President, Charles A. Fischer Vice President, Forest E. Ensign — Secretary, Anthony J. Birkmeyer — Treasurer, Norbert J. Smith, John W. Salm, Rudolph R. Mueller, Erwin C. Oppenheim and Russell C. Reed. Later, Reed was succeeded by Zoyd M. Flaler who was then succeeded by Raymond K. Clark.

With the decision to build, the corporation immediately made plans for raising the funds and well-planned drives were started. The first sizeable donation came from several local families, the principal owners of the New Idea, Inc. All of the community gave its enthusiastic support, surrounding parishes, businessmen, organizations, and citizens contributed generously. The entire building project was assumed by the people of this community. The land, consisting of approximately ten acres belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Selhorst, was donated by a few individuals. The deed was then turned over to the Board of Trustees.

While the community financed the building of the hospital, the Sisters of Mercy Catholic Nursing Order, Cincinnati, Ohio had expressed an interest and willingness to operate the facility once it had been established. They also agreed to equip it with the latest modern equipment. It was the Sisters' desire that the hospital be named Our Lady of Mercy Hospital, dedicated to the Patroness of the Sisters of Mercy. So it was, on November 6, 1949, ground-breaking services were conducted with Rev. Louis H. Yauss, Pastor of Holy Trinity Parish, Coldwater, Ohio officiating. The contract for the architecture and construction was awarded to Walter Butler Building Company, St. Paul, Minnesota, and the work began.

For twenty-one years and four months, the Sisters of Mercy provided medical services to the surrounding communities. However, in 1969 the Sisters advised the Board they could not continue operating the hospital.

On November 6, 1969 a committee consisting of Don Desch — Temporary Chairman, Maurice Cron — Secretary, Walter Fortener, Ed Schwieterman, Art Pleiman, Bill Otte, Bill Oberherolzer, Denny Hein met to discuss and consider the possibility of a hospital in Coldwater. Others present at this first meeting were Arnold Kramer, Rolly Braun, Harold Romer, Ralph Mueller, David Sowar, Bob Hibner, Tom Homan, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Hall and Dr. Donald Schwieterman.

Subsequent meetings followed on November 13, 1969 and on November 26, 1969 a public meeting was called at the Coldwater City Hall which was attended by approximately 350 people. This meeting was called by Mr. Harold Romer for the express purpose of maintaining the hospital in Coldwater as a general hospital.

On December 4, 1969 a committee consisting of Maurice Cron, Don Desch, Art Pleiman, Everett Hall and Dr. Charles Dickman visited a Board of Governors meeting of St. Marys Hospital to acquire information and suggestions as to how to proceed with a Joint Township Hospital organization.

On December 29, 1969 a meeting was held with Sister Mary Albert of Cincinnati to discuss possible financial arrangements in acquiring Our Lady of Mercy Hospital. The committee that met with Sister Mary Albert was Jerry Dull, Harold Romer, Arnold Schoch, Maurice Cron and Lee Dabbelt — Attorney. January 27, 1970 a meeting was called with 17 of 21 township trustees plus 15 other interested persons attending. A letter from the Sisters explaining the financial arrangements that would be expected if the hospital were purchased by the seven townships was discussed. In this letter it was pointed out that 663/3% would go to Coldwater and the surrounding community and 331/3% would go to the Sisters for their original investment in the hospital. Mr. Dabbelt was hired by Mr. Romer to handle any legal problems involved with the acquisition of the hospital.

Our Lady of Mercer Hospital

On June 18, 1970 all seven townships voted unanimously in favor of forming a hospital district. This came about as a result of two meetings held by the township trustees which were open to the public and held at the Coldwater American Legion Hall. The townships involved in the new hospital plans are Butler, Marion, Granville, Franklin, Washington, Gibson and Recovery. The action by the trustees came about after the new proposed county hospital was defeated at the November, 1969 general elec-

Muhlenkamp, Merle Rabe, Glen Florence.

On June 23, 1970 a meeting was held at the home of Harold Romer and a Board of Governors was appointed. The seven members appointed by the seven townships were Naomi McAfee - Washington, Ralph Jutte — Recovery, Ed Piekenbrock — Marion, Jim Gast — Granville, Cy Brockman — Gibson, Lee Garman — Franklin and Joan Braun — Butler. Judge Dull was contacted and names suggested for the three persons qualified to sit on the Governing Board in addition to those appointed by the seven townships. Those appointed by Judge Dull were Dr. John Helfrich, Walter Fortener and Sophia Bomholt.

A petition seeking validation of the issuance of $777,000 in bonds for the purchase and renovation of Our Lady of Mercy Hospital, Coldwater, Ohio was filed in Mercer County Common Pleas Court.

The bond issue would be financed by 1.48 mill, ten year tax levy in the seven townships. The original proposal consisted of $162,000 for the purchase of the present hospital $400,000 for remodeling and fire proof construction and $225,000 for equipment. At the same time Joint Township District voters approved the bond issue, they rejected a proposed .25 mill levy for operation of the hospital following its purchase. However, the Community Hospital District board resubmitted that issue for a second vote in the May primary which was approved.

On March 18, 1971 a large ad was run by the physicians of Mercer County opposing the purchase of Our Lady of Mercy Hospital and requesting the citizens to build a new and larger hospital. Those physicians were D. J. Schwieterman — Chief of Staff, Our Lady of Mercy Hospital, R. W. Albers - Secretary, Our Lady of Mercy Hospital, C. E. Pennington -Executive Committee, Our Lady of Mercy Hospital, E. Feliciano, C. P. Adkins, J. Chrispin, D. Fox, R. Dobbins, L. Finkelmeier, G. Mcllroy, R. Riesz and R.

D. Bradrick.

On March 24, 1971 Dr. Robert Albers and Dr. Cecil Pennington, Coldwater and Dr. Donald Schwieterman, Maria Stein filed a complaint with Mercer County Common Pleas Court seeking to halt any further action in connection with the proposed sale of Our Lady of Mercy Hospital, Coldwater to the Mercer County Joint Township Community Hospital District. In a related action, they filed an answer to the bond validation petition brought by the hospital district, claiming that preceedings are illegal. The three doctors contended that "The sale and issuance of the bonds by the defendant of the proposed application of the proceeds were illegal". The Judge ruled in favor of the Hospital District.

Following the court encounter the necessary steps were taken to purchase the hospital property and the Joint Township Hospital District took possession and assumed operations of the facility on April 1, 1972. Several remodeling and expansion alternatives were considered. Amidst much controversy and differences of opinion, approval to construct and remodel the hospital was received from the Health Planning Agency, the State of Ohio and HEW. It was mandated that the hospital must be built to serve the entire county and its size was determined to be 93 beds plus the necessary ancillary services needed to support that size institution. Charles Dale DeMott was hired as the first Administrator of the hospital under the Joint Township operation. The original Hewitt and Royer construction estimate was $2,524,000 for new construction and $325,000 for remodeling of the original structure for a total cost estimate of $2,849,000. On May 30, 1974 bids were opened and the bid cost was $4,275,915 approximately 30.5% higher than the original estimate. On June 10, 1974 contracts were signed for a total cost of $4,486,277 this was $1,700,000 more than originally estimated. The problem of how to secure the additional funds was resolved by requesting an additional one million dollars in federal Hill-Burton Funds for a total of $2,400,000 and increasing the amount of revenue bonds from $2,400,000 to $3,-100,000. At the June 10, 1974 meeting of the Board of Trustees action was taken to apply for the additional funds and increase the bond issue to $3,100,-000. Total cost of construction and remodeling and related site development and financing costs came to $5,960,783. A fund drive for additional new equipment for the hospital was conducted and netted $225,000. This brought the total project amount to $6,185,783. Under Mr. DeMott's direction the hospital plans were finalized and in June, 1974 groundbreaking ceremonies were held for the new 6.5 million dollar construction and remodeling project. Mr. Ed Ebbing served as the first President of the Board of Trustees. I. Ralph Dicke suceeded Mr. Ebbing as President of the Board of Trustees and held that position through the planning stages of the building program. Due to Mr. Dicke's election to the position of Mercer County Commissioner, he was succeeded by Art Hemmelgarn as President of the Board of Trustees who served in that capacity through the completion of the building program. Joan Braun, the first President of the Board of Governors, was succeeded by Walter Fortener. Mr. Fortener served in that capacity during the years of continued planning and building and resigned in August, 1977 to accept the elected position of Treasurer of Mercer County. Mr. A. G. Pleiman assumed the Presidency in August, 1977. Rev. Henry Seibert served as secretary of the Board of Governors for several years but resigned as he moved out of the county.

On September 18, 1977 dedication and open house was held for the completed hospital facility. Dr. John Ackerman, Director of the State of Ohio Department of Health was the speaker for the special occasion.

In November of 1977 Mr. DeMott resigned as Administrator to accept a new position in another Hospital. Lysle Schmidt, Hospital Controller, was appointed as Interim Administrator and on March 1, 1978 was hired as Administrator of Mercer County Joint Township Community Hospital.

The 1978 Board of Trustees are: Butler — Ray Dues, Ed Ebbing, Paul Hamberg, Franklin — Thomas Niekamp, Louis Doenges, Norbert Wilker, Gibson — Aloys Link, Arthur Hemmelgarn, Otto VonderHaar, Granville — Cyril Dues, Victor Boeke, Mark Kremer, Marion — Ralph Reichert, Raymond Bruggeman, Albert Schoenlein, Recovery — Orville Dues, Harold Willmann, Roger Lochtefeld and Washington — Ralph Heyne, Jerry Powell, Jerry Laffin.

HOLY TRINITY PARISH

The desire to have a church was expressed by three ardent Catholic farm families; Henry Kallmeier, Henry Boese, Joseph Pohl. They sought the aid of Rev. Jacob Rengele C.PP.S., Pastor at Philothea, who heard them favorably. Together their efforts were dedicated to the Holy Trinity and a site selected in 1867. Thomas Buxom, a non-Catholic, gladly deeded the ground to them for $1.00. By the next meeting three more families were represented; John Birkmeyer, Henry Fisher, Henry Gottemoeller. Plans for a frame church were drawn by John De-Curtins, architect of Carthagena, Ohio. The men were busy sawing lumber at Henry Boese's mill when their spirit was dimmed. He died from an accident at the mill. Work resumed in the spring and on October 8, 1968 a 30x60 foot church was dedicated where the present church stands. Father Rengele now was in charge of both parishes. He celebrated his first Mass on Sunday at Coldwater until 1871 when he was relieved by Rev. Henry Drees C.PP.S. who made many trips from St. Charles Seminary by buggy and horse-back.

The parish grew steadily. Under Rev. Paulinus Trost C.PP.S. the church was extended at the north end in 1886. Growth allowed only temporary relief. Ten years later it was decided to build a new church. Rev. George Hindelang C.PP.S. added a strip of ground on the north and began collecting funds. Under Rev. Lawrence Schirack C.PP.S., the firm of DeCurtins & Co. of Lima, Ohio was engaged to draw the plans. The old church was moved 100 feet farther east. The dedication on October 9, 1899 was celebrated by crowds of people and priests with sermon and singing and music and visiting. John B. Albers, the organist, directed a mixed choir. Bands from Ft. Recovery, Landeck, Minster and Montezuma performed while booths for entertainment were scattered over town. The building committee for the 54x145 church was John B. Albers, John Birkmeyer, John Hageman, John Hamberg, Herman Knapschaefer and John Stukenborg.

At this time the shuttling of priests from St. Charles Seminary was ended. At first the priest boarded with Blasius Birkmeyer and then rented a house across from the church. In 1905 the residence was built east of the church.

Catholic schooling began in 1913 after the New Idea Spreader Co. came to Coldwater. The public school could not accommodate the many additional children from the rapid population increase. This community difficulty together with the religious purpose moved the parish to build the eight room school north of the church. Since it would not be ready until the following school year, three rooms were rented from the public school and with the use of the Knights of St. John Hall, four sisters from Maria Stein began teaching 217 children in September 1913. A frame house was put up east of the school site for the Sisters. Rev. John Schopp, priest of the Archdiocese who succeeded the Precious Blood Fathers who cared for the parish until 1906, directed the committee of Frank S. Bettinger, Frank B. Birkmeyer, Joseph R. Desch, H. C. Fox, Chas. Stukenborg, Henry Synck. The parish enrollment had risen to 254 families.

Rev. Louis Yauss piously guided the parish 42 years, 1915-1957. In 1935 the 459 rupils in the school were consolidated with the rupils school program. In 1951 the West Elementary School was built and then the brick Sisters' Convent. When Monsignor Clarence Leibold became pastor in 1966, the families had doubled from the 403 in 1935 to 850. Once more enlarging the church was necessary. In 1967 the east and west wings were added.

To help nurture the first sparks of parish life the St. Ann Altar Society was formed January 1, 1868. It is the oldest one in the parish and for the first year men were also members. Other groups followed to play a vital role in parish life, The Holy Name Society, The Catholic Youth Organization, The Legion of Mary on the adult and junior level, The Young Active Christians. Other organizations, though not parish based, arose to provide support to parish life and efforts, The Catholic Knights of America, The Catholic Knights of Columbus and The Columbian Squires, The St. Cecilia Auxiliary of the Knights of St. John, The Third Order of St. Francis, and the Prayer Group. Community organizations also helped parish programs, such as the Coldwater Kiwanis Club aiding in publishing this article.

At the present the parish has 1150 families. It is administered by Rev. Glen Perin, Pastor, and Rev. Oscar Seger, Associate. In the year 1977 they baptized 115, officiated at the marriages of 40 couples, conducted the funerals of 32 faithful departed. On Sundays they celebrated the six scheduled Masses and preached with an average total attendance of 3175 per Sunday, and in week-day Masses and devotions with more than a thousand total weekly attendance.

THE METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH

THE METHODIST CHURCH

THE COLDWATER UNITED METHODIST CHURCH

The Methodists in Coldwater, Ohio had their first "meeting house" at the corner of Vine and Second Streets, the site where the present high school now stands. This was prior to 1860 and located on a half acre of land on the Southeast corner of Jacob Frank's eighty acres. The structure burned down about 1870 and the congregation met in numerous places until around 1879 when the railroad came to Coldwater; the congregation then met in the Lake Erie and Western depot, until Joseph Perkins led the congregation in the construction of a new church building at the corner of Elm and Main Streets (516 W. Main

The farmers of the congregation contributed the logs, hauled them to the mill, and erected the small, framed building at the new site. It was dedicated in 1881 and served its purpose until 1951 when it was sold to Reigelsperger Brothers who stored feed in it for a while; they in turn rented it to the church of God to whom they eventually sold it. It was finally torn down and is the present site of the Thomas Homan residence.

In 1882 the Celina Circuit was formed out of two new societies organized at Coldwater and Montezuma, and two from Mendon Circuit. The records indicate that "Reverend John W. Holland has been in charge for the last half year. He held a meeting at Coldwater, resulting in 54 conversions and as many accessions to the church. The new church at that place was finished and the money raised for the payment of the debt." At that time John W. Holland was a local preacher as he was not admitted to the conference on Trial since 1883.

Brother George Smith and James Day served as supply pastors for the next two years, with Brother Day seemingly in charge as the "detailed missionary report for 1883-1884 given at the 1884 Conference bears his signature." In 1885 Coldwater was transferred to the Ft. Recovery Circuit which included Ft. Recovery, Murfreshburg (now Erastus), Washington, and Coldwater. Reverend Lemuel Herbert was pastor and John F. Davis was the District Superintendent. Hopewell Church was added to this circuit

In 1888 Coldwater was returned to the Celina Circuit until in more recent years she has become a station. The district report for 1892 reports that "a great revival for the whole district occurred in 1891."
The churches on the district now included Center, Copps, Montezuma, Coldwater and Neptune. The pastor was Benjamin W. Day and "he preached three times on one Sunday and twice on the next. This arrangement continued for a few years and Neptune was dropped and the others continued as a four point circuit, paying a salary of $600 with no parsonage."

A parsonage was obtained during the Conference Year 1900-1901 and located in Celina. In 1948 the first parsonage located in Coldwater was obtained. It was at 260 Sycamore Street and was built by Cy and Harold Andrew. This parsonage was- maintained until 1967 when the new parsonage at 209 Eastview

Drive was purchased.

After sixty-one years of service the old church building began to show signs of extensive remodeling needs. As the church recalls: "In 1942 Reverend and Mrs. G. I. Meyers came to serve the Circuit, and it wasn't long after they arrived and had taken a good look at the situation as it existed in Coldwater that they caught a vision undaunted by the heavy clouds of war which were hovering low and having an effect on everyone. They saw a need for a new church.

"Yet, it was not until two years later the vision manifested itself. At the December meeting of the Women's Society in 1944, held at the home of Mrs. C. A. Schwartz, the matter of starting a building fund was presented to the Women's Society by its president Mrs. Murl (Ruth) Carmack. Her suggestion met with the hearty approval of the entire group and there is an entry in the Treasurer's book in the amount of $200 under the disbursements dated February 1, 1945 that marks the actual beginning of the Building Fund."

A building committee was shortly thereafter selected, consisting of Wayne Fischer, Pat Murlin, Charles Jenkins, Ed Moore, John Knous, Paul Adams, Harold Peters, Forrest Ensign, Murl Carmack, and Charles Fischer. On April 27, 1949 they negotiated with the Avco New Idea for the purchasing of the land and the old high school building at the corner of W. North and Market Streets, for $5,000. On May 3, 1949 a contract was signed with Kenneth Jackson in the amount of $600 to raze the building by September 1949. In June of 1950 contracts were let for general construction to Schultz Construction Company of St. Marys, Ohio in the amount of $72,-000.94. The Architect was F. E. Freytag of Sidney, nd cooperation. Yet it resulted in much fellowship nd gained widespread community and conference upport. By September 25, 1950, a period of ninesen months, the Women's Society had raised hrough dinners, bake sales, bazaars, ice cream soials, rummage sales, etc. a total of $1,986.80. One of he memorable experiences occurred on the evening f October 12, 1948 after the women had served the ion's Club. As they were tidying up the kitchen the omment was jokingly made: 'Next time we'll have a make a little dish of gravy for Clarence Bruns no natter what kind of meat we serve just so he can't ay we didn't serve a complete meal.'

The Youth Fellowship worked diligently at a varity of projects to help equip the new church. Among heir contributions are the paraments. Personal gifts f both money and furnishings poured in from the ommunity as well. And on June 7, 1951 the Board f Missions of the Methodist Church forwarded to he congregation a check for $5,000, and another 10,000 would result from our church being designation.

ated an "Advance Special" for that year.

The cornerstone for the new church was laid Ocober 22, 1950. The pastor was Reverend Elden Winet and the District Superintendent was Dr. Carl lickey. The guest speaker was the Reverend Mr. arl Plummer, a native of Coldwater and at the time as serving as a Methodist Pastor at the Bigelow Aethodist Church, Portsmouth, Ohio. In his renarks Rev. Plummer noted that "the cornerstone of he building is important not in having any differnce in size or weight from the other stones but in ne significance that is attached to it." He called it a oundary line between the new and old; he then reninded the audience that "the new building is not n end in itself but a tool for better serving of God's rinciples by the congregation," and "that thirty-six ercent of Mercer County were found to have no hurch attachment. We have a responsibility to hem.'

The building was completed for the first worship ervice on September 23, 1951, the Rev. Winget reaching. On October 21, 1951 the first Baptism as held in the new church: Suzanne Murlin, infant aughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pat Murlin. The first mariage ceremony held in the church was that of Miss Catherine Gengler and Mr. Dallas Pierstorff on Noember 4, 1951. The first church funeral in the new tructure was the funeral service of Mrs. Oscar Agnes) Snider, July 19, 1952.

The offering on September 18, 1960 was sufficient 5 pay off the mortgage. On January 22, 1961 the ervice of Dedication was held with Dr. Harold Kelong, Administrative Assistant to resident Bishop lazen G. Werner, in charge. Rev. John Petrie was astor and Rev. Albert L. Slack was district superin-endent.

In 1960 the Bell Tower was added as a memorial ift by Dr. and Mrs. Charles Adkins in the memory f Dr. Adkins' parents. It houses the original bell rom the old church. Also recalling the past for us re the lights at the front entrance way — they came rom the front of the old high school which stood in he same spot. In more recent years a new Allen Diital Computer Organ, new glass doors, and carpet n the Narthex have been added. Beginning as a landful of persons in 1860 the congregation has teadily grown to its present membership of 191, serving a larger constituency who look to the church for her ministry.

The story has been one of continual progress and change. Beginning as the Methodist Episcopal Church, on May 10, 1939 at Kansas City, Mo., she became the Methodist Church through merger with the Methodist Episcopal Church, South and the Methodist Protestant Church. Then, on Tuesday April 23, 1968 at 8:30 a.m. the Ceremony of Unification of the Methodist Church and the Evangelical United Brethren Church took place in Dallas, Texas, and she became the Coldwater United Methodist Church.

The church congregation looks back with pride and thankfulness, and forward with hope and purpose. May she continue to minister to the needs of her congregation, her community, and the world. In 1981 she will celebrate her 100th birthday of organized ministry to her Lord, Jesus Christ! Rev. Mr. Jerry R. Cole, present pastor: Mrs. Ruth Carmack, church historian

OTHER CHURCHES

The Coldwater Nazarene Church was started in November, 1952, meeting on the second floor of the Village Hall. In 1956 the congregation built a church on North Second Street, on the banks of Hardin Creek. The church building was built with mainly volunteer labor of the members. The church suspended operations in 1977.

A Coldwater Church of God existed for about two years in the late 1960's. They were organized and met first in a farm home south of the village. Later they bought the old Methodist church on West Main Street, and used the building until 1970, when the church ceased operations.

There are no existent records of any other church having been organized in the village of Coldwater.

PUBLIC SERVICES

Fire Department

The first fire department of Coldwater was formed by a group of civic-minded citizens. In 1886 the following: S. T. Johnson, J. B. Hoyng, J. S. Allen, J. F. Beams, C. E. Smith, Lawrence Woeste, D. W. Frick, Jos. Perkins, Anthony Diebolt, John Martz, John Swartz, Chas. Spornhauer, Jos. B. Arbaugh, Frank Rabe, M. Y. Snider, K. J. McDonald, and John Rhein, petitioned the state legislature to allow the village council to buy fire fighting equipment. The act was passed, and the village bought a hand propelled engine with five hundred feet of hose. The engine was called the "Fire Queen" and the fire company took the name as the Fire Queen Company. The name, Queen Fire Company, was used until very recently. The fire engine was housed in the old Town Hall.

During the history of Coldwater, several large fires have occurred. The first large fire of record, before the purchase of any equipment, destroyed the home, office, and contents of the buildings, of Dr. C. F. Bohman. The bucket brigade was unable to save anything of the property which stood at Second and North Streets. On January 1, 1885, the Schindler Blacksmith and Wagon Making shop at the corner of Second and Walnut Streets, was destroyed by fire, which also destroyed the home, business place, and barn of Jacob Swartz, just across the street. In 1887, almost a complete business block was lost, and in 1892, the Bettinger and Company Hoop Factory and Sawmill was burned to the ground. Another serious fire destroyed the business block between Mill and Market Streets, north of Main to North Street. Three homes were also lost in this block. On June 18, 1896, the Coldwater Normal School, on College and First Streets, was destroyed. During this fire the original fire engine was also lost, and since that time the village has had power driven equipment.

Another large fire on December 26, 1926, destroyed the business building then occupied by the Harold Romer Co. at the corner of Main and Market Streets, where the City Hall now stands. On April 22, 1974, the Coldwater Lumber Co.'s largest building burned to the ground, with the fire companies present being able to save the surrounding build-

The fire chiefs in Coldwater history have been:

John Martz, Anthony Rathweg, Frank Rosenbeck Wm. Fetzer, Frank Hoyng, Chas. Jenkins, Ed Stuk enborg, Clarence "Pete" Tangeman, Ed Severt, and Stan Lefeld.

The fire department was housed in the old Towr Hall until the City Hall was built in 1935, when the fire station was included in that building. In 1972 a new fire station was constructed at the corner o West Main and North Wilson Streets.

Police

When Coldwater was incorporated in 1883, the post of Town Marshall was one of the elective of fices. The first elected Marshal was Joseph Wagoner There seem to be no records of who the succeeding marshals were, and Coldwater was not a Wild Westown where the Marshal had to keep order by guiplay. However, there is a story of one town marshal shot dead on the steps of the old Town Hall, about 1900. It seems to have been a fight over someone.

Another crime in the annals of Coldwater history maybe the largest crime, came on August 25, 1932 At 12:30 a Buick stopped in front of the People's Bank on the corner of Main and First Streets. Two men went inside, ordered the people inside, Urbar DeCurtains, Charmie Granger, and Joe Huelskamp to stand still, and began scooping up money. John Schroeder, working at a gas station across the street decided that a robbery was in progress and sounded the fire alarm. At the sound of the alarm, the rob bers left the bank and opened fire in the street. Ha rold Romer, from his store across the street, fired a the robbers, as did Edward Knapke, who was it Romer's Store. It is believed Romer hit one of the robbers as they sped away. No arrests were eve made in the case, and the $1500 stolen was never re covered. The Town Marshall at the time, Spair James, patrolled entirely on foot. The County Sherif and the State Highway Patrol attempted to set up road blocks, but did not intercept the robbers.

Today Coldwater has a modern, well equipped police department with trained, professional offi-

Public Utilities

Soon after its incorporation, the village of Coldwater granted a franchise to the South Westerr Ohio Natural Gas and Petroleum Company on Apri 12, 1887, to furnish the village with lighting, heating and power. The gas light era had come to Coldwater Later, the village operated its own gas works from about 1890 until 1895. Today the Western Ohio Gas Company has the village franchise.

In 1900 the Co-operative Telephone Company received a franchise for furnishing telephone service to the village. Today the General Telephone of Ohic furnishes this service.

In 1911 the Coldwater Lighting Company built a power plant in the village and started the process of electrification of the town. In 1914 the streets were lighted by electricity. Today the Dayton Power and Light Company has the franchise for the village.

Other franchises granted by the village were for garbage disposal to Kenneth F. Moorman on June 3 1946 (presently held by Elmer Klenke) and for cable television, granted to Tele-Media Company on August 27, 1973.

In 1916 the village waterworks were completed nd the village had a water storage system. That year so saw the village sewer system installed, but it was it mandatory for villagers to use the system. In 138 the modern sewage plant on North Second reet was constructed, with an addition in 1968. The ater plant on West Sycamore Street was conructed, with an addition in 1968. A second welled, at the southwest corner of Sycamore and Cedar reets, was purchased in 1968. A second water wer, northwest of the village was constructed in 1970.

COLDWATER PUBLIC LIBRARY

The Coldwater Public Library has been in existnce since 1936, when a group of interested citizens nder the leadership of Mayor Arnold Schoch, deided that a library would be a vital part of the eduational program as well as a cultural center for coldwater. At first it was just a series of discussions bout the possibility of a library for the community.

1r. Goode, editor of the Coldwater Chronicle, met 1th Mr. Schoch and his council, Norbert (Dick)
1 mith, Howard Colby, Roman Gast, Forest Ensign,
1 alph Hess, and Mark King, and with City Solicitor
1 Valter Bernard, to discuss ways and means by hich Coldwater could secure a library.

Council met with the State Librarian several mes, and it was decided that Coldwater would esiblish a municipal library. The mayor appointed ne first library board and the following members rere chosen to serve: Joseph McDevitt, Forest Engn, Cyril Schindler, Mrs. R. J. Dreffer, Mrs. Carl less, and Mrs. Oscar Moore. The first meeting was eld in the council room of the city hall, and the ame "Coldwater Public Library" was chosen. The brary began very modestly in one upstairs room of te present city hall building. Mr. Goode used the hronicle to aid the board in obtaining gifts of ooks, and the fire chief and firemen helped collect 1e books. The entire book collection of the Buckeye Verall Company, Schindler's Rental Book Library, nd a large donation of books from William Foss elped to swell the collection. Mrs. Moore made seeral trips to Lima to Johnston's Gift Shop to buy ooks from the rental collection, and eventually here were approximately 500 books to be placed on ne new shelves. Miss Rita Schmit was hired as the rst librarian. The doors of the library were opened n June 17, 1936, and nineteen books were checked ut that first day. At the end of the first year, there were 1050 books in the library, and they had been circulated a total of 2100 times.

After a short period, the old quarters were outgrown, and the Township Trustees donated a room to the library in the old town hall, now the site of Werling's garage. In 1938 the library was again overcrowded, and two additional rooms in the town hall were given to the library. It remained at that location for the next twenty years. In the 1950's the library was again overcrowded, and a bond issue for a new building was defeated. It was then decided to remodel the gymnasium at City Hall into a library. This time a bond issue for $15,000 was passed, but it fell far short of paying for all the furnishings, so a drive was made for donations and the necessary capital was raised to complete the work.

In April, 1962, the library was moved to the present location at 305 West Main Street. It is still growing, with approximately 1700 new books added each year. There are now more than 48,000 books in the library. The circulation has increased from the original 2100 per year, to approximately 90,000 per

In addition to books, the library has available records, large-print books, art slides, a speed-reading machine, films, projector and screen, cassettes and a cassette player, magazines, newspapers, story hour, tours, reference service including interlibrary loan service, talking-book machines for the handicapped, encyclopedias, atlases, and a photocopy machine. A collection of books is kept at the Community Hospital for the use of patients and their families.

The library has participated in federally funded programs which have purchased many new books for the library. The library is a member of an 8-county regional area library organization, the Western Ohio Regional Library Development System, also known as WORLDS, through which workshops are provided for training personnel, films are made available, inter-library loan service is provided, and cooperation between member libraries is enjoyed.

In 1961 all of the organizations in town banded together to hold a Community Picnic, the proceeds of which are to benefit the library and the park. The Coldwater Public Library has been fortunate in being able to share in the profits of the annual picnic, which has purchased many items for the library, and today it is one of the best equipped small libraries in the state.

No history of the Coldwater Public Library would be complete without credit being given to Mildred Sutter, who was appointed librarian in 1939, and served as librarian for thirty years, until her death in 1969.

RECREATION

The early pioneers had no time for organized recreation, although Farmer's Institutes, church picnics, and many of their "work parties", such as barn raisings, husking bees, and threshing days, gave opportunities for socializing.

The earliest organized group in Coldwater was the "Alycon" Society, formed in the 1880's as a literary, discussion, and musical society. Debates by students of the Normal School and of the high school were highlights of their meetings. Musical evenings also occurred frequently.

During the 1890's a Coldwater Band was formed. In one form or another, this group continued into the 1930's, and provided much entertainment with their music. They were a part of every occasion in the village. For many years it was known as the Albers Band.

After the building of the high school in 1898, the high school students gave many dramatic presentations. A Holy Trinity Drama Club also existed which provided another outlet for the demand for entertainment

With the invention of the silent movies, Coldwater became one of first sites in the area for a theatre—an open air nickelodean, showing such classics as "The Great Train Robbery" and "The Perils of Pauline". The Rex Theatre, operated by Chas. Jenkins, was located on West Main St. (where Kremer's Restaurant is now) during the 1920's and showed not only films, but the Coldwater Dramatic Club also performed on their tiny stage.

In 1926 the Coldwater Council of the Knights of Columbus built a building at the corner of Second Street and Walnut Street. This building was intended to serve the recreational needs of the village. The "Columbia" Theatre was in this building, which also included the first gymnasium in the village, and a dance hall. Prior to this time dances had been held on the second floor of the old Town Hall, and later in the Knights of St. John's Hall, which was on the second floor of the old People's Bank building at the corner of Main St. and First Street. The first basketball team, the Coldwater Athletic Club, played on the top floor of the K. of C. building. During the De-pression, the K. of C. lost this building, and it was acquired by Holy Trinity Church, which used it as a welfare center. The Columbia Theatre continued operations until 1961, when television forced the closing. The theatre was also the scene of live dramatic presentations for many years. The building is now the home of the Coldwater Eagles Lodge.

A playground existed for many years at Waterworks Park, which was north of Sycamore Street, across from New Idea, and east of the railroad. In 1944, the Lions Club, along with other groups, proposed the building of a Park. The last remaining wooded area in the village was selected as the site.

In 1944-45, soliciting began on a voluntary basis among the business places and industries, which ended in approximately $6000 being donated to purchase the land. The land was purchased from Mrs. Selhorst, who always had a true civic spirit. The total of approximately 12 acres was purchased for $200 to $300 per acre. The area was dedicated as Memorial Park. Drainage was installed, a baseball field was laid out and graded, and tennis courts installed. In 1947, after a Carnival to raise funds, a shelter house was built.

Several years later, the site of a swimming pool was chosen and another solicitation was made to raise funds. The whole-hearted co-operation of the community raised approximately $30,000. An oval shaped design was selected (because of cost) and the entire community, under the direction of the Matt Schweiterman Construction Company, pitched in to make the pool a reality. High school boys and the men of the area provided the volunteer labor, and Coldwater had a swimming pool, opened in August, 1954, for much less than an estimated cost of $100,-

000. This included a bath house.

In 1958 more land was acquired for Memoria Park; more baseball diamonds, more picnic are and more shelter houses were located in this area. I 1961 Coldwater's unique organization, the Community Picnic Association, was formed, under the leadership of Bob Hibner and Don Luken. This association annually holds a two day carnival, which ha grown every year, with all proceeds going to the Memorial Park for capital improvements, and als to the Coldwater Library. In 1973-74 four new tennicourts were constructed. In September of 1974 the old swimming pool, which had been outgrown, watern out, and by May of 1975 a new pool constructed on the same site and using the same bath house. The cost of the new pool was $190,319.

Memorial Park is now recognized as one of the finest village parks in Ohio, as well as one of the most used

A newer playground, acquired in 1973, is for sma children on Hillcrest Avenue in the east part of th

Very important in the recreational pattern is Coldwater today are high school sports. The earlies high school sport undoubtedly was baseball, probably existing during the 1910's. There seem to be no records from those days. The first high school base ketball team seems to have been in December, 1926 when the K. of C. building opened, and a gymna sium was available. The high school basketball team continued to play there until 1936, when the present City Hall was built, and games were played in the auditorium of this building, which is the Municipal Library at this time. In 1939, the present High School was built, which included a gymnasium. The high school basketball team has since used this gym

The first high school football team was organized under William Oberholzer in 1936. The first season they played their games on a field on W. Main St across the road from the present Community Hospi tal. The next several seasons they played their games on a field owned by the Forsthoefel Dairy or South Second Street. The cows used the field al week, and before game time it was part of the field preparation to remove the reminders of their pres ence left behind by the cows. Necessarily, all game were played during daylight. In 1940, under the leadership of the Lions Club, funds were solicited and a new, lighted football field was constructed im mediately west of the high school. This field was the home of the Cavalier (a name adopted in the early '40's after earlier being called the Yellowjackets football teams until 1968, when a new stadium wa erected on W. Butler Street. Cavalier Stadium wa erected with much donated labor, under the leader ship of the Coldwater Jaycees. The stadium also in cluded Coldwater's first cinder track, although a high school track team had been organized in 196: by Kent Darr.

Coldwater High School today has eleven varsity sports — football, golf, cross-country, volleyball boys basketball, girls basketball, wrestling, gymnas tics, boys track, girls track, and baseball.

The school system is also today the locale of mos of the musical programs and dramatic presentation: in the village.

The scene of most dances and social meetings to day are the American Legion Hall, on N. Seconc treet, and the VFW Hall, south of Coldwater on tate Route 118.By Eugene Weber

The present scoutmaster is Willard Jenkins, while some of the past scoutmasters were: Merle Brookhart, Terry Wolf, Mark Carr, Mike Jenkins, Howard Coats, Guy Snider and Jerry Boecke. Troop 165 now has 24 scouts who make money for their troop by operating a concession stand at the ballpark. In the past, Robert Neiberding, Ed Garman, Ralph Wenning, Norman Bohman and Tom Mescher have also filled this position. Troop 97 presently has 26 members who make money for their troop by quarterly paper drives and operating a game stand at the annual Legion Picnic. They also participate in flag raising at home games and help the community when asked for services. Four scouts have reached Eagle rank in Troop 97 and seven scouts are in the Order of the Arrow. These boys all enjoy Summer Camp, the Klondike Derby, Cottonwood Campouts, Bowling parties and swimming.

Troop 199 of Ft. Recovery organized in 1978 with William B. Bridges as scoutmaster. This 10 member troop likes to build their own campsites and go camping.

Other troops in Mercer County are Troop 108 of Celina with Scott Brookhart as scoutmaster; Troop 98 of Rockford with Randy Rumple as scoutmaster; and Troop 231 of Mendon with Rich Chaney serving as scoutmaster.

Mercer County presently has 10 scout troops and about 150 boys in Boys Scouts. Thirty-five scouts have obtained Eagle and 20 scouts are in the Order of the Arrow in Mercer County.

This history of Boy Scouting in Mercer County is not complete, but gives the best information available to Karl Forsthoefel of Troop 96, who did this research and wrote this report as his service project toward earning his coveted rank as an Eagle Scout.

THE MERCER COUNTY COMMUNITY HOSPITAL AUXILIARY

Our Lady of Mercy Hospital was dedicated on December 3, 1950, and in the spring of 1951 our Auxiliary was organized with the assistance and guidance of the Auxiliary from Our Lady of Mercy Hospital of Springfield, Ohio. Our first officers were: Mrs. Josephine Werner, President; Mrs. Mary Hess Winkeljohn, Vice-President; and Mrs. Agnes Mueller, becretary-Treasurer. A tea was held the very same rear and became an annual event as well as the May Crowning, sponsored by the Auxiliary until the Sis-

Among the first purchases of the Auxiliary were sixteen sets of card tables and chairs to enable us to sponsor monthly card parties. It was also decided in he first year of organization to begin an annual 'Charity Ball.' The first one was held in the Coldwater High School Gym in November, 1951, and proceeds from this dance were used toward the purchase of cubicle curtains for hospital rooms. Through the years other money-making projects were undertaken. More recently, with the construction of the new hospital, the Auxiliary opened a gift shop.

Proceeds from these activities have enabled the Auxiliary to purchase kitchen equipment, office supplies and anesthetic equipment; to finance the nstallation of piped oxygen to all hospital rooms; and to support a coronary care unit. For a number of years, two girls were sponsored in practical nurses raining.

Volunteer programs have been a vital part of the Auxiliary's function. Volunteers maintained the gift ase and operate the gift shop in the hospital lobby. Through the years volunteers have performed personal services for the patients, now included in Project 9. At one time they supervised the visitation and system. A Sewing Committee was established in 1951 for the weekly sewing of new items and the necessary mending. This project is still active and ladies from Coldwater and surrounding communities sew for the hospital every Tuesday afternoon.

For many years there were very active auxiliaries n both Minster and New Bremen; however, these groups have phased out in recent years. By Judy Wim-

AMERICAN LEGION PATRIOTISM POST 470

The Coldwater American Legion was founded besuse a new organization for veterans was created y American soldiers in France. This new organizaon was established with its aims and purposes, onstitution and by-laws designed to be of assistnce to veterans and/or their widows and orphans.

A small group of World War I veterans held a neeting in the mayor's office to find out what this ew organization called the American Legion was all bout, what it stood for and how a local unit could e established. Interest developed to the extent that k-servicemen were invited to attend subsequent neetings which culminated in the determination to ave a legion post in Coldwater. Skepticism was resent, some ex-service men may have equated beig a member of this new organization might make 1em liable to be called back into service, a thought bominable to many who found it difficult to adjust the regimented life in the service as they had exerienced it. This was in evidence at one of the reetings when about half of the thirty in attendance alked out.

The desire to organize a post was so strong that if meant going out on the highways and by-ways to bund up enough eligible signers to obtain a charter is was to be done. The effort of the early enthusists culminated in accomplishing this endeavor. The ame of the post was to be Patriotism as this selecton represented a letter of the name of each boy om this village and township who gave his all in the service of his country. The date of the issue of the charter was August 11, 1920.

The first hurdle, organization, was fairly difficult. lowever, the second, financing the infant organizaon was more difficult. The Legion arranged with Ir. Charles Jenkins to hold Sunday movies, which is in violation of the Ohio Blue Law. As a result Ir. Jenkins was hauled into court and given several 1.00 fines. As the situation became more grave Mr. Inkins turned his Rex Theater over to the Legion resumably believing that an organization of exervice men should be exempt from this ruling. In spite of the fact that the prosecuting attorney was a legionnaire the opponents of Sunday night movies pressured him to serve notice. It was then decided to give up the idea of raising funds in this manner.

In 1921 the government assisted by the Legion and the American Red Cross started a plan to get in touch with any and all disabled veterans to help them straighten out their claims for compensation. The local post was to assist local veterans.

The Post put on its first street fair in 1922. This continued for a number of years as a carnival. Much of the success of the carnival was due to the splendid cooperation of the local city administration. In the same year the Post took over the Mike Link Pool Room on West Main Street and operated the American Legion Billiard and Pool Hall which was short lived. This year the Legion procured a bronze plaque on which the names of fifty-eight World War I veterans who made the supreme sacrifice was inscribed. This plaque was to be placed in the veterans room of the new Mercer County Courthouse.

In 1925 the Post booked Roy Smith's Scot Highlander Band, a fine music organization. A guarantee of $500.00 was required. The tickets were high priced (in those days) and sales were low. The young Post was saved because the committee had taken out rain insurance and were bailed out of their financial dilema because of a downpour.

A and a second distribution of the second

Another venture which was financially profitable in the 20's was the home talent plays put on under the auspices of the Post.

On January 28, 1927 the Legion moved its quarters to the City Hall Building.

The Post was in danger of losing its charter in 1929 because there were but twenty members on the roster; however, a successful membership drive boosted the enrollment to forty-four.

In 1931 the Legion started the Christmas Party for children.

In 1932 Post 470 was one of the first Posts in the state to go over the top in memberhip.

The Ladies Auxilliary of the American Legion Post 470 was formed in 1932.

During the depression years the Legion and Legion Auxilliary provided services for the poor of the community by raising large sums of money to pro-

The Turkey Festival was started during this time. The 1978 festival will be the 47th conducted by the Legion. The Turkey Festival started with live poultry — turkeys, ducks and chickens. How many people today would attempt the task of preparing a live bird?

In 1937 the Legion members rounded up boats from lake resort owners and loaned them to the Cincinnati flood victims during the terrible Ohio River flood. Food and clothing were also trucked to Cincinnati.

Coldwater's first centennial celebration was organized by the Legion Post in 1938.

The Post continued its quest for a home. In 1952 the headquarters was moved from the city building to the top floor of the Jenkins building on North Second Street. In 1957 the Post acquired a parcel of land north of Coldwater and started plans for a home. Much of the work was done by members. By means of various and sundry money raising enterprises the Post Commander, Carl Hasenjager and the original signers of the mortgage, were enabled to burn the mortgage at the 50th anniversary of the Post in 1970.

Although in the past great obstacles had to be overcome, the present is not without its attainments.

In 1975 the Post representative, Don Feltz, became the Second District Commander — a first for Post 470.

Present Commander Wallace Hart has been a trustee for Buckeye Boys State and is now the finance director of that activity which is sponsored by the Ohio State American Legion.

The Post donated $2000.00 to the local hospital addition. The Legion, VFW and K of C's provided funds for a biofeedback machine at the Coldwater Community Hospital.

The Legion and VFW provided for the Veteran's Monument at Coldwater Memorial Park. The Post also provided for the Veteran's Monument at St. Elizabeth's Cemetery.

For thirteen consecutive years the Post was awarded the merit of accomplishing an all-time high in membership.

The Post provides its facility to the Bloodmobile for collecting blood for the blood bank.

The quarters are donated free of charge to th Senior Citizens for their meetings.

The local Boy Scout Troop 96 is given storag space and a meeting room in the Legion home.

Annual pinochle tournaments are held in the Poshome.

This year the American Legion Slo-Pitch Softbal Tournament at Mansfield was won by the Post 47 team.

At present the Post has a membership of 411 members. Present officers are: Wallace Hart, Commander; Harry Watts, First Vice-Commander; Loui Riegelsperger, Second Vice-Commander; Tec Mescher, Adjutant; Louis Gross, Chaplain; Leo Rosenbeck, Finance Officer; Carl Hasenjager, Rober Heinrichs, Gary Koesters, Donald Bruns and San Moorman are the Trustees.

Since its beginning the Post has been under the leadership of the following Commanders:

Iota Mu Chapter of Phi Beta Psi Sorority, Coldwaer, Ohio was organized and chartered on November 8, 1951. Iota Gamma Chapter of Celina, Ohio was ur sponsor. Charter members were Lucy Bucceri, lyce Helfrich, Helen Uhlenhake, Natalie Desch, Iorma Lou Ebbing, Alma Henry and Kathy Plaas. Ars. Roman Rauh was chosen as their advisor. Vithin a year they had five new members: Ruth Villhoff, Betty Hibner, Kay Donauer, Elnore Jenins and Marian Brown, making a total of 12. Several items: a Webcor record player, file abinets, coat rack and money for books were donated to the local schools. A magazine rack and dicionary stand were donated to the Coldwater public ibrary. Money was donated to the Coldwater Comnunity Hospital general fund raising drive. We have lonated hospital beds, wheel chair and leg rests, walkers and bed pads to the local Mercer County Cancer unit as well as money to the local chapter ind the National Phi Beta Psi organization. These nonies have gone to transporting patients and supolies on the local level and sponsoring cancer research grants to various doctors and hospitals devotng their time to fighting cancer.

Our largest money raising project is our annual Holiday Bazaar. We also sell pecans, calendars, purses and have a silent auction in the beginning of the year. In the spring our big project is a Bowling Fournament. We help during the Community picnic by conducting a fish pond for children. Our goal is to continue working for the betterment of our local community and county and supporting the national light to cure cancer. Ruth T. Willhoff

DR. C. P. ADKINS

Mercer County has benefited greatly by the contributions of Dr. Charles Phillips Adkins. He was born in Albertville, Alabama on April 3, 1905, the only son of Louis Conrad and Catherine (Phillips) Adkins. He had four sisters. In 1930 he graduated from Emory University of Medicine in Atlanta, Georgia. In 1933 he married Seressa Odell Smith of Lynchburg, Virginia who was the daughter of Robert Glenn and Emma Edelaide (St. John) Smith. She had graduated from Lynchburg Hospital and Cleveland University Hospital as an anesthetist. They had two sons, Charles Phillips, Jr. and William Conrad.

In 1934 while working as a surgeon at Hamilton, Ohio, Dr. Adkins was persuaded to come to Coldwater by a drug salesman. He told Doctor of the pressing need for a surgeon in southern Mercer County. Dr. Weamer had died and Dr. Brumm was very ill. Most surgery patients were sent to Lima. Poor road conditions made this arrangement hazardous and inconvenient.

Doctor moved his family to Coldwater for a three month trial period. Fortunately for Mercer County, this trial period stretched into a lifetime. He rented the former office of Dr. Weamer and he and his family boarded with Mrs. Weamer. A year later he bought the home and office from Mrs. Weamer. Miss Cleo Muhlenkamp became a part of the Adkins' household in 1936 as housekeeper and caretaker of the children.

Doctor was able to perform most of his surgery at the office-hospital of Dr. John Gibbons in Celina. Dr. Gibbons shared his office with a dentist, Dr. Guy Bryson. Two rooms in the back served as hospital and surgery ward for the doctors. Because Mercer County now had a surgeon, Dr. Gibbons was able to expand his facilities.

Doctor's daily routine started early in the morning and often lasted far into the night. Mornings were taken up by surgery either at Gibbon's in Celina or minor surgery in his office. With Mrs. Adkins as anesthetist, they could do as many as six tonsillectomies and drive them all home before preparing afternoon office hours. Afternoon office hours lasted from one until six. This was followed by evening office hours six days a week from seven until all patients were cared for. After midnight he was often called out for an emergency surgery or a late night birth. It has been estimated that Doctor Adkins had delivered over 5000 babies.

The hard times of the 1930's were reflected in Doctor's practice. Many paid the $15 he charged for deliveries in vegetables and meat. At times he found the homes without electricity too dim to work. With his usual resourcefulness, Doctor drove his car up to the house and delivered babies by headlights!

When the Oppenheim and Synck family owners decided to sell their interest in New Idea, Doctor approached them about the need for a hospital in Coldwater. He convinced them to use part of the proceeds from the sale to build a hospital in Coldwater. He was very active in the fundraising for the rest of the cost of the hospital. In 1950 Our Lady of Mercy Hospital was dedicated.

Doctor Adkins somehow found time to pursue other interests. He was a major contributor to the Methodist Church in Coldwater. He owned a Guernsey farm south of Coldwater. He was an avid hunter and fisherman. Whenever possible he and his family would camp and hunt in the Canadian wilderness. Doctor took extended sporting trips to New Foundland and Nova Scotia, Alaska where he shot a polar bear, and Africa where he killed an elephant. These and his other kills are displayed in the large trophy room of his lakeside home.

Doctor's son Charles married Donna Smith of St. Marys. He is Vice-President of Central Trust Bank in Canton, Ohio. They have three children, Charles Phillips the Third, Alexander and Claire.

William married Elizabeth (Lynn Ann) Stedem of Columbus. He is an urologist at Erie, Pennsylvania. They have three children, William, Jr., Rebecca, and Thomas.

Doctor Adkins became ill in early 1972. On November 29, 1972 he died. All who knew him share a common memory of his gruff voice, brisk manner, and his love of a good joke. All also have a personal memory of the heroic efforts Doctor used to accomplish a miracle, or of the sincere grief he felt when all his skills were not enough. Doctor Charles Adkins' epitaph reflects his life of service:

"When I was sick you visited me, enter into the joy of the Lord."

BRANDON

Dale W. Brandon is the youngest son of J. Van and Mollie Cook Brandon. He was born on the family farm in 1926; and has spent his life in Mercer County, except two years he served in the army. He spent most of his service time in Italy.

Dale dropped-out of school when he was sixteen and worked at Mersmans. Later he hauled milk for Delos York and then purchased a milk route of his own. His first route was an open bed truck, when all the milk was hauled in 10 gallon cans. He now hauls packaged milk from Beatrice Food Co. to the distributors. He has been hauling milk since 1943.

Dale married Carolyn Roll in 1948 and they lived in Celina for eight years. In 1956 they bought a farm in Butler Twp. and moved there in the spring of 1957. After the death of his mother, Dale bought the family farm in Jefferson Twp. in 1976 — one hundred years after his grandfather James C. bought and cleared the land.

Along with the milk hauling they have a small chicken and hog operation and general farming.

Dale is the seventh generation of Brandons to live in Mercer and Darke County. His great-great-great grandfather was Richard Brandon (1751-1835) who was one of the first settlers near Versailles, O. "Old" Richard (as he was known) came to Darke County about 1816 with his wife Mary (1753-1821). He was from Virginia and of Scotch-Irish descent, of low stature and stout build, and well along in years on arrival as his seven sons and one daughter were all married and even some of his grandchildren were grown on arrival. He has been accepted by the D.A.R. as a soldier in the Revolutionary War.

"Old" Richard's parents were John (D-1774) and Mary of York County, Pennsylvania.

"Old" Richard's oldest son was Walter (1778-1835) and his wife Alice (1780-1850) are believed to have come to Versailles with his father. They had four sons and three daughters.

Susannah Stark (B-1789) to Versailles around 1820.
Susannah's parents were John and Hannah Stark who lived near Carlisle, Kentucky in 1829 and we believe moved to Illinois in 1829. James and Susannah's oldest son was David Brandon b Ca 1822, who married Ellen Hole in 1847 and he passed away in 1851. They had three children, one of them being James C. who was the grandfather of Dale. The four generations of Brandons from "Old" Richard which includes Walter, James and David are buried in Black Swamp Cemetery, which is the old part of Greenlawn Cemetery at Versailles.

Carolyn Roll, wife of Dale, is the daughter of Herbert E. (1897-1971) and Esther Martin Roll and was born near Ansonia, O. Her ancestors are also among the early settlers in Darke Co., some of whom came about the same time the Brandons did — names as — York, Ward, Martin, Bashore, Flory, Shields and Stauffer.

Carolyn has one sister, Roberta Davis, living in California, three brothers: Gerald and Byron living in Darke Co. and Dwight of Englewood, Ohio.

Dale and Carolyn are the parents of six children: Michael, Microbiology Supervisor at Children Medical Center, Dayton. He is married to the former Joycelyn Weadock, a teacher. They live in Vandalia, Ohio. Janet E. Adams, is a supervisor at Huffys, she lives in Celina. Kenneth, a business teacher and Asst. Varsity Coach at Defiance High School, Defiance, O. MICHAEL BRUNNER

My father came to America at the age of ten. In 1850, he was born in Landau Germany. When he was 20 years old he enlisted in the Union Army, 59th Ohio Volunteer Infantry. He was shot up, locked up and blown up. When his regiment was ordered to Louisville, he was not long in encountering real service. During the first two years of service, he had a taste of real warfare, figuring in the historic engagements of Perrysville, Murfreesboro, Shiloh and Chicamauga.

He was captured by the Confederates at Chicamauga in September and confined in a southern prison camp at Dalton, Ga. A few weeks later he was removed to Richmond, Va., where an old warehouse, known as the Smith building had been converted into a military prison. It was just across the street from the famous Libby prison. From there, he was taken to Danville prison.

With a few companions and an iron bar pried from a grating in the old warehouse, Brunner entered heartily into the digging of a tunnel from the cellar of the building. Late on the night of its completion, Brunner and all four companions crawled through it. For the first time in months fresh air was a welcome thing on the outside. They were heading for the Blue Ridge Mountains. Then the four were captured by a scouting squad of the Confederates and were returned to Danville.

The following March, he was transferred to Andersonville prison and there remained for a year. Andersonville was constructed on 36 acres. At one time there were 35,000 prisoners quartered there. Naturally, there was poor sanitation and much sickness. During August and September alone, the death toll ran from 125 to 175 daily.

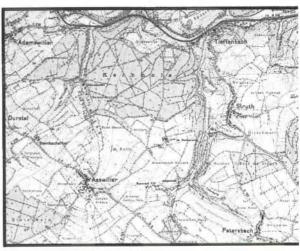

Joe Pritchard, another man and my father bribed a guard with a $5 Confederate bill and a blanket from a dead man, to help them over the fence. They laid within hearing distance of the prison all night. Before daylight, they ran toward the hills and made their way down Flint River. They were captured at Albany and again were back at Andersonville.

On March 21, 1865, he was sent to Vicksburg, Miss. He was there when news came that Lincoln had been assassinated. He was awaiting transportation back to the North. They were herded onto a steamer at Vicksburg known now in histories as the Sultana. It was a great boat as Mississippi river boats went in those days. Twenty-one hundred men were placed aboard the Sultana. It was so crowded there was no room for all of them to sleep at one time. Some had to stand up while others were lying down.

The hold of the vessel was loaded with mules and horses. At Memphis, the first night out, about all of this was unloaded. Whether removal of cargo lightened the boat and made it top-heavy, no one knew, but at any rate, Brunner was lying with the sleeping men near the pilothouse out on deck. Just before daybreak they heard peculiar hissing comming up the pipes. Everyone was awakened when the heat was terrific. Then came an explosion. Many got boards and planks to hold them afloat. My father was lucky to get a board as he could not swim very well. Every once in a while he would leave his body down to see if he could touch bottom. Finally he was scraping cottonwood and then pulled his way to land. A little boat picked him up and he was taken to Memphis.

There they gave him food and clothes and he was then taken on the Belle of Memphis steamer to Ciro. From which point they were sent by train to Columbus and mustered out of service. He then settled in Georgetown, married, had six children and his wife died.

He then married my mother, Elizabeth Barta, and had nine more children. I being the last one at his age of 65. My father died in 1929 in Dayton, Ohio. Mrs. Wm. Reier, Coldwater, Oh. 45828

DOLL

Robert Anthony Doll was born in Celina, Ohio March 12, 1947 the eldest of two sons born to Anthony Joseph Doll and Helene M. Schilling of Coldwater, Ohio. Robert is the owner of Bock-Printing Division in Celina. He is married to Phyllis Ann Rutschilling the eldest daughter of Vincent Henry Rutschilling and Anna Rita Bruns dec'd. Robert and Phyllis have three children Jerriann Marie born Oct. 19, 1968, Jennifer Jean born Oct. 24, 1969, and Barton Jerome born July 21, 1973.

Roberts family can be traced back to a prominent Mercer county pioneer, Joseph Doll who came from Oensbach in Baden Germany. We do not know when he arrived in America, but he lived for a time in Perry County, Ohio because one of his grandsons was baptized there in 1836. The Dolls possibly lived there a number of years, for they had to have considerable means to buy up 800 acres of land in Mercer County near what is St. Joe today, the following year. Joseph died in August, 1837 at the age of sixtytwo, survived by his wife and six children. The original homestead of Joseph Doll was where Linus Huelskamp now lives, the first farmhouse northeast of the church in St. Joe. We are not certain why the parish was named in honor of St. Joseph, but it is more than a guess that the Dolls chose the name. The church was built on property bequeathed for that purpose by Joseph Doll, and the church they attended in Perry County had also been St. Joseph's (incidentally, the first Catholic Church in Ohio).

In 1866 a large group of settlers in St. Joe moved to Minnesota including most of the Dolls. Joseph Doll's grandson also named Joseph remained in Mercer County. The younger Joseph was born April 3, 1834. He married Blandina Siegrist and they had six children, five sons and one daughter, Julius S. Corneluis, Bernardin, Anthony, Barbara Anna, and Ambrose. Ambrose the youngest was born Sept. 8, 1878 in St. Joe. On Feb. 4, 1914 he married Elizabeth F. Colle and they were the parents of four children Julius, Anthony, our subjects father, Marcella and Linus. The Dolls have been in Mercer County for over 140 years. FELTZ-GARMAN

Harold and Kathy (Garman) Feltz live in Coldwater with their four children. Todd, born in 1963, is studying German so that he can trace the family tree. Brad, who likes football, was born in 1965. Tanya, the only one born outside Mercer County, was born in 1968, and Melissa, the youngest, was born in 1973.

In 1975, Harold became a State Farm Insurance agent. He now has his own office in Coldwater, and takes part in many community activities.

Harold is the son of Oscar and Anna (Heinrichs) Feltz. He was born in St. Henry in 1940 and has three brothers and two sisters: Wilbur, Donald, Virginia, Anthony and Barbara.

Oscar is the son of Frank Feltz, a farmer and blacksmith from Cassella, and Philomena Cron. He was one of fifteen children. Anna is the daughter of John & Mary (Dierkers) Heinrichs. The Heinrichs family eventually settled in the Burkettsville area.

Frank was born in Cassella, son of Louis and Rosalia (Schuyler) Feltz. Louis came to Cassella at a young age with his family who had come to America in 1840 and shortened their name from fels d Olerstahl. Philomena was one of nine children born to John and Elizabeth (Beckman) Cron. John Heinrichs was the son of John and Bernadine (Bany) Heinrichs, and Mary was the daughter of Henry Dierkers, who lived around Cranberry.

Kathy Garman and Harold Feltz were married in Immaculate Conception Church in 1962. They lived in St. Henry for two years before moving to Piqua where Harold worked for United Parcel Service. In 1971, it was back to Mercer County when Harold's job took him to Celina and Lima. Finally, he ended up with his own business in Coldwater.

Cletus and Ena (Haslinger) Garman are life-time residents of Celina, where they raised three daughters. Audrey, who married Don Niekamp, and lives in Chickasaw; Janet, who moved to California, and Kathy. Cletus, or Chalk as everyone calls him, is the son of William and Bertha (Schlosser) Garman. William was the owner of the local cream station and went out each day to collect milk from farmers to sell in town. He was the son of George and Sarah Jane (Lincoln) Garman.

Bertha is the daughter of Charles Schlosser, who operated a saloon on Main Street in Celina, and his wife Elizabeth Wehrkamp. William and Bertha had six children.

J. Bernard Haslinger and Catherine Saalman were the parents of Ena, who was raised in Celina and Coldwater, where her father owned a grocery-dry goods-and shoe store.

J. Bernard died of the flu in the big epidemic of 1918. Catherine, the wife of John Bernard, was also the daughter of Herman and Catherine (Lennartz)

Saalman, farmers from the Philothea area.

William Haslinger, the father of J. Bernard, came to the United States in 1831 at the age of nine from Waldhausen Rhenish Prussia. He followed the settlers west during the gold rush years, and became a miner. After he made his fortune, he came back to Mercer County and bought a store in Coldwater, where he also made boots. After his return, he married Catherine Schmeising and raised seven children.

Most of our ancestors are of German extraction, who came to this area in the 1800's. Down through the years, their descendants, for the most part, were born, married, raised their children and died in Mercer County. Todd Feltz, Coldwater, Oh. 45828

who married Bill Schoenlein and later Frank Wenning; and William (b. 9/8/95; d. 11/29/71), who married Minnie Clune. Three children, Christina, Mary and Elizabeth, died in infancy.

Mike Gerlach said that he still wore a baby dress when he came to America around 1854. His father was Veit (Fidelius) Gerlach (b. 10/31/1810; d. 11/12/1869), his mother Katharina (b. Dec. 1811; d. 6/20/1893). Mike's older brother John later settled in Chickasaw. His sister Frances, born in America, married Bernard Greiwe (a son became Fr. Nicholas Greiwe, C.PP.S.) and later August Hamburger. The Gerlachs came from the Kingdom of Bavaria in Germany and settled on property now owned by Ernest Schwieterman (Marion Twp., sec. 8). A barn still marks the old homestead.

In 1878 Mike Gerlach married Elizabeth Ruemping, daughter of Adam and Adelheid (Mescher) Ruemping of Maria Stein and first settled on the farm now occupied by John Wermert at the corner of the Depweg and the Cassella-Montezuma Roads in Franklin Twp., sec. 6. In 1882 he moved to the afore-mentioned Robert Gerlach farm in St. Aloysius parish, where he raised his family. Here there were still many Black families. The older Gerlach children attended a local Negro school, and Mike engaged Blacks as live-in hired hands on his farm. Mike was always something of a character. He dressed quite informally (no socks or ties) and defied all fancy manners. His front yard, they said, was an overgrown weed patch that sometimes threatened to obscure the house. In Coldwater, where he lived in retirement, he was long remembered for his tall stories and accordion playing. He also had a knack for stirring up arguments by teasing remarks. To the grandchildren he was "grumpy." But his family remained close. Especially memorable were the birthday celebrations when the children and grandchildren came for an evening of music and dance and a good supply of "home brew," even though it was the Prohibition Era.

A related Gerlach family had come to Mercer County even earlier. Adam Gerlach (b. 12/20/1804; d. 9/14/1857), most likely Veit's older brother and therefore Mike's uncle, and his wife, Anna Maria Trimbach (b. 1808; d. 1/29/1885), first settled near Columbus, Ohio (1833), and in 1837 re-settled on a farm on the Sebastian Road now occupied by David Moeller (Franklin Twp., sec. 5). Adam had seven children, but only one boy, Jacob, born 1838. Jacob later married Barbara Hierholzer and built a stately house on his father's farm. In 1876 he moved to Celina, where his wife died. He then married Sophia Renn. Leona Gerlach and Mrs. Carl Bauer are children of the latter marriage. Fr. Dominic B. Gerlach, Rens-

EDWARD WHEELER HAMMOND II

The Hammonds, the Wheelers and the Harveys were all early settlers of Stratford, Connecticut. They were close neighbors who lived on a large tract of land known as "Harvey's Farm". Today this is East Main St. of Stratford.

JOHN BERNARD HASLINGER

John Bernard Haslinger was born in Maria Stein Mercer County, Ohio on April 26, 1872. He was the son of William and Catherine Haslinger. Through out his life, he was known to his friends and ac quaintances as Ben or J.B.

He received his early education at Maria Stein and there laid the foundation for his future career in the business world. Later he took a special course in penmanship, bookkeeping, typewriting and stenog raphy at the Coldwater Academy. After graduating there, he entered his father's shop at Maria Stein fo a short time. He then came to Coldwater and en tered the general store of John L. Phellis, as an as sistant. The business was located at the corner o Main and Market Sts., where the Coldwater City Hall and library are now located.

After a brief experience as assistant to Mr. Phellis he formed a partnership with his father, and they purchased the business from Mr. Phellis. He was then 25 years of age. The store, under the manage ment of J. Bernard Haslinger, soon came to be recognized as one of the leading business places in tha part of the county. The business handled groceries dry goods and shoes, and also ran a huckster wagor to accommodate the rural areas. The huckster wagon was horse drawn and carried almost all the unperishable items from the grocery department. A that time everything came to the store in bulk candy in wooden pails, crackers in barrels and vinegar in wooden kegs, to name just a few. Everything had to be weighed out or measured. (Times have certainly changed.) Mr. Haslinger's brother, John ran the huckster wagon. The horses were kept in a barn back of Mr. Haslinger's home. The family home was located in the rear of the business building with sleeping area on the second floor. Mr. Haslinger's mother and sister also helped in the store.

J. Bernard soon took over the business and his father retired to his shoe repair shop which was also located in the rear of the building.

On January 10, 1905, J. Bernard married Catherine Saalman in Philothea, Ohio. Catherine lived on a farm and assisted with the chores at home including working in the fields. They took up residence on Main Street in Coldwater, directly across from the business place.

Mr. Haslinger continued in the business until 1914 when he was elected to the office of Mercer County Clerk of Courts. At that time he sold his business and moved with his family to Celina, Ohio. While in Coldwater, he served as Corporation Treasurer, a position he held for three successive terms. He was also a director and stockholder of Peoples Bank in Coldwater, a position he held until his death.

Mr. Haslinger was completing his second term as County Clerk when he passed away on December 6th, 1918 at the age of 46 years. Catherine, his widow, moved back to Coldwater with her four young children in the Spring of 1919. They resided in the same home they had vacated in 1914.

The children are as follows. Ivo, who married Dolores Hoyng, of Coldwater, Ohio. They have 4 children. Ena, who married Cletus Garman, of Celina, Ohio. They have 3 children. Isabelle, who married Marlin Winder, of Mt. Victory, Ohio. Monica, who married Omar Siefring, of St. Henry, Ohio. They have 1 child. All of the 4 children reside at present in Mercer County. In 1931 a son was born to them and he was named Floyd Hemmelgarn. In 1932 another son was born to them and his name was Jerome Hemmelgarn. In 1933 the Egg and Poultry business grew large enough that they could go on their own. They rented a house in Philothea and used a barn for their grading and candling of eggs. In 1938 a daughter was born to them and she was named Elizabeth Hemmelgarn and this was the size of their family. Ed and Josephine always rented until 1945 when they bought the Henry Pohl home and other buildings and 12 acres of land in Philothea which gave them more room for business. THE JEFFRIES FAMILY

Milton Jeffries (our great-grandfather) an early settler of Plain Township was born in Clark County, Indiana, on January 8, 1814. Son of Francis and Margaret Jeffries. Natives of Kentucky. Francis was born in 1781 and died in 1865. It is known that two Jeffries brothers came over from England. Someone over here paid their passage over for them to serve in the Revolutionary War. After the war one went to Kentucky and the other to Indiana. It was Francis' father that served in that war, I have no information on the other brother.

Miltons parents had thirteen children. Six of whom survive: Milton; William Mary; Elizabeth; Salem and Nancy. (The book from which this information came was printed in 1887). The deceased were Robert; Malinda; Benoni; Sarah; James; Allen and Rebecca. His father came to this State while it was yet a territory, and settled in Clark County.

In 1835 he went with his parents to Kosciusko County, Indiana, settling in Van Buren Township.

His parents both died in this County.

Milton was reared on a farm and educated in common schools. He was married three times, and had ten children. He first married Elizabeth Catey, by whom he had six children. Two of whom survive. Francis M. and Allen (our grandfather). His second wife was Nancy Blue. Two of their children survive. Salem Orlando, and Nannie E. His third wife was Rebecca Ann Edmund, widow of E. Edmund.

Milton owned 144 acres of land, served creditably as school director, and a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church. And was a Republican. Four of his sons were soldiers in the Civil War. He served three years and participated in many battles. He died at the age of 71, November 17, 1913. At the folks place in Ira. James died in the service there is no record on him, so I don't know where he placed in the family.

Miltons other two children by his second wife, Salem Orlando and Nannie E. Salem married Clara Ellen Meek. They had four children. Ralph; Fred; Ruth and Helen. Only Ruth is still living (1968). She had four children. Ralph had one daughter. And Fred one son. We had the pleasure of having Ralph, his wife Bea and daughter June visit us during the 40s, and I still write to Bea and June. Dad visited the family in Indiana in the 40s while Ralph and Helen were living. Nannie married Wm. F. Armington. They had three children. John; Charles and Eva. I understand the boys were twins.

In Miltons first family only Allen married. He was married to Rebecca Elliott November 1, 1868. They went to Iowa and settled near Ira in October of 1869. They had five children. RALPH M. JEFFRIES

The following newspaper article appeared in the Farragut, Idaho Naval Training Station paper. LIEU-TENANT RALPH M. JEFFRIES RETIRES. Orders received Monday ended the long and colorful Navy career of Lt. Ralph M. Jeffries USN (Ret.), last Executive Officer of the Recruit Training Command. Lt. Jeffries, who has served on various ships and naval bases around the world for almost 35 yrs., received his commission Dec. 15, 1917. He reported at Farragut on Sept. 14, 1942 and has been identified with recruit training here almost since the first recruit company was formed. He is retiring to inactive duty and will make his home in San Diego, Cal. I remember well my childhood years spent traveling with my parents (when I was old enough to remember). I especially remember 2 places — San Diego, Calif., and Hayden Lake and Farragut, Idaho. My memories of Hayden Lake, Idaho include the mountains and snow, sledding and making snow-men in the winter and our cabin. It and others like it n the small summer resort of Hayden Lake, served as temporary housing for Navy families while pernanent quarters were being constructed at the nearby Navy base at Farragut. We had to endure the pitter cold weather of our 1st winter in Idaho and even with our large fireplace and oil heater going ull tilt it was still hard to keep warm. I remember getting ready for school and Mom struggling to put thains on the tires of our old 1940 Mercury so we wouldn't get stuck in the snow. Of course we always lid and so the other kids Mom took to school and I would get out and push the car out of the rut it was n. In summer I remember swimming in Hayden .ake (a Navy Lifeguard taught me how) and explorng the woods and gathering wildflowers and pine ones which were in abundance. And there was always that wonderful smell of the pine forest. One thing I can remember that I didn't like was having to have tick shots. All the children at school had to take them. They made you very sick and sometimes I would make up a story and tell my mother I had had them when in fact, I hadn't. But she always caught on and so I ended up having to take them anyway. Eventually we were able to move on the Navy Base at Farragut. I enjoyed the spectacular scenery there including the mountain which overlooked Lake Pend d' Oreille. I enjoyed watching the sailors rowing their boats on the lake in perfect unison and also watching them parade past our house. When we heard the sailors on the march we usually went outdoors and, in winter, threw snowballs at them. Since they were ordered to remain standing still at certain times, they were perfect targets! I remember the sound of the foghorn mournfully sounding out across the lake and echoing off the mountains. I also remember "Bambi" our favorite deer who would make my mother angry by nonchalantly nibbling at our shrubbery. "Bambi" was a pet of the sailors who fed him.

My memories of San Diego, Calif. include dancing lessons, horseback riding lessons and of course the mild climate. I enjoyed the normal childhood activities and even had my own banana tree growing in our back yard. Occasionally, we would visit our cousin's who lived up the coast in Santa Barbara and I enjoyed the trips along the Pacific Ocean immensely. I remember my playhouse in the back yard, running through the sprinklers in bathing suits on hot days, the "good humor man" and

Finally, during Christmas vacation from school when I was in 7th grade my father decided to move to Syracuse, Indiana. This was the place of his childhood as he was born on a farm near there at Leesburg, Ind. I attended Syracuse High School and graduated in 1953. I loved Indiana too and esp. living right across the street from Syracuse Lake. I enjoyed swimming, fishing and in winter ice-skating on the lake. It also became my favorite spot just for thinking. by June Jeffries (Lovett)

The following newspaper article dated May 9, 1957, further documents my father's military career.

"Taking it easy in San Diego, Calif. in the interim, the Jeffries' came to Syracuse, Ind. because their daughter, June liked the lake and wished to attend school here.'

Jeffries was in the 1st Convoy of Ships out of San Francisco that left for Pearl Harbor. His ship was the Cuyama, an oil tanker carrying diesel oil, ammunition, aviation gasoline, and fresh water. In World War I he was in the Grand Fleet, American Unit 1 on the USS Florida.

As an E. and R. officer, he opened the Farragut, Idaho, Naval Training Station, and was Security officer at Farragut Station for 68,000 people, making the Station from scratch.

After that he had Re-training Command, taking boys that had General Court Martial, for re-training who, if they made good, would be restored to active duty.

Jeffries also had charge of 150 musicians of the bands, keeping track of all instruments and had to answer all USO calls for men and instruments.

He was a member of the General Court Martial Board, had his own Summary Court Martial Board, and then Deck Court Martial for recruit training.

My father, who was the 2nd son of the union of Salem O. and Clara E. (Meek) Jeffries (see early history) was born Jan. 11, 1890 and passed away May 16, 1961 at Syracuse, Ind. After the funeral, his body was put on the train at the Syracuse depot for burial at Arlington National Cemetery. My mother accompanied the body and impressive graveside services were held at Arlington May 22, 1961. Afterward, Mother was presented with the flag that had draped his coffin. I will always remember my father as a wonderful, kind, courageous man whose family as well as serving his country meant a great deal to him.

Today, his widow, my mother Beatrice L. Jeffries, 77 resides at 421 E. College St. having come from Syracuse, Indiana in 1967. My oldest son Brandon (Lovett), 21 lives with her. I live with my husband Forest Lovett and 2 other children Janet, 17 and Glenn, 15 at 600 W. Walnut St., Coldwater. My oldest son Brandon graduated from Coldwater High School in 1975 and my younger children attend Coldwater High School. We have lived in Coldwater since 1963. LOUIS AND ROSE (SPOLTMAN) MESCHER

Eberhard Holthause came to America around 1815 with his wife and children. His fourth child, Mary, was very young when they settled in Cincinnati. The family soon grew to include seven children: Eberhard, Jr., Henry, Joseph, Mary, Elizabeth, Catherine, and Angelica. Mary grew up in Cincinnati and there she met and married William Fiely.

William Fiely was born in Holland near the German-Dutch border. He sailed to New York as a young man and worked on board the ship for a few days before setting out for Cincinnati. He remained in the Ohio River town for two years, working at odd jobs. It was during this time he met and married Mary Holthause.

Shortly after the birth of their first son, the Fiely family moved north to Mercer County where they purchased 40 acres in Granville Township. The land was covered with trees and William's first task was to erect a shelter for his family since it was already the fall of the year. With only $5 and an axe, William constructed a rough log stable. He purchased a steer from a Mr. Spoltman and paid for it by work. The following summer, William carried brick for the St. Henry Church then under construction. With the money he earned, he bought another steer and soon made great progress clearing his farm. There were many hardships for the pioneer family but food was to be had for the taking. Wild game of all sorts was plentiful, and, to the Fiely family, necessary, since they didn't have enough land cleared to grow much of their own food.

After William cleared his land, he took to farming in a big way; eventually owning about 340 acres. He was the first owner of a reaper in his part of the county. It was a very awkward machine and while operating it, William lost his arm.

William and Mary were the parents of fourteen children: Mary, Elizabeth, Anna, Catherine, John H. Bernardina, Frances, Joseph, Bernard, Henry, Philomena, and Christina. Another daughter, Louise, died at age 18, and a son, Henry died in infancy. William Fiely died March 8, 1894 near Cranberry Prairie.

In 1849, forty-five years before William Fiely's death, John B. Spoltman arrived in the United States from Holland. His family accompanied him and they settled in Section 32 of Butler Township, northwest of the small village of Coldwater. The land was covered with virgin forest and the family's first task was to clear enough land to farm. The family prospered and in due time, John J. Spoltman, son of John B., assumed ownership of the land.

John J. was born in Holland on August 27, 1840, and came to America at the age of nine. He grew up on his father's farm and on June 3, 1870, he married Mary Fiely, oldest daughter of William and Mary (Holthause) Fiely.

John and Mary Spoltman lived on the farm of John B. Spoltman. Their neighbors to the east were Anton and Mary (Fischer) Mescher, both second generation Americans of German stock. The Mescher's had a family of eight children four boys and four girls. The son, Louis, married Rose the daughter of John and Mary Spoltman. Louis and Rose took over the farming operations of the Mescher Homestead. They were the parents of seven children: Carl, Ralph, Lucille, Linus, Wifred, Pauline, and Donald. Henry and Wilhelmine Synck

HENRY SYNCK

This year being the hundredth anniversary of I father's birth, I, his youngest child, am writing t account.

Henry John Synck was born July 30, 1878, at Sebastian, the only son of John and Katherine Wi Synck. John Synck was the second child of Bernha and Johanna Kortbojer Synck from Westphal Germany. John and Katherine came to the U about 1875, settling near Sebastian.

Henry had six younger sisters: Catherine (Gage 1880, Maria Stein; Elizabeth, died at birth; Rc (Gesing), Cleveland; Agnes, 1887; Mary, died birth; and Sophie, 1889. The family moved to Ma Stein, where some of the children were born.

He attended a two-room schoolhouse near Seba tian under John Birkmeyer. He also learned carpe try from his father and worked on several farms. A ter moving to Maria Stein, my father worked Kramer's machine shop; he also did office work a learned bookkeeping. In 1899 his aptitude for m chanical invention was tested when Joseph Oppe heim, later to be his father-in-law, conceived t idea for a spreading device for manure spreaders. seph, who was teacher, organist and choirmaster St. John's, asked my father, a member of his choir, he could build a working model based on Joseph idea. Henry said he would try. The first moc worked poorly, but with modifications which my I ther made, he produced one which did work. Joseph had the conception; Henry was able to make t idea work. The invention was patented in Josepl name; Henry, age 21, was Joseph's junior by twer years, in no position to take credit for work on t invention.

Joseph Oppenheim started the business in a sm building at Maria Stein Station. The company w named The New Idea Spreader Works; Henry Syn and Fred Heckman became operators of the factor Henry would test each machine after delivery, maing sure of proper operation. Two years later Jose Oppenheim died. His widow, Anna Mary Ellerbro Oppenheim, owned the business, with only Hen and Fred to run it since her oldest son, Bernard, w just fifteen. She decided to continue the business.

On Oct. 6, 1903, my father married Wilhelmi Oppenheim, the widow Oppenheim's oldest chi Wilhelmine was born Jan. 4, 1885, at Freiburg Ohio. Henry and Wilhelmine lived in a small hor at Maria Stein Station. Their first child, Mary, bo Sept. 29, 1904, is now Mrs. Oscar Moore of Coldw ter. A son, Adolph, born Jan. 15, 1908, also lives Coldwater.

In 1908 Wilhelmine's mother, Anna Mary Oppenim, passed away. As all of Wilhelmine's younger others and sister were still at home, the Synck nily moved into the Oppenheim home and cared all the children: Bernard, 21; Cecilia, 18; Joseph: Theodore, 11; and baby Justin, 6. Daughter Mary s 4 and Adolph 4 months. Henry assumed this repossibility when he himself was only 29.

Henry and Ben Oppenheim managed the busiss, gradually taking each of the younger Oppenim children in as full partners. After Ben and cilia had left the home, my parents continued to e for Ted and Justin.

Henry's third child, Sophia, now Mrs. Victor mholt of Coldwater, was born May 25, 1909.

As New Idea needed better shipping facilities, an sembly plant was built in Coldwater in 1908; Ben penheim and Bernard Selhorst managed it. Manacturing of basic components was continued at aria Stein until the business was transferred to Idwater in 1912.

Henry built a home in Coldwater at 413 South arket Street where the family moved in 1913. A arth child, Louis, now living at Amarillo, Texas, s born March 8, 1922.

Henry was responsible for more than twenty adional patents on the manure spreader. He was inumental in development of a two-row corn picker 1928. Throughout this time he was manager of tory operations, responsible also for purchasing d new product development. When Ben Oppenim died in 1935, Henry was elected president of company, continuing in that post until 1945.

Aside from his prime occupation, my father ved on the building committee for the first paroial school in Coldwater in 1913. Always active in airs of Holy Trinity parish, he was a charter memr of the Knights of Columbus and a member of Men's Society, serving some years as its presint. He was also active in civic affairs; during his m as president of the Board of Public Affairs the st Coldwater waterworks was completed.

He served many years as director of the Peoples nk Company, assuming the presidency from 1932 1952. My parents' pledge of personal assets dur-3 the Bank Holiday of 1933 contributed to saving e institution from bankruptcy.

He and my mother worked diligently to bring a spital to Coldwater, and contributed toward its nstruction.

My father loved classical music and in his unger years learned to play the flute. He and my other attended many concerts and operas and iveled extensively.

My mother's death March 27, 1953, was a severe pw for him. Six more months would have marked eir golden wedding anniversary. After her death, enry continued living in the family home until his vn death on Dec. 7, 1966. He and my mother are tried at St. Elizabeth Cemetery in Coldwater. Mrs. car Moore, Coldwater, Oh. 45828

CENTER TOWNSHIP AND THE VILLAGE OF NEPTUNE

Center Township became a political entity June 2, 834, by action of the Mercer County commission-rs upon a petition by citizens of Town 5 south, lange 3 east. The first election was held at the ouse of William Bonifield, June 21, 1834. It was ormed from the south half of Union Township, which had been formed from Dublin Township in 828.

Bonifield completed the survey and platting of Jeptune Dec. 2, 1837.² It was located on the Old lank Road originally traced by Gen. Anthony Vayne, and one of the main roads of the Northwest erritory, running from Columbus, Ohio, to Ft. Vayne, Ind., and now known as US 33. Even as at is founding, this highway remains today as the rincipal traffic artery of the township, although it was not until about 1927 that the last section was onverted from mudroad to concrete paving between Rice Rd. and Mercer.

Neptune immediately became the political and ultural center of the township, and until the autonotive era, its principal trade center.

Michael Harner is credited as the first settler in lenter Township, moving from Dublin in 1820. enjamin Roebuck arrived soon afterward, and Boifield in 1821-22.³

Other names appearing in the list of early settlers, nany still present in the area, were Spicer, Cain, hanklin, Howick, Hankins, Copeland, Coil, Davis, ast, Bogart, Townsend, Carroll, Nickel, Nolan, Aurlin, Nottingham, Piper, Rice, Craft, Ashbaugh, rookhart, Dibble, Fowler, Webb, Newcomb, Drury, Aalick, Hall, Keyser, McKirnan, Copps.

By 1880 over half of the land area, 19,188 acres, ad been cleared of timber. Population peaked at 1,-39 in the 1890 census, then began slowly declining, ecoming static about 1950. By 1970 it again was enering a period of moderate growth. The 1970 census recorded 916 residents. Woodlands continued to disappear, but at a slower pace, until a good estimate today would place less than one-tenth of the land area in woodlots.

Livestock production, at one time highly diversified in hogs, dairy, beef and poultry, began declining in the post World War II period until the farm acreage is now almost entirely cash grain, with the principal crops corn, soybeans and wheat.

A post office was established in Neptune and served the entire community until the establishment of Rural Free Delivery by act of Congress in 1890.

By 1882, Neptune had 125 residents, two dry goods and general stores, one grocery (with the post office), three wagon and three blacksmith shops, one steam sawmill, one milliner shop, two physicians, a two-story brick schoolhouse, a township hall, and two churches. In its earlier days it also had boasted a hotel, operated by Bonifield assisted by Benjamin Nickel who arrived in the area in 1838, and became operator of the hotel and store when Bonifield died in 1841. In 1839 Jason and Atwater Hall brought their families to Neptune. Atwater Hall married Caroline Bonifield, daughter of William, according to Mrs. Joseph (Mildred) Fischer, Hall's granddaughter. They had two children, L. A. "Lute" Hall, and Ada Hall Hamilton, Mrs. Fischer's mother. Bonifield is buried by a large tree in the field across from the Community Park.

Lute operated a general store and barber shop where John Flowers' second hand store is today. Lute retired to his farm across the road from what is now the Center Community Park, and sold the store and barber shop in 1927 to Emerson Pond who traded 80 acres about two miles west of town for the store. In 1928 Emerson sold the store to his daughter and son-in-law, Elsie and Guy Wolfe, who operated it until 1945, when they in turn sold to Newell and Ann Cunningham, retaining the poultry and egg business they had established shortly before. The Cunninghams operated the business until Newell's death. Ann continued for a time, but ultimately the store was closed.

In 1865 Henry Lacamp opened a second general store, stocking in 1866 what he advertised as "the largest and best stock of dry goods that had ever been brought into Mercer County." The ultimate history of Lacamp's store is not recorded in previous historical accounts, but well may be the store operated by Tom Williams through the teens and 1920's. He was aided by a brother, Clarence, who drove the huckster wagon. Tom's wife, Leah Hankins Williams had a niece, Rue Hankins, who had married C. G. Roebuck, and "Buck" came to barber for Tom in 1928. About 1930 Tom was elected to the state legislature, and in 1932 took a state government position in Columbus. Tom moved his family to Columbus then, leaving C. G. and Rue in sole possession of the store and barbershop.

About 1940 C. G. bought the grist mill from Lutz and Crow and moved it to a location behind the store, probably, in the memory of Mrs. Fischer, the location of the original Bonifield Tavern. The grist mill began to grow rapidly in volume and diversity, and about 1945 the store was closed, and became a warehouse for bagged feed supplements. Fertilizer and other farm supply items were added to the feed

Then in 1953, Feb. 19, fire destroyed all of the elevator and grinding facilities.

However, a week later a rebuilding program was underway, and a far more efficient and modern structure took its place.

The Roebucks continued to operate the business until 1966, when they sold to Jack Harmon, who continued its operation as the Neptune Elevator. Ill health and financial problems overtook Harmon in 1973, and the business was sold to John Sites. Under Sites' management growth has resumed, storage and grain handling facilities expanded and separate livestock feeding operations organized. It employs six people, making it the largest employer in the township. Grain bins, dump pits and elevator legs now occupy the place of the old store building.

The advent of the automobile that spelled the ultimate doom of the general stores, also wrought a change in the blacksmith shops. They began to turn into garages for auto repair and gasoline retailing. Charles Young, who had had a blacksmith shop where the elevator office now stands, moved to a new location on the Old Plank Road across from the Township Hall. In 1925 he hired Hiram Crow as mechanic. In 1931 Marion Lutz came to work ar with Hiram has operated the business ever sinc Charles Young traded his interest for a farm on the Auglaize County line in 1931, and in 1937 Lutz ar Crow bought the building and took complete own ership of the business.

The business included a grist mill establishe about 1925, which was operated along with the grage until 1940, when it was sold to C. G. Roebuck.

Hiram Crow probably had the first airplane in the township, a Waco biplane he bought in 1931, plane that became a familiar sight to Center Town ship residents as "Hiny" cruised the area on sun mer evenings and Sunday afternoons.

William Berry, who lived in the southwest corne of the township, made headlines in local papers a early as 1912 with a plane he designed and cor structed himself, but there is no record that it ever got off the ground. Berry also attempted a perpetus motion machine.

Another early aviator in the township was Geral Springer, who became the first "flying farmer" i Mercer County in the 30's. Springer bought the first combine in the county in 1926, and the first rubbe tired tractor. He also taught tractor courses, sol Case farm machinery, operated a fruit orchard, ha one of the larger farming operations in the towr ship, plus an orange grove in Florida.

In 1923 Ralph Schnarre opened Wayne Way Garage on the site of the blacksmith shop of his maternal grandfather, Levi Baker. Guy Lemunyon becam associated with the business in 1930. The partner ship was dissolved in 1947, when the buildin Scharre had built across the street from the olblacksmith shop, was sold to a Mr. Dodge. Howeve Dodge turned it back after a year, and it was sold to Guy Wolfe, who closed down his poultry and eg business and began operating a farm machiner business about 1947. In 1956 he sold the shop an business to Stanley Roediger, the present owner.

Meanwhile Schnarre built a new cement block building about 150 yards east and opened Schnarre' Garage, the business now operated by his son, Ralpl

Schnarre Ir

March 19, 1948, a tornado destroyed the block building, and the present frame building was buil to replace it.

Another business liquidated by changing tradepatterns about mid century was the cream station located in a small building between Flowers' antique and used furniture store and Lutz and Crow garage Nellie Piper operated it for White Mountain Cream ery at New Bremen. Nellie would buy the cream brought in from local dairy herds (commonly two to five cows, hand milked and milk separated at the farm with the skim milk usually fed to hogs). A truck picked up the accumulated cream and hauled it to New Bremen for churning into butter.

Another business lost in antiquity was a tile mill probably located just north of Neptune on SR 19.

Another business responsible for much improvement in the agriculture of the area was that of Harvey Shimp, a tile drainage contractor. He installed many miles of clay tile most of which is still functioning. He was an early advocate of deep placement, when many farmers were still arguing for shallow lines with the argument that "the water will never get down to the tile." A son, Brooks Shimp, became the inventor of the tandem axle for the ditching machine, a concept still used on the Speicher machines manufactured in Celina today.

Another business that flourished in Neptune from the late 1920's to the late 1940's was the stockyard operated by Vaughn Hall, forerunner of the Western Ohio Livestock Exchange near Montezuma. The latter is now Middendorf stockyards.

Early Christian worship was conducted mainly by circuit riders from Celina or St. Marys, in homes or schoolhouses.

The first minister to settle in Center Township was Rev. Timothy Hankins who came in 1838. He was also the first school teacher in the area, holding classes in the kitchen of James Thompson.³ Rev. Hankins helped build the first church in Mercer County, Bethel Methodist, on the Eight-Mile Creek in Union Township. The usual pattern was to organize a congregation which met in homes or schools, then erect a building when the congregation was large enough to support it.

Bronsart Gilberg, in his History of Mercer County, gives considerable detail of the growth of the early churches.

By the turn of the century, seven churches had been built in Center Township: Center Methodist, on SR 197 at Howick Rd.; Fairview Church of God, Celina-Mendon Rd. at Oregon Rd.; Zion United Brethren, Celina-Mendon Rd. at Hasis Rd.; Neptune Baptist, SR 197 by the Township Hall in Neptune; Neptune Church of God, SR 197 on the north edge of Neptune; East Oldtown and West Oldtown United Brethren a mile apart on Oldtown Rd., actually in Jefferson Township but drawing much of their congregations from Center Township.

By mid-century, attrition was setting in for the church membership rolls, aided by faster and more dependable autos. By 1975 only three active churches remained: Zion United Methodist, (from denominational mergers with Evangelical United Brethren); Neptune Baptist; and Neptune Church of God.

The latter had relocated with a new building in 1957, on US 33 just northwest of Neptune. Fire having destroyed the original building in 1955.

Center Township was among the first in the county to consolidate its one-room school buildings into a central building. In 1928 school opened about a month late to allow completion of a modern building at Neptune. Five school buses, privately owned and contracted to the local board of education, picked up students living a mile or more from the school. The districts replaced were Mt. Hope (Rice and Bogart Rds.), Piper (Rice and Oregon Rds.), Frog Pond (SR 197 at Burd Rd.), Plank Road (Celina-Mendon near Hasis Rd.), Kaiser (Stose and Oregon Rds.), Adams (U.S. 33 near Harris Rd.), and the Neptune 2-room elementary and high school. Another district, Hard Scrabble (Riley Rd. near Howick Rd.) had been closed earlier, and two other districts, Maple Center and Beougher, on the west side of the township opted not to join the centralized school (they later became part of the Celina City School District).

The first class was graduated from Center High School in 1905, then a 3rd grade high school, which meant that students had to take the fourth year in Celina or St. Marys.

The high school was granted first class accreditation in 1917, and continued in the new building until 1952, when state regulations forced the board to contract with Celina City Schools for high school instruction. Grade school continued in the Center building. The district was merged with Celina City Schools in 1967, and all pupils transferred to Celina. The building was razed in 1975, after being severely damaged by fire Aug. 30, 1973, while occupied by the Auglaize-Mercer Bi-County Community Action Commission. The fire was declared arson by the state fire marshal, but no prosecutions resulted.

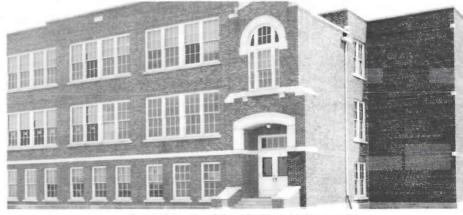

Center Township shared the experience common to all rural areas in the last century, of exporting a large share of its talent to the cities. Center Township sent Henry J. McKirnan to the sheriff's office for two terms in 1874. George Raudabaugh went to the state legislature in about the same period, and Tom Williams, a proprietor of one of the general stores in Neptune, went to the state legislature about 1930, later moving to Columbus to work in state government. Ivan Davis served as a County Commissioner in the late 40's.

A number of Celina's successful businesses today were founded by Center Township natives. Early in the 20th century, Walter H. Dick, a member of the second graduating class from Center Township High School, founded W. H. Dick and Sons, Inc., funeral parlor. George Thomas formed an insurance agency in Celina. Ben Nickel founded Nickel Hardware. Mary Hale formed what is now Jack Hover Ins. On toward mid-century Willis Bair owned and operated Bair's Drug Store. John Bair for years operated an upholstery shop. In more recent years Owen Hall founded Owen Hall & Associates, Inc., a nationally known realty firm. Eldon Houts, president of the Citizen's Commercial Bank, was one of the later graduates of Neptune High School, along with Chester Stephenson, another Citizen's Commercial officer. Dana Piper owns a bulk petroleum fuels route out of Celina.

Ruel Harner and Grandchildren, Leisa and Mark Florence, at the old Plank Road or Roebuck School, after the roof had blown off. Ruel attended this school for seven years; then later used it as a hog pen.

Center Township School Building, built in 1928

The first high school class in 1905 graduated three students, Ray Murlin, Raymond Cain and Laura Stansberry. The last class in 1952 graduated nine: Doyle Ballinger, Romilda Becher, Henry Greber, Richard Grimm, Don Harris, Don Heppeard, Marilyn Matthews, Chester Stephenson and Ted Yewey.

Following the razing of the Center School, the Celina City School Board leased the grounds to the Center Township trustees. A Community Park committee was formed, and in 1978 a new community gathering place was added to the community to augment the new Township Hall built in 1974.

A baseball diamond, tennis and volleyball courts, horseshoe bays were built, toilets and a shelter-

The township trustees in 1978 are Ruel Harner, William Cisco, Lewis Gray, and Calvin Houts, clerk. The Park Committee was Doyle Ballinger, Richard Grimm, Lavern Wendel, Steven Farnsworth, William Germann, Mrs. Stanley (Shirley) Roediger, Mrs. James (Bonnie) Hume, Mrs. James (Dorothy) Rutter, Mark Van Tilburg, Terry Williams and Dan Lehman

To see the many people of the area using the park, especially on Sunday afternoons, is reminiscent of the earlier days in the community, when such things as a baseball team with an every-Sunday schedule held forth on the school diamond, and every winter the entire community gathered in the Township Hall and later in the school building for the Community Institute, replete with a community orchestra and a home talent play to climax the occasion.

Such community cooperation, so common in the early history of rural communities, appears to be rising anew. As Written By John W. Townsend

THE MOUNT ZION UNITED METHODIST CHURCH

In September of 1850 the Rev. James Lay organized the society of the Mount Zion United Brethren Church in ϵ school house on the banks of the Twelve Mile Creek, two nd one half miles north of the present church. The conregation was Micheal Harner, and wife, Sylvester Rider nd wife, Lewis Bolton and wife, and James Harner and rife. For fifteen years they held their meetings in this chool house, with a circuit rider bringing a sermon from me to time.

On June 7, 1851, Daniel and Laura Murlin sold one cre of land for ten dollars, for a church lot and "burying round" to George Siler, Sylvester Rider and Micheal larner, trustees of the church. This was located north and east of the present church. No church was ever built n this location.

In 1868 Christian and Mary Deidrick sold a tract of nd for ten dollars, to the church. On this land, one half tile south of the present church, the congregation rected a hand hewn log church. At this time the memership was forty, with John Siler as class leader and mes Harner as steward.

January 30th, 1883, Benjamin and Hannah Harner sold ne acre of land for fifty dollars to Noble King, John Siler, and James Harner, Trustees. This is where the present turch is located. Carpenters building the present church ere Noah Ginter, Abe Ginter and Phillip Fast. To help also money, to build the church, Noble King sold his ally cow and turned all the money over to the building and.

In 1896 Mount Zion had its first pastor, a Rev. Tommy oat.

In 1945 a house, given by Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hasis, to be church was moved in beside the church, and was reodeled and re-decorated for a parsonage. On Sept. 29, 246, a Parsonage Dedication service was observed. This ork was done under the leadership of Rev. Carl Ayres, stor. Later Rev. Ayres was called into Missionary work at left the church to serve in Moyamba Seirra Leone, lest Africa. It was under the leadership of Rev. and Mrs. arl Ayres, the Zion Missionary Organization was organed in September 1946, and is now called United Methlist Women.

In 1950, the church building was completely remodeled in re-decorated, a basement added, and the new enance was moved to the middle of the church. A new rating system was added, also. The cost of the remodelg program was approximately fifteen thousand dollars, ind on the day of the dedication, the church was free of the thru the sacrificial giving of its members, neighbors in interested friends. On December 10, 1950, Mt. Zion served its Centennial Anniversary with a special server, along with the re-dedication service of the church illding. Rev. Argo Sudduth was pastor at the time. Reval meetings were held jointly with the Fairview Church God, many souls were won to the Lord thru these ser-

ces. The Zion Youth attended the Youth Rallies, bringg home trophies for best attendance, or most miles traved. The membership at this time was one hundred irty-four. Several car loads of the Zion people drove to e Otterbein Home, taking boxes of canned food to the ople who lived in this church home.

In October of 1958 under the leadership of Rev. Kenth Martin the congregation agreed to set a goal that in re years they would build an educational unit at Mt. on. March 22 the Willing Workers Sunday School Class mpleted the sidewalk around the church. The Ladies id of Mt. Zion, with the help of all the women of the turch, compiled a Cook Book in honor of the Ladies id's Golden Anniversary (1908). The profit from the tooks was given to the Building fund. The ladies of the turch hosted a Mother and Daughter Banquet with the irview Church of God and Rockford East Bethel Ladies ere guests. The Revival meeting was led by Rev. Lourry, and 26 souls were won to the Lord. The Junion apel reached their project's winter goal of having the isement floor tiled.

In 1960 with Rev. Delbert Cress, pastor, the church obrved its 110 anniversary. Former pastors Rev. Carl yres and Rev. Sudduth brought the messages. The young ladies of the church organized a Friendship Circle and were busy doing things to help the church. This year we had the "Parable of the Talents" which brought over one thousand dollars into the building fund. Also, additional land was bought for volleyball court and parking area.

Feb. 24, 1963 a vote was taken and the majority voted to proceed with the Educational unit. A special Dedication and note burning service was held on March 3 for the new organ and piano. Two pilgrimages were made with the Youth visiting Flat Rock and the older group visiting the Otterbein Home.

The Rockford East Bethel Church, our sister church, closed its doors this year. Bethel and Zion had worked together for years. This closing made Zion feel very sad. On May 3, 1964 a ground breaking service was held on the south lawn of the church, with the congregation pulling a breaking plow. On Nov. 8, 1964, a dedication service of the Educational Unit was observed with Bishop Paul M. Herrick and Dr. David Corl bringing the messages. The cost of the Educational Unit was $46,921.23.

In 1967 The Friendship Circle adopted, thru the Foster Parent Plan, an 8 year old Ecuador girl. And the Women's Missionary Society have been schooling an African Student for several years.

Rev. Walter Adams became our pastor in 1968. During the year of 1948, Mt. Zion United Brethren became Evangelical United Brethren and now this year, 1968, the name, thru the merger, is changed again to United Methodist. The revival meeting was well attended and received. Both conversions and renewals were made. Then it was cider and apple butter making time, sponsored by the Friendship Circle. Work, fun, and fellowship was enjoyed by all, and the profit was given to the building fund debt.

Rev. Phyllis LeMasters was Mt. Zion's first lady pastor. A very kind and sincere pastor; she was a friend to all.

Rev. Donald Ricard became the pastor in 1973, and is the present pastor. Under his leadership the parsonage was completely redecorated. A new concrete entrance was built. In 1975, the older part of the church building was covered with aluminum siding. The sanctuary was redecorated and new glass entrance doors were installed. Later the church pulpit and sanctuary was completely carpeted.

Mt. Zion observed its One Hundred Twenty-Fifth Anniversary with a special service, the Gospel Crusaders bringing the music. The Willing Workers class constructed a new lawn sign for the church's name. The last payment was made on the educational unit loan.

Three young men have been called into the ministry from the Mt. Zion congregation, Richard Lamb, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Webb; and brothers Dean and Neil Elam, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Elam.

1978 finds the Mt. Zion congregation looking forward with faith in their hearts and a prayer on their lips, that God will continue to bless their efforts to serve Him. By Mrs. Norma Tigner

NEPTUNE BAPTIST CHURCH 1861-1978

The Neptune Baptist Church, located on State Route 197 and South Street in Neptune, had its beginning in 1843 on Eight Mile Creek, in a woods pasture, on ground later to be owned by the late Henry Suhr, across from the Charles Williams home. Rev. James Drury was its founder.

A dissension among the members as to the merits of missions resulted in the withdrawal of those in favor of missions. They organized the Mt. Gilead Baptist church and were known as missionary Baptists. On Feb. 25, 1861 they bought two lots in Neptune from John and Mary Lumb for the sum of $30.00 and built a frame church for $1,000.00. A few of its earliest pastors were Brothers Jackson, Manning, Graham, Griggs and Willard.

In the early days, the church was used by other denominations, including Methodists and Lutherans, and was used by the Church of God until they built their own church. In the years 1894-1897 the Farmers' Institute paid $3.00 yearly for the use of the building.

The ordinations of Rev. Manning in 1870 and Denis Rockwell in 1968 also took place here. The Baptist Association met here in 1888.

From the minutes: "On March 7, 1882 a meeting was held for the purpose of considering the propriety of repairing the Mt. Gilead church house in Neptune, and resolved to proceed to repair it immediately".

The church was repaired and rededicated in 1882. In 1884 this item is found: "voted to circulate a subscription to raise means to purchase stoves and a bell".

The earliest minutes in our possession were written March 2, 1867. The doors of the church were open often in those days and the church grew rapidly as brothers and sisters presented themselves for membership and baptism at most every meeting. Discipline was also a stern master as the minutes frequently state: "The right hand of fellowship was withdrawn from some members for conduct unbecoming a Christian."

We find that expenses were met by circulating a subscription among the members for pledges.

Extensive remodeling was done in 1949 and the church was rededicated March 27, 1950.

More recently a well was drilled, rest rooms installed, carpeting and drapes added. Pews were purchased from the West Old Town Church.

Down thru the years the church has been faithful in its giving to missions. The Ladies Missionary group also supports several missionaries and has sent many boxes of clothing to needy persons.

Our interim pastor is Rev. Lynn Harris who, with his wife, Phyllis, has been with us since 1972. Willard Wurster and Ronald Smith serve as-deacons. The church stands ready to welcome all who enter

His son Urva also worked at the J. A. Long Company. Urva used to ride on the train to New York to feed the chickens they would ship to market. He would return by train. Then in the 1920's J. A. Long Company went bankrupt and Urva went in business dealing in poultry, wool and hides. His place of business was at his home on Vine Street. Charles would drive through the country and make arrangements for Urva to pick up the poultry. Benjamin and Elza were both farmers in Auglaize County.

FRANCIS ABNER COPELAND

Francis Abner Copeland, son of William and Susan Fleming Copeland who came from Somerset County, Pa., was born February 14, 1859. William was born August 3, 1829 in Greene County, Ohio, Susan Fleming was born May 19, 1832 in Somerset County, Pa.

Francis was born in Center township, and lived his entire life in Mercer County, Ohio. Mr. Copeland was a successful farmer of Center township where he lived in a big brick house near the Maple Center church on what was then known as State Line Pike or now is called 197. On November 12, 1882 he was married to Sarah Elizabeth Real, daughter of John and Sarah A. Jones Real. Sarah or "Sally" as she was called was born March 9, 1863. (Another biography in this book).

Francis and Sally were the parents of four children: Zilphra Anise (Ervin Christian), Purn Ray (Rhoda Hannah Newcomb), Ada Belle (Dan Fisher), and Freddie Gilbert, who died in infancy, in 1894.

After the children were married (about 1908) Francis and Sally moved to 221 South Sugar street in Celina, Ohio. Mr. Copeland purchased a feed barn on West Fayette street, in partnership with George Garman of Celina, Ohio. His son Purn stayed on and farmed the place. (Another biography in this book).

Shortly after moving into the city he became a member of the Western Ohio Hunters Association. He made many trips to Quebec Canada, Carry and Jackman, Maine and the Northern Wilds of Wisconsin. From the first trip in 1904 to the last trip in 1922 he bagged twelve deer. One trip he made, there was a party of eighteen including eleven from Celina on October 26, 1908; they chartered a car over the Cincinnati Northern and left for Long Pond, Maine, where they spent a month hunting. The hunters from Celina were: John Raudabaugh, club president, Francis Copeland, Al Raudabaugh, S. K. Copeland, George Garman, William Newcomb, Miletus Newcomb, Tom Scott, James Monroe, D. E. Green and Robert Andrews. Francis was one of the lucky ones to get a deer. The hunters would rent a cabin and take turns doing kitchen work, some of the "grub" eaten by the hunters was apples, hickory nuts, turnips and potatoes. When company came they would pass around the hickory nuts. Their cabin was usually located near a river and if deer were scarce they could always catch some fish to eat. After 1922 the custom officers were more strict, if they took any deer or moose with them it would cost them four cents a pound duty, besides three and one-half cents a pound express. One hunter said that took all of the hunt out of us. Five of the crowd that hunted together were over 60 years of age and the hills were too much for them.

In 1922, friends, family and neighbors gathered at the Copeland home for a surprise party in honor of their fortieth wedding anniversary. Mr. Copeland was heard recalling that today was a lot like the Sunday forty years ago, only it was a little muddy. He recalled, in those days, "we had to pay toll east of St. Marys to get to the home of Rev. Marion Morris, who pronounced us man and wife."

Mr. Copeland died at his home on Sugar St., Celina, Ohio, after being an invalid for four years, at the age of seventy-one. Sally passed away on January 23, 1946. Grace Now, Celina, Oh. 45822

PURN RAY COPELAND

Purn Ray Copeland, a well known and respected farmer of Center township, was born in Center township, Mercer county, Ohio, on his father's farm on the State Line Pike or what is now known as 197. He was born August 24, 1886 the son of Francis Abner and Sarah Elizabeth Real Copeland. He also had two sisters, Zilphra Anise and Ada Belle and also a brother, Frederick Gilbert, who died in infancy. His sisters biographies can be found in this history book.

After his marriage to Rhoda Hannah Newcomb September 6, 1908, he remained on his father's farn and his parents moved to 221 South Sugar street in Celina, Ohio. Rhoda Hannah Newcomb was the daughter of Miletus and Mary Jane Raudabaugl Newcomb, and was born in Center township, Mer cer county, Ohio, September 17, 1886. (Her biography can be found in this history book)

While living in the brick home, near the Mapl Center church, five daughters were born to Pur. and Rhoda. They stayed on his father's farm unt March, 1920, when they purchased a farm that be longed to Rhoda's father, Miletus Newcomb. Mile tus had built a new house on the farm after the for mer house had burned.

Three more children were born to the Copelant family in their newly purchased home. There wer now eight children as follows: Nellie Elizabeth, Al berta Bernice, Mary Kathryn, Grace Alice, Ida Ma Florence, Carl Ray, Hazel Margaret and George Rob ert. Many happy times can be recalled by this familand some not so happy, like the crash in the lattwenties and early thirties. So many families, jus getting started, had to have a sale and sell every thing and start all over again. After the sale Puri rented a farm three miles south and east of Mendoi on the Union and Center township line, known a the Cal Jordan farm. The children all pitched in and helped with the farming until such time one by one they all left the farm, scattering to all parts of the country. Leaving all the work for their father to do in his declining years. Purn also worked at the Com munity Sale Barn in Mendon, Ohio owned by Coony Hamilton.

A short while before his death he purchased a small home in Mendon, Ohio, preparing to retire but the day never came, it was not to be, because he died before he got that accomplished. He departed this life on February 4, 1949, at the age of 63 years.

Purn and Rhoda made several trips to Chattanoga, Tennessee, to visit relatives, the John Christian family. Purn also went with some of his friends Ted Worrell, Roger Sites, Joe Krugh, Richard Smith Sr. to California, in 1946. While there he visited with his daughter, Mae and family, who were living ir Porterville, California. Purn and Rhoda also went to Florida, with their daughter, Nellie and her husband Floyd Rogers, Sacramento, Calif. 95821

THE ELAMS

Work was hard to come by back in '39 especially or a college graduate seeking a teaching position. Thur Lawrence Elam pushed his '32 Chevy deep to Mercer County to a little town called Mendon. The position as an industrial arts teacher was open or the Fall in the High School but things looked eak as Art placed his application on top of a cawer full of similar applications! The following eek fortune smiled as he was called for an interew and after a long day of waiting the school pard adjourned and welcomed Art to his new aching job. This event, more than any other, elped to determine the establishment of the Elams Mercer County.

Art, being single, stayed at Mrs. Ona Boland's soming house where one of the men that shared to costs was Tennyson Guyer (now U.S. Representive, 4th district). In the spring of '41 one could ear wedding bells ringing as Art walked down the sle with his college classmate and sweetheart, Ednaucille Johnson, the oldest daughter of Indiana State epresentative, Charles R. and Hazel I. Johnson. The lams went to housekeeping in a little house a block two from the Mendon school and after a proper pelling" by the town folk all seemed ready for a uiet life in a beautiful community. Tranquillity was broken first by the birth of little Judith Sharon and then Pearl Harbor and the war years. Art moved his little family to Truax Field Air Force Base in Madison, Wisconsin to serve his country as a civilian instructor in Communications and Intelligence.

Moving back into Mercer County in '44 Art and Lucille lived for a while at the Floyd Purdy farm while Art accepted the position of Principal for the Center Township Schools at Neptune, Ohio. The following year found the Elams being moved by their neighbors on hay wagons and trucks to the recently purchased Silas Harner homestead. The year of '45 was also eventful in that Dean Arthur was born and Art started commuting to Indiana University to work on a Masters Degree in Administration. Upon graduation Art served as Principal for the Mendon Village Schools. In '60 Art accepted a teaching position in the area of his first love, mathematics and science, at the Celina Senior High School. It was while serving as chairman of the Science Department that his career was ended by an untimely death in '71.

After three more children; Joyce Marcile, Neil Allen and Jill Rae, Lucille began teaching again, first at the Franklin School in Montezuma, Ohio and then at the East Elementary School in Celina where she is still employed. Lucille has held the family together after the passing of her mate and is seeing that each of her children receives a college education and a good start in life.

Art and Lucille found the Church (Mt. Zion) to be a very important part of their Christian lives. Art served twenty-five years as Sunday School Superintendent and Lucille served as Sunday School Junior Department Director for as many years, plus. Regular worship and service in the Church has had a marked positive influence on each of the Elam family members.

Presently Lucille is teaching school, farming, and enjoying her children and grandchildren. Judy married Larry T. Riesser of Tipp City, Ohio who is now Head Hospital Administrator for five Detroit, Michigan Hospitals. Judy is teaching and finishing her Masters Degree in Education while raising their three lovely children: Sharon Tweed, Matthew Lawrence, and Beth Elaine.

Dean married Kay Marie McCracken of Nicholson, Pennsylvania. Kay is presently teaching in the Milton-Union City Schools and using her double major degree in biology and mathematics. Dean is serving as the minister of the Laura United Church of Christ and has recently graduated with a Doctor of Ministry degree from the United Theological Seminary. He previously has earned a B.A. from Ohio Northern University and a Masters of Divinity from Dayton. The Elams have two charming daughters; Hollie Kay and Megan Suzanne.

Joyce, after graduating with a B.S. from Ohio Northern University married Melvin Westwood Tindall III, an engineer graduate, also of O.N.U. Presently Mel is an engineer for the Reed Sod Farms in New Jersey while Joyce is teaching in the Princeton School system. Mel and Joyce are enjoying raising their two beautiful daughters; Karen Kristine and Allison Elaine, in their new home located near Dutchneck, N.J.

Upon graduation from Wright

Upon graduation from Wright State University, Neil Allen taught Chemistry in the Northmont School system and then married Cheryl Sue Greenwalt also a graduate of Wright State University and Bacteriologist for St. Elizabeth Hospital in Dayton. Presently the Elams are in Columbus while Neil finished his Doctor of Denistry degree at Ohio State University. Cheryl is employed in the Bacteriology Department at Riverside Hospital.

Jill Rae is now into her second year at Michigan State University in the area of Electrical Engineering.

Arthur once wrote a short novel entitled, "A Rolling Stone Gathers No Moss" depicting the many moves in his early childhood and the many fascinating people he met. I dare venture to say that if Art were alive today, he would see that there is still little moss gathering in each of his scions as the "stone" continues to roll throughout Mercer County and now into many new communities, touching, caring, and sharing even as his children were touched, cared for and shared with by Art and Lucille Elam. WILLIAM HENRY SPRINGER

Have you ever noticed the unusual walnut tree near the front of Northgrove Cemetery? Today only the Y-shaped trunk still stands, while logs cut years ago lie stacked around its base. Ferns and lilies now grow from the woodpile, and ivy winds up the trunk to what remains of the lowest branches. Yet wood, fern, and ivy are all made of stone, for this tree marks the grave of William Henry Springer, my great great grandfather. Like the tree, William Henry's roots are buried, and the branches of his family have scattered to many places. But William was a Mercer County man. During his life from 1847 to 1902 he saw the land and the people change from the boisterous frontier to victorian small towns. For some of his descendants, he is an important lir with ancestors of the more distant past, since mar of us have heard stories about him from those wh knew him. Yet, like everyone else who lived throug that half-century, he is also a link between Merc County's past and present.

William Henry Springer was born on July 17, 18, in Perry County, Ohio. Before he was 3 years ol his family moved to Center Township, Merc County. He was only 14 when the Civil War brol out. Later, at the age of 17 (1864), he served in th 156th Regiment of the National Guard. On October 2, 1870 William married his first cousin, Carolir Sheets, who also lived in Center Township. The first lived at Neptune and later settled in Celin Their children were Ora Arminda (Minnie) 187 1960, who married Charles A. Wagoner; Emanu-Spencer (Manuel) 1873-1945, who married Maynr King; Ida Izora 1876-1888; Mahala Elizabeth (Halli-1879-1961, who married Frank Northcutt, Willian Nokes, and Ben Adams; a daughter who lived only days; Chester Blaine 1884-1961, who married Madi Caldwell; Lillian H. 1882-1903; and Albert Ros 1887-1888. Caroline died in 1891, at the age of 4 Caroline, Ida, Lillian, and Albert Ross are all burie near William's marker in Northgrove Cemeter That same year, William married Martha Elle Miller (neé Musselman). Their children were Irer Clara, born 1892, who married Oran Monroe; Wi liam McKinley 1894-1973, who married Daise Bates; Donald Hobart, born 1896, who marrie Velma Ruble; and Margaret Ellen (Peg) 1898-197. who married Barney Grimm, Jay Folkerth, Jc Downs, and William Nickson. William Henry die on April 15, 1902 in Celina. He was only 54 year old. Martha Springer remarried. She died in 194 and is buried beside William Henry under a ston inscribed "mother".

William H. Springer worked mainly as a carper ter. One advertisement reads, "W. H. Springer, Cor tractor and Builder. Makes a specialty of Movin Buildings and Hoisting." Another says, "Dealer i New and Used Furniture, Bananas and Peanuts Specialty." He also made furniture. He rode his b cycle to the job and would often stay there all weel if it was far away. One house which he built sti stands at 525 Lisle Street in Celina. William passe these skills on to his children, because the daughter of Minnie and Hallie both remember that the mothers could make anything they wanted to out c wood.

William's daughter Irene describes him as a stric man, but a good provider. He did not allow his chil dren to attend school past the eighth grade. A hig school education was of no practical use, and he fel that children of that age should earn their keep. H was an elder in the Church of God and belonged to fraternal organization called Woodmen of th World, whose sign and motto are displayed on hi

Irene paints quite a different picture of William' mother, Elizabeth. Granny Springer was a tiny, fier woman who wore long black dresses and lit her clapipe with live coals from the fire. She kept her shot gun handy, and anyone who knocked on her doo was well advised to identify himself quickly and clearly! Elizabeth had moved to Mercer County witl her husband, Jacob A. Springer, and their young amily. Their children were Lydia J. 1834-1897, who narried Joe Crow; Elizabeth 1836-1893, who married Michael Lougul; Sarah Ann 1837-1857; Belinda 840-1842; Delila 1842-1915, who married Daniel F. Doty; William Henry; and Jacob B. 1851-1860. Jacob he father died in 1867, at the age of 52, but Elizabeth lived until 1897, to the age of 82, filled with the pirit of the frontier. They are buried next to their ittle boy Jacob in the Neptune Cemetery. Jacob and Elizabeth Springer both grew up in the rea of central Ohio where Perry, Hocking, and Fairield Counties come together. Jacob was the son of acob Springer and Kassiah Fast. Elizabeth was his ousin, the daughter of Jacob Fast and Sally ipringer. Jacob and Sally Springer were children of George Springer. The Springers and the Fasts had ome to Fairfield County by 1811, for Jacob and Kasiah were married there in May of that year. By the 840's, a few original settlers had become dozens of amilies, and many felt that it was time to move. When William Henry's parents decided to pull up takes from what had been home for four generaions of Springers and Fasts, they had good comany. It appears from the 1850 census that Jacob's prothers Andrew and Noah also moved to Mercer County. Later his brothers Abraham and Henry oined them. And Elizabeth's sister Mahala, with her rusband John Sheets, came too, bringing Caroline sheets who was to become William Henry's bride.

William Henry was a child of that westward narch. He saw the wilderness being cleared away nd the industrial revolution begin. Most of his chillren continued to move west after they grew up. But or William Henry Springer, Mercer County was some. David W. Chamness

THE TOWNSEND FAMILIES

Moses and Smith Townsend were Quakers from Bucks County, Pa., who settled in Center Township in 1849 after stopping first in Mahoning County, Ohio. Descendants of Moses still operate Mt. Hope farm two miles northwest of Neptune.

Descendants of Smith moved to Indiana, where only one survives, Helen Townsend, a retired school teacher at Lebanon.

Moses had one son, William Walter, born Sept. 8, 1851, who married Mary Frances Hankins, daughter of Rev. Timothy Hankins, another pioneer in the area. Walter (as he was known by) and Mary Frances had three sons when Mary and the infant son contracted a fever and died in March 1881.

Walter took the older son, Ray, and went to Wyoming to homestead. The other son, Willis H., then only 4 years old, was too small to go along, so he was left with friends, and ultimately was taken by his Grandfather Moses, with whom he lived to maturity.

Walter returned from Wyoming and married Maria Wollam, who bore him a daughter, Ellen, in 1890. They lived in Neptune, where Walter taught music until his death in 1916. Ellen married Rev. Crisman, and moved to a Church of God pastorate in Illinois. About 1955 Ellen retired to Mendon, Ohio, and gave private music lessons until her death in 19 . One son, Merwin, survives today, in Atlanta, Ga., where he became director of music for the Atlanta Schools and a member of the Atlanta

Symphony Orchestra.

Willis Townsend married Mary Margaret Bowland in April, 1898. She was the daughter of Robert Bowland, who had moved to Jefferson Township from Perry County, Ohio, in 1889. Mary Margaret was a teacher at our Four Turkey School, and they were married at the end of her school term. She was a beautiful young woman. Standing erect, her thick black hair when unbraided would sweep the floor. But her motto was "Pretty is as pretty does," and she pitched in to help her husband operate grandfather Moses' farm.

Willis became nationally known as a breeder of registered Hackney carriage horses, and later, English Suffolk draft horses. Besides local fairs, he showed regularly at the International Livestock Exposition in Chicago, from which he accumulated a trunk full of purple, blue and red ribbons.

Animals were shipped by rail from Celina to Chicago and back again, Willis riding in the freight car with them. One of his principal competitors at the International was Hawthorne Farms, owned by Samuel Insull, the famed Chicago utilities magnate who died in disgrace after the exposure of his financial manipulations at the time of the Great Depression.

A progressive farmer, Willis was an area pioneer in the use of deep-placed tile drainage systems, fertilizer grain drills and corn planters, and hybrid seed corn. The 9-room farm home he built in 1903 featured central heating, running water and a full bathroom, and an acetylene generating plant for lighting. Willis died in 1937, and in January 1943, this beautiful landmark home burned, the victim of arson. John Townsend, Celina, Oh. 45822

Mark attended grade school and junior high school in Neptune, Ohio. Mark's eighth grade class was the last class to attend Neptune before it consolidated with Celina. He graduated from Celina High School in 1970 and attended Wright State University until he decided to farm with his father and his brother.

Mark met Anna Christine Lees (born Aug. 20, 1952) while he was in Columbus, Ohio attending a Future Farmers of America Convention at Ohio State University. Mark received his state farmer's degree at the convention. Mark and Anna were married on December 19, 1971 at St. John's Lutheran Church in Celina, Ohio. They moved into Mark's former home on Hasis Road.

Anna is the daughter of Anna Vigdal Lees, Reynoldsburg, Ohio and Howard Lees, Canal Winchester, Ohio. Anna Vigdal Lees was born in Sojundal, Norway in 1923 and moved to the Fort St. John region of British Columbia, Canada in 1929. During World War II she met and married Howard Lees who was working on the Alaska Highway and moved to his home Columbus, Ohio. Anna, Ryan, and Amy like to ride in the tractors and combines and to help with the spring and fall farm work whenever they get an opportunity. In addition to Mark's responsibilities with Van Tilburg Farms,Inc. he serves on the Center Township Park Board which has been instrumental in establishing the park at Neptune. He also operates the township snow plow. He enjoys fox and deer hunting in the winter months. Mark Van Tilburg

JIM VAN TILBURG FAMILY

The origin of the Jim Van Tilburg family began one fine Father's Day, June 16, in the year 1946. This was the day James Wayne experienced his first view of a new world: Gibbons Hospital in Celina, Ohio, and his parents, Harold and Helen (later called Pop and Honey by their grandchildren). In the same location on October 16, 1952, (although unknown to Jim at the time) Brenda Kay, the first born daughter of Eugene and Mary (nee: Linn) Dieringer, made her appearance.

After recovering from polio in 1952, Jim proceeded to grow as quickly as other normal boys. He attended Neptune School until 1960. After graduation from Celina High School in 1964, this young man became what he had always aspired to be — a full time farmer. Meanwhile in the city of Celina, Brenda (unaware of Jim's existence) gained both stature and knowledge at East Elementary. She completed high school at Celina Senior as valedictorian (4.0 average) in 1971. Her education was continued at Wright State University, Celina Branch, and Lima Technical College. Following this her employer was Citizens Commercial Bank in Celina.

Both Jim and Brenda were active in youth group activities as participants and sponsors at the church. As a Luther League song states "it only takes (took) a spark to get the fire going". On December 21, 1972, Jim asked Brenda to be a farmer's wife. In the spirit of Christian joy the ceremony of union was shared on Sunday, the twenty-sixth of August, nineteen hundred and seventy-three, at four-thirty o'clock, at St. John Lutheran Church, Celina, where both were members.

At this time Jim stayed home while the "old (?) folks", his parents, moved to town to become city farmers. The newly-weds resided at R.R. 4, Box 134 Q. This has since been changed to 8398 Celina-Mendon Rd. and is still their present address.

The miracle of birth was experienced on July 6, 1974. A nine pound, ten ounce Matthew Ben entered the family circle. The couple was blessed with a second half grown farmhand (eleven pounds, ten ounces) named Kyle Wayne on March 29, 1978.

A portion of the Earl and Cloe Poor property was purchased in the autumn of 1975. It is located in section eight of Center Township on the northeast corner at the intersection of Celina-Mendon and Oregon Roads.

Van Tilburg Farms currently is Jim working with his father and brother, Mark, raising corn, soybeans, and wheat. They also have a small beef herd. Matt and his cousins are eager to help whenever somec allows. He has discovered the combine cab is a graplace to "catch twenty winks". Brenda does tookkeeping.

The entire household enjoys gardening, reading and sports. Even the baby likes to swim. Softby volleyball, water skiing, and winter fox hunting among the favorites. Most of all the family relish being together. Brenda Van Tilburg, Celina, Oh. 45822

Site of Fort Adams, Dublin Township

DUBLIN TOWNSHIP

When Dublin Township was organized on June 7, 1824, it included all the north part of Mercer County. No exact date is available for the organization of the other townships that were struck off from it as the records up to 1838 are missing, which include the early elections and names of the first officers.

The Ottawa Indians were the first settlers — one village which has disappeared from the scene is "Old Town" where they lived, one and one half miles up the river from Shane's Crossing. Later the Shawnee and French-Indian descendants of these tribes received the only land reserve grants ever made in Mercer County. These were given to the Godfrey's, Shane, Black Loon, Cresent, Charlie, and Labodie — all relatives or friends of John B. Richard-ville. This man was then the big chief of the Miami Indians, brother-in-law of Little Turtle, a well-educated and wealthy man.

While northwestern Ohio was generally unsuited to occupancy of Mound Builders, being very low and swampy, there was a small number of the Hopewell culture that reached Mercer County. This group existed about the time of Christ, but little is known of them, except their highly developed earthworks, as well as geometric designs. It is not known if this was a migration group or only a fringe area. They left five enclosures, thought to be public meeting sites, ceremonial grounds, or maybe observation posts, in Mercer County. Three of these were along the St. Mary's River, east of Rockford in Dublin Township, one each of the rectangular, circular, and crescent designs.

Dublin Township is bounded on the north by Vai Wert County, on the east by Union Township south, by Hopewell Township, and west by Black creek Township. The St. Mary's River flows across i from the eastern side to the northwest corner crossed by three bridges, the fourth bridge shared with Blackcreek Township. There is a historica marker at the Hays Bridge on Route 127, commemo rating Fort Adams, which had been a fortification about one fourth mile east for protection of the trait to Ft. Wayne. To facilitate the operation of the Rockford Stone Company, owned by Hale Beer bower and Sons, the river bed was moved in 196 with Robert Beerbower, an engineering graduate o Ohio State University, in charge of the procedure.

The soil is very fertile and the principle crops are wheat, oats, corn, and soybeans. Sugar beets were grown for a number of years, but gave way to toma toes and cucumbers when the Sharp Canning Company came in. Livestock which used to be raised or every farm is not a big business anymore.

In 1824, the whole township tax was $46.66. There were 20,104 acres, valued at $38,220, each acre worth $17.66. At the present time, land in the township sells from $2200 to $3000 an acre. In 1840, the cen sus was 705, in 1880, 2027, in 1975, (projected) 2080 this figure included Rockford.

The Toledo, Delphos, and Burlington had a nar row gauge railroad in 1880, from the north ending a Shane's Crossing. The C.J. & M, later the Cincinnat Northern, still later, New York Central, wen through the township. However, transportation by truck took over and only a short local line from Delphos and Spencerville comes as far as Rockfordin 1978.

In addition to the road, bridge, ditch, and outle problems, the trustees take care of all the cemeter ies, having accepted the books of Riverside Ceme tery in January, 1957, when the town lacked fund for the project. The latest improvements in Dubli has been the new building at Riverside (1977-78) fo Machine storage. It is heated and was used last win ter for interment services for several funerals. A fla pole was installed in 1976, for which the America Legion furnished the flag. The Town and Countr Club has attractive flower beds at its base, all adding a patriotic touch to the cemetery. An interesting item is that snow removal in the township, Januar 1918, by 23 men with shovels, cost $185.35. For the Blizzard of '78, the January cost of removing snov by the Trustees was $2703.62 plus help from the Jones Engineering Company of Cincinnati.

Trustees from the early 1900's to the present have been Marion Pond, B. F. Blossom, Robert Lee, Clydor Rutledge, H. A. Copeland, C. D. Koontz, Charle Chivington, Roscoe Shindeldecker, Clefford Shindeldecker, Dwight Koeppel, Homer Hall, Paul Williams, Victor Shindeldecker and Philip Runyan.

Clerks have been D. C. Kinder, A. H. Pontius, W. E. Doran, Clarence Morrow, and Earl Lee. The incumbent clerk is Mrs. Margaret Stewart, 509 W. Front St., Rockford. The present trustees are: Edwir Farmer, Mercer-Van Wert County Line Road, Rockford; Russel G. Howell, Frysinger Road, Rockford Glen Pontsler, Walls Road, Rockford.

MERCER SCHOOL

Mercer Special School District was organized in August of 1880 with an enumeration of 139. It was composed of sections 24, 25, 26, 35, and 36 in Dublin

School was held in a log building during the 1830's and 1840's. A frame building was built probably in the 1860's, later moved, and now the dwelling of the Paul Beougher family. A later 2-story frame school house was destroyed by fire around 1907 and was replaced by a 2-story brick building. Originally there was a high school, but due to economic pressures, it was discontinued in 1927. The school was finally discontinued in 1939 and joined the Rockford School System. That year the building was sold to the Union Grange.

Former teachers still living today include: Lorena Stuckey Weinman, Lela High Dudgeon, Dee Jackson Lewis, Ruth Wollet Shafer, Betty Dicke Dabbelt, Alice Kantzer, Ford Koepple, Reah Tickle Strayer, and Clara Maurer Howick. Mention should be made of the janitor, Mr. John Green, who not only tended to the usual chores of firing the furnace and sweeping floors but also made beautiful the plain school rooms with lovely house plants. MERCER METHODIST CHURCH

Sutton's (1882) "History of Van Wert & Mercer County" and also Winter's History lists and tells of the earlist Methodist families to have settled near Shane's Prairie or Mercer village after 1833. These families who settled here and carved out their homes in the wilderness were the Andrew Coils, David Hay's, Chivington's and the three Roebucks.

Every year brought other families to this land without roads, bridges or much cleared land, to make a better living for themselves and their children

Records show the circuit riders, often Methodists, called on every log cabin and established classes, meetings or societies, which usually became churches.

Mercer's first reported Methodist Church was a one room log cabin located near West Mercer Village and used from about 1833 to 1848.

The second Mercer Methodist Church, built in 1848, cost about $800 and was across the road from the present edifice. According to conference records, it was about 33 ft. wide and 60 ft. long, and its attendance was often near 150.

The present red brick building was built and dedicated in 1900, costing about $10,000, and is 56 ft. by 73 ft. The church is famous for its stained glass windows, which were donated by its member families or their children in their honor. Rev. M. M. Mark-with was pastor then and newspaper reports thei estimated 1000 people attended the May 6, 1900 dedication. A history was written in 1970 "Sesqui centennial of Mercer Methodism" giving all availa ble historical material. This was the start of a num ber of annual homecomings.

In 1975, we celebrated 75 years in the presen building with a great homecoming historical church displays and the publication of a second book "Family Histories of Mercer Methodism" listing the detailed history of some 30 families whose devotion and Christian dedication of over a half century past.

These yearly homecomings brought back many former Mercerites. Over the years, hundreds came back to the church of their childhood and younge days. Words fail me now trying to describe the affection, love, devotion, and appreciation these for mer members had and still have for their church The writer cannot tell the depth and extent of thei faith, but we know that they, the Mercer Methodis Church, has had a worthwhile influence on theilives.

Many church improvements have been made over the past few years and we look to the future with more spiritual hope and divine guidance.

We pay tribute and praise to the many devoted and dedicated Christian ancestors of ours, who had the stamina, fortitude and devotion to carve a land out of the wilderness for the betterment of themselves and their children and children's children. Pau E. Hosack, Church Historian

SHANESVILLE SHANES CROSSING ROCKFORD

Deep into remote times dips the history of what ince was Shanesville, later Shanes Crossing, and last by Post Office Department decree, Rockford, a comnunity rich in lore and legend.

No doubt but what the high ground adjacent to he St. Marys river here was the camping ground nd village sites of Indian tribes long before Columus discovered America. Weapons, tools, arrow leads and stone axes tell of long occupancy.

From time immemorial the St. Marys river has been a busy thoroughfare for traders, trappers and dventurers. Trails along the banks of the river were used greatly, one of these became known as the Pi-jua-Fort Wayne trail, which crossed to the north ide of the river here, a part of the journey from the Great Lakes to the Ohio River.

The first history of this community of which any ecord has been found, begins with that of Anthony Madore, a French-Indian who ran a trading post located just north of the Junction of Route 118 and 33, and east of the Rockford American Legion home. It is not known how long Madore owned the post, but around 1815 he died.

A few years before this period were the bloody Inlian Wars. The Miamis and Shawnees and other ribes were then intrenched in their stronghold at ort Wayne. General Josiah Harmar and his army vent through Rockford enroute to Fort Wayne where he was more or less defeated.

During the War of 1812, Rockford heard martial music. General William Henry Harrison camped here with his army enroute to Detroit to fight the British and their Indian allies. He was joined at Rockford by 200 mounted Ohio Volunteers and 800 foot soldiers. The Indians who were besieging the garrison at Ft. Wayne fled when Harrison's army approached. When Tecumseh, the famous Indian warrior was killed in a duel with Col. Richard M. Johnson at the Battle of Thames, this almost ended the War of 1812 in this county.

ANTHONY SHANE

Anthony Shane, a French-Indian and his wife lived for years in a double-log cabin, just north of the town. He ran a trading post and for his services as a scout for the army of General Anthony Wayne was given a large tract of land known as the Shanes Grant, and all abstracts or title for realty here start with this grant. The grant consisted of 640 acres north of the town and 320 acres at the town site.

June 23, 1820, Shanes filed his plot to the town of Shanesville which then comprised 42 lots on the south side of the river.

Shanes lived here until 1832 when he acted as government agent and accompanied the Shawnee Indians to Kansas. It is not known if he ever returned to this part of the country.

William Hedges who came from Boone County, Kentucky was employed as a clerk at Madore's Trading Post and after Madore's death took over the business. Hedges was married in February, 1823 to Susan Greaves and they reared a family of ten children. William has two brothers, John and Samuel and all three Hedge boys served as the town's first postmasters.

William bought the reservation of Anthony Shane where he lived a long and useful life, becoming one the outstanding pioneer citizens of this part of Ohio.

LAND GRANTS

These grants of land to the French-Indians in Dublin Township are of particular interest since they were the only reserve grants ever made in Mercer County.

These grants were made to the Godfreys, Shane, Black Loon, Crescent, Charlie and Labodie, all relatives of friends of John B. Richardville.

John B. Richardville, the Big Chief then of the M ami Indians and brother-in-law of Little Turtle was well educated and wealthy man. He would not pla ball at the St. Marys Treaty until these grants wer made.

Shanesville "Half Way Cross"

Old French maps indicated it "Half Way Cross which meant it was half way between the India towns of Piqua and Ft. Wayne.

Shanesville was the first town laid out in th county and the first seat of justice in Merce County. Judge Nathaniel Law presided at the firs term of court in 1820.

The original plat of the town was laid out with th streets, six perches (rods) wide, crossed each other a right angles and intersected with alleys two perche wide, Lot No. 1 of the original plat is the Legion Home and River Street was just at the rear. In 182 this lot was owned by John Hedges and valued a $250.00.

In the early days North Franklin Street, a squar west of the present Main Street was the busines and residential section of the village. It was not unti-1850 that Main Street began to grow up. Shane original plat shows land set aside for a small publi square.

The name of Shanesville was applied to the town from its foundation up to its incorporation, although the Post Office name was always Shanes Crossing from the first.

In 1838 the record of residents lists only nine names: C. B. Whitley, blacksmith; W. B. Hedges landholder; David Work, tanner; Robert Gordon storekeeper; J. D. Ralston, shoemaker; Rasil Lint, ho tel keeper; Samuel Drayer, wheelwright; Abrahan Meller, blacksmith; and Solomon Barks, farmer.

March 7, 1866, a petition signed by forty-one citiens was filed for the incorporation of the town. On he 5th day of June, 1866 the Commissioners after lue examination deemed it right and proper to grant he petition for the village of Shanes Crossing to be ncorporated and organized. Received for record on une 12 and recorded on June 19, 1866.

The first election of officers was held on Septem-er 24, 1866 with forty-four votes being cast.

1880 statistics show that the return made by the ppraiser reads: taxable property of the district, exept a per capita tax on dogs was $49,270. The number of dogs was 42 and the dog tax $42.00.

Drs. Tippie and Budd were the earliest physicians nd there were several doctors and dentists that vould come to the town for a day or two and offer heir services.

The town went by the name of Shanes Crossing Intil 1890 when a town meeting was held and it was ecided to change to another name of historical significance. The townspeople picked Lacine as their hoice, but while this matter was pending the Post Office Department took it upon itself and designated it Rockford. No one knows where this idea was hatched.

The settlement's first post office was opened in 838 with William Hedges postmaster. This office as located on Franklin Street midway between ront and Columbia Streets, then moved to West Market Street and in 1938 moved to its present loca-on on Main Street.

The town's first railroad was the Toledo, Delphos nd Burlington railroad. It was an extension of the ystem of narrow gauge roads which converged at Pelphos and Toledo, which originally had Delphos nd Shanes Crossing as Termini, later this line was xtended to Dayton. In 1872 this whole line of narow gauge roads, was consolidated into one system nd named the St. Louis Narrow Gauge System. In 883 the Mercer and Shanes Crossing branch was ffered for sale by the Sheriff.

Since the need for a north and south line was exressed by the people the Van Wert, Celina and tate Line Railroad was built of narrow gauge track and then in 1881 was changed to standard gauge and so was extended to Paulding, and known as the incinnati, Van Wert and Michigan. This was a usy thoroughfare for passengers and freight.

The passenger service was discontinued on the incinnati-Northern in 1938 and on November 1, 760 the Rockford depot was also closed.

Rockford holds the distinction of being the first own in the county to have electric lights which were rest turned on in 1899 after The Rockford Electric ighting & Power Company was formed in 1888. There were seventy street lamps of 32 candle power. In 1903 the Rockford Milling Company was hired to upply the power to run the dynamos in 1903 until 908 when the Milling Company was completely detroyed by fire and all new equipment was installed. Dayton Power and Light Co. bought the company in 945.

Petitition for the water works was voted on Sepember 18, 1895 and passed by 165 yes to 48 nos, the roject was completed in 1897. The first machines to ush the water were steam driven and when the ew water pumps were installed in later years the rater pressure was much improved. A new water tower, mains and fire hydrants were installed in 1931. Another advancement was made in 1957 when the Sewage Treatment Plant was undertaken. The village received a Federal Grant of $50,032.00 to apply on the plant. Fourteen acres of land for this purpose was purchased, located north of Rockford on Route 117. A new riser was installed in the tower in the spring of 1978.

Early Businesses

The lumber business no doubt was the communities greatest business in the early years. Around fifty men used horse teams to haul in logs from mills around, many more were timber cutters or employed in the saw mills.

One of the largest sawmills in east Rockford was along the narrow gauge lastly known as the Hawk Mill. East of the C. N. depot at the side of the stock yard, was a spoke mill, where hickory was roughed out for wagon and buggy spokes. At the location of the Rockford Lumber Co. was another large mill, run by Jim Pennell. Baird's Saw Mill was located on the west bank of the river, just at the rear of the Sivey and Pond home.

There was also a handle factory, where a number of kinds of ash handles were turned out.

But the largest of all was the stave, hoop and hub factory just west of the home of Mrs. Grant Frysinger. Storage sheds for this mill covered about all of the then open space south across the road.

Shanes Crossing was also a big grain and livestock market, and farm products were hauled in from miles about. When folks brought in farm products in the fall and spring, they came to spend the day. The local merchants would have a record business, the restaurants served a big dinner with pie for 25¢, the free lunch on the bars in the gin mills took quite a beating. Everyone who went home hungry had no excuse.

In the late 1800's a terrible fire started in the McSherry-Smith Brock block, a telegraph message was sent to the Van Wert Fire Department for help. After this great loss the town decided the bucket brigade should be replaced with a steamer.

In 1900 four new brick businesses on Main Street were erected, this started the move of other proprietors from Market to Main. At this time the town had five clothing stores and the population had grown to

There were no regular saloons, however the principle business of the hotels and inns were serving liquor. You could buy real squirrel whiskey at the grocery or general store for 25¢ a gallon. There were four or five gin mills built in the town.

The jail, considerably used, stood at the northeast corner of the Lloyd Garage. It was a building about 8 x 12, made of 2 x 6's spiked flat. It had a barred window and a heavy door, fastened with a big padlock.

On Saturday the regular "fete" day, one or maybe a half dozen fellows got blooded up and landed in jail.

When the city building was built, the town went modern and put in a steel cage.

St. Marys River

The river channel was much different, being like a W. The river went northeast of the C.N. railroad, then came back south on the west side, west over Route 118, then north and west again.

A cut off was made under the south railroad bridge, and another under the present cement span.

For many years a red wooden bridge spanned the river at the head of Main Street.

In local option times the island under and at the side of the bridge was "Oklahoma" and you could drive out on the bridge. Order 'em up, and you would get them sent up to you on a tray, operated by a block and tackle rigged up in a leaning sycamore tree, refills were gotten the same way.

The old red bridge was supplemented by the iron bridge, after it collapsed and dumped two trucks and drivers the present cement bridge was built in 1939. The C.N. railroad built the cement abutments with steel structure over the river in 1903.

The new bridge was really christened in 1940 when the thieves that robbed a grocery in Ft. Wayne came thru and tossed a suitcase containing $5000.00 over the bridge. The case flew open and bills were scattered along the river bank and through the trees. People still speak about the large number of people coming to Rockford to find some money.

Barna's Garage and the take off from Route 118 to 33, is all over what once was the bed of the river.

Early Social Notes

Our small town was very active in the social set in the early days. There were a great number of secret societies, clubs and organizations. Probably the best remembered organization in the early years was the Red Men Lodge and Pocahontas Lodge for the ladies.

The Dysert Opera House built in 1882 by J. P. Dysert, located on South Main Street was the scene of many plays, socials, parties, banquets and other gatherings. It had beautiful Italian scenes painted on the drop curtain. This building was condemned and completely torn down in 1969.

Large political meetings, both Republican and Democrats would hold large torch light processions. Electors of both parties would hold meetings to select candidates for the various offices of the village and school board. There was also a non-partisan party called the Citizens Corporation.

The Retail Merchants was organized in 1890, a branch of the Merchants Retail Commercial Agency

Driving Park Association was organized in 1890 and a race track built on the north west side of the river. By 1894 Rockford had the finest ½ mile track

The Rockford Farmers' Institute began in 1895 and in 1896 a stock company for prospecting oil was started. Tho some wells were drilled, none were too productive.

Rockford Commercial Club was incorporated in Rockford Industrial Development was organized in 1957 for the purpose of encouraging business to come to Rockford. 47 shares of stock were sold and the corporation purchased 10 acres of land at the northeast corner of the village. In 1963 they built a building which was rented to Joytime-Travel Trailers Co. Later the building was rented by Tu-Way Products Co. and when Tu-Way purchased the land and building the R.I.D.A. was disbanded and the stockholders paid a profit on their investment.

In 1972 a Medical-Dental procurement board wa formed. This board is funded by private contrib utions from individuals and organizations to brin professional business to our village.

FIRST IN THE COUNTY

The swimming pool had a sand bottom for man years but is now a cemented modern pool.

Shane Hill Nursing Home, 1978

Shane Hill Nursing Home, RR #3, Rockford, Ohio was founded by Olen C. Ransbottom and his son-in-law John L. Smith. The original fifty bed unit was built in 1971 with open house held December 12, 1971 and the first patients taken on December 16, 1971. The home was soon full and a continual waiting list prompted the building of an additional fifty beds. The new addition was opened in May Olen Ransbottom had been a life-long resident of the Rockford area, and had been in the dairy business some 39 years. Following a heart attack in 1970, Olen sold his dairy business which was known as Ranny's Home Dairy. John Smith had been in the nursing home business since 1964. He, and his mother, Florence Smith were in business together in the Smith Nursing Home in Rockford. Smith Nursing Home was founded in 1961 by Florence Smith and her late husband Rev. Harry L. Smith. Rev. Smith passed away in late 1961. Smith Nursing Home was closed in 1976 at the time that the new addition to Shane Hill Nursing Home was opened.

Shane Hill Nursing Home was incorporated in 1971. The original officers of the corporation were: Olen C. Ransbottom — President, Nancy A. Smith Vice-President, Mildred O. Ransbottom — Secretary, and John L. Smith — Treasurer. Each officer owned one-fourth of the stock of the business. Olen Ransbottom passed away in 1977 and his stock was divided evenly among his three children, Thomas, Robert, and Nancy.

The nursing home was placed on five acres of land which belonged to Olen Ransbottom. The land had previously belonged to his parents Clifford L. and Charmie A. Ramsbottom. The land was the highest land and nearest town and had frontage on State Route 118.

The name for Shane Hill was decided upon by the family after thinking of many possibilities. The Shane came from the history of the community as Anthony Shane founded Rockford. Rockford had previously been known as Shane's Crossing and later Shanesville. The Hill part came from the fact that it was the high ground of the Ransbottom farm and was always called the hill. A good part of th hill was lost while leveling the land to build upon.

Shane Hill is one of the few individual familowned and operated one hundred bed nursin homes in a day of large corporations and chain oper ations. The motto "Shane Hill Care is a Family Af fair" was originated by Olen Ransbottom. He wa known within the community for his sayings and home spun poetry. The family affair thought wa brought out to emphasize the personalized opera tion of the home.

The home provides 6 private rooms, 47 semi private rooms, and an isolation room, making 10 beds plus the isolation room available. Shane Hil provides 24 Hour Skilled Nursing Care. The home has six lounges, two dining rooms, beauty and bar ber shop, therapy, three patio areas, and activity ar eas. Activities include weekly Protestant and Catho lic services, crafts and ceramics, card parties, bingo sing-a-longs, Bible study, exercises, and other activi ties. Special events are held such as Mother and Daughter Tea, Father and Son Banquet, 4th of July Picnic, Halloween Party, Christmas Party, and a other holiday times. Complete dietary services are provided as well as laundry service.

Visiting hours are open so that friends and loved ones can visit at their convenience. Each room has a restroom, closets, nurse call system, individual control of heat, and other conveniences. The home has its own well and sewage system. There is ample parking area for employees and guests.

The staff includes 80 employees to care for the 100 residents. John Smith has served as Administrator and Mary King as Director of Nursing since the home began operation in 1971.

Shane Hill became a reality because of a concerr for a better life for those who must look to others. The desire of the Ransbottoms and the Smiths is that this personal care always be a prime concern of all persons involved.

THE ROCKFORD PRESS

DeWitt Clinton Kinder came to Shanes Crossing in the spring of 1883, and established "The Free Press", the first issue being put out on Saturday, June 30, of that year. The first office of "The Free Press" was in the northwest corner room upstairs of the building at Main and larket Streets now owned by Ernie oodwin. This building was put up by T. J. Courtright and at the time was occupied by the Courtright & Miller eneral Store, the office was later moved to a building, nat stood where the driveway and show room of Riley

While printing in the upstairs room much of the small juipment was damaged by a cyclone which took the lock tin roof off the building, rolling it up like a big cigar ith the chimneys inside.

The history of the second location is not known, but as said to have been a doctor's office or drug store. The uilding was later used by Jay Tolan for his Monument hop, and was torn down.

Mr. Kinder next purchased lots of John F. Barks on lest Market Street and built the east brick part of the resent Press Office. The west cement block additions ere later erected by George R. Kinder and George J. Kiner. In its ninety-six years of continuous publication, the aper has been housed in only three locations.

In the publication of "The Press" Dewitt Clinton Kiner was most ably assisted by his wife Mary E. Kinder, nd sons George R. and Jean R. who started in the busi-ess at an early age.

George R. Kinder took over the printing of the paper in 206, and later had much help from his wife, Nelle O.

inder, daughter, Katharine and son, George J.

When George R. Kinder was appointed postmaster in 35, George J. Kinder, who had just graduated from Mini University, took over the management. Bessie, his ife, later became actively associated with The Press.

George J. Kinder developed the plant into a live comercial printing institution doing work for patrons over a ide area.

In 1957, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Baltzell assumed active anagement of The Press.

The commercial printing of the Press over the years is consisted of coin catalogs for Numismatist dealers in ayton and Cleveland and Cincinnati, monthly publicaons for churches and factories. Several telephone direcries for small independent telephone companies are so printed in the plant.

When Mr. Baltzell became part of the operation in 253 he took over the telephone department. His wife, lartha has spent much of her time as secretary, proof ader and bindery helper over the years. Their three older children Larry, Connie and Laura also egan working at an early age with their first job as veepers.

At one time the Press printed The Ohio City Progress nd The Mendon Herald and The Convoy Radar which ere all purchased from various owners by Mr. Baltzell. hese papers have now been consolidated into one.

In June of 1977, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Baltzell and Mr. id Mrs. Gary Baltzell took over the management of the ant, with Fred and Martha assisting.

Sheila Baltzell, wife of Larry is employed at the First ational Bank of Mercer County but spends many hours the evenings helping by proof reading and typing bills. an Baltzell, wife of Gary works part-time in the office id pays the bills.

Other employees at this time are Gale Butcher, press-an, Vincent Westgerdes, linotype operator and Bessie inder is still on the job working part-time in the office id bindery. Mike Baltzell, son of Gary Baltzell and Todd altzell, son of Fred Baltzell take care of the janitorial ork.

Over the past years many people have helped with the ork at the Rockford Press, too many to mention, but ch one has contributed something towards the success the plant. A sound wheel must have a sturdy hub but also takes many spokes to keep it turning.

The Press will be celebrating 100 years of continuous rvice in just four years, a long time for a business to ep going.

Parkway High School

THE PARKWAY LOCAL SCHOOL DISTRICT

The Parkway Local School District officially came no existence on December 31, 1960. Parkway is a possolidation of the Rockford and Willshire Local chool Districts and was approved by the State Deartment of Education even though Rockford is in Mercer County and Willshire is in Van Wert Jounty. The voters in the Ohio City-Liberty Local chool District voted against joining with Rockford nd Willshire to create a new school district.

The State Board of Education selected the following persons from the two districts to serve on the oard of education for the newly consolidated chool district: Herbert Brandt, Kenneth Dellinger, Jenn Miller, Lloyd Bollenbacher, and Donald Sieert.

On January 2, 1961, the new board met in the ofice of the Mercer County Board of Education in Jelina for the organizational meeting of the new chool with Howard P. Smith, county superintendnt, acting as chairman pro tem.

Lloyd Bollenbacher was chosen president and Cenneth Dellinger, vice president. Jane Alspaugh, tockford clerk, was elected clerk-treasurer; and Leser Miller, Willshire clerk, was named assistant lerk-treasurer. Dale Schlatter, Rockford superinendent, was chosen to be the executive head; and tay Balck, Willshire executive head, was selected rincipal of the Willshire building. At the regular neeting, held on January 7, 1961, Boyd Granger, tockford High School principal, was retained as rincipal of the new high school.

At this meeting on January 7, it was decided by he board that the Rockford and Willshire Schools vould each graduate the present senior classes for 961. Athletic contests for 1960-61 had been canelled at an earlier date by both boards of education.

The high school was set for Rockford and the junor high for Willshire with elementary classes to be n both buildings. The first graduating class was in May, 1962, with seventy-one students receiving dipomas.

For the 1978-79 school year, Mark Rutledge serves is the executive head; Norman VanTilburg, high school principal; Robert Ransbottom, junior high principal; Arthur Krick, elementary principal; and ane Alspaugh, treasurer. Boyd Granger is the county superintendent.

The Parkway Board of Education is composed of aul Hays, president; William Now, vice president;

Parkway School

Gary Pierstorff, Norman Fleming, and Gene Morrison. There are fifty-nine teachers and thirty-one other employees.

In 1978, the actual assessed real estate value for taxing purposes was $31,575,703 or 29 percent of the market value of the property. In 1978, for insurance purposes, the buildings at Rockford and Willshire were valued at $5,779,352 and the contents at $377,400.

The total enrollment as of October 6, 1978, certified to the State Department of Education by school officials, was 1,137 students.

Going back into history, Rockford was known as Shanes Crossing. On April 6, 1874, at the first election held in the Shanes Crossing Village School District, the following persons were elected to the board of education: C. B. Whitley, Cornelius Smith, D. H. Robinson, P. F. Robinson (Robison, spelling variation), Henry VanTilburg, and J. P. Dysert. The enumeration in 1874 showed sixty males and forty-two females.

In 1886, a two-story, eight-room brick building was erected. J. H. Barnett was the superintendent and Samuel Cotterman was the high school principal. The high school had seventy-five pupils.

The first elected school board of Shanes Crossing had a very busy April back in 1874. On April 20, 1874, at the organizational meeting, C. B. Whitley was chosen chairman; P. F. Robinson, clerk; and J. P. Dysert, treasurer. This must have been a morning session because the board adjourned to meet again on the same day at 1:30 p.m. At this meeting the clerk and treasurer were required to furnish bonds, and the board met in joint session with the Board of Education of Dublin Township to set boundaries to be under the jurisdiction of each board of education.

After the session was over with the Dublin Township Board, the Shanes Crossing Village Board met in another session and, by motion, ordered that a seven-mill tax levy be ordered on all taxable property in the district. This first board, also by motion, resolved that there should be a three-month summer school term in the district.

On April 27, 1874, the board hired Miss Anna Robinson (Robison) to teach in the summer school at $1.00 per day beginning on the first Monday in May. The board also ordered the township clerk to draw up a map of school lands to be presented to the county auditor. Tuition rates were set for non-residents and students over school age at $1.00 per month for attending the primary department, and $1.50 per month for attending the grade department.

The board did not meet again until August when teachers were hired, wood purchased for fuel, and a four-month term of school voted to start the third Monday in October.

It was noted that at the board meeting of July 15, 1881, a motion was made to have an eight-month school term starting the third Monday in September.

In a special election held on June 16, 1884, the voters approved by 106 votes for and 17 against, to build a schoolhouse for the village district. On September 2, 1834, the contract was awarded to O. J. Hager, contractor, to construct the school. His bid, No. 14, was for $11,815.00.

As time passed, it brought changes including the name of the village, changed to Rockford in 1890.

It is impossible to put everything in this brief history. Can you imagine that the board of education hired a woman for an assistant principal back in 1917 for a salary of $85.00 per month? She was Nora Borchers. Also, in 1918, the board passed a resolution stating that there shall be no more semesterend examinations in the Rockford Public Schools. At the same time, the board also stated that no such thing as an excused tardiness shall be registered against the pupil. This resolution was passed out of consideration for the large number of tuition pupils who had to come a considerable distance to attend the high school.

In July, 1919, the board voted to ask the people for a $50,000 bond issue to build a new high school building. The old school building was no longer adequate to fill the needs of the district. The rooms were overcrowded, there was a lack of facilities, and many classes were being held in various places in the village.

A special election was held on August 12, 1919, for the issuing of $50,000 worth of bonds to build a new high school. It was passed by 145 votes in favor, and 122 votes against it.

However, by March, 1920, inflation had taken its toll, and the board soon discovered that the $50,000 voted on and passed in 1919 would not be enought to build the proposed school building. On account of the increased price of building materials, equipment, and labor, the board found that $50,000 was insufficient to build and equip a modern school to accommodate both the elementary and high school students and also conform to the building laws of Ohio and meet the approval of the State Department of Education. It was decided to hold another election on April 27, 1920, for an additional $50,000.

The school issue must have failed in April because on September 7, 1920, it was decided to have the voters decide again on the issue in November to build the new school. It again failed with 268 votes yes and 289 votes no.

At the November meeting, a group of women, led by Mrs. Ocie Behymer, presented a petition with 312 signatures requesting a special election for a new combined grade and high school building. The board decided to have the election on January 4, 1921. This time it was defeated by a vote of 335 against the issue and 332 for it.

It was decided to try again on February 2, 1921. The date was later changed to March 1. This time the proposal passed with 383 in favor and 201 against it. Finally after much legal work, more votes concerning the issuance of bonds, and the fact that the old building had been condemned by the Stat for school purposes, a general contract was awarded on May 9, 1922, to H. L. Frysinger & Co. of Rockford to construct a new grade and high school building in Rockford, Frysinger's bid was accepted from six that had been submitted. This building is still in use and forms the central part of the Parkway building located in Rockford.

Finally, by the middle 1930's the State Depart ment of Education was recommending the reorgani zation and consolidation of many school district eliminating most of the one-room schools found throughout Ohio. Some of the one-room school had already consolidated with one another.

The process was begun in 1938 when 65 percen of the electors in the Rockford School district ap proved the construction of an addition and alterations to the school building. The board of education was also able to get a grant from the Federal Government through the Public Works Administration to aid in the construction costs. The firm of Hisey and Bebout, Van Wert, was contracted for the project. This insured that Rockford High School would continue to serve the needs of the area and make it possible to consolidate most of the one-room school districts into the Rockford Local Village School District.

For the newly consolidated district, it was necessary to have a new board of education and the following persons were selected: H. O. Beerbower Walter Shaffer, Jesse Crabtree, Sr., William Shanebarger, and a Mr. Stoner. Beerbower was elected president, Shaffer was elected vice president, and Truman Abbott was chosen clerk. It seems that Mr Stoner resigned because by July 6 Lewis Merkle's name was in the minutes instead of Stoner's. (The organizational meeting was held May 22, 1939)

The new board had many duties to perform in the hiring of teachers and providing for transportation to the school in Rockford. Many of the teachers in the one-room schools were hired to teach in the newly consolidated school. School began in the new district in September, 1939.

In August, 1940, the Rockford Board of Education held a public sale which was advertised according to law to dispose of seventeen "school districts" which were now a part of the consolidation. The sale included the fixtures and the buildings.

The schools were as follows: Frysinger, Baltzell, rks, Manley, Black Creek Center, Grove, Robinn, Red, Stringtown, Copps, Siebert, Stedke, Hinn, Deitsch, Chattanooga, Weisenborn, and Merri

According to the minutes, the total amount for tures and buildings received was $4,467.50; and e total received for the school lots was $750.00. A ove was later sold for $10.00.

The Black Creek Center School and lot were purased by the Black Creek Township trustees; and e Mercer School, including the building, grounds, d out-buildings were purchased by the Union range #2578.

On an old map of northwestern Mercer County, her one-room schools are indicated. They were eier closed or consolidated into other schools. Those use to Willshire probably merged with Willshire in an Wert County.

The names of these schools were Henderson and airie in Dublin Township; Hinton, Joint, and Libty Center in Liberty Township; Wildcat, Duck eek, Winkler, King, and No. 3 all in Black Creek

In November, 1952, the voters of the district apoved the addition to the north side of the building. ne general contract was let in April, 1952, to Hisey and Bebout Contractors of Van Wert to erect the ad-

In November, 1974, Parkway School District vots approved a bond issue of $1,775,000 for additions to the south and northwest parts of the ockford building and to make alterations to the exting buildings both in Rockford and Willshire. In e spring of 1975, the general contract was given to . A. Dorsten, contractor of Minster.

The Parkway Local School District covers approxiately 120 square miles. In Mercer County this inudes all of Dublin and Black Creek Townships, the orthern half of Liberty Township, and the northern the third of Hopewell Township; in Van Wert punty, the district includes the southern half of lilshire Township.

The Parkway Schools own fifteen buses which rve twelve regular routes covering approximately 10 miles per day.

The school district is so large that many town and ommunities are within its borders, namely: Tama, lercer, Chattanooga, Rockford, Willshire, chumm, Glenmore, and Abanaka. Compiled by Ernest Thompson

EARLY SCHOOL HISTORY SLACKCREEK TOWNSHIP

The Oil and gas wells are all gone, almost forgotn is Wildcat corner, where the pipe and equiptent were stored on one side, and on another was te only two-room school of the township. Lee uhn, presently a realtor in Celina; Leo Baker living earby, are but two who graduated from Wildcat, presenting early families. #9 was torn down and the corner today holds the beautiful home of Herert and Florence Schumm Miller.

#8 school was Grove, near the corner of 707 and

Wabash Rd. It had a natural spring for drinking water and was very near Blackcreek ditch, for skating during winter. It has been torn down and there's nothing there today except memories for some Gauses; Homer Carr; Vernon Counterman; Kettenrings; Roebucks; and a few of their children.

#7 on 707 at Erastus Durbin was called Robinson. Lillian Martz Carr started there in 1904 and years later her sons also attended. Some of its teachers were Mable Wolf; Mary Coil; Ned Place and Buress McBride. In the winter the children would go into the woods to a patch of ice and play shinny (hocky) and the teacher would give a five minute whistle for them to get back.

#6 school was called Manley in section 14 on Erastus-Durbin Rd. at the end of Manley Rd. The first was a log building, later a frame school was built but it caught fire and burnt when the stove door was open and sparks spit out. The third was brick and had vestibules. Boys still sat on one side and girls on the other as most schools did. For several years, off and on, it was also used for church services as well as other social activities, a most important one being their Box socials.

#5 Center, and sometimes called Central, was one of the last to close, when the school hacks began hauling the country children into Rockford and to Willshire. It is the only one of the nine still in public use. It was started about 1859, built with a stove in the center. Once it caught fire and had to be rebuilt and then the furnace type stove was put in a corner. It was rebuilt in 1885 with the brick house being in 1894. Among its list of teachers were: Nelson Bricker, Lee and James Addy, Doc Kennel, John Ray, Lewis and Albert Johnson, Sam Vining, N. L. Hinton, LeRoy Pifer, Clark Sipe, Edith Dudgeon (Bowen), Edna Winkler, Lottie Morrison, Esther Morrow, to name a few, with Carlotta Smith (Gilbert) being the last for the term of 1938-39.

#4 school was Duckcreek, one of the earliest schools in the township, was also the center of several community activities. It served as a hall for Grange number 402 (which caused no little amount of controversy because it was also used as meetinghouse for a religious sect that did not believe in secret organizations). Its last building of brick is still being used as a machine shed.

Dellinger, the #3 school, was at first called lower Duckcreek, is the only group still having a reunion and their complete story has been written up by Edith (Snyder, Nye) Adams and is elsewhere in this

#2, Winkler school is still standing as a storage shed, near the Zion church. Its early log cabin had been replaced with a larger, frame building that was in turn moved and served as a meeting place for a time of the Pleasant Grove members who later built Zion, and was also used as the dwelling of the Frank Stetler family. Just before the school closed, its pupils were bused to Center.

Named for one of the first settlers in the twp. and called King, #1 school had also been used by the United Brethern for their meeting house. It sat on the east side of the road with a small cemetery called Zimmerman on the West side. One of the first schools to be closed, its few pupils were bused to Center. The building has long been torn down. by Florence E. Gause

FIRST UNITED METHODIST CHURCH Rockford

In 1829, Brother Robert Finley, having served the Presbyterian Church for 25 years and the Methodist Church the same length of time, held a Camp Meeting at St. Marys, assisted by William H. Raper and John P. Wright. This Methodist society was built up and the Mission extended westward to Twelve Mile, Shane's Prairie, and Willshire. George Armstrong was the Missionary and Elmer Yocum the presiding elder in 1838 when the work included some of the following appointments — Mercer, Shanesville, Willshire, Van Wert, Tomlinson, Duck Creek, and Mendon. The Methodist Church at Rockford is one of the oldest organizations in Western Ohio, so about this time it is probable that a pioneer preacher found his way to Shanes Crossing (the name changed several times).

As far back as 1840, a class of six members met at the home of Joseph and Ann Sidenbender, the preaching place for an early circuit rider. In 1847, the class was reorganized with Joseph and Ann Sidenbender, Solomon Barks, Jane Barks, Dr. John W. Barks, Elizabeth Barks, Jacob Barrick, Susan Barrick, and Polly Barrick as members — Reverend C. B. Bradbury and Elijah Hook as pastors.

Meetings were held at various homes until a building was available. The first church, built in 1851, cost $130.00 and stood on the site now occupied by the First Presbyterian Church of Rockford.

Under the pastorate of Zachariah Layton and Gershom Lease, a large frame building was completed on the present site in 1854, costing $1000.00. This house of worship was replaced by a brick structure during the pastorate of Reverend C. B. Hickernell between 1887 and 1890 for $5000.00. The first parsonage was built on the lot east of the church for about $1200.00 while Reverend John T. Bower w minister.

In 1878, the society severed its connection with 5 Marys, Celina, and Willshire and was made a ci cuit, called after its own name — the Shanes Cros ing, with John T. Bower as first pastor. This circu consisted of four appointments - Shanes Crossin Fountain Chapel, Mercer and Copps.

In 1895, under direction of Reverend Willia Hook, Fountain Chapel and Mercer were transferre to other works - Copps had been transferred Celina in 1892 — and Rockford was made a static with some 200 members. But in 1898, Founta Chapel was again added to Rockford and receive rooms was accomplished while Reverend Burtc was pastor (1908-1912). In 1910, Verne Bisse painted a beautiful reproduction of "Christ in the Garden" on the north wall of the sanctuary over the entrance, in memory of his mother. This was a cast alty when the sanctuary was remodeled.

During the residence of Reverend Birney Rober (1936-1940), a pastor's study addition was con pleted. In 1940, the church had its 100th anniversal celebration - Reverend Leroy Rhodeback wrote th pageant for the occasion with the aid of many men bers.

A beautiful new Memorial parsonage, across the street from the church, was dedicated in 1967, du ing the ministry of Reverend Merl Young — a long time member, Lee Little, had willed a fund for the purpose. A building committee was organized i 1972 to plan the remodeling of the existing sancti ary and the construction of a new education build ing. Ground was broken on November 24th, 197and the Consecration service for this project wa held June 6th, 1976, with Pastor Denver Noggle i

Reverend Merl Young was minister for 11 year (1961-1972), the longest stay of any. Reverend Der ver Noggle followed him and the present incumber is Reverend David R. Wilson, one of the younge pastors of the Rockford church. Janice Frederick ha been church organist for many years. OTTERBEIN UNITED BRETHREN IN CHRIST CHURCH

In the year 1841, meetings were begun in private omes with 8 members: Michael Keoppel; Andy Keppel, and wife; Jacob Hollobarger, and wife; Conod Keoppel and wife; and Thomas Shew. These leetings continued for nearly two years without ny regular organization or preacher, although Rev. .bram Miller and Rev. Shindeldecker preached ocasionally. As the congregation became larger, they orshipped in a school house until 1851. The first uilding the congregation erected was built of logs nd named, "Union." This building was used until 869. The membership was now 200 and the buildig was too small. The old building was moved two riles away and a new frame building erected. A lass was organized in the old building and another lass was organized 1½ miles west, known as the airview class. Many of our members transferred to nese two classes. When the Fairview class was disontinued in 1882, those members returned and we gain grew to 130 members.

When the Church of the United Brethren in Ihrist divided in 1889, the society at Stringtown Otterbein) also divided. About 85 members renained with the old church. The two groups worhipped together for some time, and in the Spring of 891, a small building was erected and used until the all of 1896, when it became too small. On Septemer 14, 1896, a contract was let to build a new hurch. The building was completed on January 9, 897, and it was dedicated on January 10. This ruilding was just West of the original frame build-ng and just South of the new Church.

The brick building was used for many years until t was destroyed by fire. At this time the old frame hurch was moved to the West to replace it. The ongregation once again worshiped in this building intil the present structure was built.

Ground was broken for the new church on July 1, 1966, with Bishop R. W. Rash bringing the sernon. The entire congregation joined in pulling an Ild plow guided by the Pastor. This was to symbolze the fact that the entire congregation was "pulling ogether" to build the church. On October 25, deails of the contract were completed with Mr. Enosichrock and on October 27, the site of the new ruilding was staked off. The actual work of excavating got under way on October 28, 1966. Although he work was often delayed by the winter weather, he arches for the main sanctuary were erected on ebruary 10, 1967. The cornerstone was laid following the morning worship service on April 9.

Even though the building was not completed, the new sanctuary was used for the first on July 2. The hristian education facilities were not occupied un-il September 24.

On September 17, 1967, friends and loved ones vere invited to share in the final service to be held n the old church before it was to be demolished. At his time a Dedication lifting was held, removing the ledication that had been placed upon it many, nany years before.

The Dedication service for the new church was held on November 12, 1967, at 3:00 P.M. with Bishop R. W. Rash bringing the message. Several former Pastors were present and brought greetings. The contractor, Mr. Schrock presented the keys of the church to Mr. Gordon Leistner, who represented the building committee. The total cost of the building and its furnishings was $75,000.

Members of the building committee at the time construction was begun and throughout most of the construction were: Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Johnson, Mrs. Lisle Eichenauer, Mr. Gordon Leistner, Mr. Smauel Sell, Mr. Carl Sell, Mr. Gerald VanTilburg, Mr. C. B. Keoppel, and Mr. Joseph Rhoades.

The new building contains many features that have been badly needed for several years. The basement boasts of a fellowship hall, class rooms and a children's chapel. The main sanctuary has a seating capacity of more than 200.

CALVARY UNITED BRETHREN IN CHRIST

In 1942 a survey of the community was taken by the Reverends L. D. Dellinger and Paul D. Parker and found that a sufficient number of people appeared interested to see a United Brethren Church in Rockford. As a result the church building located on the corner of South and West Streets was purchased from the Quaker (Friends) Church and in July of 1944, the class was officially organized with a total of thirteen charter members. Rev. Lawrence Dellinger served as pastor from 1944 to 1949.

On September 22, 1969 the congregation purchased the dwelling just east of the church and in 1972 completely remodeled the dwelling as a home for the pastor. The remodeling project was done by the congregation of the church.

The church has experienced substantial growth, and now have Morning Worship Service, Sunday School, Wednesday Evening Prayer Meeting, Radio Ministry, Women's Missionary Association, Cubyia (Youth Group), Jet Cadets, and Space Cubs. The church has a membership of forty members, and an average attendance of sixty-two.

The people feel that through the years God has blessed them and the church here in Rockford. They believe the church will have many future years of growth and service to the area, and that the Bible is the only true word of God.

Rev. Daniel E. Melvin, Jr. is the present pastor.

THE FIRST UNITED PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

The First United Presbyterian Church of Rockforwas founded in 1856. The Rev. Thomas Elcock Van Wert rode on horseback every two weeks meet with the congregation in the Methodist Episcopal Church building.

Charter members were Mr. and Mrs. Georg Wert, Mr. and Mrs. M. T. Brewer, Mr. and Mr Thomas Miller, Dr. Andrew Tolan, Mr. John Gil and Mrs. A. E. Gill. Dr. Tolan and Mr. Brewer wei elected elders.

The sanctuary was built in 1877 to meet the need of the growing congregation. It was built of brick from the Steve Caly farm. The pulpit was at the back of the church with the people facing north. I 1906 the sanctuary was rearranged so the congregation faced west, where the organ loft was built. The organ continues in use today. Sunday School room were also added. JOHN H. DYSERT

John H. Dysert, of Dublin township, one of the oldest settlers of Mercer county and one of its oldest inhabitants, was born in Ross County, Ohio, October 30, 1810, and is a son of Stephen and Susannah (Hannanan) Dysert, both natives of Westmoreland County, Pa.

Joseph Dysert, the grandfather of our subject, came from the North of Ireland, settled in Westmoreland County, Pa. and died in 1813, while on his way home from his service in the war of 1812, in which war he also had two patriot sons, Joseph and Stephen. Joseph, the grandfather, was a man of powerful frame and great agility, was a carpenter and woodworker, and was the father of seven children: Joseph, Stephen, John, Solomon, David, Polly and Rachael. The father of our subject, Stephen Dysert, was but twelve years of age when the family came to Ohio and located in Scioto County, near Portsmouth, but afterwards moved to Ross County; thence they moved to Fayette County, and later to Union County, where Stephen died July 5, 1852; a Universalist in religion, a republican in politics, and in paternity the father of ten children, viz: John H., Polly, Susannah, Rachael, Pricilla, Nancy, Euphenia, Juliann, Joseph and Betsey, all now deceased with the exception of John H., Rachael and Juliann.

John H. Dysert, the venerable subject of this mention, was reared a thorough farmer and was educated in the subscription schools. He filially remained with his parents until he had passed twentyone years, and then began life on his own account by farming and stock raising on rented land in Union County; the later purchased ninety-six acres of land, which he occupied two years, and in 1837 came to Mercer County, entered 160 acres of land in March, worked it during the summer and fall, then brought his family, permanently settled on it and still owns it. This farm, now highly improved, lies in section number 33, Dublin township, which was then a vast wilderness through which he had to cut his way two miles from the nearest road to reach. He at once built a round log cabin, 16 x 18 feet, with a puncheon floor, and otherwise constructed in the backwoods style of that early day, and then set to work clearing off the forest. But being a lover of the chase, he would often take his dog and gun and go off hunting deer, of which he has killed as many as seven in one day, and one season killed 115 head; encountering during his hunting expeditions, many thrilling experiences and desperate adventures. He also endured all the privations, indomitable will, that overcome all obstacles, and he now owns one of the largest and best farms in the county consisting of 435 acres in one body, all well ditched and otherwise thoroughly improved; he also owns 100 acres in Black Creek township, and has owned considerable quanties of other lands, which he has disposed of; all this property being the outcome of his industry and good management. He has been phenomally successful in all his undertakings, but the merit is all his own, as he full well knew how to engineer his affairs, as may well be illustrated by the relation of the following incident:

One fall, in the early life of Mr. Dysert in Mercer County, he had 17 hogs to carry through the approaching winter, but he had no corn, and there was a scarcity of nuts in the forest. The problem was: how were the hogs to be safely and profitably kept? Here Mr. Dysert qualifications as a huntsman came into play, and he came to the decision to feed the animals deer meat that season, so went hunting. The hams of the deer that fell before the rifle he reserved for his family: the remainder of the carcasses he fed to the hogs, the result being that in the spring the swine all turned out in fine and healthy condition.

The marriage of J. H. Dysert took place in October 1883, with Miss Mary Longbreak, who was born in Clark County, Ohio, March 15, 1815, and who died April 3, 1876. There were born to this union the large family of thirteen children, as follows: Samantha J., widow of Elias Deal, of Dublin township; John P., of Rockford; Euphremia, wife of William Rutledge, of Dublin township; Levi L., and attorney at law, of Dayton; Henry Stephen N., farmer of Dublin township; George W., clothing merchant of Rockford; Joseph W., farmer of Dublin township; Mary, widow of Milton Yocum, of Union township; Sarah, widow of Frank Black of Dodge City, Kans.; Matilda, wife of Jacob Eichar, both deceased; William, farmer of Black Creek township; Annis wife of Mathias Wright, of Hopewell township; and James V. on the homestead with his father. Mr. Dysert is a member of the Friends Church, or a Quaker, and in politics has been a staunch republican ever since the formation of the party, and no more public spirited gentleman can be found within the bounds of Mercer County.

KARNS

Jacob Karns (1823-1898) was born in the Canton of Berne in the free Republic of Switzerland. It is recorded that he came to Tuscarawas County, Ohio, about 1833 and married Elizabeth Robinson there in 1848. The 1850, 1860, and 1870 Census' note they lived in Blackcreek Township, Mercer County, with their post office address, Shanesville in 1850 and 1860 but Shanes Crossing in 1870. There is a deed for forty acres registered in their names in 1851.

Four children were born to them — John, Mary Ann, Sarah Jane and Jacob. In the 1860 Census, also in Blackcreek Township, is listed a family — Jacob and Elizabeth Fox - with children, Elizabeth, Lydia, and George. It is said Jacob Fox was a descendant of the Quaker George Fox in England.

Later, John Karns, born in 1852, married Lydia Fox, born in 1856. She had been orphaned at the age of four. Neighbors with two younger children gave her a home and she always said she earned her way from that time on — starting with baby sitting. John was a master carpenter, building many of the houses and barns on farms near Rockford and in the town.

John and Lydia reared three sons - John Francis, Thomas, Augustus, and a daughter Mary. There was also a daughter who died in infancy, Lutinny, Thomas' twin. While the boys were growing up, John was busy with his crew of carpenters — working as far away as Paulding County. Lydia and their sons did the farming, gardening, and butchering. Lydia, five feet tall, was a whiz at wood chopping the boys would help saw the trees and block them, then she did the splitting.

They had acquired eighty more acres of land, so when Francis went to college, Augustus went to High School, and Thomas was married, Lydia couldn't manage the farming, and John built her a home in Rockford. Thomas and his wife (Ida Bury) moved on the farm.

During those years, Francis had graduated from Ohio Northern University (1901), married Tennie Rutledge (1902), a daughter of Levi and Lucinda Wiley Rutledge. They had lived four miles apart on the same road but never met until both attended the same college. They had gone to South Dakota, where he was Superintendent of Schools at Chamberlain when Thomas decided he didn't want to farm any more. Father John wrote to Francis asking if he wished to buy the farm — if not, he would sell it outside the family. Having spent ten years in South Dakota, Francis thought he'd like to return to Ohio, and with their nine year old daughter, Helen, the family came back to farm in 1912.

In the next ten years, they had a stone "pike" — replacing the mud road which had foot-deep ruts in winter and nesting killdeers in summer — a phone, electricity, and a new home. In 1893, the house where the Karns' had lived in Blackcreek Township had been moved a half mile across the road to Dublin Township and six rooms added. This was a one floor plan with twelve foot ceilings and very hard to heat, so it was torn down in 1920. Since all the timber in the house had come from the family woodland, it was saved and reused in the new home. There was enough finishing lumber — quartersawed oak — for all except one bedroom, where black walnut was used — which had been curing in the barn.

John Francis passed away in 1931 and his widow in 1969. Since she was an invalid for thirty-five years, the daughter, Helen, married in 1931 to Philip Runyan, Milford, Ohio (another college romance, this time at Miami University), returned to the farm in 1933 to care for her. After Philip's death in April, 1978, Helen remained in the family home. Their daughter, Mary Runyan Davis, her husband, Lowell Davis (son of Basil and Alma Davis, Dublin Township), their children, Vaughn and Valerie Davis, and son John Runyan do not live in the county. Hopefully the farm will remain in the family — though never again under the Karns name.

He wrote his own epitah for his tombstone: "Have I

I dreamed a dream for quite sometime
Of a home for my family, would be just mine.
But then I said, "This is really selfish of me."
Why not a new home that others might see?

The growing things, in the fresh country air With help from others, who with loving care Would be a blessing, for those later years

Helping each other, might avoid some tears A dream's not real 'till it's tried out

So John and I began to look about. We checked other homes for good points and bad Came up with plans, chose the best we had

It is now newly done, and all will see
What we both wanted, not just for me.
But for many others, that our lives will touch
May comforts of our home be so very much

Like the better ones should always be With kindness and patience from our family.

I'm still dreaming, four years have gone by We've added to our home, we'll tell you why So many loved ones, who needing care

Have come for comfort and our love to share We are very pleased that it's possible today To have room for others, and in this way

To have room for others, and in this way A kindly staff, as our family

Fulfilling THE DREAM . . . that has come to be Olen C. (Ranny) Ransbotto

VIAN FAMILY

This historical sketch is of a prominent family, me of whom have been early pioneers in the seral different regions in which they have lived, and ve always been noted for their uprightness, abil-

, progressiveness, and good-will to all men. The founder of this family in this country was Jon Vian who came to America as a soldier in the my of King George the Third, during the Revolunary War, and was taken prisoner and after the ir he decided to make America his home and refed to return when the remnant of the British my returned to their Island home. He settled in aryland and married Catherine Root, a native of ermany.

To them four children were born namely - Hanh, who became the wife of Mr. O'Brien; Polly, 10 married Mr. Howell. Both of these were ealthy slave holders of Maryland, Katy, became e wife of a noble in Ireland; and, William a short ne after whose birth the father died.

The mother, a second time accepting for her husnd, Jacob Swales, who with the children moved to 10x County, Ohio, in 1816, where they lived until eir death and where the children grew to man-od and womanhood.

William Vian the youngest child, and only son of an Vian was born in Fredrick County, Maryland, ptember 1, 1796, and there passed his boyhood ys and at the age of the early twenties came with 5 mother and step father to Knox County, Ohio, d entered 60 acres of government land, which he eared and converted into a fine farm.

In 1822 William married Jane A. Perkins. Her faer was of English parentage and served in the nerican Army in the Revolutionary War. After his arriage to Miss Perkins, William took his young fe to his farm which he, with fortitude and much por had made for himself in Knox County, Ohio. iere they lived and prospered until their death, the ther dying in 1879 and the mother two years later. William Vian was a prominent and influential cit-en and a Democrat in politics, and one of those ry rare men who will not hold public office even nen it is offered to them.

The children of William Vian and wife - fouren in number — are recorded as follows: Mary, no became the wife of William Downs; John, who as killed while serving his country in the Civil ar, near Nashville, Tennessee; Hannah, who beme the wife of John Hoover of Knox County, hio; Enos, a farmer of Dekalb County, Indiana; 'illiam, who moved to Wisconsin; Jeremiah whose story will be later referred to; Rebecca, who beme the wife of Theodore Eals, of Michigan; Sarah ne; James, deceased; Ira, who moved to Kansas; oner, who died in infancy; Amanda Ellen; Elijah, no moved to Oklahoma; and Benjamin Franklin, ho remained on the old homestead in Knox ounty, Ohio, and there reared a large family, and many of his descendants are still living in the Mt.

Vernon vicinity.

Jeremiah the fourth son was born in Knox County, Ohio, April 18, 1829, and there passed his boyhood days and received a good education in the neighboring schools. He learned both the carpenter's and the blacksmith's trades and taught school for two years near his home, and two terms in Mercer County, Ohio, after his removal here.

On March 5, 1851, he married Clarissa Grub, who was born in Knox County, on March 15, 1832. Her parents were of Dutch descent and Dunkards in religion, and were early settlers in Knox County.

One year after their marriage, Jeremiah Vian, with his wife moved to Mercer County, Ohio, on a farm which his father had entered for him. He set resolutely to clear his land, but misfortune came to him after two weeks. He was injured and was obliged to go about on crutches for a year. Although, thus discouraged, he did not give up, but finally succeeded in clearing his farm and in building a home, but not until after many hardships and trials.

In 1861, he taught school near his home, and in this home the following children were born namely - Christianna, who became the wife of Ernest A. Tickle; John S. who moved first to Oklahoma, and afterward to Alberta, Canada, where he died on June 10, 1945; Mary Jane who became the wife of Charles George Sell; Louise Ellen, who was married to John Wise and afterward to Simon P. Brindle, Ruby Dudgeon's parents; William Ezra, who died at the age of three years; Sarah Ellen, who also died at the age of three years; William Curtis, who died on his thirteenth birthday. The good wife died on Feb. 9, 1865 and was buried in the Duckcreek Cemetery, seven miles west of Rockford, Ohio. (Her grave is located in the third row from the road and about the middle of the row.) On February 19, 1866, Jeremiah Vian was again married, this time to Mary Alexander.

Jeremiah was converted under the ministration of Rev. Michael Johnson, on February 22, 1861, in Mercer County, and joined the Church of the United Brethren in Christ, on that date, and was baptized in the St. Marys River, in Van Wert County, on October 15, 1861. He remained a faithful and active member of the church and on October 15, 1871, he was licensed to exhort. On January 13, 1875, he was licensed to preach and received the Annual Conference license on August 29, 1877. He was ordained Elder on September 11, 1881, at the Centenary Church, and on June 9, was appointed to the Geneva Circuit, and served there until the close of the conference year. At the division of the church in 1889, he adhered firmly to the Constitution of 1841, (Old Constitution, or Radicals) and the Confession of Faith of 1815. In the autumn of 1889 he was appointed to the Greenville Circuit. He was one of the Examiners of the Annual Conference, and held all the different offices of the church, and performed the marriage ceremony for a great number of couples. During all this activity in the church work he carried on farming, and was considered one of the best and most progressive farmers of the Township. He availed himself of all the modern machinery for farming and readily adopted new ideas for the improvement of crops and live-stock. In every respect he was a progressive man and foremost among petitioners for roads, bridges, etc. He helped to build a number of bridges and every church in the Township, regardless of denomination. He took particular interest in the schools and did his best to keep them abreast of the times. He was very charitable and beside raising his own family he raised twelve orphaned children, one from the age of six weeks until eighteen years of age. Several of them were converted in his own home. Politically, he affiliated with the Prohibition Party. He once held the office of Constable, and later was candidate for County Treasurer on the ticket of his party and received the largest number of votes ever received by any candidate of that party in Mercer County. He never sued anyone and never turned a stranger or a beggar from his door. He was preeminently a good man, loved, respected, and trusted by all. In all causes that will help the coming of his Master's Kingdom, he was interested. He was a great Bible reader and had read the Bible through 21 times. He died on April 1, 1899, and his funeral was held at the Zion United Brethren Church, Mercer County, Ohio, with the sanctuary completely filled. He was buried in the Pleasant Grove Cemetery, Van Wert County, Ohio, State Route #33, at the age of 69 years 11 months and 13 days. His tomb-stone still remains, a perpetual reminder of a life well lived, not for himself alone, but for all with whom he came in contact.

God's promise to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, that their seed would be as the stars of Heaven and as the sand of the sea, has also been applied to the soldier boy John Vian whom King George III sent to America to fight the Colonists, inasmuch as his descendants are now scattered over the United States and Canada, comprising an innumerable multitude, as the stars of Heaven and the sand of the sea, for

After considerable research for a number of years among books, historical records, and personal interviews, C. Dillon Sell, (son of Mary Jane Vian Sell,) has compiled the above record. The copies have been prepared in their present form by Miss Wanna Sell, daughter of Samuel Sell, and granddaughter of Mary Jane Vian Sell.

Should anyone reading this record know other items of interest that should be placed in the copy, or any corrections that ought to be made, feel free to contact either of the persons associated with this present production.

The five one room schools in Franklin Township were The Klosterman School on Guadalupe Road, Center School on 219, Franklin School on Co. 219A, Liberty School at the corner of St. John's Rd. and Clover Four Rd. and Montezuma School in Montezuma. In 1941, the one room schools were closed and a township school was built on the edge of Montezuma. This was called the Franklin School and is still in use. The schoolboard at that time was W. A. Preston, Pres., John Klosterman, Vice President, Frank Kittle, Rudolph Dorsten and Worley Frank with Louis E. Kittle, Clerk. Peter M. Hulskamp and Lyman T. Strong were the architects with Jos. Uhlenhake and sons Contractors. This was a four room school with 2 grades in each room.

In 1955, it was decided to add four more rooms as here were too many pupils in each room. Members of the school board at that time were Ray Wilker, 'res.; Kenneth McQueen, Vice President; Worley rank, Norbert Dabbelt and Albert Wynk. This alowed one room per grade. In 1960 by a vote of the people the Franklin School District was added to the

Lake Mercer — Oil Wells were prosperous in the Lake in the 1890's. (Today's name: Grand Lake Saint Marys)

Celina City Schools and the high school students all were to go to Celina. Prior to this high school students had had their choice of going either to Coldwater or Celina. In 1964, the seventh and eighth grade classes were sent into the Celina Junior High School and this gave the Franklin School extra rooms to use for special classes. They now have a kindergarten and a media center. Art, music and gym classes are taught by teachers who come to Montezuma.

Franklin Township has four public cemeteries: Long, Burge, Ellis, and Botkins. There is also Our Lady of Guadalupe Catholic Cemetery.

The township has only one town, Montezuma. Its location on the south side of Grand Lake makes the tourist trade important. There are numerous landings, several marinas, trailer courts and camp grounds. There are a lot of cottages that belong to people from Cincinnati, Dayton, Springfield and other cities who come here for vacations and weekends.

The area is agricultural with farms of all sizes. There are some who specialize in dairy, grain, poultry, hog, or beef feeding, turkeys and alfalfa.

The Lake Airport is located in this township as well as the Mercer County Waterfowl Refuge. The Bunker Hill Disposal is the county landfill, which is in this township.

Business located in Franklin Township include Pax Steel Products, Middendorf Stockyards, Meckstroth Farm Service, Ohio Plumbing and Electric, Inc., Meadow Acres Manufactured Housing Sales and Service, Brock's Camper Rental and Davis Welding Shop. Scott's Gift Shop on ST Rt. 219 is known for its greenware and ceramics.

The township is serviced by three telephone companies, St. Marys, New Bremen, and Celina which makes for poor communications.

The 1970 Census showed Franklin Township, including Montezuma, had a population of 1346 and a tax valuation of $11,348,098.

At one time there were numerous oil wells, more than in any other township. But they soon proved to be gas wells. There are only a few producing at this time.

In the late 1880's the C.T. and St. Louis Railroad went through the township and the town of Montezuma. It was later called the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton.

The present trustees are Norbert Wilker, Tom Niekamp and Louis Doenges with Arnold Reichert

MONTEZUMA

Montezuma was founded by William Beauchamp, a farmer-physician from South Carolina, about 1834. He came to Mercer County in 1832, cleared a farm, and laid out the original village, 35 lots which he registered in 1835. The choice of name probably reflects the presence of a nearby tribe of Chickasaw Indians, descendants of the Aztec Indians in Mexico, and may have represented an attempt on the part of Mr. Beauchamp to maintain friendly relations with this tribe. Some early settlers referred to this tribe as the "Montezuma" Indians.

In 1838 Mr. Beauchamp and John Wyatt added 32 lots, and in 1839 George Marsh added 84 more.

Montezuma grew rapidly during construction of the Reservoir, and its completion about 1580 paved the way for one of Montezuma's main industries, fishing. From the 1870's until into the 1900's, large quantities of fish and turtles from the lake were harvested and sold commercially.

The discovery of oil in the area also led to increased prosperity. At one time Montezuma had 2 hotels and numerous boarding houses, as well as several saloons and a distillery, to serve the workers in the oil fields. The drying up of the oil field and the end of the demand for fish early in the 20th century dealt quite a blow to the thriving village.

Organized education began in 1837, with 13-yearold William Lacey as teacher; the first school, the "Wolves' Den", a 12' x 14' round-log structure, was constructed in 1864 ½ mile south of town. The first high school class graduated in 1900 with 3 students.

The first church was the Disciples' Church, organized in 1842, followed by the United Brethren Church in 1845 and the Methodist Episcopal Church soon after. The Catholic church, now Our Lady of Guadalupe, was established in 1903.

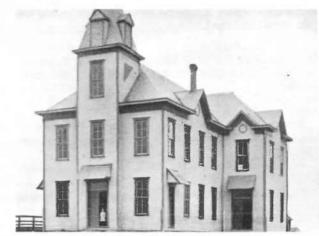

In 1881 a narrow gauge system, later the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton Railroad, was extended from Shane's Crossing to Dayton, passing through Montezuma. By 1882 Montezuma had a steam say mill, a tile factory, three stores and the Montezum Hotel. Within the next 20 years there were a carrial and buggy manufacturer, a grain elevator and a cofin factory, which used the black walnut so plentif in the area. (The first person to die in the villag Noah Beauchamp in the 1830's, was buried in a holowed out black walnut log, as there was no lumbavailable.) The early 1900's saw the addition of three groceries, a meat shop and several barber shops an taverns. There was also the beginning of the tourindustry, thanks to the CH&D Railroad. Discontinuance of this railroad in late 1923 signalled the en of the growth of the village.

From the late 1800's on, the area was known for its sport fishing and hunting, and several area guide achieved renown throughout southern Ohio. Toda many of the descendants of these first "tourists" return to the area and a large number have settled it and around Montezuma after retiring elsewhere.

The present Montezuma is a neat clean villag whose wide streets show unusual foresight on th part of William Beauchamp. Its atmosphere is sleep and peaceful, but by no means stagnant. Houses ar neatly kept and the general air is one of quiet prosperity.

Today Montezuma offers the services of 2 ga rages; 2 combination tavern/restaurants; 1 carry out; rental cottages; a grain elevator; a barber shop an insurance agency; a small engine shop; and a pos office which the residents hope to keep.

OUR LADY OF GUADALUPE PARISH

Our Lady of Guadalupe Parish is located in Monzuma, Ohio. The present pastor is Rev. John Spatt, PP.S.

Church records reveal that in February of the year 03 a number of Catholic men in the area of north anklin Township determined to establish a new rish of their own. They met at the home of George osterman who donated one and a half acres of his rm for this purpose. At considerable expense and resonal sacrifice and without first seeking proper clesiastical approval, they prepared to build the turch. A special subscription was taken up and lowed a return of $4,660.00. The men then projeded to the woods on the farms of George Klosteran, Henry Ronnebaum and Henry Schwieterman cut the trees needed for the construction of the ew church. Upon its completion in the Fall of 1903, the frame church was entirely paid for.

It was only after the church was completed that ie people of the area approached Archbishop enry Moeller and petitioned him to dedicate the nurch and to provide a priest for the parish. At the orner stone laying of the new St. Sebastian Church n August 30, 1903, the Archbishop promised a delgation of this area that their new church would be edicated and he placed it into the hands of the prists of the Society of the Precious Blood. The dediation date was set for Ash Wednesday of 1904, and ather S. Kunkler, C.PP.S., and Father Cosmos Seeerger, C.PP.S. performed the rite of blessing the ew church as official delegates of the Archbishop. he first Mass was said in the new church on Februry 27, 1904 by Father G. Jussel, C.PP.S. Father Coshas Seeberger, C.PP.S. was the first priest put in harge of the mission parish. The new church was edicated under the title of Our Lady of Guadalupe.

The Faith of the parishioners was to be tried very arly in their history, for on Sunday, June 19, 1904 at 100 a.m., fire destroyed the entire church with all of ts contents. On the following day, June 20, 1904, the varishioners reached an unanimous decision to have he church rebuilt. However, Archbishop Moeller vas not inclined to give permission for the rebuilding, since there were dissenting voices heard from he neighboring areas. When the Archbishop finally granted permission, the work of building a brick thurch began almost immediately. On March 29, 1905 the cornerstone was laid by Father Quatman of Holy Angels Parish, Sidney, Ohio. While the church was in the process of being built, Services were held in the public school which was nearby.

On October 9, 1905 the second church was dedicated to the great joy of the people of Our Lady of Guadalupe. Archbishop Henry Moeller was present for the ceremonies. His presence at least quieted any opposition if it did not completely end it. Adjoining the church was a one room frame building that erved as an office and overnight shelter for the priests who administered the mission. There was also a semetery on the same plot of ground.

Our Lady of Guadalupe remained as a mission for orty nine years under the care of the Precious Blood priests with residence at St. Charles Seminary in Carthagena, Ohio. But in the Fall of 1952 at the call of Archbishop Karl Alter and through the appointment made by Fr. Seraphin Oberhauser, C.PP.S., the Precious Blood Provincial, a new pastor came to the parish. It was the expression of both ecclesiastic authorities that a residential pastor be established in and for the parish, since there had been a steady growth of members and the future promised an even greater growth. Members were appointed to a Parish Council which was to assist the pastor in drawing up the plans for the future parish and to help in the important task of raising the funds which would be needed.

The first important decision to be made was to choose a site for the parish home that would be close to the people; on well traveled roads; and convenient to utilities with fire and police protection. It was decided not to build next to the church in the country, but close to the village of Montezuma, Ohio. A choice and beautiful piece of property was purchased just East of the village of Montezuma. Wilbur Wurst, an architect from Dayton, Ohio drew the plans for the new rectory, and Harold Dorsten, the contractor from St. Henry, Ohio, built it. Fr. Joseph Zimerle, C.PP.S. took up residence in the new rectory upon its completion in April of 1954.

Due to the fact that the people living in the large cities became more recreation minded, Lake St. Mary's became a very popular resort area. The large crowd of Lake visitors, together with the increased membership of Catholic families moving into the area, made the church in the country too small to handle the congregation, so that on some occasions many people were standing outside the entrance doors during Sunday Services. This called upon the parishioners to make still another important decision. It was decided to build the new church next to the recently constructed rectory close to the village of Montezuma. A decision which caused many a heartache because of the fond memories associated with the church in the country. However, most members agreed that it was the only way to proceed.

The present stone church, a beautiful yet simple structure, was completed and Blessed by Archbishop Karl Alter on Ascension Thursday, May 11, 1961. At that time the Archbishop declared Our Lady of Guadalupe in Montezuma, Ohio a parish and no longer a mission.

A matter of note — The beautiful statue of Our Lady of Guadalupe that graces the front of the church was cut from white Italian Carrara marble. This 6½ foot high statue conforms in detail to the original portrait of Our Lady of Guadalupe miraculously imprinted on the humble cloak of the Indian Juan Diego of Tepeyac, Mexico in 1531.

CLUB ISLAND — GRAND LAKE ST. MARYS

Club Island, a privately owned community, is located on the southern shore of Grand Lake St. Marys, midway between Celina and St. Marys, on Route #219, four miles east of the Village of Montezuma. (Section 23, Town 6, South, Range 3 East in Franklin Township, Mercer County, Ohio)

Club Island is owned by the Club Island Association, Inc., and as of July 1978, consists of forty-nine (49) homes, thirty (30) of which are occupied as fulltime or permanent residences, and Nineteen (19) are used as part-time or summer cottages.

Prior to the formation of Club Island, the land on which the island now stands was originally farm land. At one time, this area actually was an "island", connected to land only by a small built-up road entering just east of the entrance to Lee's Landing. Remains of this old road still exist.

In the 1880's, a group of people from Cincinnati, Ohio formed an organization called the "Cincinnati Club", and purchased the section of land which is now Club Island. They built a Club House located just in front of where the Robert Case home now stands. Crowds of people from Cincinnati would make the trek on weekends aboard the CH & D Railroad to Montezuma, then would travel by horse and buggy from there to their Club House for weekends of relaxation and enjoyment. The CH & D Railroad then went out of business in 1918.

After the Cincinnati Club abandoned the Club House, it was purchased, about 1909, by J. August Laufersieck and a Mr. Schulenberg, owners of the New Bremen Bridge Company. Many of the old iron bridges in this area, including the one located between Club Island and Behm's Landing were products of this company. Around 1912, a new Club House called the "Kylo Lodge" was constructed, and for many years, it served as a meeting place for local residents. Social highlight for many years was the annual Farmers Picnic held at the Kylo Lodge the first week of August.

During prohibition, in the 1920's, two working stills were flourishing on the Island, one located in front of what is now the Hugh Knox residence, and the other across the road from the present Zerkel residence. Around this time, Frank Rodabaugh, Celina surveyor, was commissioned to survey the Club Island area, and was assisted by Wilbur Strasberg, who was 16 years old at the time. Mr. Strasberg and his wife still reside just north of Club Island Road, on Route #219, in a big farm house, portions of which were built in 1910 by his parents.

The State of Ohio owned most of the Club Island land until around 1880, until as the years went on, portions of the land were sold to various individual owners. Although an exact listing of consecutive owners is not available, it was learned that Mr. Laufersieck sold portions to B. Romer in October of 1918. Mr. Romer sold to Frank Reichart in 1920. Approximately 1938, Beatrice Hecht Kessler owned portions of Club Island, and sold her properties to Ellsworth Dorsten in 1950.

When Ellsworth (Whitey) Dorsten bought the land in 1950, he plotted several lots for sale for small cottages for vacationers and fishermen. Dorsten resided in the small cottage which has since becon the Case property.

A well was drilled and roadway rights were pu chased by Mr. Dorsten. He charged lot owne $10.00 per year for use of the well, and $10.00 annually for use of the roadway. He also set up a few m nor building rules and regulations.

In mid 1955, Paul Ringelsbaugh purchased the entire section of land from Mr. Dorsten, which included Dorsten's Club Island Addition, Dorsten Second Addition and Ringelsbaugh's Club Island Addition, including canals, roadways, the water sy tem, and all unsold lots.

In 1956, the residents of Club Island decided I purchase the rights to the roadway and the wate system from Mr. Ringelsbaugh. The State of Ohi required that it was necessary to have a written Cor stitution and By-Laws before an Incorporation cabe formed, so this was done, and on May 31, 1956 Club Island Association, Inc., officially came into be ing. Monies for the purchase of roadway rights, th well, etc. was raised by selling debenture bonds.

After the Club Island Association was formed new building codes were formulated, which required minimum sizes of houses to be larger, and comore solid construction, etc. to encourage the influof more permanent residents, in addition to part time residents.

Thus, Club Island has grown to a total of forty nine (49) homes, and provides a quiet, lovely mini community to grace the southern shore of Grand Lake St. Marys.

Current property owners on Club Island are as follows: Cai Adams; Leo Anticoli; Dr. George Baujan; Gerald Beard; Kennetl Beckman; Fred Braun; Mrs. Marjorie Kellar; Oscar Carlin; Rob ert Case; Howard Coats; Ernest Deal; James Dingledine; Mrs Jean Droesch; William Dustman; Joseph Elam; Dr. Donald Fox Robert Gardner; Floyd Gatchell; Wavel Gibson; Gerald Haley Michael Haley; Sid Haller; Phyllis Heckler; Betty Heiby; Dai Hollinger; Joseph Hunter; Stephen Karafit; Ray Knostman; Hugl Knox; Frank Kuenning; John Leahey; Henry Leugers; Elmo Lo chtefeld; Ralph Martin; Robert Michaels; John Mikesell; Russel Miller; James D. ELMO BRUCE

In 1945 Irene and Elmo Bruce came from Dayton, Ohio and purchased ten (10) acres of land from Leroy Ballinger on Grand Lake near Montezuma in Franklin Twp., Mercer County. The landing was known as Ballingers Park, consisting of a few rental boats, obsolete cottages and a lunch room. The lake had been neglected by the State, full of mud and silt, and business was poor for all the landings.

The Bruces started repairing and building more cottages, restaurant and developed a modern mobile home resort with one hundred (100) modern units which were soon filled with people from Dayton, Hamilton, Cincinnati and parts of Indiana.

Elmo was one of the five (5) men that went to Columbus to seek state aid for cleaning and restoring of the lake. They were told they would have to be backed by an organization before they could be recognized. The five (5) men started the Lake Improvement Organization and membership grew to one hundred (100) including landing owners and business men around the lake.

The Department of Natural Resources came in with drag lines and a suction barge and cleaned all the mud and silt out of the mouth of the channels leading into the lake. This was a great help to the fishermen and soon there was a demand for larger boats and motors and the lake served as a recreation for skiing, boating and swimming.

The Bruces built a marina featuring sales and service of boats and motors. Other marinas began springing up around the lake and business was

The Bruces dedicated to Mercer County the Resort entrance and it is known as Bruce Road, from 703 to Park Grand Resort.

The Lake Improvement Association held an annual boat parade and awarded prizes for the best decorated boat. Park Grand won twenty seven (27) prizes the second year and was awarded the trophy for having the best representation.

The Bruces had two (2) sons. Ronald who graduated in 1958 from Celina High School and took over the management of the Marina. He married Nancy Sue Swander, daughter of Wilma and Ray Swander of Rockford, Ohio and had three (3) children, Karla

Kay, Todd James and Darrin Eric. He was killed in 1969 and his wife and family reside in Montezuma.

Eric Bruce graduated from Celina High School in 1964. He enlisted in the Infantry and served two (2) years in the States and one (1) year in France, during the Vietnam war. He married Nancy Louise Briggs, daughter of Ruth and General Fleeman of Hinekley, Ohio. They have one (1) child, Jeffry Allen and reside in Karafet Rd. near Montezuma.

The Bruces sold the resort and have retired to Homosassa Springs, Fla. The Resort is now owned by Mr. Goodman, superintendant of public schools in Dayton. The Bruces enjoyed the twenty (20) years they spent at the resort serving their customers and enjoyed friends and neighbors and will always have roots in Mercer County. Elmo Bruce

EDWIN HIRSCHFELD FAMILY

The Hirschfelds living in Mercer County have a ommon ancestry. It starts with the emigration on une 14, 1834, of Charles (Christ) age 60, Ludwig age 18, Charles (Henry Carl Johann) age 28, and George Ernst George Charles William) age 18, from Ottentein, Braunschwieg. They boarded the Brig Serene it Bremen, Germany, along with 125 other passengers and arrived in Baltimore, Maryland, July 31, 1834. They purchased farms about one half mile north of Maria Stein on the St. Johns Road. Charles Christ) and Ludwig died in 1842. George moved to Auglaize County. Charles (Henry) was married to Maria Hosmann on June 18, 1837. Their first child Adam Henry (1838-1885) married Sarah Fark (1838-1913) and was the father of Edward Hirschfeld 1864-1944) Elizabeth Bergsieker (1873-1942) from Cleveland, became the wife of Edward. To them was born Victor 1898, Edwin 1899, Leroy 1900, Gladys (1903-33), Ada Johnson 1905, Frieda Ankerman 1980, Gilbert 1910.

Edward bought the farm on Clover Four Road just west of St. Johns Road from his mother after the death of his father. Edward's youngest son Gilbert now lives on the farm on Clover Four Road.

Edward and his brother John ran a threshing machine one year while their father was sick and two years for their mother after their father died. Then Edward and John started in business for themselves. They traded their portable D June steam engine (which had to be pulled from farm to farm by horses) for a new D June 16 horse power traction engine (able to move under its own power).

They had no money so they bought the engine on a two year time note. After the note was paid the brothers bought a saw mill to run in the winter time. They ran the saw mill for 20 years. Then finally they bought their second complete threshing outfit and covered the area as far south as the White Mountain Creamery farm, to the west as far as Sebastion, northwest to Montezuma, north to St. Marys and all along highway 66A between St. Marys and New Bremen. Edward was in the business of threshing, hulling clover, shredding and sawing and buzzing wood for 51 years.

While Edward was threshing his wife Elizabeth managed the farms on Clover Four Road. She raised the food on the farm and cooked and canned on a wood burning stove. They used a horse and buggy to travel to New Bremen where they were members of St. Pauls Church. Elizabeth died in 1942 and Edward in 1944.

Edwin, the second oldest son of Edward and Elizabeth was born August 9, 1899. On June 11, 1924, he married Esther Schmidt (1903-1978) and they have six children, Robert 1925, Nathan 1927, Laverne Kittle 1929, James 1930, Frederick 1932, and Stanley 1934. Edwin and Esther started their married life on the second farm west of St. Johns Road on the south side of Clover Four Road. In 1929 Edwin purchased the farm, which he had been renting, and remodeled the barn. In 1933 he purchased the farm on the north side of Clover Four Road from his brother Victor.

These were difficult times and it was not unusual to trade the farm produce in town at the grocery for sugar, salt and flour. Edwin cut his boys hair and put half soles on their shoes, while Esther made her own soap and clothing for the family. Most of their food was raised on the farm.

Gradually through government programs the prices of farm products raised and Edwin and Esther built a new home in 1937 about the time rural electricification brought electricity to the farm. Horses were replaced with tractors and bigger machinery. Edwin served on the Liberty Special School Board and both he and Esther were active in the St. Pauls Church in New Bremen.

In 1963 Edwin and Esther moved to New Bremen and their son Frederick took over the farm. They continued to be active in church and community affairs and traveled extensively until Esther died, August 20, 1978.

Their oldest son Robert is married to Evelyn Moore (both have been married before) has four children and three step children, and is a building contractor in St. Marys.

Nathan married Jeanine Sheely has two children, and is a building contractor in New Bremen.

Laverne married Richard Kittle has seven children, and is the postmistress in Montezuma.

James married Evelyn Wietholter has two children, and owns and operates a motel in St. Marys, and sells real estate.

Frederick married Phyliss Moore has two children, and lives on the farm on Clover Four Road and is an attorney in Celina.

Stanley married Dorothy Beckett has three children, and lives in Noblesville, Indiana. He is Vice President and Treasurer of Anacomp Company.

SHIRLEY (CULL) KNOX

This is a continuation of the history of Silverius Gebele family which is entered on pages 669-70&71 in the 1907 history of Mercer County. My mother is Louella Gebele of this family which five other children were born after this book went into print. Dana married to Mable (Ft. Recovery, O.) five children, twins, Jeanette and Jeannine, Helen, Irene, and Mary: Armilla married to Ray Hollingsworth both deceased, two boys, Donald and Phillip: Paul married to Esta (Bluffton, Indiana) two children, Joan and Eugene: Catherine, unwed (Ft. Recovery, O.) and Georgine married to Victor Robbins (Dayton, O.) four children, Beverly, Margie, Ginger and Georgine. The children entered in the 1907 history are, Edwin married to Marian (Los Angeles, Calif.) children Gloria, Robert, and Mary: Viola, deceased married to Fred Ritz, no children: William, married to Hazel (Ft. Recovery, O.) No children: Marcella married to Anthony Vonder Haar, deceased (Ft. Recovery, O.) children, Patricia, Robert, and Mary: and Louella married to Russell Cull (Dayton, O.) children, Shirley, Richard T., Viola, and David. These were the children of George and Mayme (Zehringer) Gebele. George died before Georgine was born.

In 1927 Louella married Russell T. Cull. Russell is the son of George and Anna (Leonhardt) Cull. I was the first born, Shirley and married Hugh L. Knox we have no children and reside in Mercer County. My brother Ted (Richard Theodore) and wife Theresa (Search) reside in Dayton, O., have four children: Karen married to Larry Gray, no children; Rick (Richard Theodore 2nd) is married to Lynn (Wimsatt) one daughter, Kareena; Dennis is single, and Debbie married to Floyd Dempsey, with two children, Shawn and Jill.

My sister Viola is married to Don Weeks and reside in Dayton. However she has six children from a previous marriage to William Dunaway. They are: Carol wed to William Askew Jr., three children, Robby, Christopher, and Angela. They live in Wamego, Kansas. Michael Dunaway is married to Mary Etta (Haas) and they have one son Andrew and live in Paducah, Ky. Patty is deceased. Stephen Dunaway is wed to Debbie McCallister. Both are deaf and have no children, live in Glasgow, Ky. Daniel and David are single.

Our youngest brother David George and wife Joyce (Thornhill) reside in Dayton, O. have four children Tony, Tina Rae deceased twin of Tammy, and Tracy.

Hugh and I married in 1952. We liked the idea of having a place at the lake and bought property here, but lived in Dayton until 1963, when I lost my leg to cancer. Before that I enjoyed water-skiing. We moved to the lake at this time to make it our home and built two businesses, Beach Point Billiards & Pizza and Best Par Golf & Driving Range. We took the name Beach Point from the names of the two roads at the corner of our business, Windy Point Road and Coldwater Beach Road. We felt that this would make people remember the name. We liked the initials of B.P. so decided to keep them and our golf and driving range naturally became Best Par Golf & Driving Range. Some of the highlights of our lives were a trip to Hawaii and a pig-roast given by us children and spouses, for our parents' 50th wedding anniversary.

My father's family is listed in the 1922 Jay County history. They lived on a farm near Salamonia, Indiana, but my father (Russell Cull) graduated from Ft. Recovery, O. High School. During the days on the farm Anna (his mother) was in a wheelchair. She had a nephew in Chicago a doctor, who said all that could cure her was a severe shock. She was to get that shock when my father was still a small boy. A tramp came off the railroad and cut his father's throat from ear to ear. My father's oldest brother Herman was in the barn with his father when this happened and they ran to the house. Blood was everywhere and Anna jumped out of the wheelchair and ran across the road for help. Another brother John and my father were at school and Maurice was only 3 years old. Needless to say Anna could walk again and she really needed to. When George healed from this, he was injured when a run-way horse dragged him. He was laid up for some time and this left the chores to Anna and the boys. During the depression they lost most everything and in 1955 the farmhouse where this happened burned to the ground.

Anna and George spent their remaining years together living in Ft. Recovery, O. They had five children. Glenn died when he was a baby. The others are Herman wed to Inez, with three boys Harold deceased, George Jr. and Everette: John wed to Lura, three children, Yuvonne, Robert, and Wilma: Russell, my father and our family mentioned earlier in this writing: Maurice wed to Anna Louise with three children Patty, deceased, David, and Janet. Herman — John — Russell — Maurice and wives are all still

When I was a little girl sitting on my grandfather's lap looking at the scar on his neck I thought that someday someone should write about it all. Shirley (Cull) Knox, Celina, Oh. 45822

THE PUMMILL FAMILY

My father, son of Andrew Murray Pummill and Zenetta Mercer Pummil and my mother, Madge daughter of John Hill and Sara Coyle Hill, were not pioneers of Mercer County, but came to the county in 1910. At that time my brother, Kenneth was 7 years old. Two years later I arrived in the world and so was the only member of the family to be born in Mercer County.

My father's brother, Harry and his wife, Rebecca, son Clarence and daughter, Lorene had moved to Mercer County two years previously. Their brother Robert decided to come in 1918. His family members were, his wife Minnie Oliver and children, Lora, Lula Homer, Robert, Wessely, Delbert and Lu-

The Pummill family had grown up in Highland County in southern Ohio, but were all happy in Mercer County and lived there the remainder of their lives excepting the last few years of Uncle Harry's life. (This means the parents, not the next generation) The Pummell brothers were all farmers and each one owned his own land and contributed much to the quality of life in their community (Butler and Franklin Townships). They were active in church and community affairs. My generation produced farmers, teachers, clergymen, as well as newspaper, business and professional people of other kinds. My feeling for Mercer County, is that it is a locality with fertile soil to produce the bounty of the earth, as well as being a business and manufacturing community. It is representative of "Middle America", both productive in the riches of human and natural resources.

It is fitting that our family should have lived in Mercer County, as the County was named for our ancestor, General Hugh Mercer. As I mentioned, my father's mother was a Mercer and a direct descendant of the General. General Mercer was a friend and neighbor of George Washington as well as being his personal physician. His Apothecary Shop has been preserved as an historic landmark, in Alexandria Va. He was very innovative in the field of medicine, very advanced for the methods of his time.

When the Revolutionary War began, General Mercer was with General Washington, was wounded in the Battle of Trenton, and died 11 days later. George Washington had deeded him several large parcels of land for his outstanding service to the community. General Mercer was considered such an important person that many states have counties named for him. Contributed by: Mildred L. Gants

JOHN MATHIAS RONNEBAUM

This is the fourth generation of Ronnebaums' to live on this farm. It is located in Franklin Twp. in Mercer County in two separate parcels. Parcel 1 is the west side of the northwest quarter of section 2, town 7 south, Range 3 east. It contains 71.25 acres of land. Parcel 2 is the east side of northeast quarter of Section 3, town 7 South, Range 3 east. It originally contained 71.82 acres when the Ronnebaums first owned it but 29.5 acres and 21.82 acres were sold to leave the farm now standing at 93.07 acres.

When the Act of Congress first offered land for sale to the public in Piqua, Elizabeth Watkins was the first owner of Parcel 2 containing 71.82 acres. That first deed was signed to her on April 18, 1827 and it has the official Washington Seal and was signed by President John Quincy Adams.

Parcel 1 was first deeded in a Section of Land Granted to Jermiah Watkins and it was signed by Wm. A. J. Sparks, the Commissioner of the General Land Office for the United States. It was signed on May 10, 1826 and it contined 146.08 acres.

Jermiah Watkins sold Parcel 1 to Levi Hatfield and his wife Rachel. They sold it to James Stephenson and his wife Ann on May 14, 1832 for $250.00. James Stephenson and Ann sold Parcel 1 to Israel Harris for $275.00.

The first owner of Parcel 2 Elizabeth Watkins married Peter Morris. They sold Parcel 2 containing 71.82 acres to Israel Harris. Israel Harris now owned Parcel 2 containing 71.82 acres and Parcel 1 with 146.08 acres. Israel Harris and his wife Elizabeth sold this land to Thomas Brown on Feb. 16, 1849 for $1000.00. Thomas Brown died a few years later and his widow sold some of the land to pay off their debts. Their two daughters Casander and Ella Brown inherited the remainder of the land which now was Parcel 1 with 71.25 acres and Parcel 2 with 71.82 acres. They married Benjamin and William Preston.

On February 11, 1875, Benjamin & Casander Preston and Ella & William Preston sold this land to my Great Grandparents, Henry and Clara (Frilling) Ronnebaum. They were Catholic farmers and had three sons, John, Fritz and Henry and five daughters Clare, Bernadine, Kate, Anne and Elizabeth.

My Grandfather John B. Ronnebaum bought the land from Henry on June 4, 1883 for $7,200.00. He was married to Philomenia Niekamp. They had three sons, Mathias, Joseph and Henry and one daughter Philomenia. John B. Ronnebaum sold parcel 2 containing 71.82 acres to his son Joseph on August 27, 1918 for $3,500.00 and Parcel 1 containing 71.25 acres to his other son Mathias for $5,680.00. Their other son Henry had died in 1910.

My father Mathias married Ruth Zahn on June 25, 1930 in St. Francis Catholic Church at Cranberry Prairie. They had six children but two girls and two boys died as infants leaving a son John and a daughter Rose Mary living. At that time my grandparents, my parents, my uncle Joseph and Aunt Minnie and my sister and I all lived in the same farm house. Joseph and Philomena had remained single and at home. My mother Ruth, the wife of Mathias died on December 12, 1938 of pneumonia when I was four years old.

After Joseph died in 1945, 40.82 acres of land were deeded to his sister Philomena. Thirty one acres had been sold to Alfred Dorsten. When Philomena died in 1950 the land was deeded to her brother Mathias Ronnebaum on March 25, 1950.

On April 18, 1952 Rose Mary, the daughter of Mathias was married to Bernard Ahrns at Precious Blood Catholic Church in Chickasaw. They lived on the farm for a few years. They had four daughters, Ruth Ann, Barbara, Linda and Irene and three sons Herman, William and Robert.

After the death of Mathias Ronnebaum on November 2, 1958, the estate was deeded to his son John Mathias Ronnebaum on August 3, 1959. There were now 93.07 acres left to the original farm. John Ronnebaum married Margie Muhlenkamp on May 6, 1961 at Holy Trinity Catholic Church near Bryant, Indiana. They had two daughters Karen and Laura and five sons, Gerry, Kevin, Mark, Michael and Patrick. Michael died at two months in 1962 and Patrick died at four days in 1971.

Some bulldozing and many improvements were made over the years to the farm. The house was remodeled in 1961, the garage in 1967 and the barr 1971. The land is now rented out as I work a welder at Thieman Stamping near New Brem Our family belongs to the Precious Blood Cath Church in Chickasaw. John Ronnebaum, Celina, Oh.

JEROME STEINKE

The Steinke ancestry in the midwest section of io dates back to approximately 1830 when John J. inke came from Germany and settled in Rhine, io which is a small village about three miles east Botkins, Ohio. John had fathered eight children; ir of whom were John, Leo, Bernard, and the ingest son Henry who was born March 29, 1858.

When John J. died, he was buried in the Rhine Church cemetery next to the parish priest. Later, his wife married Joe Thieman.

In 1878 at the age of twenty, Henry John Steinke married Elizabeth Werling and moved to St. Joe near Burkettsville where he established himself as a blacksmith and a manufacturer of carriages and buggies. He had learned this trade while working for Ben Hemmelgarn in Cassella, Ohio. Henry and Elizabeth had four children; Agnes, Ferd, Bill, and Laura. In 1890, Elizabeth died while giving birth to a fifth child.

Henry, needing a mother for his small children, then married Celesta Robbins. Their first three children, Raymond, Frank, and Rahlia died during birth. Then followed the births of five more children all well and healthy. They were Jerome, Isador, Jacob Werner, Rosaline and Edmund. The oldest son, Jerome, moved to Southeastern Mercer County and married Mary Anna Brockman. Mary Anna's mother was born in Frankfort Germany on January 25, 1879 and came to the United States at the age of fifteen when she met and married her husband Gerhart. Mary Anna had five brothers and sisters; Henry, Danial, Celia, Ellnora, and Aloys.

Jerome and Mary spent their early married life engaged in share crop farming while raising their six children; Marcella, Delores, Alvin, Geraldine, Victor and Robert. In the mid 1920's they moved to Celina, Ohio and spent the next 15 or 16 years making a living at various jobs: basically manual labor and carpentry. In 1942 during World War II, Jerome started working at a defense plant in Lima. Ohio. This is where he met his death on September 29, 1943 at the age of 45 in an industrial accident. Vic Steinke

A WELSH BIBLE

I, Dorothy Boyer, Mendon, Ohio, have a Welsh Bible that was printed in London, England, in 1690. It was given to me by my Aunt Darrah (Miller) Ritchison, in 1968, whose father, John Odell Miller*, gave it to her in 1924. He received it from his mother, Colista (Beauchamp) Miller in 1887. She was given it in 1862 by her mother, Jane (David) Beauchamp*. Other names and dates in the Bible (which was badly burned in a house fire in Montezuma), are: 'Frances David, her book, gift of her Mother,' and 'Martha Edwards, her book, given her by her father-in-law, John Edwards 1739'

Jand (David) Beauchamp's father came from Wales. Jane's husband was Willis Beauchamp, the son of William Jr. and Anna (Willis) Beauchamp who lived in Delaware County, Ohio.

*John Odell Miller's parents came from Fairfield County, Ohio in 1856 and were George and Colista (Beauchamp) Miller. They owned 89½ acres of farm land on the south edge of Montezuma. This was in the family almost 75 years.

*M. L. Beauchamp owned 190 acres south of Montezuma to Whiskey Run and then west and south. W. W. Beauchamp was a Merchant and Teacher in Montezuma in 1863.

William Sr. and Elizabeth Beauchamp lived in Richmond County, North Carolina and were members of the Friends Piney Grove Monthly Meeting. William Jr. was born January 9, 1790, and April 20, 1811 transferred his membership to Ohio. The Beauchamp family can be traced to England in the early 1600's. About this time a Thomas Beauchamp of Cosgrove in County Northamptonshire married Dorothy Clarke of Rode in the same county. (The name Dorothy that old?)

A John Beauchamp financed his brother-in-law, Edmund Freeman, to 'make the venture in America', and was a stockholder in the Mayflower Enterprise.

In 1666 Edmund Beauchamp was sent to "Old Somerset of Eastern Shore of Maryland" by Governor Calvert, to be a County Clerk.

Going back to William Jr. and Anna (Willis) Beauchamp — the Willis' have been traced to a Colonel Henry Willis whose third wife was Mildred Washington, an Aunt of President George Washington. It was said of him that he courted three maids and married them as widows.

(This information came in part from Nora (Hoel) Ulrich, who, in 1940, received much of it from Mrs. Grace Wingert, 1789 Woodward Ave., Springfield, Ohio.)

JOSEPH G. WENNING AND JOSEPHINE C. DEPWEG

Joseph G. Wenning was born on February 6, 1884 at Philothea, Ohio. Joseph was the oldest of eight children. He was raised on his father's farm, just west of Philothea. Joseph and his brothers would clear trees from the land. Eventually each boy earned enough money from the sale of these trees to buy themselves each an 80 acre farm.

In 1916 he married Mary Post and they had the following children; Juletta, Hilda, Isadore, Norb, Rosemary and a child who died at birth. Mary died on March 20, 1925 from a hemorrhage. On July 17, 1928 he married Josephine C. Depweg Moeller. Josephine was the daughter of Charle Depweg of St. Sebastian. She was born on October 2, 1900. Her first husband was Frank John Moeller. The following children were born to them; Louis, Fred, Rita, Martha and Francis who lived to be about a year old. Frank died following an accident. Joseph and Josephine's children from this union are; Bernice, Mark, Virginia, Ma Donna and Kenneth.

Joseph eventually learned the carpenter trade and started to build homes in the Ada area. After building homes he got a job with the St. Marys Paper Mill, where he worked until his retirement. After retirement he built homes for some of his children, five which stand along Rte. 219 west of Montezuma.

Joseph's parents were George J. and Bernai Tecklote Wenning. George was born April 23, 1 in Philothea and Bernadine was born April 27, 1 in Germany. Joseph always wanted to be a do but being financially unable he bought some m cal books and studied on his own. Eventually he veloped a patent on a liniment which was good sore muscles. Josephine also had a good drav salve made from rabbit fat. As they were avid go ners, they loved to watch their garden grow and 1 the harvest. Josephine worked at the Good \ Plant, approximately 25 years until retirement. T moved to Montezuma in 1948 into a new home seph built. They started a nice orchard in the b yard. Many a celebration and good times were by all. When Joseph died in 1974 the house was s to Louis and Clementine Schmackers. Joseph and sephine were members of the Guadalupe Cath Church and were faithful workers at their chu picnics. Marceil L. Wenning sibson Township is located in the southwest corof Mercer County, Ohio; was originally in Darke anty, Ohio, and became a part of Mercer County 1849. It is bounded on the north by Recovery wnship, on the east by Granville Township, on south by Darke County and on the west by the iana State Line. It is six miles long from east to st and has an average width from north to south hree and one-half miles, the only variation being northern line which corresponds to the Greene Treaty line; which bears left till it strikes the ibash River at Ft. Recovery, continuing southwest ough Ft. Recovery, continuing southwest to the te Line.

Much Indian history is connected with this townp. Azariah Denney came to Gibson when he was years old and at that time there were twenty six nilies of Miami Indians and the young Bucks were playmates. The Hopewell tribes also were in the a. Alex Robbins lived along Sharpsburg Rd., one le northwest of Sharpsburg, and often told how y watched the Indians walk past their home on eir way to their Indian burial grounds, located e-half mile southeast of Sharpsburg. Indian skeleis were found in this spot when it was later excated for gravel; as well as the hill along Fox Rd. out two miles west of Sharpsburg. A smoking be carved out of stone, a rare copper arrow-head, iny flint arrow-heads, beads, and other Indian relwere found, many of which are preserved in the aseums at Ft. Recovery and Greenville, Ohio. An dian mound containing remains of the dead is loted on the George Bihn and Leo Kaiser farms beg cut through by the Meiring Rd. An enclosure, ought to have been used as a public meeting place, uncil assemblies, ceremonial grounds, and obsertion post is located on the Melvin Stammen farm e-half mile south of Sharpsburg.

edication June 18, 1959, Iris ingley President of Fort covery Historical Society. Richd Lawwill, Director Anthony ayne.

The monument marking the source of the great Vabash River is in Gibson Township, at the interection of State Rt. 49 and Mercer-Drake County ine Rd., four miles south and one-half miles east of t. Recovery. From this beginning in the area fornerly known as Hog Prairie, the river winds around orth and west through the area of Cranberry Praie, a distance of sixty miles, and arrives in Ft. Reovery within four miles from its source. In 1959 the Vabash Conservancy was formed with members in Darke and Mercer counties. Dams were built and wo dry lakes were formed in Gibson Township for the purpose of holding the overflow from the Wabash, to keep the lands along the river from being flooded. This project has been very successful in controlling the flooding controlling the flooding.

A family of Simison's was among the first to settle in Gibson Township. One William Simison, who refused to serve in the Union Army was hunted by soldiers and bounty hunters. He continuously retreated to and hid in the boggs in Cranberry Prairie where everyone feared to go. Simison's Creek near Ft. Recovery bears his name.

Cummins families also settled here. A Mr. Cummins from West Virginia came to Gibson to serve as marshal for the township. Today law and order is maintained by the county sheriff.

In the Atlas of 1880 Charles J. Pratt is listed as Justice of the Peace. This office continued until 1955 when Charles J. Kaiser resigned as Justice of the Peace of Gibson Township and no-one was appointed to fill the vacancy.

Small family farms, with a small number of cows, chickens, and hogs were the main source of livelihood. The thick wooded area furnished fuel to heat the homes. Records show that bounties were paid for wolf pelts. Other industries were: a cider press located on the Flaler farm along Flaler Rd., a fertilizer plant on the corner of St. Peter and Ft. Recovery-Minster Rds., good gravel banks in the section of the township near Ft. Recovery, a brick yard on the Breymaier farm along Burrville Rd., Meiring blacksmith, Wourms sawmill, near the town of Violet, now Sharpsburg. Later, three chick hatcheries near the town of Sharpsburg, Sylvan Bihn, Albert Bihn, and Pete Klingshirn helped the area to be near the top in the production of eggs and poultry. Today poultry industry has become a major source of income with pullet starting (Cage) houses and layer (cage) houses.

Ben Knapke, Louis Moeller, and John Pottkotter began raising bronze turkeys in the 1930's. Joe Olding and his wife Lou began raising them around 1944. Joe had a hatchery and raised the poults through to market. By the year 1957 and 1958 things didn't look too rosey because of bad market in the nation and particularly in this part of Ohio. But Mr. and Mrs. Olding, having a streak of gambling blood in their make-up developed a better, larger, quality bird with more finish, introducing the white turkey also. With the help of a few more growers, by the year 1959, the turkeys grown in Gibson and the surrounding area had a net worth of a million dollars. Today many turkey starting houses range houses and range fields dot the countryside, with a million and a half birds being grown and a net worth of seven million dollars with nearly all of these being fed through St. Clair Mills located near Ft. Recovery.

In the late 1880's and early 1900's there was one school district under the direction of the Gibson Township school board. This district was divided into Sub-districts and the schools were numbered one — six. Section 16 of the township was set aside for the support of the schools. This land was rented to a near-by farmer and the proceeds went to the school funds. The years 1914-1916 saw many changes in the schools: plans were made for consolidation or centralization, transportation was furnished for pupils living more than two miles from school, special school districts were created and named: Koesters, Jones, Golder, Hastings, College

Hill, College Corner or Fox, uniform textbooks were adopted for the entire county, and a .004 mills tax levy was approved. Today with the exception of a few acres in the northeast corner of the township, which is in St. Henry school district, all of Gibson is in the Southwest Local School district with a building at Sharpsburg for grades 1-6, a building at Ft. Recovery for grades 1-6 (West) and the East building at Ft. Recovery for grades 7-12. Busses furnish transportation for children living a distance from school.

The following churches are in Gibson Township: St. Paul's Catholic at Sharpsburg and the Pleasant Ridge Christian church on the corner of Wabash and Union City Rds., the Church of the Nazarene, United Church of Christ, Mary Help of Christians Catholic, and the First Church of Christ in the town of Ft. Recovery. The Pisgah Congregational Church, organized in 1851 is no longer in existence; however the Pisgah cemetery, located at the corner of Fox and Union city Rds. is the responsibility of the township trustees. Graves there contain the remains of a colored man, a soldier who fought in the War of 1812, and one grave contains the remains of a cemetery formerly located on the Tom Olding farm. After the bones were moved to Pisgah, the Trustees sold the land at public auction.

The Trustees are responsible for the upkeep of the roads. At present all roads are blacktopped with the exception of two miles of St. Peter Rd., which is gravel, and part of the Hart Rd. is still dirt. They share the expenses of the fire truck with Recovery and Washington Townships. In 1970 they joined the Joint Township Community Hospital at Coldwater, Ohio, and continue to serve on the board.

Population of Gibson, excluding the town of Ft. Recovery, in 1880 was listed as 1,462; in 1900 as 1,568; and in 1970 as 918. In the late 1930's and early 1940's electricity was brought to the farms, changing their whole life style. Homes are now heated with electricity, gas or fuel oil. Farms have gotten larger with large fields of corn, beans, wheat and hay. Milk is now sold by grade and large dairy herds averaging fifty to a hundred cows, large beef cattle and large hog, and poultry set-ups are a specialty. Many smaller farmers supplement their income with a factory or other jobs. Some deer and foxes are found in the sparse woods that remain.

The present officials are: trustees, Arthur Hemmelgarn, Aloys Link and John Griesinger. John Griesinger had previously retired but was reappointed to fill the vacancy left by the death of Otto Vonderhaar. Charles Schmitz is clerk. by Mrs. Cleopha Link

SHARPSBURG

Sharpsburg is a small village five miles southeast of Ft. Recovery, Ohio along the old Indian treaty line, running between the townships of Gibson and Recovery, and extending through Granville and Marion townships. Around 1867 the families residing in and around the village were thrifty farmers and predominately Catholic. It was then known as Violet, Ohio but later called Zenz City because of the Zenz family starting the first large store there.

In 1867 George Zenz of Lorain County, Ohio 12 miles from Cleveland, came to Mercer County and settled in Gibson township where he bought land and established himself in the store business. He operated the store until 1885 when he devoted his tim to farming and his wife Barbara took charge of th store. In 1903 she retired and John Zenz, one of thei three sons, became the owner. In 1899 John marrier Rose Brandewie, the daughter of Bernard and Eliza beth (Beart) Brandewie, and he constructed a larg cement block home in 1905 near the store where hand his family resided. This home is still standing and in good condition.

In 1917 the large store building, which was also built by the Zenzs, was sold to Andrew Forthofe and the Zenz family moved to Bowling Green, Kentucky and later to Cincinnati, Ohio. Some other places of business through these years were Johr Sommers's Blacksmith Shop, John Schmitz's carpenter shop, Peter Klingshirn's Photography Studio Killien Schneider's small grocery store, William Schmitz's tin shop, Schoenberger's blacksmith shop William Rheinder's tavern, Albert Bihn's box factory, hatchery and mill, Ben Rammel's garage, and Pete Klingshirn's hatchery and poultry farm.

In 1926 Andrew Forthofer sold the store building to Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Brunswick, his son-in-law John Miller operated the store. In 1933 Andrew Forthofer bought the contents of the store from Mr. and Mrs. John Miller and leased the building from Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Brunswick. Mr. Forthofer continued in business until 1939.

In 1936 his son, Walter, started the restaurant business in the building adjoining his father's store. In 1937 Walter had an outdoor dance platform constructed to the rear of his restaurant. It was called "Wonderland." It was in operation until 1939 when he, Walter, bought the land and building from Mrs. Andrew Brunswick. Walter then built and enclosed dance pavilion added to the larger building. It retained the name "Wonderland." The grocery department was moved to the restaurant room and the taurant moved into the larger building.

n 1957 he remodeled the dance pavilion and conted it into a larger I.G.A. Supermarket and resrant area into a Modern up-to-date restaurant ich he and his wife, Regina, operated until they red in 1974. The restaurant, supermarket and its tents were sold to Sylvester and Jovita Broerman. By are presently in business at this location.

The village to-day consists of the St. Paul's Catho-Church, Primary elementary school, a part of the 1thwest Local School System, Broerman's Restaut and I.G.A. Supermarket, Big K. Mills, and a

T. PAUL'S, SHARPSBURG

5t. Paul's church, Sharpsburg is located in the 11th east corner of Gibson township, Mercer unty near the Darke county and Indiana line. In early spring, 1868, nine families residing in and 11th small village now known as Sharpsburg 11th to build a Catholic Church. The first step is to contact the Precious Blood Fathers for their I and advice. Permission was granted and under 2 capable guidance of Rev. Vanden Broeck C.PP.S. 2 church was completed and that same year, in the 11th mmer it was dedicated to the great apostle of the entiles, St. Paul.

The spiritual cares of the parish were immediately cen over by the Precious Blood Fathers and they ve ever since remained in charge. The first pastor is Rev. Paul Reuter C.PP.S. The first organist was ter Jacobs who was also the village school teacher. ithin a few years, the small church was inadeate to accomodate the constantly increasing conegation. Before reaching a decision as to the advisility of building a new larger church, the small urch was struck by lightning in the summer of 87. The steeple was completely destroyed and uch damage done to the interior. Under the director of Rev. William Russ, C.PP.S. the plans for the building were drawn by DeCurtins. The work of construction then began and in June 1888 less than a year later the corner stone was laid by the Most Rev. Archbishop Henry Elder by whom the church was consecrated the following spring.

In 1902 Rev. Goldschmidt, the pastor at that time, had the ground under the church excavated and a new steam heating system installed. At practically the same time he directed the building of a new parsonage which still stands to-day.

While Rev. Nicholas Welsch C.PP.S. was pastor around 1921, the parish purchased a house across the road from the church to be used as a home for the organist, who was also the church janitor and teacher of the Sharpsburg one room school. This was occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Rose and family for forty-six years after which the parish sold it.

The church continued to grow in membership through the years. In 1970 under the direction of Rev. Marcellus Fortman C.PP.S. the church was completely renovated and in 1973 a new parish hall and Catachetical (C.C.D.) center was annexed to the south and west side of the church. This building has six rooms. C.C.D. classes are held for grades 1-6 on Saturday mornings and 7-12 on Wednesday evenings during the school year.

At the present time there are around 180 families with a membership of 800.

The parish looks back on its one hundred and ten years of existence with pride and appreciation. St. Paul's owes a special debt of gratitude to all the priests of the Society of the Precious Blood who have served as pastors.

Rev. Fortman C.PP.S. retired in 1975 followed by Rev. Edward Zukowski who is presently the pastor of St. Paul's Parish (Sharpsburg) R.R. 1 Ft. Recovery,

After Sarah's death, Daniel married Barbara Ellen Zeiler; their children were John Thomas and Margaret Catherine. After Barbara's death, Daniel married Melissa Lindley. They had two children: Dora Ellen, born Aug. 31, 1881 and died Feb. 10, 1904 and Minnie Melissa, born Oct. 17, 1883 and died September 11, 1939.

Minnie Melissa Atkinson married Charles David Jetter (Sept. 9, 1882 — Aug. 14, 1960), son of George and Nancy (Imel) Jetter of Salamonia, Jay County, Indiana. (See Nancy Imel History.) Minnie Melissa Atkinson was a school teacher. Family history tells of their first car being an old touring, side-curtained Maxwell. In the winter they had to take the battery out of it so it did not freeze. Thus, it was never driven in the winter; and only driven in nice weather in summer because they lived on a mud road. Their next car was a Ford Sedan which they had to crank by hand to get it started. Their younger daughter cranked the car by hand to get it started, when she was of age to drive. While cranking the car one time, the car kicked and nicked her front tooth. Minnie Melissa Jetter never learned to drive the car. Charles and Minnie (Atkinson) Jetter spent their years farming near Salamonia, Indiana. Their daughter Onda Jetter married Kenneth Stump and remained on the home place and continued farming. (See Kenneth Stump history.) Charles and Minnie Jetter moved into Fort Recovery, Ohio and lived their last years with their other daughter, Marie Jetter who married Luther Brumm. (See Luther Brumm History.)

Phillippe Antoine, or Antonie, was born in France on December 11, 1793. Family history relates that the family had emigrated from Rome to France a generation or two before Phillippe's birth.

He served in Napoleon's army, and after the defeat of Napoleon, emigrated from France to Kaiserslautern, Bavaria. When his first child, Jacob, was born, he decided to move with his family to America in 1829.

The family settled temporarily in Wayne County, Ohio, and at Wooster, Phillippe received his citizenship papers in 1834. Shortly after this, he purchased land in a heavily wooded area near Cassella, in Mercer County. This he cleared and began farming.

There are two stories that are told of the family at this time. One relates that wild animals ate all their livestock. The other tells that the Anthonys, as they now called themselves, kept a record of the passage of time by cutting, on a big tree, notches to represent the days. Two families living at a distance of several miles on either side of them could not agree on the question of whether "today is Saturday, Sunday, or Monday". They decided to go together to consult the Anthony tree, and thereupon found that it w Sunday — if the notches had been kept correctly!

Phillippe and his wife reared seven children. (
these, the eldest, Jacob, opened a sadler's shop Fort Recovery in 1853. Since that date, there has a ways been an Anthony in business in Fort Recover

To Jacob and his wife, Cunigunda Weis, we born thirteen children. Two died in infancy. (these, their son Jacob was owner and manager of grocery store for many years. This store stood at tl corner of South Wayne and East Butler Streets. A ter selling the store, he was manager of the Fort R covery Building and Loan.

This Jacob married Agnes Cantwell, of Celina, at to them were born seven children. Of these ch dren, Harold and Zeno spent their lives in Fort R covery as cashier and assistant cashier of the Fc Recovery Banking Company.

Harold and his wife, Frances Phillips, were the parents of eight children. One son, Tom, gave hife in the service of his country in World War Luke, or J.L., remains in Fort Recovery. For manyears he was owner and manager of Anthony's Service Station on South Wayne Street. He has single sold this station and is now semi retired in Fort R covery.

Luke and his wife, Mary Alice O'Dell, are the pa ents of five children and they live at present in the old family home, built by his father in 1913. The son, George, is carrying on the family tradition of liing and working in Fort Recovery. He is owner ar manager of the Sohio Station at the corner of Ea Butler and South Elm Streets. Luther and Marie Brumm were married June 26, 1933 and bought their present home in 1934 during the depression. Money was very limited in those years. The house was built by Mahala and Fremont McDaniel. Luther taught school for 26 years. After retiring from teaching, he bought the grocery store on State Route 49, at the south edge of Fort Recovery. Luther and Marie had the store for 16 years and retired in 1970.

Marie worked at the Peoples Bank for nine years after high school. During that time the bank was held up by two robbers. They did not wear masks but carried guns. No one was harmed, but they were never caught.

Nancy Imel's children always told the family story that Nancy's mother, Catherine (Hazelton) Imel was scalped by Indians in an attack; she did not die but forever after wore a little white cap to cover her missing lock of hair.

Luther Brumm is the sixth generation of the Brumm family to live in America. Family history tells the Brumm family had originally lived in the Ukraine, S.E. Russia, c. 1300, where they had their own shipping line on the Black Sea. The name was spelled Brumagen; in World War I, there was a Russian Battleship by that name. The Brumm family migrated across the Balkan Peninsula to Alsace Lorraine.

ADAM GREEN

Adam Green History — House on Fox Road and farm (3 miles S.E. of Ft. Recovery) Adam 1856-1894 Alice 1859-1940

Adam and Jacob Green, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Green, met and married sisters, Alice and Annie Schimpf from Crawford County, Ohio. They brought their brides to Ft. Recovery.

In 1875, Adam, age 19, and Alice, age 16, began working and building their own farm located 3 miles SE of Ft. Recovery, on Fox Rd.. They had 3 children: Caroline, William, and Sophia. When Sophia was 8 years old, the family gained a new member when Adam's sister-in-law died in childbirth, leaving 5 orphans. Adam and Alice took and reared the new born Otto.

The young couple worked hard and were gradually putting together the farm when Adam died of pneumonia at age 38. The widow and children struggled to maintain their farm on Fox Road.

William, then 14, and small for his age, used a chair to stand on when harnessing his horses for work in the fields.

The oldest, Callie (Caroline) 1879-1918, soon passed the State Board Exams and became the teacher of the neighborhood one-room school. Her checks helped build the barn that was so badly needed.

Sophia baby-sat Otto and told of walking to Sharpsburg, a mile away, to mail Callie's letters to her beau, for the reward of a penny.

Romance broke up the family team when Callie married a neighbor, Charles Watkins, who had just graduated from Ohio State University Medical School. In 1904 Charles Watkins began his practice of medicine in Chattanooga, Ohio. Two children, Clovis and Helen, were born there.

This young family was also visited by death 1918 when Callie died of a heart ailment which I gan when she ran the ladder in a bucket brigade a fire next door.

William (1880-1952) married Catherine Rc (1882-1955) of Ft. Recovery and they purchased t farm neighboring the home place, on Watkins Ro. They spent their entire lives working it. They h two girls, Naomi (1915-1973) and Norma (1921937). Norma died of meningitis and pneumonia the age of 10.

Naomi walked to Goulder School on Watki Road and graduated from Ft. Recovery High Scho She graduated from Capital University, Columbi Ohio and taught in Darke County Schools for ni

She married Kenneth Medford in 1938, and th built a house on the farm on Watkins Road next her parents. They raised 8 children: William, Chilotte (Frank), John, Katherine (Adams), Rober Martha, David, and Margaret. Naomi died in 19. Kenneth survives and lives on the farm.

Sophia never married but moved with her moth when she retired to Ft. Recovery, along Route 49, the edge of town. She cared for her mother until h death just a few days short of 81 years.

Otto married Frona Hoffman of Chattanooga as moved into the home place on Fox Road. They had children: Edward (Ft. Recovery), Paul (Portlar Ind.), Onnalee (Bickel, Ft. Recovery), and Ru (Reier, Ft. Recovery). Katherine Adams, Fort Recovery, O.

Having grand-children, he truly was "Grand-pa" This man was Joseph Grüss
Neither legendary, nor fiction,
But a man of 90 years, plus.
This little story is so true
I know as he was my father
This man of 90 years plus
Was indeed privileged to be called
"Grand-pa Grüss."

This sweet little dame he married Was Catherine Eischen. Then became Catherine Grüss Several years later became My mother, this Catherine Grüss.

His early years he engaged in farming He bought some land, cleared it and built, with some help all the buildings That were needed to live on and to do farming.

In 1917 he retired there My brother married, took over then We moved to Fort Recovery An Historical town that I grew up in Where he was engaged in other work

In 1938, they were both blessed In having been privileged To celebrate their Golden Wedding.

Their children had a very impressive program for them. A grandson (who in later years became a professional musician) played Ave Maria and Silver Threads among the Gold on his violin. A grand-daughter spoke a poem titled "Grand-parents Golden Jubilee" which was composed and written many years earlier by an old friend of our mother who had composed a book of poems. It seemed very touching to them, but very beautiful and impressive to all. In 1942 our mother died and went to her reward, which she so richly deserved. Not only was she a good wife and mother, but in her loving kindness, always ready to help in need and cared for many people in sickness. written by Bertha (Gruss) Sutter, Coldwater, Oh.

GUGGENBILLER

The American Guggenbiller family had its beginning in a John Guggenbiller who migrated from Bavaria, Germany with several Fink brothers and thereby avoided military service in his native Germany. In correspondence with relatives in Germany we found that they never heard from him in America.

He told once about going west through the woods for some distance after he had established his home. He came to another home owned by a man named Jones. It is interesting to know that there are still people by that name living in that area.

His youngest and fourth son was born in 1871. By then his family also had two daughters. Don't ask who his wife was. More of that later. In order of age, there were John, Mary, Joe, Anna, and Aloys. The one skipped died as a youth and I think is buried on St. Paul's cemetery at Sharpsburg, which is just south of where the family lived with the other High German families of Esser, Hoening, Lieser, and Breig. There may have been others.

John avoided the German draft but was conscripted to serve in the Civil War. He told his son he once just made it into the corn field behind the house when they came for him. Then I can understand why his wife lost her mind and later died in the Toledo State Hospital where she was also buried. His youngest son, my father the baby was kept for time by a Mr. and Mrs. Reese. When John found out they were going to move, he feared his son would be lost to him so he took him back. Neighbors, very good people, helped the family with bread baking, washing, etc. since Mary was only nine at the time.

In time, the son John Guggenbiller Jr. married Kathrynn Griesdorn of St. Rose and settled on Fox Road just one and a half mile south of Wendelin. There were to be ten children in that fmaily. They took exceptional pride in their home, scrubbing the walk from house to barn on their knees, keeping the yard really cared for, the garden without weeds and straight clean paths and the house immaculate. The boys learned to play stringed instruments. They played at barn dances for neighborhood weddings and many evenings at home were spent with music.

Most of the family lived to be fairly old and all the girls are still living. So is the youngest boy, Henry, who lives on his father's farm with his wife and a child, Thelma in the original house built for his father. His wife was Kunkler from West of Wendelin. The youngest son of Henry also lives on the farm in a newly built house. Henry also had a number of other children, among them twin girls but the author is only aware of where one lives, Mrs. Luthman.

Son John had a son, John, the oldest son who married Miss Hemmelgarn from Wendelin and they had a fairly large family but the parents died fairly early and the children are somewhat scattered. One lived in St. Henry and probably still does.

Vincent, the second son limped with a leg injury and had a smaller farm out of the north side of his father's farm after he married Cecile McFarland from Darke County. Vince's oldest son, Clarence, who lives in Darke County has a son named John who lives on the Miller place just west of Henry's farm and is married to a great-granddaughter of Alovs.

Vincent's one son lives in Darke County and there are girls whose whereabouts the author does not know.

Vincent's younger brother, Aloys, named after his baptismal sponsor, Uncle Aloys, lived on Fox Road on his Uncle Joe's farm before his death a few years ago. His widow must still live there, where a new house has gone up for a boy who runs a fine dairy farm. Another boy lives in the same vicinity and raises purebred pigs. One of the girls is Mrs. Broering from Cassella. If we've skipped some of the children in this history it was not intentional. The relationship is too large to keep track of everyone when most of your time was and is taken up with daily work.

To my knowledge, all of John Guggenbiller, Jr.'s girls are still living. There's Mary Schmitz who lived in Celina. One of her girls is married to Edwin Pott-kotter. The Schmitz family lived first in Darl County, south of Sharpsburg. Mary must ha Great-Grandchildren.

Clara Jutte was still living at the edge of St. Henr One daughter lives also in St. Henry, a son lives of the Sam Jutte farm on Siegrist Jutte road. One so Orville lives at Wendelin with his family. The whereabouts of three other children are not know to me.

Minnie Meiring, John Jr.'s daughter lives Sharpsburg on the Meiring farm with a son and h wife and family amid high silos that help the fami raise a lot of livestock and put Minnie's grandchi dren through college.

Elizabeth Backs lives on 119 not far from a daugl ter, Mrs. Adrian Kaup. The other Backs children a not known by the author.

Carolyn Kaiser lives across from the High Scho in Ft. Recovery. The youngest daughter lives on farm south of Coldwater. The older children lives somewhere in the cities, the oldest one in Dayton.

Theresa Brunswick lives in a new house west of Sharpsburg. She also lived on a farm where her husband lived as did Carolyn Kaiser. While all of the John Jr. Family had families to my knowledge, nor was the size of their father's family.

Mary Guggenbiller Rindler who at nine bega learning to manage a house was the finest perso I've ever known. One of her relatives said she'd tak in any old tramp who came along asking for help She married Jacob Rindler and they lived south a Cranberry on a good farm where they prospere and reared a family of seven boys and two gir namely Frances and Anna, Ferdinand, Sebastian John, Joe, William, Edmund and Sylvester.

They all lived on farms except John and Edmund John worked at New Idea. John's wife a Miss Berth also from Cranberry had hearing problems but the lived in Coldwater with their family, not as large a Jacobs.

Edmund still lives at Chickasaw with his wife. The children are all on their own. He had a garage ther until retirement that I think a son took over. Edmund had a crippled foot and leg so farming woul have been difficult. In youth his folks sent him to S Louis for treatment and a shoe fitting while he at tended school.

Ferdinand whom they always called "Fairy" wa the oldest son and lived on a farm near North Star a did Joe. Fairy had a pleasant personality like hi mother, but his family was smaller than Joe's. Hi and Joe's sons still live on farm near North Star.

Sebastian, always nicknamed "Cabot" had a farn just east of Burkettsville where once in the early twenties a tornado did some damage. Now he has house in Burkettsville and still lives though his wife

Bowman died just this year (1978). His was fairly large family with some carpenters especially.

Joe Rindler married a niece of Mrs. Jim Coughlir from St. Henry and theirs is a fairly large and lively fun loving family who lived near North Star but botl parents are now dead.

William Rindler lives southeast of St. Henry an has a daughter whose family lives in St. Henry. H was almost the smallest of the Rindlers with whom was not well acquainted.

Anna Reier is still living on the farm they move

n that is on Road 119 where she started housekeepig. One son lives with her while the other son lives n route 119 west of St. Henry with his family. Anna so has twin girls who are old enough to have their wn homes.

John's second son, Joe, had an exceptionally appy home as long as his first wife lived. She was a liss Siegrist from St. Joe. They also lived on Fox oad just one farm from older brother John. None f Joe's children live near the home place now. lostly they went to the city as soon as they could nd jobs there. Their mother died early and their faner married Kathryn Wappelhorst. The children ere Roman, Constant, Tony, Olivia and another irl whose name is forgotten.

GUGGENBILLER

Anna Guggenbiller's husband was John Brackman om St. Joe and Grandpa John made his home with nem. He lived to be 96 and is buried in the St. Joe emetery. While he lived with them he kept busy elping, like splitting the wood for the fire even in is nineties. In the Brackman family were the chilren Rose, Veronica Giere from Maria Stein, Eulalia, Idelia Reinhart on a neighboring farm, Helen Nieerding now in Fort Recovery, Willabald who is ead and the youngest, Florenz, also dead.

Rosa died soon after entering a convent. Veronia's boys still farm the Giere farm near Maria Stein o make it look prosperous and progressive. One of he girls, Cordula Post lives and works in St. Henry ince her husband's death. There are some other hildren. Veronica was killed by a cow when she vent to milk it one morning quite a few years ago.

'he father Joe Giere died before his wife.

Odelia Reinhart, wife of Jone Reinhart, lived with is father's family, neighbors to the Brackmans and eared a large family. One girl is a nun in Cincinnati. on Jerry is Recovery's milkman and has a large amily of his own. Another daughter is the wife of it. Henry's soft drink salesman, Mr. Bruns. Two ounger Reinhart sons live near Ft. Recovery. The oungest son is Robert whose whereabouts are unnown to me.

Helen Nieberding's husband has been dead a lumber of years. Helen lives with a son in the forner John Shindler home in Ft. Recovery. I think the on has a car body repair shop. Another of Helen's ons is a barber in Eaton. A daughter, Mrs. Joe Renaklus (Mary Ann) has grown twin sons, two laughters and at least two other sons. The family perate Miracle Lanes Bowling Alley.

Another Nieberding daughter Alma, Mrs. Alvin (aup, lives just west of Ft. Recovery near the Roller link. Two of her children are married and she has randchildren. Several other children are still at iome. Alvin works at St. Clair Mills.

Willabald Brackman, third oldest child in Anna's amily has been dead for several years and his wife ind family's whereabouts are unknown to me. The amily once had a farm where they lived, not far rom his father's farm. His wife was Marcella Omlor rom Dayton. He helped his father with the steam ingine, saw mill and other tools to do custom work.

Florenz, the youngest child finished High School ind worked in Troy until his death a few years ago. His wife was a Roessner girl from St. Peter's Parish.

Aloys Guggenbiller, John's youngest child had a chance to play under the bridge sometimes instead of going to school since he was the only one going after Anna quit to help her sister keep house and to keep it alone after Mary married. That's why he'd sometimes ask us, his children, how to spell some words when he was writing a letter or an order.

Aloys got a farm just east of son John's but it was only eighty acres. His interest was fifty dollars a year payable to his father. And his father would usually have to come to collect it. At that time though many farmers started with only forty acres. There were forty acres cleared when he moved on it. And when we moved to town another thirty acres had been cleared. But you could hire help then for very little but the little wasn't so easy to come by. A lot of timber was cut and hauled a distance to be sold for cash.

Ours was a house with three rooms up and three down and a one room cellar. The cistern and well were outside. The kitchen served also as a dining room and had wainscoating around the walls.

When I was little we almost always had hired men helping since Aloys did more than farm. In time we had a steam engine and the tools that went with it, threshing machine, clover huller, corn shredder and saw mill.

The triplet's grandpar-ent's (Gregor Post) wedding picture and the grandparent's grand-parents, Mary Guggenbiller and Ben Post.

When Aloys Guggenbiller sold Fords, Pullsman, Dodges, and finally Chevrolets, when automobiles came into the country. And the boys, Florenz and Leo became automobile mechanics. They were both sent to mechanic schools connected to automobile companies. Our third boy, Carl, died at six of diptheria, the greatest tragedy of our young lives and the family. That was the first time I saw my father crv.

We moved to town and my oldest sister, Cordula and her husband, John Post, and oldest child Rita lived on the farm they had bought for $16,000, I think.

Both John and Cordula Post are dead but they left behind twelve children, two sets of twins in succession among them. The second son, Gregor lives on the Esser farm and has fifteen children, among them, the mother of the Kremer triplets of Chickasaw.

Across the road from Gregor is his brother Ben's farm. There are fourteen children in that family with no twins. They live in what was the Breitenstein home. The house was built after 1910 after the home before it burned down. Ben owns a sand pit on the Sharpsburg road and hauls it out to sell besides farming his farm.

The oldest Post child, Rita, is dead, but she left behind a husband Herman Nerderman and one son and several daughters, some of whom live in St.

Henry.

The second Post child, Eugene and his wife live in Wendelin but they still milk cows on their farm, the Miller place where his youngest daughter and her husband, the youngest John Guggenbiller, Vincent's grandson and their two children. Two other daughters of Eugene live on farms in the county. His only son died as a result of an injury in a neighborhood football game.

Emma Guggenbiller Zumberger taught several years in Mercer County Schools. Her largest class was 51 pupils in 8 grades at Hopewell School in Shelby County about 1930.

The Twin Guggenbiller girls, Agnes Fullenkamp at St. Peter and Alma Ranly at Philothea have grown families, Alma's with several teachers.

Zita Guggengiller at Wendelin with three girls and Zeno at Versailles with his family are the other twins.

That leaves Mary Alice Faller with her husband and family on a farm at Rose Hill and Rosalyn Vondrell on the State Line east of Geneva with her husband and family whom I haven't seen since the oldest daughter was a baby.

Also, the youngest son, Alvin and his family on our home place though he farms additional acres. His oldest daughter was top graduate in her class at St. Henry. They've made real changes and additions on the place.

Florenz left behind a wife, Pauline Gebele and five year old son when he died at the Toledo State Hospital where his grandmother once was. Pauline and Carl operate a business north of Troy serving dinners.

Martha Fecher, the second daughter, wife of Norbert Fecher died a few years ago at Dayton State Hospital and her husband died at Carthagena just lately. Thelma, the oldest child is also dead leaving a husband Roy and one daughter living on Nort Main Street, Dayton.

Joe, married to a Smith daughter from Coldwate lives with his family in Brookville. He spent son time as a Naval Cadet in World War II.

Aloys Guggenbiller with two daughters and niece Armella Eifert on a Dayton outing.

Ernest the oldest son of Aloys Guggenbiller sper some time in Japan as a Marine in World War II, bu I've lost trace of him a few years ago.

Catherine Gremline, the second daughter als lives in Dayton with her husband and family c mostly boys whom I haven't seen since we've move to Indiana.

Marion and Constance, the two youngest childre stayed with their grandmother Guggenbiller unt Thelma was old enough to keep house when th family moved back on the farm, the Lennartz hom on Minster Recovery Road between Fort Recover and Wendelin.

Now all of the children except Ernest live an work in or near Dayton. Marion just had his firs Grandchild this year. There are four boys and tw girls in his family. We haven't seen Constance for long time and know little about her family, the Eck steins.

Leo, second son of Aloys retired some time ag from his garage and automobile business with Chev rolet. Lately he has his third wife, widow of Mr. Sut ter. Alberta Vogel and Dr. Huerkamp's daughter, hi two former wives are both buried on Mary Help o Christians Cemetery in Fort Recovery. His son David lives in St. Marys, daughter Marlene Winne and family with Dr. Winner live along the Reservoir Grand Lake Saint Marys. Two babies are deceased and two daughters live at a distance.

Ida lives in a Trailer House on E. Broadway in For Recovery, retired from work in the Standard Officin Celina. She helps out with sitting with an aged lady in town and generally seems to enjoy life.

Christina Leugers lives with a youngest daughte and husband Frank on 118 near the Raceway. The have dogs, a fine garden, big lawn, giant trees and leisurely life. They can, preserve and store most o the year's food. Christina just retired this year fron teaching since her family could spare her. Frank re tired several years ago. There are six children. Rutl Ann Baer with her husband Clete and six children live in Fort Loramie and she is a nurse at the hospita at St. Marys.

ant at Union City with a partner. Both have a fam-

Janet lives near Dayton with a family.

Robert lives near Lightsville with his family of ght (I think) children and is kept busy at the carenter trade.

That leaves the author, Emma Guggenbiller Zumerger, who is kept busy in retirement from teaching in canning and preserving, cooking, keeping buse, feeding pigs, cows and calves, making garen, harvesting, writing, etc. With husband Joe, I we on Mercer Darke County Line Road twelve tiles west of Burkettsville. To make up for poor randfather I served about three years in World Var II in the U.S.A. mostly cooking, with ten tonths overseas duty. This is an invitation to come list, relatives and friends.

Henry Kaiser Family

HENRY E. KAISER

Henry Edward Kaiser lived his life in four locations, Minster, St. Patricks, Sharpsburg, and Burk-ettsville. His grandparents, Theodore Johann (1805-1880) and Anna Elizabeth (1822-1908) Stegemann Kaiser were both born in Germany, he in Herzebrock, Prussia (probably Westphalia) and she in Handorf, Oldenburg. Theodore came to the United States with his widowed mother, his brother, and his brother's family. Arriving in Glandorf, Putnam County, August 14, 1836, they moved to Minster, Auglaize County, after a little more than a year. Theodore then helped to dig the Miami and Erie Canal. Elizabeth came with her parents, grandmother, three sisters, and one brother in 1836. Passing through Cincinnati, Elizabeth and her next oldest sister remained there to do housework as their parents were not financially able to take their whole family to Minster. Later joining their family in Minster, the two women helped their parents on their rented farm. Theodore Kaiser and Elizabeth Stegemann were married in Minster November 10, 1840, and made their home on a farm two and a half miles northwest of Minster, later in the possession of John Kaiser and his descendants. They became the parents of Henry, William, Bernard (Henry's father), Mary, Anna, Mary, John, Joseph, Frank, and Anton. William and the two Marys died in infancy while Henry died at the age of forty-nine on his farm near Chickasaw due to a gas well accident. After Theodore's death at the age of seventy-five, Elizabeth remained on the home farm a few years and then lived with her son, Frank, about one and a half miles southeast of Sharpsburg where she died at the age of eighty-six. Theodore and Elizabeth were known as good, whole-souled, kind-hearted people and were buried in St. Augustine Catholic Cemetery, Minster.

Henry's parents, Bernard (1846-1916) and Elizabeth (1845-1888) Möller Sprehe Kaiser lived in a large house on Fourth Street near the west edge of Minster. Bernard operated his farm implement business at this same location. Elizabeth was the widow of Carl Bernard Sprehe and the mother of Frank Sprehe. Bernard and Elizabeth had four children, Rosa, Pauline (Timmerman), Henry, and Frances (Liening). Apparently, Henry was only five years old when his mother died at the early age of forty-two. Katherine Adelina (1851-1911) Gerdes kept house for the Kaisers after Elizabeth's death and later married Bernard. Bernard and Katherine were the parents of Charles (Justice of the Peace in Merci County for many years), Lawrence, Oliver, Eleanor (Sister Gervase), and Gertrude (Giere). Therefore, addition to his two sisters, Henry had one step brother and five half brothers and sisters.

Retiring early because of diabetes, Bernard spen his later years repairing implements and visiting h farms. It was on one of these, a two hundred acream near St. Patricks that Henry went to live an work the land. His sister, Rose, kept house for his till her untimely death. Having helped her sister an brother-in-law, Pauline and Joe Timmerman & Sharpsburg, recover from typhoid fever, she returned to St. Patricks to die from the disease, her self, at the age of thirty December 31, 1906.

May 1, 1907 Henry Kaiser married Emma Hube the daughter of Joseph and Mary Ann Deppen Huber of Sharpsburg. They continued to rent the fariat St. Patricks. As a council member Henry helpe in the building of the Catholic Church at St. Paricks.

Bernard Kaiser died July 14, 1916 and was burie with his wives in St. Augustine Cemetery, Minste When the St. Patrick's farm was put up for auction the major portion was bought by Joseph Hoying for his sons, Frank and Bill. Henry and Emma bought an eighty-acre farm near Sharpsburg onto whice they moved in sub-zero weather the winter of 1911. There they farmed, reared a large family, and Henry was trustee for Gibson Township for over twent.

Henry and Emma were the parents of the follow ing eleven children: Stella (1909) who married Law rence Broering in 1934 and now lives in Cranberr Prairie, Leo (1910) who married Alma Wendel 193—Sharpsburg, Luetta (1912-1945) who married Joh Reichart 1938, Edward (1914) who married Doroth Faller 1935—Fort Recovery, Bernard (1916) who married Mary Barga 1944—Burkettsville, Marcell (1919) who married Richard Hemmelgarn 1939—Celina, Joseph (1921-1978) who married Adella Ma Borger 1945, Albert (1923-1926), Richard (1925-1974 who married Eileen Rauh 1948, Rosella (1927) who married Walter Hierholzer 1947—Burkettsville Herbert (1930) who married Rosemary Griesho 1957—Coldwater.

After retiring Henry and Emma sold their farn and moved to Burkettsville in 1967 to be near thei daughter, Rosella. Emma died March 2, 1971. Henry like the patriarchs of old, was surrounded by hi family and friends, walking and talking with them even puffing on his customary cigar, during hi ninety-fifth birthday celebration. He died the fol lowing day, August 29, 1977. Deeply loved and re spected, he was a sincere, honest, and kind man. A the time of his death he and Emma had fifty-sever grandchildren and ninety-six great-grandchildren The remains of these two gentle people are in St Paul's Cemetery, Sharpsburg.

As a teenager Herb started with a few chicken and has been connected with different phases of th poultry and egg industry ever since. The first chick ens he raised were Klingshirn Leghorns. The chick were grown in brooder houses on range. In 1948 th Holtzapple White Rock, a dual purpose bird bred b Oscar Holtzapple of Elida, was introduced. In 194 the Meirings produced hatching eggs for Holtzapples. Herb also started his career as a salesman sell ing chicks and later poultry equipment.

Next came the Kimberchix from California. During this time a double story chicken house was built then another layer house. All the Meiring famil worked with the packing and handling of eggs. Nex came the starting houses 240 by 40 ft. and when No 6 house was built, it was the first cage growin house in this vicinity. It held 20,000 pullets. Later, a five houses and a layer house were converted to cag growing. Now over 100,000 pullets are grown at on time.

In 1964 Herb with Vere Cochran and Dick Stau gler started "Pullets Unlimited". They contracted pullet growing and egg production using Babcock chickens from Ithaca, N.Y. Later Pullets Unlimited switched to the DeKalb chicken.

In 1974, Herb with Vere Cochran (hatcheryman from Portland, Ind.) and John Weaver (egg processo of Versailles, O.) became partners in Mississinaw. Poultry Farm. This farm had a capacity of 300,000 laying hens. This farm was sold in 1977.

THE ROOP FAMILY

The Roop family was among the early pioneers of Mercer County, and the name has been one that has stood for the best in community life for more than a century and a half. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Roop came to this vicinity in 1837.

Thomas Roop was of Swiss-German ancestry. He was born in Pennsylvania, May 31, 1807. Was married to Elizabeth Junot of a French Huguenat family. It is somewhat uncertain as to the date of their arrival in America. The Junot family had a long and glorious history in France, but being of the Huguenat faith, were forced to flee from their native land and chose the new American Republic as the haven of religious and civic liberty. Their voyage consumed three months hardship at which time their father died and was buried at sea. The mother and six children continued their journey and found a haven at Jersey Shore near Meadville, Pennsylvania

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Roop had two children

born in Pennsylvania. When Thomas was thirty years of age, he joined the new frontier village, where nine more children were born. Several of the children lived their entire life around this area. Zema L. died in infancy and lies in the Pioneer Cemetery. John B. Roop was one of the children who was known and loved by all that knew him. Thomas Roop was a shoemaker and conducted what amounted to a family factory in the old home which stood in what is now the middle of Wayne Street, west of the K of C Hall. As he worked at his bench, his good wife, with a child on her lap, and one at each side, sat and sewed on the shoes, for which they found a ready market. They supplied shoes for the laborers who were at work in that important engineering project, the Grand Reservoir.

In 1880 the Roop family purchased land east of the village and lived there until 1883. Their last days were spent in the old homestead which was occupied by their grand daughter Nellie Roop Schwartz. Today Nellie I. Roop Franklin and her husband Derrell live in the same location. Nellie is a great grand daughter of Thomas Roop. Nell Franklin, Fort Recovery

AMBASSADOR PARK

Fort Recovery in recent years has been known for good basketball teams under the leadership of Coach Al Souder. A community group called the "Booster Club" was very active in promoting various sport programs. From this group several other local people became interested in bigger things for the community.

A new organization was formed and they cal themselves "The Ambassadors". It was formed year that Fort Recovery won the State Basketl Tournament in 1971. ORT RECOVERY, OHIO

The present site of Fort Recovery was the scene of the very important events in the early history of rthwest Territory. Some of the greatest Indian in the scherished this area as their favorite hunting unds. As the white man pushed forward, the retwas a conflict between the races.

Attempts at peaceful settlements had failed. The lians repudiated the treaties of their chiefs and rested the sound of the woodsman's ax.

n 1790 the first military governor of the Northst Territory, General Arthur St. Clair, dispatched neral Josiah Harmar with thirteen hundred men o the wilderness. After destroying some deserted ages, they continued to the Maumee River where Indians under Little Turtle inflicted a harrowing eat. This encouraged the Indians to become inasingly aggressive.

Although the newly created government of the ited States earnestly desired peace, the petitions it to President Washington were so urgent that it is decided to send a formidable army against the Governor St. Clair, far from young, and broken in alth, accepted command of this important undering. With fifteen hundred regulars and volunts, he set out for Fort Washingon, now Cincinti, in September 1791, to subdue the Indians.

Building Fort Hamilton at the crossing of the Great Miami Fort Jefferson, 40 miles farther north, St. Clair's army advanced into the wilderness. On the evening of November 3, 1791, the troops, weary and dejected, reached a point twenty-nine miles northwest of Fort Jefferson and encamped on a slight rise of land on the banks of the Wabash River. Here, before daybreak on the following morning, November 4, 1791, they were surprised by an attack by 2000 Indians of the Miami, Delaware, Pawnee, Shawnee, Wyandot, Seneca and Ottawa tribes.

The army as a whole fought bravely, encouraged by their officers, but after about three hours of fighting further resistance was hopeless and retreat was ordered. The road by which the army had advanced was the only possible line of retreat. St. Clair mounted on one of the few horses left, gathered the survivors of the different battalions and ordered them to charge and regain the road. Lead by Colonel Darke and a few other officers the soldiers fell on the Indians with such fury that an opening was made through which all rushed in full retreat leaving more than nine hundred men dead and wounded on the battlefield.

When the disaster was reported to President Washington, a commission of inquiry was appointed. While St. Clair was almost universally censured, the investigations proved that he had not had support to make a successful campaign possible and that he had acted with utmost bravery on the battle-

Brigadier General James Wilkinson, veteran of several Indian campaigns, succeeded General St. Clair as commander at Fort Washington and in the following February led a detachment of one hundred fifty mounted men to the scene of the disaster to bury the dead and recover anything of value that might remain at the camp site. On the battlefield the slain lay thick, scalped and stripped of their clothing, many showing evidence of torture.

President Washington was determined to assure a successful defense of the Western frontier and chose General Anthony Wayne, Revolutionary War hero, to lead another expedition into the wilderness. Arriving at Fort Washington in April 1793, with an army of 2600 men, he began intensive military drill, and late in 1793 he began his advance to the north.

About eighty miles north of Fort Washington, he built a strong fort and named it Fort Greenville. From this place, in December, he sent forward a detachment of troops to the site of St. Clair's defeat. On Christmas day their tents were pitched and the next day they buried the bones that were still above ground and began the building of a fort which was named "Fort Recovery".

On June 30 and July 1, 1794, determined assaults were made by Indians on the fort, but the garrison re-enforced by Major William MacMahan's force withstood the assaults and the Indians were forced to withdraw with heavy losses. Captain Gibson, in command of the fort, was highly commended for great gallantry.

This victory over 2000 Indians and British was soon followed by General Wayne's successful campaign on the Maumee. The Treaty of Greenville signed August 3, 1795, brought to a close the Indian hostilities in this vicinity and established a boundary line between the Indians and Whites; a line extending from Fort Recovery to Loramie's Store, now Fort Loramie in this area. Our Boundary Street is a part of that line, ever since known as Old Indian Boundary Line.

With the treaty the need of Fort Recovery was very much diminished. However, it continued for a few years and in 1798 had a small garrison of about sixty men. It probably was used until after the War of 1812.

Later when the garrison was withdrawn, David Conner had a trading post within the stockade.

In 1817 the John Simison family came as the first permanent settlers. By 1830 there were several families living around the fort. Peter Studebaker married Mr. Simison's daughter Margaret, on February 21, 1821.

The original plot of Fort Recovery was made in 1836 when Daniel Beardsley laid out land north of the Indian Boundary Line, and William McDaniel and his father-in-law Thomas Larkin, laid out the land south of that line. Mr. Beardsley filed his plot as "Village of Recovery", which is still the official name of the village.

Dr. J. S. Fair was the first physician to practice in Fort Recovery. Dr. J. C. Richardson, father of Dr. Vincent Richardson, came in 1843. Dr. Dixon Milligan and Dr. W. Campbell who came in 1851 were among the first village doctors.

The Peoples Bank was stablished February 1, 1908 with the late E. N. Ioore, cashier. It was joined with the Citizen Comercial Bank in Celina Oct. 2, 1972. The Building & Dan was founded and has now merged and is nown as Mercer County Savings & Loan.

A woolen factory established by Krenning & Son 1870 had four looms, two weaving and spinning tachines with twenty-four spindles, three carding tachines and a packing machine, all driven by a tirty horsepower engine. By 1882 this first-class

The Centennial Year of St. Clair Defeat 1881 was elebrated by a three day program October 14, 15 nd 16. The bones of the heroes were moved from the Pioneer Cemetery and re-interred on what is ow Monument Park. For twenty one years their urial place was marked by a fenced enclosure and a ag-staff. It was not until 1910 that Congress appropriated money for a memorial. Work began in 1912 nd the dedication of the monument was held on the 1913.

The first gas well was struck in Fort Recovery on Iarch 28, 1887. It was lighted and burned day and ight for several months, with a flame one hundred eet high. People more than a mile away were able

At the Harvest Jubilee on August 6, 1912 mail was arried by airplane for the first time in Ohio.

The Fort Recovery Welfare Association (Chamber f Commerce) in 1935, purchased ten acres around ne original fort site and the first fort construction egan in 1936. The construction of the present fort

FORT RECOVERY HISTORICAL SOCIETY, INC.

In response to a notice in the September 27, 1946 issue of the Fort Recovery Journal thirty citizens of Fort Recovery met at the Library September 30th. Mrs. Iris Longley was appointed chairman and she spoke of the need for an organization to preserve and promote interest in our historical background.

In the discussion which followed, it was decided that it would be best to organize as a nonprofit organization. Various committees were appointed and the time for the next meeting was set for October.

The report of the committee on nominations presented names for fifteen trustees. Those to serve for three years were Charles Barrenbrugge, Floyd Freemyer, Iris Longley, Aldes Mott, and Elizabeth Hedrick. James Boggs, Derrell Franklin, Fay Hart, Mabel Ickes, and Leo Hildbold were to serve two years. Those named for one year were Harvey Ashcraft, George Davis, Martha Rohr, Mildred Stevenson, and Savella Wagner.

The official charter of the Society dated October 26, 1946 was presented at the November meeting, and from the fifteen trustees the first officers were elected: President — Iris Longley; 1st Vice President — Floyd Freemyer; 2nd Vice President — Fay Hart; Secretary — Elizabeth Hedrick; Treasurer — Leo Hildbold.

Standing committees were announced at the next meeting and the Fort Recovery Historical Society, Inc. was firmly established with 17 life members and 308 yearly members. Dues were set at 1 year, $1.00; 3 years, $2.50; 5 years, $4.00; 10 years, $7.50; and a life membership, $25.00. No changes in these have been made to date.

The first projects discussed were the possibility of stopping the destruction of small cemetery plots, the arranging for their permanent care, and the preparing of a room to place collections and gifts that may become property of the Society.

In 1947 the Society received two gifts. Mrs. George Krenning, New Haven, Connecticut, gave the Society the deed to the Krenning Lot on Wayne Street in memory of her husband, George Campbell Krenning; and Mrs. Celeste Lipps gave a framed collection of Indian flints.

October 30, 1947 was the date of the first annual meeting. A report of the Membership Committ under the chairman, Sebastian Ranly, showed a toof 610 members.

The Committee for the Krenning Memorial I reported that the front sidewalk and retaining we were completed. Later the lot was landscaped, charwere added, and it was used as a park.

The program included a summary of the year work by Mabel Ickes, a monologue by Wanda Bo trager, and an excellent talk on our historical bac ground by Frazer Ells Wilson of Greenville, Ohio.

After completing the work on the Krenning Par the Society planned to restore the Pioneer Cemete on Gwendolyn Street. Much credit must be given two new trustees, Otto Vonder Haar and Mauri Denney. The plot was cleared, trees were trimme and gravestones were replaced. Later a sidewalk w laid on the east and in 1951, on the 100th annive sary of Bone Burying Day, the Society erected two markers with appropriate legends. One was placenear the original gravestone of Samuel McDowe the other to the west honoring the armies of Gener Arthur St. Clair and General Anthony Wayne.

Mrs. Florence Rapp Cowie financed the placeme of a fountain on Old Fort State Park in memory her father, Charles Rapp, and the Society supervise the work.

Plans were made to secure the relics and cas from the Fort Recovery Banking Company and start a museum in the balcony gallery of the Libra Museum Building on Old Fort State Park.

In 1948 the Society received its first contribution from the County Commissioners. This help has begiven every year since.

On May 1, 1949 the Museum was opened. The were 350 registered visitors; a tea was held in tl building club room.

A card party in October and a play later, "TI Absent-minded Bridegroom," directed by Iris Lon ley and Coda Hull, added needed funds to the trea ury.

Even though the monthly meetings are trust meetings, any member of the Society or citizen Fort Recovery may attend any meeting and prese ideas. There are annual meetings for all membe and interested citizens. At those meetings committee reports are given and interesting programs planned

To mention a few: An illustrated lecture by Ramond S. Baby on the excavation of Dunlap Mound; lecture by Elmer Glaser on Manuscripts of Gener St. Clair; a lecture by Paul W. Wehr on The Trea of Finney; an illustrated lecture on Life of Lincoln by J. Albert Volz; talks given by respresentatives of Frank Cline's Junior High School History Club of Indiana Pioneer Families; a film, Wonderful Wor of Ohio, from Ohio Bell; the History of Vincennes by Gus Stevens; Ohio Indians by Monsignor Joh Vogel.

The tenth annual meeting program was a great enjoyed magic show by Richard Hull.

At other meetings various members gave illustrated talks, namely: the Longleys' tour to the historical places in Virginia and Pennsylvania; the Franklins' tour in Europe; the Stauglers' visit to Easter rope with People to People tour; Joyce Alig's pictes of historical places in Mercer County; an ormative explanation by Joseph Thatcher on the lovation of the museum; a display of pictures m the Harry McDaniel negatives by Mike Ranly; recall of the 175th Celebration by pictures of the al parade by Don Duweling and Derrell Franklin; review of the Sesquicentennial Celebration with tures taken by Lee Guggenbiller and Richard II; and a film, American Harvest, by Lee Guggenler.

After opening the Museum, the society issued a der with pictures and historical data to be given to itors, and copies of "Historic Fort Recovery" were of on hand until the closing of the Museum.

While the trustees cared for the Museum when it s first opened, they soon realized that a caretaker s necessary. Glenna Sanner, Clara Scheid, and zel Hoke helped the Society in this work.

Another publication of the Society was a revision "Historical Sketch of Fort Recovery" by Martha E. hr. To the original booklet, pictures and new data re added. This booklet is available at the Public prary and the present Museum.

Beginning in 1959 postcards of places of interest re made available. These, too, may be purchased Sutton's Store and the Public Library.

The Society has taken an active part in county and vn celebrations. When the county celebrated the 5th anniversary of Mercer County and the State of 110 in Celina, July 20-26, 1953, the Society furshed a float for the parade and the people needed depict the early history of the area Indians, Gentl Arthur St. Clair, and General Anthony Wayne, d wrote a short account of Fort Recovery for the 50gram booklet.

Starting in 1953 the Society, aided by the Anthony ayne Parkway Board, erected several historical irkers. One was placed and dedicated near the site Fort Adams about seven and a half miles from lina on Route 127. This marker with map and legdicalls attention to Anthony Wayne's movement troops in the summer of 1794.

Another was a marker on Old Fort State Park plaining with a map and legend the Indian Wars that ground. It was dedicated July 4, 1954 with ks given by Floyd Freemyer, Paul Hinkle, and J. chard Lawwill, whose topic was Our Historical critage.

A marker marks the source of the Wabash River the Darke and Mercer Co. Line and S.R. 49.

At the same time, June 18, 1958, a marker was aced at the site of General Richard Butler's death General St. Clair's battle November 4, 1791. This located On Wayne Street.

In 1936 when the first stockade restoration was tilt, a stake was found that revealed the exact location of the boundary of the Indian Territory establed by the Treaty of Greenville in 1795. Here a arker was placed and dedicated during the Jubilee 1961. Speakers of the occasion were Harold omer, Carlton Reiser, John Suhr, Henry Miller, and chard Knoff, the latter a representative of the nthony Wayne Parkway Board.

Explosion of 1906

With the help of the Gibson Townships's Trustees and the Society's Committee, Otto Vonder Haar and Maurice Denney, the Pisgah Hill Cemetery south of Fort Recovery was restored in 1971.

Tours sponsored by the Society include: A dinner at Guy Williver Smorgasbord in Hagerstown, Indiana and a tour of Preble County's covered bridges; a Region 6 Rally at Piqua with a tour of the Johnston Farm; a Region 6 Rally at Fort Amanda and a tour of the Allen County Museum and the McDonald House Restoration; a dinner at the Golden Lamb, Lebanon, and a tour of the museums of Warren County, Glendower, and Fort Ancient; a Region 6 Rally at the Darke County Museum, Greenville, visiting the Lowell Thomas and Annie Oakley rooms; a tour of the various markers and parks in our locality which was followed by a dinner at Thobe's Restaurant in honor of Elmer Glaser; a tour of Kingswood Center and Malabar Farm at Mansfield; and, perhaps the most interesting of all, a tour in 1970 when the Society chartered a bus and spent the day at the Ohio Historical Center in Columbus.

In 1968 when the Public Library moved from the Library Museum Building on Old Fort State Park, it was necessary to make other plans for our museum.

The Ohio Historical Society planned an excellent museum which was opened in 1970. The museum exhibits use mannequins to portray the dress of Indians and of Wayne's legionnaires, fort construction, and use of the pack cannon. Other exhibits depict the Indian Wars of the 1790's. A balcony gallery is devoted to the historical collections of our Society.

The pioneer cabin was declared beyond repair and the various articles are stored. The Society began planning for its own museum on the Krenning Memorial Park. These plans were slow in developing, but a contract for at least a part of the proposed building has been signed in 1978.

Present officers of the Society are President — Robert Freemyer; 1st Vice President — Patricia Hull, 2nd Vice President — Richard Mohler, and Secretary Treasurer — Margaret Schroer, with the following serving as trustees: Maurice Denney, Cathy Franke, Nell Franklin, Eva Gordon, Elizabeth Hedrick, Charles Hein, Leo Hildbold, Mabel Ickes, Edward Livingston, Dr. Richard Meiring, Evelyn Muhlenkamp, Arthur Rose, Elizabeth Sutton, and Otto Vonder Haar.

There are no official records available for the first hool in Fort Recovery, but it is believed to have en built of logs in 1837, and located on West But. In 1853 the Board of Directors ade final payments to Robert Blake for the frame ilding he had erected to replace the log structure. laries increased and in 1856 W. F. George was empyed as Principal for eight months at $44.00 per onth, with M.S. George as assistant at $16.00. Attack increased and in 1859 A. Wallingsford was used orders amounting to $195.00 for building an dition to the school. Later this structure was made to a dwelling.

In May, 1869, Ft. Recovery citizens voted an apopriation of $5,000 to build a school house at undary and Elm streets, a location now known as onument Park. The final cost of this building was ,000. It had two rooms on the first floor, two on e second, and was called the Fort Recovery Union hool. Official school records are available from April 15, 79. At that time the board members were: Wilm Koch, G. R. McDaniel and John S. Rhoades, th John S. Fox as Clerk. Records dated August 4, 79 show at that time Principal Miles Moore was ployed at $3.25 a day for eight months, with Miss aggie McGriff and Miss Jane Ann Rhoades each reiving $1.50. Later in that year Sol McGriff Jr. was ded to the staff at $1.25 per day In January 1887, the Board of Education voted to bmit to qualified electors of the Special District of rt Recovery the question of levying a tax on real tate for funds to erect a new school house. The m of $15,000 was decided on, a special election is held January 20, 1887, and the levy passed by a te of 128 to 11. This marked the beginning of a o-story, eight room brick building erected at the esent location, corner of East Butler and High reets and known as the Fort Recovery Public hool. Bonds in the amount of $15,000 bearing 6% erest were issued. Later it was necessary to ask for additional levy of $3,000. The Board accepted the d of Kreusch and Fauger for the complete buildz. O. J. Hager was chosen to superintend the construction of the new school with a salary of $375.00 for his services. A bell weighing 800 pounds was ordered from the Cincinnati Bell Foundry. In recent years this bell has been permanently mounted in a corner of the school yard as a reminder of the many times it called children to school. After contracts were let for school furniture and other equipment, including lightning rods, James Hedrick Sr. was employed to supervise grading of the new lot. The first teaching staff in the new building included D.W.K. Martin as Superintendent with four other teachers. Salaries ranged from $30 to $75 per month.

Floss Johnson and Clyde Oswald had the distinction of being the first graduates, Fort Recovery High School Class of 1889. Commencement ceremonies were held in the Opera House. From that time until 1931, with only three exceptions, graduations continued to be held in the Opera House. Later the scene was changed to the High School gymauditorium. The Senior Class to be presented there this year numbers 89. In 1930, it became evident that more room was needed and a competent architect was employed to draw plans for an annex to the present building. The Board of Education resolved to submit to the voters the question of issuing bonds in the amount of $58,000 for a fire-proof building, the furniture, and equipment. The Board members taking this action were Leo E. Hildbold, President, William McConaha, and J. H. Bowers. The bond issue carried in November 1930, by a vote of 390 to 162. Contracts were let, and in October 1931, the new annex was ready for inspection and acceptance by the Board. An elaborate dedication was held October 14, 1931, with public inspection of the building as an opening event. A four-part pageant depicted school in the former west building, in the old building on the Park, the present old building, and school in the year 1931. L. W. Reese, High School Supervisor, State Department of Education delivered the address.

In 1940 state inspectors informed the Board of Education that part of the new school addition was in a hazardous condition and must not be used until rebuilt and repaired. Voters were asked to approve a bond issue of $15,563 for this repair. At a special election in February 1941, the issue passed. That same month the Board of Education employed Thos. D. McLaughlin and Associate Architects of Lima for the rebuilding. In November 1941, their work was accepted as completed.

The Sharpsburg Building is located in Sharpsburg and houses around 163 students in grades 1 through 6. Pictured are a great number of these students.

Later, more room was needed and in May 1953, voters approved a bond issue of $265,000 for razing the 1888 building and erecting a new one on the same site. The contract was awarded to McLaughlin and Keil, Architects, who completed the building in September 1954. This meant an addition of twelve classrooms, a sound proof bandroom, cafeteria with adjoining dining room, storage space and a main office with reception room. Formal dedication was November 21, 1954. After the presentation, George Jetter, President of the Board expressed acceptance. An address was given by W. D. Darling, Assistant State Director of Education, and Jerome J. Dilts, Local Superintendent led the formal dedication in which the audience participated.

Kindergarten was added to the school program in 1958. The first classes, with morning and afternoon sessions, were held in a room at the high school. Impressive graduation exercises at the end of the school year were directed by the teacher, Dorothea Brown. Later, kindergarten was moved to the West Building and the graduation program was closed.

Again voters approved a levy, and in 1962, additions to all the buildings were made at a cost of $544,000. This helped in making possible a new program in 1966, when the seventh and eighth grades were moved from St. Peter, Sharpsburg, and the West Building to form a consolidated Junior High in the East Building.

When it became evident that the size and facilities of the gym were far too inadequate, in 1973, voters approved $650,000 for an addition to the high school building. The general contract was awarded H. A. Dorsten, with at least eight sub-contracts to other companies. In addition to the playing floor area there was to be one designated for a stage, two large balconies, adequate dressing rooms, rest rooms, storage space, spacious lobbies and trophy cases. The building was completed by January 26, 1975. On that date impressive services were held, with William Wells, architect, presenting the building and Maurice Denney, President of the Board, accepting. Si Burick, well-known sports personality, gave the dedicatory address. The formal service of dedication was led by Cy LeFevre, President of the Booster Club. The printed programs gave due recognition to the citizens and organizations whose major contributions had helped in the building project.

Fort Recovery Public School (1888-1953)

In the area now comprising the Southwest Local hools, (Fort Recovery) there were formerly thiren one-room schools: to the south were College rner, College Hill, Goulder, Jones, Koesters and arpsburg; to the north were Bethel, Heintz, Macen, Monterey, Oakland, St. Joseph and St. Peter. ie Bethel and Jones buildings were abandoned ior to the 1920's; later the Bethel building was oved to St. Peter to serve as a second room during e era of the two-room schools. Sometime during e 1920's, the Heintz and Monterey Schools came to disuse. The College Hill school burned during e Christmas vacation in 1929-30; students were nt to the Goulder School. In the late 1930's, Koess, College Corner and Goulder schools were abrbed into the Wendelin and Fort Recovery Discts. The bricks from the latter two buildings were aned and used to build the present shop building the High School. Harold Hiatt and other former idents of both schools helped with this task. Koes-'s pupils attended the Wendelin school for a time fore consolidation with Fort Recovery and St. enry. Oakland was consolidated with St. Peter and ilothea in the late 1940's. It was in 1940 also that ore than 75% of the qualified electors of Wabash

Twp. and Allen Twp. School Districts of Darke County, Ohio, filed petitions for transfer to the Mercer County School District. Said territory was accepted by the Mercer County Board of Education. Students from those townships, as well as from Mississinewa Twp., attended school at Sharpsburg, Fort Recovery and Burkettsville. D. B. Spangler was the County Superintendent. County Board members were Wm. H. Romer, Pres., J. D. Kremer, W. C. Skinner, H. J. Bobenmoyer, V. Pres., and Eugene Springer. St. Joe students merged with St. Peter students in the late 1950's when on January 1, 1958, the Southwest Local District, as such, was created. Of the thirteen one-room schools, Sharpsburg and St. Peter remain in use, both having had additions and/ or new buildings added. Within the present Sharpsburg structure is the original one room. At St. Peter, the original school, located on the southwest corner of the St. Peter-Philothea Roads intersection, was razed, and a new structure built on the opposite corner. The Oakland and Koesters one-room schools remain standing; the former located on the Philo-thea road east of St. Peter; the latter on the Fort Recovery-Minster Road east of Fort Recovery. BROCKMANS FUNERAL HOME AND HOME FURNISHINGS

W. H. May started in the Funeral and Furniture Business around 1890, then located on W. Butler Street between Meinerding Restaurant and L. H. Wagner Ford Agency. He built the present brick building (now Brockman Furniture, 107 N. Wayne Street) about the year of 1896. This building housed both the funeral home and furniture store. It was called May's Undertaking and Furniture Dealer. Leo

Hildbold tells me this is the oldest going business Fort Recovery, meaning this store as being a furr ture store since 1896. Donald E. Riffle became partner of W. H. May about 1937 and Riffle boug out Bill May about 1947 or 1948. Riffle added to tl present funeral home about 1954 and the comple funeral business was moved to 413 W. Wayne that time. After being discharged from the Marii Corps in May 1946, I came to work for May and Rifle. Other than the time I spent at the Cincinna College of Embalming, I have spent here in this bu iness. I bought the business from Donald and Katl erine Riffle, August 1, 1963. Cy Brockman

THE FORT RECOVERY BANKING CO.

Ft. Recovery's first bank, the Porterfield-McDaniel Bank, was established in 1881 and occupied the building south of the Gagle Laundromat. When Mr. Porterfield withdrew, it became the George R. McDaniel Bank and finally in January 1907 was incorporated as The Fort Recovery Banking Company.

In September of 1912, a published statement of condition indicated total resources of $416,827.31 and loans outstanding of $342,167.94. Total deposits amounted to $360,256.33. As of September of 1978, total resources had grown to over $16,000,000.00 and loans outstanding in excess of $10,000.00. Total deposits have surpassed $14,000,000 during this same period. This growth in deposits and loans is an indication of the excellent financial progress of the Fort Recovery Agricultural community.

FORT RECOVERY EQUITY EXCHANGE COMPANY

On May 10, 1919 the Fort Recovery Equity Exchange Company became a chartered organization with paid in capital amounting to $23,600.00. This was made possible by 118 farmers, who were interested enough to invest $200 each.

They then elected a board of five directors who were to head the newly organized cooperation. Their first official progress was the purchase of the Jay Grain Co. for $10,000. The new business was opened on July 1, 1919. Its location was on the North end of Fort Recovery along the railroad tracks.

In the early years the Equity handled all kinds of grain and seeds used in farming, coal, hay, oil, and up to ten different kinds of flour. Sales of flour were nearly as much as feed. The first year sales amounted to $213,000.

During the year of 1926, the Farmer Feed and Sales Barn was rented and the equipment and supplies were purchased from H. W. Rabe. The following year the Farmer Feed and Sale Barn was purchased for $8000.00. Its location is along the side of the Fort Site Park. This was also the first year that electricity was the source of power replacing the gas engine on the line shaft.

On March 1, 1927, Floyd A. Freemyer was secured as the manager of the two places of business. In its first eight years there were four managers. Floyd held this position for the next 24 years. Under his leadership, in 1928 the second dividend payment was made. This was a twenty-five percentum, taking up the four delinquent years.

In 1932, the Totten Coal Yard was purchased f $200.00 along with the scale. This being the heart the depression, wages had to be cut. Help work only four days a week.

A parcel of land was donated by the Equity 1934, which is now Fort Site Park. At that time the Ohio State Geological and Historical Society were charge of the park.

In 1941 an addition was made to the elevator the farmer could secure better service. Also, a ne seed cleaner was installed in this remodeling. It w not until 1948 that a seed treater was added.

The first forward contracting of beans before havest was done in 1949. The price per bushel w $2.50. This concept of marketing was slow catching until the 1970's. It is now used as an insurance of part of the harvest from decreased price on the amount not being able to hold in storage.

In March 1951, Floyd Freemyer resigned as marager; Norbert Vogel was named as his replacemer. In his first year, sales reached the one million mar. Feed sales were starting to take hold with farme mixing concentrates with their grain for production of meat, milk and eggs.

In 1956 a new grain elevator was built. This consisted of five Marietta Silos and two grain dump. This was constructed so ear corn would be shelled and weighed. This way the farmers would be parfor shelled corn. The elevator also gave the compar storage for 72,000 bushel; this being a great increase from 12,000 bushel. The cost was $110,000.

1961 brought another change in the feed oper tion. Both the feed store and elevator were remo-

In 1967 a new 36 × 65 silo was added. This gave ie company an additional 53,000 bushel storage. his showed that as the volume grows, the more orage it takes to satisfy the farmers' needs.

Bulk fertilizer came in 1970 at the Equity. This as starting to replace the bags. So, a bulk wareouse was built. Today, over 80% comes and goes in

Norbert Vogel retired from the Managership of ie company in March of 1971. This was after 20 ears of leadership. The volume grew from less than ne million to over three and one-third million. /ith this growth, it was decided by the Board of Dictors, to hire Virgil Krieg as its Manager and Linus art as Co-Manager.

In 1974, the old elevator of Jay Grain Co. was torn own. This site was used to build a new feed mill, ain dump, along with three new silos holding 225,-10 bushels of grain. Beneath these silos is a tunnel, grain can be transferred to feed mill without the se of trucks. This feed mill has a bin capacity of 10 tons of concentrates and also truck loading out 40 tons. These supplement bins are operated by a ydraulic system. This construction was done at a st of $800,000.00. It is now considered as one of e most modern mills in this part of the midwest. Having been a Ralston Purina dealership since 34, we now ship around 18,000 tons of chow per ear; this being the largest dealer in the Circleville, hio area. We also carry a full line of health aid oducts. This tonage is about 40% poultry concentrates, 25% dairy and 25% hogs; the balance being beef, horse, turkey and specialty chow.

Today, after 59 years in operation, the company now has over 1200 stockholders. The present Board of Directors are: President Luke Will; Vice-President Vernon Eichenauer; Secretary Earl Brumm and Directors Jim Moneysmith and Virgil Huelskamp, No one on the board can serve over six consecutive

The present employees are Millmen: Bernard Nearon, Walter Rammel, Don Painter, David Will, Curt Armstrong, and Henry Fortkamp Jr.,; Grain Truck drivers: Ralph Rammel and Keith Hiser; Grain Department: Fritz Wendel, Paul Hiser and Bob Schlarman. Bulk Truck drivers are Kenneth Stammen, Bill Bechtol, John Will and Thomas Post. Bookkeeping is done by LaVerne Adams, Alberta Beeks, Jean Ballard and Joyce Hall and Karen (Alig) Barton. The customers are serviced by Maurice Collins and Louis Diller. Linus Hart, Co-Manager, is in charge of poultry. Ordering department manager Virgil Krieg takes care of grain, seed, fertilizer and serves as Treasurer of the Company.

I want to take this opportunity to thank all those who served on the Board in the past, from its beginning to the present time. For without their foresight in both good and hard times, many a day it would have been easier to give up, like many private co-op, than stay in there fighting. This also goes for all employees who stayed working long days at less wages than most union scales. Today we have a volume of over twelve million dollars. We are very proud the door is always open for criticism, praise or advice. We feel grateful to serve all stockholders and nonstockholders, as long as the Board permits. Present

Manager Virgil Krieg

FORT RECOVERY INDUSTRIES

In 1895 Edward Koch began making stirrups in Fort Recovery. Fort Recovery Stirrup Company became the world's largest manufacturer of bent wood stirrups. Large numbers of them were produced for the U.S. Cavalry in World War I. Following a fire which destroyed his original factory, Mr. Koch moved the business to a former flour mill on Broadway St.

The Stirrup Company was purchased by George Jetter of Cincinnati when Ed Koch retired in 1946. Mr. Jetter moved to Fort Recovery and continued manufacturing stirrups. He soon began making saddle trees, also. These are the wood frames upon which the saddle is built. The trees required an aluminum horn to be used in securing the rope when ranging cattle. The present metal casting operation was begun when George began to cast these horns in the back yard of his home on Boundary Street by piping gas from the kitchen and blowing the fire with his wife's vacuum cleaner.

The compar offices and all manufacturing operations, except f the making of stirrups, were moved to the new loc tion. These operations included the production die cast parts for the plumbing, saddlery and RV i dustries. The brass foundry continued for son time, but was later phased out.

Plastic products were added when a division Borg-Warner Corporation that made containers for chemicals was purchased. Additional blow molding machines have expanded the line of containers manufactured.

The Stirrup Factory was sold in 1972. It continue operating for a few years in Fort Recovery and withen moved to Alabama.

Additions have increased the size of the factory approximately 95,000 square feet located on 23 acro of land. An office-lunchroom complex has bee added in 1978.

THE FORT RECOVERY LUMBER CO.

The Ft. Recovery Lumber Co., Inc. was organized 1 Fort Recovery, Ohio at the location on Broadway treet. The franchise was incorporated in June, 1915. ouis Moeller, who moved to Fort Recovery from Ainster, was president and manager of the comany. He had managed the Minster Lumber Comany previously for eight years.

Peter VandenBosch joined the company as Viceresident several years later and was part owner unl 1951. Mr. VandenBosch was a brother-in-law of Ar. Moeller. Louis Moeller remained president and nanager of the company until his death in June

William Knapke and Albert Bubp were employed in the early 1930's. After the death of Louis Moeller the presidency was voted to William Knapke and Albert Bubp was made Secretary-Treasurer. Mr. Bubp died in 1968.

James Bubp and Richard Knapke, sons of Albert Bubp and William Knapke, respectively, joined the Lumber company in the 1960's and David Bubp also a son of Albert Bubp came to the company several years later.

The company has been in the same location since 1915, but two other locations were purchased several years ago. One location is on State Route 49 and has a building where trusses are built and is used also as a storage building. The last purchase of land is at 2550 Wabash Road and several buildings are erected at this location. A new office and display building will be completed in the fall of 1978 and eventually the building on Broadway Street will be vacated and all of the operation will be at the Wabash Road address.

A fire of unknown origin destroyed the building on Broadway Street on January 12, 1949. A fire was discovered about 8:30 on the evening on January 11, 1949 and the fire was extinguished. Approximately at 5:00 o'clock the next morning (January 12th) the building was burning again and only the safe was saved at this time. The safe was composed of walls of 24" cement surrounding and nothing inside was damaged. Shortly, after the fire, reconstruction was started and business was resumed.

The building industry is very interesting. Years ago wood was plentiful and barns and houses were built of large beams and wooden pegs. As time passed and as wood was more scarce, metals and plastics became available to replace sidings, roofs, and other building materials.

The Ft. Recovery Lumber Company serves a large farming community. Many of the services are to help the farmers build the poultry and hog buildings for their operations. Mr. Moeller started several people in the poultry business in the 1930's. Since that time the poultry business has grown so that this area is one of the largest in the country. The first buildings were round brooder houses which held approximately 500 turkeys. Now the houses are climate controlled and many of the chicken buildings hold between 10,000 and 30,000 chickens. The company furnishes buildings for the cattle industry and many of the buildings have to pass inspection for Grade A milk. This requires special products that are easily cleaned.

Many homes have been built since the lumber company was organized in 1915. Styles of homes also have changed. The two-story home was popular for many years, then the bungalow, the ranch style, split-levels and now the two-story home is again a favorite.

SCHLARMAN'S NATURAL FOODS

Today, when the interest in nutrition and natural foods has grown to the point where schools and institutions are incorporating it into their systems, opening a health food store isn't news.

Back in 1942, when we bought this farm from Anna Fecher, farmers had already adopted the use of synthetic agricultural chemicals and pesticides. We might have done the same thing, except for the blessed fact that Father Herman Goldschmidt came to visit us. He was the pastor of St. Wendelin parish, and he had a real interest in the production of quality food, produced as God and Nature decree.

Father Goldschmidt explained to us that if we build up the soil with cover crops and re-mineralization, we wouldn't need poison chemicals that upset the balance of nature. The next step was for Father to guide us to books and magazines that taught organic farming, and he lent us his books until we could secure our own copies and subscribe to the magazines he recommended.

Soon I started attending health conventions and lectures on nutrition, and my interest in the continuing study of this fascinating subject grows with time; there is something new to learn every day!

We learned about a natural food store in Indianapolis, Ind., and went there once a month for a supply for our own family. Later we found a store in Dayton, which was closer to home. The owner of this store opened a branch in Greenville, and our son, Gerald was asked to manage the new store, which he did until the owner moved to Florida and closed it.

Soon neighbors and friends learned about the store in Greenville, and many in Mercer County asked us to maintain supplies for them, at our farm. There were simply too many of them to make it practical for us to accommodate them, and they begged us to open a store in

Ft. Recovery.

We thought about it a lot, and decided that our three daughters, still in school, had to come before anything that would take me too far from home, and after a lot more thinking and planning, we decided to take a room on the back of our home and make it into a small store. Not only could I be with the children this way, and see to proper meals, but it gave the girls an opportunity to learn about the importance of good nutrition, and the joy of sharing with their friends what they were learning. Father Goldschmidt always taught that if man is spiritual, mental and physical, it is our duty to give proper attention to each of those aspects of his being-ness, and always to seek BALANCE. Now our girls are teaching these same truths to their children, and there is no greater satisfaction in raising a family than to welcome healthy, happy grandchildren into the family, and watch them grow, and learn, too.

This was in 1959, and from the very beginning, we found people hungry for the information about nutrition, and how it is related to the prevention of diseases, and premature aging. As they asked questions, often it forced me to seek out the information for them, which in turn added to my knowledge, and I was always grateful when I was forced to do just a little more each day than I had thought possible.

Schlarman National Foods, Fort Recovery-Minster Road, East of Fort Recovery, at Wendelin

It soon dawned on me that some of the little naggir things which used to bother me so much had simply gor away, although I was working harder than ever. ar longer hours. And the children didn't have as many cold and flu and lost days from school.

As business increased, from word of mouth advertising, we were forced to get larger quarters, but I still relused to be away from home to run a business. In 1962, we built a new building near the house, where our preser store is located. Now, we had room for larger refrigeration and storage, and more shelf room for display to mak room for the increasing number of new products we wanted to handle, although we have always been highl selective in quality brands.

A true health food store is more than selling merchan dise: it is education and knowledge about how to hel themselves that most people come seeking — especiall at first. With the new store, we had room to add educational books, and some really good, pure cosmetics. From the national conventions, we were able to secure professionally recorded lectures, so that those who couldn't at tend, could learn too.

Today, with health food stores opening in every city there has been the usual attraction of "big business" to become involved in what many see as the fastest growin industry in America — health, in all aspects. This is good in some ways, but it concerns me too, because the reachealth food business was started, nurtured and grew, because people who were helped themselves wanted to share, and help others; there was almost a "brotherhood among all of them — manufacturers, distributors and retailers, all interested in educating people to take responsibility for their own health, as much as possible, and to take nutrition more seriously than what looks and taste good.

With huge investment complexes buying established businesses all down the line, I hope and pray that the health food business will never lose its individuality, it dedication to serving mankind, while making an hones living. If profit is the bottom line, the most important reason for getting into the health business, then almos surely quality will be compromised. This has come to mean that another kind of education is necessary for consumers; they must learn to read labels, know what the terms mean, and literally be "label detectives." That i why I try to explain the differences between syntheticand natural, to my customers and why the highest quality of food is the most economical, any way you figure it THE BEST IS NOT TOO GOOD FOR MY FAMILY, and try to impart this philosophy to all who are interested.

Father Goldschmidt went to his reward Feb. 1, 1977 but from 1942 until 1973, he visited the store at least once a week, and was always so encouraging and generou with his help and advice. His spirit lives on through hi teachings, and his efforts in enlightening me to a bette way of life. Because of him, the dream I cherished fo years of wanting to do something to help mankind, has come true. With humility, I say that having a small par in helping others to help themselves to a more full, joy ous life has materialzed into a lot more than the first and only natural food store in Mercer County — it has made me richer in satisfaction than can be measured in dollars for profit-making has never been the reason for the long hours necessary, and the hard work involved. But work comes without effort, I've found, when you're doing wha you love and have an interest in. Mrs. Clarence Schlarman

Joseph H. Schmitt

SCHMITT FUR FARMS, INC.

Schmitt Fur Farm, Inc. located at 1038 State Rt. 19, Fort Recovery, Ohio has been in existence for ver the past forty-eight years. The conception of ne business was founded by the late Joseph H. chmitt and his surviving widow, Beatrice (Lauber) chmitt, in 1930. The success of the Fur Farm, remiisces Mrs. Schmitt, has developed from the hard ork of all eleven children. "The girls, Joann, Mrs. seph Vormohr, Portland, Indiana, Rosemarie, Mrs. ohn Molnar, Chillicothe, Ohio, Bernadette, Sister of harity, Cincinnati, Ohio, Virginia, Mrs. Don Becert, Piqua, Ohio, Mary, school teacher, Dayton, Dhio and Barbara, Mrs. Richard Yannelli, New ork, didn't have it any easier than the boys, Joseph ., Amherst, Ohio, John, Sidney, Ohio, Edward, Ft. ecovery, O. Denis, Greenville, O. and David, Ft. ecovery, Ohio.

The business of raising mink and fox has changed rastically over the years claims Denis and David chmitt, present owners of the internationally nown Company. From approximately four pair of ox and a nominal amount of mink the business has rown to over 100 pair of fox and 20,000 mink.

Mink ranching is no easy task. The laborous nonth of March is the only time the 4500 females an be mated to the approximate 900 males, keeping ratio of 1-male to mate 5-females. With the gestaon period of approximate 55 to 65 days, much ork has to be completed before the females whelp 1 late April and early May. The ranch at this time is evoting much of its time to cleaning and bedding est boxes for the arrival of the highly desired kits. Vith the changing of Spring to Summer and then all, the tiny kits also change. From the size of a perons small finger, they grow to that of half the size f a man's arm. This change is not only caused by enetics, but that of the highly nutritional diet the nimals are fed. Cereal, meat, cooked eggs and poulry by-products, which would normally have been vasted, are formulated into a highly palletable diet. he consumption of nearly one and a half million ounds of mixed feed is fed to the animals yearly roducing the highly fashionable fur. The fall months of the year bring out the best of the animals fur at which time those not kept as breeders are pelted. The pelts are taken from the animals, the body fat removed by machines, are dried, and then sent to market. At that point, the furs from the Company, comprising colors of Violte, Sapphire, Lunaraine, Pastel and Darks are sold at auction in New York. From there they are exported to Italy, Germany, France, Switzerland, Austria and Japan.

The fox kept at the fur farm is no side line business. The ranch is composed of 100 pair of fox and with the off-spring the number rises to 550 foxes. The foxes are raised basically the same as the mink, except for the breeding practices. The foxes are paired as opposed to polygamous mating and will only mate in January. "Pups" as the new born foxes are called, arrive in the late dates of March and early days of April. The new born are about the size of a baby kitten but grow in size must faster.

There are four colors of foxes raised at the ranch, comprising Pearls, Silvers, Platinum and Amber-Glo. The Silver fox has traditionally been the fur of high fashion. In the late 20's and early 30's, Silver fox was the fur seen with many movie stars and opera goers.

The fox population has dropped sharply since the days of its wild popularity. In 1942, Ohio boasted of its 46 fox farms. Today we find only about 5 established farms and Schmitt's farm is the largest. The late Joseph Schmitt was not one to conform to the ideas of many. Instead of "pelting out" of the long haired animals, he cut back his fox production and raised his number of mink, waiting for its comeback. Come back it did. Today fashion in the United States and Europe have a great demand for the flashy, soft fur. With relatively few fox farms and the demand so great for domestically raised fur, the Schmitt farm will probably expand its fox operation.

The demand for fur is extremely high, company officials claim. With the ever increasing problem of inflation, people want something of value and fur along with diamonds and other items of investment, seem to ease the problem. The advent of fashionable dress for both men and women, and the fall of the once popular mini-skirts, the United States, once claimed the "Sleeping Giant" in terms of fur consumption, is awakening from its sleep.

Since E. Wangler Hardware began, no one outside of family has ever been employed there.

Ehrhart Wangler moved from his hardware/ implement business in New Riegel, Ohio, establishing E. Wangler Hardware on April 1, 1916.

ing E. Wangler Hardware on April 1, 1916.

The store, previously owned by Joseph Meinerding was the originating scene of the explosion that rocked the town in 1906.

Three of Ehrhart's children helped him during the years and eventually, Cletus took over managemen of the store with the help of three of his children. In 1944 Cletus and son William formed a partnership which remained until he retired in 1963. At this time a new partnership was formed with William and his sister Eileen. Bill's sons worked at the store over the years and in 1977 the business went to the 4th generation; his daughter and her husband.

THE METHODIST CHURCH

The pioneer history of the Methodist Church of rt Recovery begins with the coming of the early ttlers in the vicinity.

In 1832 we were a part of the St. Marys Circuit. In ose days the pioneer homes were opened for ser-ces and there the circuit riders lived.

In 1845 the need of a permanent church was beming urgent and in that year, the lot now occued by the residence of Mark Westgerdes, was ocured. Here was erected the first church in the mmunity, with the exception of the log church tilt in St. Joe in 1838. The new church was dedited in 1845. This was one of the first frame buildgs in Fort Recovery, with a well built structure, the ame being heavy hand hewn timbers.

For years 1862-68 the church was on a circuit 10wn as Coldwater Circuit. In 1868 Fort Recovery as made part of the Celina Circuit and in 1870 it as made a part of the Hill Grove Circuit including number of churches from here to Versailles, Ohio. The old church had been used for almost thirty ears and the congregation had grown steadily as ore families moved into the vicinity. In 1875 it was cided to build a brick church on this present site. ne work was begun in the autumn of 1875 and the rner stone was laid on October 28 of that year. 'hen the work was well under way, a wind storm ew down the walls and many were so discouraged at they might well have given up the work had it ot been for the untiring work and energy of the inister, Rev. Benjamin Day, who helped clear away e debris, cleaned the bricks and salvaged materi-5. All winter he worked, sometimes with help, metimes alone. It was a familiar sight to see him iving a team of oxen hauling material to be used the construction. The church was again dedicated 1 October 22, 1876.

Thomas Roop, a member of a pioneer family in e community donated to the Methodist Trustees, lot on the north side of East Boundary Street, site the present church. He was the great grandfather Nellie I. Roop Franklin, who is a member of this iurch today.

In 1892 the first church building which had been modeled into a dwelling, was purchased by the ingregation, to be used as a parsonage.

On May 23, 1893 a tornado swept the community bing much property damage. The church was recked at that time and once more had to be resilt. For several months services were held in the pera house, in the Morvilius building. For newcoms to our community, this is the building now wned by Terry Smith. Late in the summer, a genal appeal was sent out over the conference and the ma District especially; and again the church was built, and again it was Rev. Benjamin Day who ok as grievous a burden as ever confronted a minter and congregation.

In 1898 the old parsonage was traded for another. he lot adjoining the present church site, being the ost suitable site.

In 1906 The Epworth League reached its highest ate of efficiency and was of great spiritual value to e youth.

Fort Recovery Methodist Church (Hull Photograph)

Sunday August 16, 1925, the fiftieth year of our church in this present building was celebrated.

In 1942 the old Fort Recovery Circuit was changed and it became a part of the Landfair and Chattanooga churches. The women's societies of home and foreign missionairies, and the Ladies' Aid were joined and became the Woman's Society of Christian Service.

In 1949 an extensive remodeling program was planned with the present arrangement as the results. The Annex construction followed, this addition has proven very satisfactory, not only to the church members, but also to the community.

In 1958 the church was made a 'two-point charge, with Erastus as the sister church; this arrangement still exists in 1978.

During Rev. Chamberlain's ministry in 1966, Fort Recovery celebrated its 175th anniversary. In keeping with that spirit, a special service was held. When the church history was read, a special tribute was paid Walter Roop for his many years of service, and members went on record as upholding Mayor Nellie (Roop) Franklin and all other officials in seeking to provide a moral, just and holy community.

During the year of 1968, under the leadership of Rev. John Holderman, serious discussions were held concerning the proposed merger with the local United Church of Christ. Although united in spirit, it was voted to remain as separate churches. In the year of 1969 a merger of the Methodist Church and the Evangelical United Brethren Church took place and the congregation of Bethel E.U.B. Church was welcomed.

Great plans were made for the Centennial year, many former pastors and members were invited to attend. Bishop Werner being the main guest and speaker. This occured on October 22, 1976. All members of the United Methodist Church are proud of their religious heritage that has been handed down to them by the early founders of Methodism.

The church has passed its centennial year and now under the guidance of Rev. Mike Madison, his wife Margaret and daughter Laura, the members with faith and hope look forward for the second hundred years of the church to continue to grow and progress upward and onward.

THE UNITED CHURCH OF CHRIST

The United Church of Christ on Elm Street, Fort Recovery, is the result of the merger of three churches. It is difficult to do justice to the history of all, in the space allotted. The present church is made up of the Congregational, Christian, an Evangelical Churches.

The Congregational Church had its origin at Pisgah Hill, two miles south of Fort Recovery on the Union City Road. The date of the organizing was May 25, 1850 and the names of the few members on that day were Hastings, Taylor, Hays, Briner, Collins and Topping. Rev. I. N. Taylor preached the first sermon. A small frame church was built at Pisgah, and used until it got too small. In 1897 a larger brick church was built on Center Street, at Fort Recovery and used until the 1931 merger, after which it was torn down. Rev. Diggs was the pastor at the new church, where he served for fifty consecutive years.

Family names in 1897 were Hasting, Young, Coffman, Warnock, Scheid, Reuter, and Wilson to mention some of them.

The Christian Church was organized in 1867. Meetings were held in private homes, until a church was built in 1877, on the same Elm St. site which is now occupied by the United Church of Christ in 1978. Rev. Lewis Lundy was the first minister after the building of the 1877 church. In 1889 the members purchased a bell, the first to ring in Fort Recovery and this same bell, in 1978, is mounted in the United Church of Christ yard as a memento for the public to see.

The original Christian Congregation contained the names of George Hedrick, Sanford Warnock, Was ington Snyder, Wiley Clark and Fremont McDanie The above persons, with their families, split fro the congregation, to organize the present West Buller St. Church of Christ.

Another split in the Christian Church occurred 1928, when the Church of the Nazarene organiza their present (1978) church.

Prominent names at that time were Jones, Grager, Kreider, Hilliard, Cummins, Brigner, Stone ar Rev. Oren. Some of the families who remained withe Christian Church were Schlamb, Keller, Norn Campbell, Rapp, Johnson, Whitesell, Flayler, Ar stutz and Nickerson. The merger in 1931, put bo the Congregational Church, which was losing ground, and the torn apart Christian Church bas on their feet. The Congregational Church aba doned their building, and moved to the Elm St. sit It was then called the Congregational-Christian Church. The Bethel Evangelical Church was organized 1858 and called the Stuber Class. They met homes and school houses until the first church w built, three miles south of Fort Recovery on the U ion City road. This church was built in 1872 at a cc of $1200.00, ground and all. The first minister w Rev. George Clouse. The members were all of Ge man origin and the family names were Stuber, Hc stein, Orth, Shaffer, May, Heis and Cristofer. Aft 1872, the membership became more English, ar the name of Bethel was adopted. In 1913, the fir church was torn down and a new church built, c the same site, with John Shomber in charge of built ing. The minister at this time was Rev. Wyant. Aft the merger in 1934, the Bethel Church was sold Pleasant Ridge, and in 1978 that congregation st hold their services there. When joining with the Fo Recovery Church, Bethel brought with them th names Eichenauer, Mott, Johnson, Ulmer, Brinand Gagle.

After the merger with the Evangelical Reforme Churches in 1934, the entire body was called the United Church of Christ.

During the past 47 years, since the 1931 merge the United Church of Christ has grown and propered. Membership stays at 125 and interest in a tivities runs high. The members coming in 193 from the Congregational Church now number One member, Tom Hastings, is the great grandsc of Waitman Hastings, founder of Pisgah. Origin members of the Christian Church number 6, whi Bethel still have 12 who came in 1934.

The present brick, United Church of Christ was built in 1942. In 1941 fire destroyed the church bui in 1877 and remodeled in 1912. In 1978, Rev. Rich ard Bailey was the pastor. The 1978 Deacons were Rod Thobe, Tom Hastings, Jack Evans, Dale Har Paul Evans, Ed Willman. The Deaconnesses were Coda Hull, Carol Evans, Irene Stone. Flowers were taken care of by Janice Painter. Jayne Evans was o ganist. The Sunday School Superintendent was Par Evans. The Historian was Anna L. Miller. WEST BUTLER STREET CHURCH OF CHRIST

For more than a century the Church of Christ as ablished at Jerusalem on the Day of Pentecost D. 33 has been organized and assembling in this a. The West Butler Street Church of Christ had beginning in Indiana at Poplar Grove.

Even before this time, Thomas Wiley, a Mr. Vinnt, and Enos Polley Thompson came to the vicinof the Fox School (College Corner) on the arpsburg Road in Gibson Township, Mercer punty, Ohio and organized the church about the ar 1850. Among the first members were John cDaniel, Elizabeth McDaniel and their children incy, Mary Jane, and W. F. McDaniel; Washingan Snyder, Lydia Snyder, Susanna(h) Snyder, Bennin Clark, and Fanny B. McDaniel. Others that atheded were the Johnson, Hedrick, and Myers milies. Barton W. Stone and Alexander Campbell thought to have preached to this assembly in or out 1877.

At this time a group known as the New Light tristian Church, which stood on the present site of a Lutheran Church, met; among the members are the Stone, Rantz, and Wilson families.

Each of these congregations desired a new buildg, but neither was able to build a house of worip. So a church building was constructed in 1877 the congregation from the country and the hristian Connection" — the so-called New Light tristian Congregation (where the United Church Christ now stands on Elm Street). The rough timr for this meeting house was cut from the McDanand the Clark farms and hauled to Union City nere the lumber was prepared for use.

This arrangement of a partnership church was not ry satisfactory, but it continued about twelve ars. Each church maintained its own organization, well as doctrine. However there was one Sunday hool with teachers chosen from each congregation. The Disciple church, as it was frequently called at at time and not having contributed so much as the hers, was to have its services there on the first inday of each month and at any other time when ot occupied by the Christian congregation.

This plan proved less desirable than the previsly mentioned one, and it resulted in a very short al with few questions asked by the Judge who deled that the Disciples were to have their rights ick in the church as usual. Since, under such existing conditions, no one felt like returning, a proposion was made that the "Christian people" buy the are of the Disciples or sell to them. They would do either. Consequently the Disciples withdrew and the "Christian Congregation" have the building thout the money and without a price.

The approximately twenty members, having the mpathy of the community, started a campaign for bscriptions for the constructing of another buildg and eight months later the church now known as e First Church of Christ was dedicated in Novemr of 1889.

About eleven years later (1900) a rift occurred that caused much dissension and culminated in the Mercer County, Ohio, Circuit Court Trial No. 195 with George Hedrick, et al. Plaintiffs vs. Andrew Gilbert et al. Defendants. Primarily the differences were doctrinal; the court could not and would not legislate on these issues, but it did decide that the defendants were the owners of that building.

In 1901 the losers of the trial withdrew, bought the old Lutheran Church which formerly stood where the Fort Recovery Lumber Company is now, and finally moved the building farther east on the north side of Broadway Street. About 1918 the East Broadway Church divided and those without a meeting place erected the West Butler Street building where the present Church of Christ meets.

In 1930 these two groups resolved their differences, abandoned the Broadway Street house of worship, and since then have been holding their services on West Butler Street regularly. As a people endeavoring to keep the unity of the Spirit in the bond of peace, they stress the divinity of Jesus Christ, the belief that the Bible is the Word of God, immersion in water for baptism, observation of the Lord's Supper every first day of the week (Sunday), a cappella singing, and freewill offerings to meet expenses; also they maintain that all ordinances must be observed as they were instituted by the apostles (in the first century A.D.) with the local church as the basic unit.

Although the number is quite small, their belief in the gospel of Jesus Christ is still strong after a century of worship in and around Fort Recovery.

THE CHURCH OF THE NAZARENE

July 14, 1978 marked the 50th anniversary of the Fort Recovery Church of the Nazarene. She was born in a little brown tent with a halo of glory about her, the stars of the heavens her canopy and mother earth's beautiful carpet of green beneath her feet. The tent was located in the southeast section of the village where the Sharpsburg road junctions with State Route 49 on a portion of ground belonging to our good friend Brother Charles Miller.

At the climax of this campaign, on July 14, 1928 the Rev. Charles A. Gibson, District Superintendent, Church of the Nazarene, organized the local congregation by extending the right hand of fellowship to twenty-three individuals. The charter was kept open for a short time during which period ten additional members united with this body constituting a group of thirty-three charter members.

Among the charter members was the Rev. R. R. Oren who served as the pastor of the new church for three years. Acting upon the suggestion of the District Superintendent, the pastor appointed C. O. Brigner, George Stone and E. C. Granger to serve on the Board of Trustees. Two additional members were later elected: Charles Middaugh and A. B. McAlexander. Esther Brigner, Ella Stone, Nettie Hilliard, Mabel Starr and Viola Cummins were elected stewards. Brother A. B. McAlexander was elected Sunday School Superintendent and served faithfully in this capacity for eleven years.

The thirty-three charter members included Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Brigner, John Jr., Peter, Erma and Esther Brigner, Rev. Dwight Boice, Viola Cummins, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Granger, Anna Granger, Nettie Hilliard, Elma and Cleo Kreider, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Middaugh, Ethel and Mary Middaugh, Kenneth Middaugh, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Middaugh, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. McAlexander, Mary (McAlexander) Smith, Rev. R. R. Oren, Essie Port, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Stone, Mary Stoner, Mabel Starr, Mabel Bechtol and Mr. and Mrs. Glen Teeters.

The church was organized during the course of a revival meeting conducted by Evangelist Ernest J. Haerr of Springfield, Ohio. Brother Haerr was a dynamic holiness preacher and his stirring messages still linger in the minds of some present today. The crowds attending this revival campaign were immense, many of them curious to witness the strang things that were taking place in this fanatical grou who had suddenly become mentally unbalance over religion. Some shouted, some went into trance, but great grace was upon all who believed.

Having withdrawn from another church, the a tivities of the group were not looked upon with ar degree of favor by the public. Some persecution en sued but this only drove them to prayer and unite them closer together. Much difficulty was encoun tered in securing a place to worship. A room was I nally secured over what is now the Journal offic Here we quote from the Ft. Recovery Journal of Jur 11, 1928, "At the quarterly conference of the Fir Christian Church last Saturday evening a body members numbering 23 made known their decisic to retire from the Christian Church organization. difference in regard to the degree of holiness a tained by an individual it seems was the main cau of the disruption which brought about this step. The outgoing members have withdrawn themselves to room above Woeste's Garage where they have sinbeen holding services. The minister, Rev. R. R. Ore who stands with the dissenters, resigned his charg Sunday night" end of quote.

The approach to the worship hall was made through a dingy, covered stairway and the place is self was everything but attractive. For the first fe weeks a card table served as a pulpit and the varie of old chairs and benches that were pressed in service almost equalled the Heinz varieties in number. However, the presence of the Lord was manife in every service, and many spiritual victories we won. It was never necessary to appoint a pray meeting leader. Someone always volunteered, looked for a time like they all might turn in

After worshipping some months in this place, the Lord in answer to prayer opened up the way to old tain a choice location as a site for a new church Knowing it was God's leading, the transaction was quickly made, and plans for a new building began take form immediately. Depression days were not dawning upon us but this did not dampen the ardeof the newborn church. The lot was purchased in ptember, 1928 and in November of the same year, revival was on in a completed basement church, th Rev. J. L. Glascock of Cincinnati as evangelist. e excavating for the basement was done by hand, th horses and mules, plows and scoops and menerally covering the place. In the above mentioned rival, Prof. and Mrs. R. A. Shank were the song angelists. The pews were made by the pastor Rev. R. Oren and a few are still in use.

At the close of the first year the financial report owed receipts approximating $2000. One hundred llars was paid to district and general interests. Enlopes were sent to friends soliciting one dollar ntributions toward the building enterprise and the sponse was very generous. They not only came in om local friends but friends in far away cities, wns and states have an investment in the Fort Revery Church of the Nazarene. May God bless evyone of them. The depression was becoming more pronounced it so was the zeal of the church. Eight months after e completion of the basement, the board conided it was time to put on the super-structure. is project was soon under way, "for the people id a mind to work." Among the group were found rpenters, electricians, architects, masons, painters id plumbers. None of them too skilled, but they d the job. Not one carried a union card and 40 our week was not observed. Building codes did not other, for time was not taken to investigate hether or not there were any in existence. With 10 or three exceptions, the church was completed ith volunteer labor, and two months from the day e building was begun, another revival meeting was in the new church with the Charles A. Fishe irty as evangelists.

The next revival was held in June, 1930 with one our beloved charter members, Rev. Dwight Boice the evangelist. Brother Boice has held six revivals the church, besides filling the pulpit on other octions. He has made a great contribution to the turch down through the years and God has marelously used him in promoting some of our best revals.

In 1931 Rev. and Mrs. A. M. Moorehead came to erve the church as pastor. Their ministry was lessed of the Lord and perhaps the outstanding reval of the church's history took place under their adership in February, 1933. It was one of those visations of the power of God, which produced filled tars in nearly every service and penetrated the puntryside for miles around.

Rev. C. N. Hutchinson was called to serve the nurch as pastor in 1933. After serving the church rell for thirteen months he resigned to accept a pasorate in Toledo, Ohio.

Rev. and Mrs. G. E. Schell succeeded the Hutchinons and served the church for six years, a longer eriod than any other pastor to this date. The hurch prospered under Brother Schell's leadership. Vith this beautiful spirit and pleasing personality, e succeeded in winning many friends not only to imself but to the Church of the Nazarene.

Rev. and Mrs. F. H. Landgrabe came to the church n 1940. Brother Landgrabe was a very godly man nd an outstanding holiness preacher. Ill health indered his ministry and he was compelled to retire n April, 1942.

First Church Building 1930

Rev. W. Crain succeeded him and served until June, 1944 when also found it necessary to resign due to Mrs. Crain's health. The Crain's were splendid young people and left a wholesome influence in the community.

Rev. G. R. Evans and wife accepted a call to pastor the church following Brother Crain. Brother Evans was also a very popular young preacher. He was especially used of God in visitation work often making visits to sick rooms not only in his own parish but wherever he found an open door. Many of the townsfolk expressed regret when informed that he was resigning to enter the Theological Seminary at Kansas City.

Following Brother Evans was our good pastor Rev. C. T. Moore, who very ably shepherded the flock for six years. Brother Moore has been preaching the glorious gospel for nearly seventy years and even today he occasionally fills the local pulpit. It is a high privilege to feast upon the messages that come not only from his heart but out of the richness of his experience in walking with God these many years. Few men have succeeded in rearing a family that is not only 100% Christian, each with a college degree, but with three of them preaching the gospel. Several grandsons are ministers, a granddaughter is a minister's wife and one grandson is a missionary. Rev. Moore's influence through the people he has served and his own family has helped to spread the gospel across the United States and even to the Dominion Republic.

Rev. Lester Meyers, our next pastor and his wife were in the local church for six years. Under his supervision the parsonage to be used as the pastor's home was constructed.

Following Rev. Meyers was Rev. and Mrs. Verl W. Ballmer who would serve the church and the community for seven years. As a younger couple they along with their large family served the needs of the young people of the community. Rev. Ballmer directed the conversion of the old sanctuary into an educational unit and the construction of a new sanctuary. Mrs. Ballmer served the people as much as her husband in her service to the people. She was often found in the various homes helping the wives and mothers to cook, clean, can and care for their children. In times of illness or need she was always doing things for the families. The young families of the church were like her own in that she was always willing to do for them. Mrs. Ballmer was and is truly an inspiration as a pastor's wife.

Under Rev. Ballmer the first associate pastor came to the local church. Ed Selvidge served the teens well and left the church to return to college for further training in Christian work.

Under the present pastor Rev. Jim Paul Stewart the church has acquired a farm where there is a picnic grounds and started the Bus Ministry. The farm was given to the church by a dedicated Christian member. The associate pastor under Rev. Stewart was Chuck McKinney. Chuck McKinney served the church adequately as the teen pastor, quiz director, Sunday School teacher for a new and expanding young adult group and continually visited the church family and friends. The McKinneys, to the church's loss, have left to serve in Cincinnati in a community Christian Fellowship capacity.

Being a 10% missionary giving church for the last 26 consecutive years, her only purpose is to spread scriptural holiness. The Fort Recovery Church is very proud of the two missionaries from this home church who serve the Lord on the field. Our own Ruth Matchett serves the Lord as a nurse in Transvaal, Africa. Our second missionary is the missionary family of Rev. Paul and Mary Jetter and sons Brian and David serving in the Dominion Republic.

Pastors from the local church are: Rev. and Mrs. Russell Smith serving on the Northwestern Ohio District; Rev. and Mrs. Chas. Grile in North Dakota; Rev. and Mrs. Dwight Boice of the Michigan District; Rev. and Mrs. Eugene Roberts of Waukesha, Wisconsin; Rev. Samuel Norris of Churubusco, Indiana; Rev. Ralph Wood, Calvary Nazarene Church, Bethany, Oklahoma in the Children's Ministry. Laymen in full-time Christian service include; Mrs. John (Jill Cheeseman) Bowling, teacher and Resident Director of the freshman girls dorm at Olivet Nazarene College, Kankakee, Illinois; Mrs. Don (Debbie Ballmer) Neal serving the church at Colorado Springs, Colorado until their appointment to the mission fields; Mrs. Richard (Jeannine Jetter) Warner; pastor's wife, serving the church in Oregon and Bruce Granger, Professor of Sociology, Olivet Nazarene College, Kankakee, Illinois. Earl Granger, official church historian serves as he has since the first day of the church's existence.

The church has been blessed with local ministers, preachers, missionaries and song evangelists. At one time the church had six ministers on the roll. The Sunday School has made a steady growth down through the years. Her only purpose is to spread scriptural holiness over the earth. Jesus Christ, the Prince of Peace is the only Hope of this war-weary world and may God help the Church of the Nazar-ene in Fort Recovery to lift high the gospel torch. May the Church always proclaim loud and long as she always has the message that saves men from sin.

Questions about the church history should be directed to Earl Granger. Appreciation goes to Earl Granger for this church history.

MARY HELP OF CHRISTIANS PARISH

MARY HELP OF CHRISTIANS PARISH in hisric Fort Recovery was organized in the summer of 881 with an original enrollment of twenty-five fames. The first Mass was celebrated in the former sidence of Doctor Milligan. By the end of the sumer a parish school was readied for classes taught / the Sisters of the Precious Blood. In the following ar a modest, frame Church was constructed under e supervision of the founding Pastor, Father Austine Seifert.

Ever since its founding, the parish has been under e care of the Precious Blood Fathers. The Pastors rough the past 97 years were: Fathers Augustine eifert, Otto Missler, Joseph Heitz, Martin Dennger, Joseph Marte, Michael Muehe, Anselm thmid, Willibald Sliemers, Mark Hamburger, Louis efele, Bernard Dickman, Raphael Schmaus, nilemon Notheis, Nicholas Greiwe, Albert Gerardstein, Rudolph Stolz, Aloys Cook, George Heinen, John Wilson, Leonard Sudhoff and Frederick Ilce, who is presently leading the parish through a priod of major change and development.

The Sisters of the Precious Blood, too, have been osely and constantly associated with the parish. nce 1881 until the present, one hundred Sisters are served as teachers and guides of youth in both the parochial school (until 1952) and the public

West School."

Contractor Matthew Guese fashioned the 1882 hurch to accommodate one-hundred worshippers; small annex off the sanctuary was reserved for the sters. Mrs. Jacob Anthony, Sr., was given the onor of choosing the patronal name of the new hurch.

Some ten years later a small gallery was added, and priest-artist Paulinus Trost embellished the ceilig with a mural of the Blessed Mother and Christ hild.

Within the next decade of years the parish grew some sixty families. Plans were then set for a new othic-style, brick Church, seating about three hunred. The cornerstone was laid in 1901 and Dedicaon Day was held on August 15, 1902.

In 1956, when the parish marked its 75th Anniversary, the number of families had nearly quadrupled to two hundred, twenty-five. Twenty years later, on March 28, 1976, as Groundbreaking Ceremonies for the new Mary Help of Christians Church were held, the parish register of members included one hundred, fifty more families.

Solemnly dedicated on December 11, 1977, the impressive new Church is decorously designed for parish liturgies in a modern and devotional setting, and is spaciously suited to the present and future needs of the parish. The stained-glass windows, preserved from the old church, lend their old special luster to the new edifice. Beneath the church, a full basement, or undercroft, accommodates a wide variety of parochial activities and apostolates. The seating capacity in the main church is six hundred. A separate Chapel, seating fifty, is used for the weekday liturgies. The main church, the undercroft, and the Chapel have their own heating and air-

Adjoining the church, a new rectory stands ready for finishing touches and the completion of the modern parish plant on a ten-acre site at the junction of State Route 49 and Sharpsburg Road. Four acres of the plot were donated by Mrs. Beatrice Schmitt, in memory of her husband Joseph.

The new complex was designed by Freytag and Associates, Architects-Engineers, of Sidney, Ohio and constructed by H. A. Dorsten, Inc. of Minster, Ohio. Both structures were built under the pastorate of Father Fred Falce, C.PP.S. Father Ernest Lucas, C.PP.S. is the present Associate Pastor. Father Richard Schalk helped out for a time during the construction years.

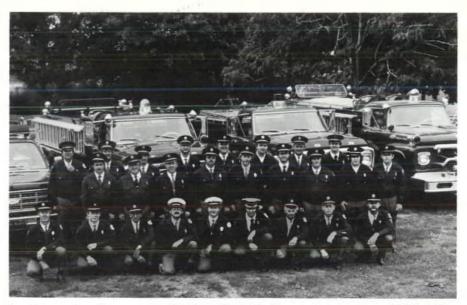

Meanwhile, at the former parish site, along South Wayne Street, the old church has been razed and removed from the scene, and the former rectory (built in 1941) is now a private family residence.

The Cafeteria and Parish Hall (built in 1961) and the St. Mary's School (1921) still remain on the scene, along with the Sisters' Convent on Gwendolyn Street (built in 1958).

For seventy-one years the parish maintained its own private or parochial school. But then, in 1952, an agreement of consolidation was made between the Archdiocese of Cincinnati, the Congregation and the Public School Board, and St. Mary's School became a part of the Southwest Local School District.

FORT RECOVERY FIRE DEPARTMENT

The Fort Recovery Hook and Ladder Compar was organized July 23, 1885. Twenty-six dedicate and courageous citizens gave of their time to prote the village. They met weekly at the "Engine Room located at the present water plant, to train and have quipment ready. Having equipment "in readiness in the 1880's meant cleaning and filling lantern scouring and polishing the brass fixtures, washir and greasing hand drawn hose carts and a har pumper and checking the condition of picks, axe and chains. After the work was finished there witime for good fellowship.

Early water sources were from three cisterns le cated in strategic areas of the village. During the early 1900's a water plant was built and water lin-and hydrants were installed.

The city council purchased the first truck, a 19. Reo. At first funds were derived from dues of menbers and the village paying for equipment. Danc and suppers were also held to support the deparment. During the 1940's, the village and the townships of Gibson, Washington, and Recovery joine together to form a community fire department.

The department has agreements of "mutual aic with most other area departments in the event of major fire or disaster and belongs to Mercer Count Fireman's Assoc, Darke County Fireman's Assoc and Central Western Fireman's Assoc. They are als able to communicate with one another through a redio system.

New trucks and equipment have been added duing the years as funds allowed or law require. A present, the fire apparatus includes three pumpers, tanker, grass truck and varied equipment. It housed at its station on North Wayne Street.

FORT RECOVERY FIREMEN'S AUXILIARY

The wives of the firemen joined together to enather them to better help the firemen and as a social sup. Organized in 1958, it was the first firemen's xiliary in Mercer County.

During the past two decades these ladies have ved hot coffee and food at major fires and acted hostesses at some of the firemen's functions. ntributions of time and energy have been made community projects such as the "Jubilee" and the tennial celebrations. Sponsoring Red Cross and R classes have been other activities.

They've had fund raising projects such as prepar-; and serving meals for local groups, making car-!l corn and homemade noodles, having lunchnds at auctions, etc. The profits were used to rchase uniforms, kitchen equipment for the fire

Il and various other projects.

Over the years, the ladies have participated in emorial Day and Firemen's Convention parades d area waterball contests. Family picnics and Halveen parties were planned and enjoyed by the nilies.

The ladies meet on the first Wednesday of each onth.

FORT RECOVERY PUBLIC LIBRARY

When the Fort Recovery Business and Professional Women's Club organized in 1928, the club's first project was the opening of a reading room in a former grocery store on the corner of Wayne and Butler Streets. The shelves were soon filled with books given by interested citizens. Members of the club donated their time and kept the reading room open several hours on certain days.

For three years all expenses were paid by the club and voluntary donations. April 24, 1931 the reading room became the Fort Recovery Public Library when an organization meeting was held and seven members appointed by the Fort Recovery School District became the first Library Board. Those appointed were Ethel Johnson, Edna Krenning, Martha Rohr, Elnora Keller, Ida H. Frazier, Maude Rose and E. D. larvis.

The first officers of the Fort Recovery Public Library Board of Trustees were Ethel Johnson — President; Edna Krenning - Vice President; Martha Rohr — Secretary; E. D. Jarvis — Treasurer. Maude Rose and Ida H. Frazier were appointed to draft and present bylaws which were adopted at the May 1, 1931 meeting.

Mrs. Hazel Hoke was elected librarian and was to be paid once each month at the rate of $5.00 per week. A report of the first month showed circulation of 324 books. The magazine total was 35.

On May 5, 1932 check number 1 was issued by the Fort Recovery Public Library. Previous bills had been paid by the Fort Recovery Board of Education or the Business and Professional Women's Club.

At the first annual meeting the librarian's report gave the yearly circulation of books 5099 and magazines 429.

At this meeting the maximum amount to be appropriated by the Board of Education was given and the amount made it necessary to reduce expenses. It was decided to place the librarian's salary at $4.00 per week and reduce the number of hours the library would be open.

In 1933 mention was made of a new law which would be a tax to help support libraries. The secretary was to secure information about this intangible and from the new intangible tax revenue the libra was to receive money in 1934 May and October so tlements.

Income became higher and the librarian's sala was raised and the library was open more hours.

At the Board Meeting November 27, 1935 a lett from H. R. McPherson of the Ohio Archaeologic and Historical Society was presented. It was relati to a building which had been proposed for location on the New State Park Site. It suggested the possib ity of its being a Library Museum Building. Tl Board was definitely interested and set aside monin a building fund at the same meeting.

By 1937 the Library reading room was open 13 hours per week and the salary of the librarian i

Board meetings were regular and called ones the plans for the Library Museum Building were di cussed and arrangements were made to move to new location.

A lease for ten years was signed with the Ohio A chaeological and Historical Society and a form dedication was held October 16, 1938. Greetin were given by Mabel Curll Neely, a member of tl Business and Professional Women's Club when tl first reading room was formed. An address w given by Dr. Harlow Lindly, Secretary and Libraria of the Ohio Society.

At the December 1938 Board meeting the clerk the board was paid for the first time. All service that date had been free.

Many things were needed for the new buildin The bill for the furnace was paid by the board. The American Legion and Auxiliary furnished some t bles and chairs. The Business and Profession Women's Club added more matching furnitur Mrs. Neely furnished the ceiling lights.

The Business and Professional Women's clu equipped the basement club room, placing in table chairs, and window drapes. The kitchen wa equipped and a small charge was made for its use.

In 1940 the Board of Education needed a room for first and second grades and arrangements wer made to use the reading room. Desks and sma chairs soon filled the library space.

At the annual meeting Januray 1942 Mrs. Eliza beth Sutton was employed to replace Mrs. Haz Hoke who had been librarian since the beginning of the reading room in 1928. For the first time an a: sistant librarian was employed.

As the years passed many served as librarians and istant librarians. Some served short periods; some ig periods. Among the latter were Ruth Hagle, and Bontrager, Lois Amstrutz, Cordula Kessler d Anna Louise Miller.

The lease with the Ohio Historical Society was rewed in 1947 but the building was soon filled with oks and magazines and it was necessary to place elves wherever space was available and add also to stacks by increasing their height. In doing so the w of the fireplace and west windows was blocked. donation by the Ta Ho Club helped purchase talamps for better lighting.

In 1960 the Board established a branch library in Fort Recovery High School and the librarians ved in both the High School and Public Library. is service continued until 1969 when Lois Amitz resigned from the Public Library to serve full ne in the High School Library.

Realizing that more space was necessary the ard presented plans to the Ohio Historical Society enclose the porch or build a wing on the west. ither plan was approved by the Ohio Society. hen the lease on the building was renewed until cember 1968, the Board was informed that the 110 Society would like to use the entire building a museum.

In 1964 the Library Board decided to look for me other building suitable for a library, and a year er through two large donations, it was able to pur-ase the Fetter Building on Wayne Street.

Meeting with a representative of the Milosevich autwein Company, the Board asked for plans to novate the building. A drive for funds showed citins approved and the building deed was transrred to the Library Board.

The contract for renovation by the Milosevich autwein Company was signed in March 1966 but was not until late in that year that contracts were ade for renovation, with Hartford Glass Company, eitkamp Construction Company, and Rammel eating and Plumbing Company.

Various changes were made following state inection but gradually the building was ready for rpet by Brockman's, interior painting by Kreider int Store, tile flooring by Bob's Cabinets and icks, magazine racks, catalog files and other necesry equipment by the Heller Company.

The move to the new building was done in early 68 but the Library was not dedicated until June 30, 68. Greetings were given by Carl Hagle, President the Board. There was an address by Mr. R. J. auffer, Director of the Western Ohio Educational undation and tea and cookies were served to the citizens attending the service by Mrs. Spencer and her committee.

A change in the front of the second story was made by its being faced by the Condit Construction Products Company.

This same year the Library Board, as successordonee to a trust fund established earlier, received a $10,000 trust fund when the Fort Recovery Betterment Corporation gave up control of the Wagner Medical Center.

The Board approved entering a library organization called Western Ohio Regional Library District System "Worlds" and became a part of that group of libraries September 28, 1971.

Through this organization funds have been received for various library projects. Not only books and magazines but audio-visual aids could be purchased. The Library added records and films for public use. The librarians and trustees have attended meetings of WORLDS in different libraries throughout the district.

A copy machine paid partly by a donation of the Psi Iota XI Sorority was added to the library equipment. Later another donation by the same sorority helped pay for a projector.

For many years the Franke Agency has furnished twelve magazines. They are chosen by the librarians and are on a special magazine rack in the library.

The Fort Recovery Public Library is a member of the Ohio Library Trustees Association and the Ohio

Library Association.

The library continues to grow; stacks, magazine racks and card catalogues have been added and when the stacks were placed in 1978, the Board realized that some expansion must be considered. There is the possibility of using the second story or building a wing on the west parking lot.

The 1977 yearly report of the Fort Recovery Public Library gave the following data: Registered borrowers — 2874; Total book circulation — 58,277; Films loaned 603; Recording loaned — 2,486; Hours open 34½ per week.

There have been many citizens who have been appointed by the Board of Education who have served faithfully on the Library Board. Present members are Arthur Rose — President; Jean Spencer — Vice-President; Secretary — Mary Alice Anthony; Clerk — Bertha Sanderell; George Jetter, Elizabeth Hedrick and Rev. EMMET MANNIX, POST 345, AMERICAN LEGION Fort Recovery, Ohio

On August 6, 1918, Pvt. Emmet Mannix, 38th Infantry, 3rd division, was killed in action. He was a native of Fort Recovery. So in 1921, when the veterans were all back home again, they decided to form a Legion Post in Fort Recovery. Harold Ulmer was the first commander, and there were 60 members. Naturally the Post was named after our hometown boy, Emmet Mannix. Their first meetings were held in a converted grainery north of Fort Recovery. These men kept the organization going, always working for their fellowmen and the community.

In 1946, after World War II, the Post grew to great proportions, member wise. Space, however, was now the main problem. So land was purchased at the present site, and a large building program was begun. The members voted on a quonset type building, and plans were laid. They salvaged the grainery and made a kitchen out of this, added a bar area onto the kitchen and then proceeded with the quonset hall. The estimated cost was $13,250.88. When it was completed, the actual cost was $30,808.38. Then in 1949, the Emmet Mannix Post 345 was incorporated. The new building was finally completed and dedication was held June 24, 1951 with a membership of 225.

In 1951, there were 2100 veterans of World War II and 600 World War I veterans eligible to join the Legion in Mercer County alone. The quonset type hall was a very active place throughout the 50's and 60's. Field trails are held semiannually, March and November, and they have just completed their 30th annual November trails, with people participating from all over the county. Bingo was also held every Wednesday night, with the Legion members working together to make it a success. Weddings, reunions, Christmas parties, and dances were forever happening at Post 345.

In 1964-65, another building project was underway. The old grainery and bar area in the Front Hall had to be replaced. A new addition was added on the east end of the quonset. It was 40 x 40 ft. and a beautiful new bar area and kitchen was installed. At this time, a club room was also put in the basement, and things were still very active around Post 345. This new addition cost approximately $45,000.

In the early 70's, talk began again about building a larger hall. The quonset had served the purpose, but more room was needed to accomodate more people. So in 1972, another building committee was selected and plans began again for a new hall. This present American Legion Hall in Fort Recovery was built over the top of the quonset hall. It is 80 x 80 ft. and modern in every way. While being built over the top of the old building, business was being conducted as usual in the hall and the club room in the basement all through this project. Bingo was played as usual, and other business and meetings as well. On October 6, 1974, Post 345 held another dedication to one of the most beautiful and spacious halls in the country. It is fully air-conditioned, seats 500 comfortably and hospitality is great.

What started in 1921 as a few men's dream is now one of the most active Legion Posts in the counti Their membership now stands at 289, with many these being very active members at all times.

Emmet Mannix Post 345, American Legion is a tive in all civic and community affairs. The membe are ever willing to lend a hand whenever they a needed. We are proud of our Post and all our mer bers.

AUXILIARY UNIT #345

Records of how the Auxiliary of Emmett Manr Unit #345 of Ft. Recovery, Ohio was formed and Charter obtained at the time when the Legion was its infant stage cannot be found. It has been hand down by word of mouth that there had been a Auxiliary Unit and the Charter was lost who through possible lack of interest the Unit was disolved. Records of the Unit after its reorganization 1934 show a carry-over of $5.62 from 1922.

On April 9, 1934 an organization meeting w held for the purpose of securing members. On M. 14, 1934 the first organized meeting was held wi Fay Wagner as president. Plans were made for drawing up a constitution. There were 23 charter mer bers and the dues were $.65 per member. Meeting were held in the homes of various members.

Since this second beginning the Auxiliary has been a very strong Unit, supporting the programs the American Legion: aiding the Veteran and the children of the Veteran, especially in the hospita and children's homes, promoting Americanism the schools, being of service to the Community. Two of the largest community projects are helping the needy especially at Christmas time and being charge of the bingo stand at the Harvest Jubilee with the entire proceeds donated to the community. Each year, March finds us celebrating the birthday of the Legion with a joint Legion-Auxiliary birthday part consisting of a dinner followed by a dance for all the members.

A member, Peg Roessner served as Second Ditrict President for the years 1965, 66 and 1966, 6 The Junior Auxiliary was added to the Unit in 196 These young girls are semi-active with their bigge project the selling of poppies near Memorial Day The total sale of these poppies is donated to the Veerans hospitals.

FORT RECOVERY OMMUNITY YARD AND GARDEN CLUB

The Fort Recovery Community Yard and Garden ab was organized April 18, 1932 when members of Business and Professional Women's Club, the en's Welfare Association, and the Gibson and Revery Township Farm Bureaus met at the Public Liary to formulate plans for a yard and a garden b.

Short talks were given by those present showing erest in such an organization. Officers were cted; President — Dr. J. M. Huerkamp, Vicessident — Mrs. Fred Breymier, Secretary-easurer — Mrs. C. E. Pope. The name of the club s decided. The time of the meeting, the third onday of the month and membership dues of enty-five cents per family were recorded.

With many changes in membership and officers sorganization has taken an active part in the nmunity. Fifteen different members have served presidents. Memberships have increased and deased in number. Dues have been increased to y cents and later to one dollar per person. But the nof the club has remained as adopted forty-six ars ago. "The object of this club is for the purpose improving the condition and appearance of our lividual homes and of our community and conving the natural beauty of our surroundings" — 32 Constitution.

From 1937 for many years the club was a member the Ohio Association of Garden Club, District 2, d county and regional meetings were attended. ter this membership was dropped. The club holds harter membership in the Fort Recovery Histori-Society.

For many years spring and fall flower shows were anged by the club. Later only one a year was inned at Harvest Jubilee time. The most success-according to record was the 1960 show when 892 itors registered.

Another worthy of mention was the flower show d tea given June 13, 1957 celebrating the 25th anversary of the club. The twenty-five candles on tea table were lighted by former presidents who we brief resumes of events in their administrans.

While a great number of changes have been made the forty-six years in membership, in many ways organization follows the original pattern. There monthly meeting with timely topics and intering entertainments. A magazine is furnished to Public Library. The July family picnic, the Octor guests nights, the November white elephant es continue as the years go by. The summer tours nearby gardens are continued by small groups. The December tour to nearby floral shops has been anged to a family dinner. The club is responsible the planting and care of the planter at Ambassar Park.

TWENTIETH CENTURY CLUB

On October 30, 1901 a meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Ernest Louden to organize a literary club. The following officers were chosen; President — Mrs. Charles Rapp, Vice President — Mrs. Martyn Taylor, Secretary — Mrs. Russell Morvilius, Treasurer — Mrs. Ernest Louden. Other charter members were: Mrs. Frank Speak, Mrs. Joe Denny, Miss Nellie Roop, Mrs. Jewett, Mrs. Lafe Boueshe, Mrs. Fred Cribbe. For many years the works of Shakespeare were read and studied. By 1920 the present type of program had evolved. Each member is responsible for a report on something of interest in the literary, civic, or historical field.

Twelve members are preparing to celebrate the 77th birthday of the organization this year. We believe this is one of the oldest social clubs of the county.

THE FT. RECOVERY GUN CLUB

Pull ... Bang ... Hit! Another clay target was just demolished by a Winchester 12 gauge shotgun. The year was 1967.

It was a Sunday afternoon at the Andy Beumer farm just before fall hunting season and all the local hunters were sharpening their aim. The clay targets were coming out from behind a stack of straw bales where they were manually being set on the machine by some of the shooters.

Everyone was having a great time when someone suggested that we should do this more often, maybe even start a shooting club. Paul Kaiser (owner of Paul's Place) was elated by the idea and from that moment on he worked endless hours to form the ground work for our shooting club.

The first meeting was held in September of 1967 with Larry Keller acting as chairman. The first order of business was to elect officers. They were as follows: President — Larry Keller, Vice-President — Paul Kaiser, Secretary - Bob Smith, Treasurer Ronald Keller, and Field Captain - Andy Beumer. It was decided the first couple shoots were to be open to members only. The quota of forty charter members was suggested and approved by all present. The charter members are: Ted Franklin, Maurice Grieshop, Melvin Wendel, Andy Beumer, Charles Keller, William Post, Urban Post, Ed Keller, Paul Keller, Paul Kaiser, Robert Smith, Larry Keller, Ray Smith, Virgil Krieg, Walter Steinbrunner, Gary Olwine, Norbert Vogel Jr., Ronald Keller, Joe Keller, Marvin Kaiser, Viro Will, Harold Willmann, Adrian Moneysmith Jr., Adrian Kaup, Jerry Grieshop, Don Klenke, Melvin Bergman, Joe May, Ervin Schindler, Dennis Laux, Ernest Kunkle, Urban Wendel, John Alig, Gerald Collins, Carl Steinbrunner, Norb Roessner, Bob Post, Merinus Wuebker, John Fisher and Cy Brockman Sr.

The first shoot was held on September 24, 1967 the CK of A grounds at St. Joe. Clay birds w bought at a price of $2.20 per case and shells c $2.00 a box. There were thirty-two 10 bird matcheld that day. A van owned by J&M Manufactur was parked on the grounds and was used as an fice to sign up for the shoots, it also served as a stage area after the shoot.

That first shoot by the Ft. Recovery Gun Club v all that was needed to build the enthusiasm of members. They became very active and work even harder to improve their club. Turkey shoc raffles and Sunday shoots were held regularly raise money.

In early 1968 it was decided to make a move. The move was made to the Ft. Recovery American I gion grounds, where the club is still located tod. Two trap houses were built, cement walkways we poured and a 20′ × 40′ club house was built. Als Keller was chairman of the building committee. The momentum was so great that all the members speevery spare minute helping with the work at a club grounds. There are far too many people the should be recognized, who made the club such success. Although we want to mention the decease members that worked so hard: Andy Beumer, Parkaiser and Walter Steinbrunner.

The past Presidents of the club are: Larry Kell Ray Smith, Joe Keller, Melvin Bergman, Bob Smi Alvin Alig, Jack Kaiser, Harold Willmann, Gary (wine, Don Loy, Karl Leuthold and our new preside for 1979 will be Tom Linn.

The club is still very active and promote many a tivities such as gun safety, good sportsmanship a National Child Safety Consul. We host many letures by our local Game Warden regularly.

These facts and figures were taken from t records of the secretary's minutes. Respectfully subn

RECOVERY TOWNSHIP

Recovery Township was organized May 5, 1831. ne first land entry, 37A to A. J. Parrish, was corded in 1830. It is bounded on the north by 'ashington Township, on the east by Butler and ranville, on the south by Gibson, and on the west the State of Indiana. It is six miles from east to est and about four miles from north to south. The uthern line is irregular, being the Greenville eaty line now the Ft. Recovery-Minster Road till. Recovery town where for a short distance it folws State Route 119, then Boundary St., to the fort, en converges southwest to Lowry Road which it llows to Ohio-Indiana State officials are: Trustees oger Lochtefeld, Harold Wellman, Orville Dues id clerk Larry Keller.

One of the first arrivals was John Simison who oved his family into the trading post which was relve (12) feet square surrounded by an eight (8) ot high stockade. His daughter married Peter Sturbaker and their first born was the first white ild born in the area. Joshua Nickerson came in 27, John McDaniel in 1828, and a Miller family in 29. David Anderson built the first grist mill on the abash River and P.D. Moss built and operated an mill. Prior to the Civil War the first steam mill as built by John Oswald which may have been the st in the county.

Although only a very small part of the village of Recovery is in Recovery Township, the industries at fall within its boundaries are Ft. Recovery Instries and St. Clair Mills on State Route 49, J&M anufacturing Co. on Lost Road, Hartwig Poultry Burrville Road, and Equity Exchange on Wabash ad. The township is still a farming region, but insead of farmers having small acreages of corn, teat, oats, hay and pasture and a few hogs, chicks, cows, and sheep, they have larger acreages of rn, beans, and/or hay and some wheat combined th large dairy, beef, turkey or laying hen set-ups. ith the large mechanized equipment, the fields are ger and fences are disappearing.

ger and fences are disappearing. The roads, always the job of the trustees, were of creasing importance as horses gave way to the aumobile. Each year the township put gravel on the ud roads starting with the most used. In the early 00's gravel was obtained locally from gravel pits d creeks and hauled with flat bottomed wagons at e cost of 6¢ a load or 24¢ a ton. Later blue stone is shipped in by railroad until the stone could be ught locally from Karch's. Today stone is $2.80 a n, but black topping is expensive.

Today the township roads are blacktopped except dead ends; namely, Reinhard Road, Braun Road, Wendel Road, and St. Joe Cross Street. In 1888 what is now State Route 119 was located one fourth mile farther north and went through what was then Victoria to St. Peter Road (Denny Pike), then backtracked to what is 119 today. State Route 49 was a county road known as Willman Pike. St. Peter Road was also a county road called Denny Pike. The other county road was the Greenville Treaty Line — Ft. Recovery Minster Road today. Besides St. Peter Road and Ft. Recovery Minster Road, other county roads today are Siegrist-Jutte, Township Line, Lowry, Wabash, and Philothea.

Two towns no longer appear on the map — Ferner and Monterey (treated separately). In the 1870's when the Lake Erie and Western Railroad, then the Nickel Plate, and now Norfolk and Western was extended from Celina to Ft. Recovery, a mile and half siding was built from what is now Erastus Durbin Road eastward almost to the Post Road. This siding was called the Oakland Spur. A station was established at the western end of the siding and a town was started there called Ferner. Near the station, Geo. W. Fernas established a dry goods and grocery store. S. S. Mill had a post office in his home. Other residents were Frederick Mertz, a carpenter, Emma Lotham, and E. Hardin. A short distance away a school was built which later was replaced by the Oakland School.

St. Joseph's Church was built in 1829 or 1840 and a town laid out in 1861. In 1880's several businesses were established in the town south of the track. A log house was converted into a store by Henry Tebben and also became the post office. St. Joe became Victoria at that time as there was another St. Joseph, Ohio. There was a boot and shoemaker shop, a wagon-making shop, a barbershop, a saloon, and a sawmill. After Tebben's store burned down in 1888, the post office was moved to Shenking's Shoe Repair Shop which was attached to the house where Ed. Kemper now lives. Theodore Shenking was post master till he died in 1932 and the post office was discontinued. In 1888 John Stachler built a general store to replace the one burned down in a new location across from the church.

Through the years the store had several owners. In 1940 Leo Shenking traded the store for the farm and cider mill of Ben Westgerdes east of St. Joe. Alfred (Cappy) Westgerdes took over the store from his father. Since Cappy's death early this year, the store has been operated by his widow, Ruth. The sawmill was discontinued in 1974 after the death of Walter Steinbrunner.

St. Peter, before rural free delivery, had a post office in the house of Frank Jacobs west of the church. Jacobs also had a shoe repair shop in his house.

The first school was erected by Robert G. Blake in 1859. In the 1880's there were five schools in the township and went by numbers. Today the township is mostly in the Southwest School District with the only buildings at St. Peter.

The township shares the responsibility of Greenmont Cemetery on State Route 119 with Ft. Recovery town. In 1976 a cemetery on the Braun property was moved to Greenmont.

Trinity Lutheran, United Methodist, and a Church of Christ are located in Ft. Recovery. St. Peter and St. Joseph are the churches in the township. by Mrs. Linus Huelskamp

MONTEREY

Monterey is an unincorporated village located in the northeast quarter of section seven and the northwest quarter of section eight in Recovery township, about three miles north of Ft. Recovery on state route 49. It was laid out in November of 1849 by Isaac Raus. There are 56 lots containing 1/5 acre each and two lots containing 1.7 acres each. Looking at deed transfer records it would appear that activities were at a peak in Monterey during the 1860's and 70's. Possibly if the railroad had passed through Monterey it would be what Ft. Recovery is today. Most of Monterey is presently owned by Ralph Jutte Farms Inc. Main Street at one time called Willmann Pike, and also at one time called Willshire Pike, is presently state route 49. Bremen street is now Philothea Road. In one of the old Mercer County Histories the Nickerson family history mentions how that family settled land in 1837 near a small settlement north of Ft. Recovery called "The Second Crossing." An old map shows J.C. Nickerson owning land south of the Wabash River up to the north side of Monterey. "The Second Crossing" could have been the forerunner of Monterey. Another old map shows what appears to be the location of 14 residences in Monterey. The Lawerance Meehan family now has a home on the site of the one room brick school house. (See photo of children in front of the school). It is said that after the school was abandoned "Gypsies" traveling by wagons often camped there. This rentals owned by Ralph Jutte now occupy the art on the west side of route 49 in blocks three and for where Celia Sanders and her son Martin had a redence and a general store in the early 1900's. The big house where the Sanders family lived believed to have been built by the uncle of Dr. J. Huerkamp. The uncle is said to have operated a sloon in the building that later became the gene store. A wagon shop was operated on a two as tract at the south edge of Monterey where the E ward Wellman family now resides. It would appet that the blacksmith shop was probably in the cle vicinity of what is now the Norbert Vogel Jr. fam residence. There was also a house on the north a south side of Zehringer Road. John and Armir (King) Gross built the house where Ralph Jutte no resides. There had been a house on this site before owned by Jos Gerche which burned down.

The Gross family had lived in a smaller house the east and the north before building the notation. When they moved, there were five childr and after moving six more. Mr. Gross operated to Sawmill. There was also a residence north of Phithea Road up on the hill just east of route 49.

Dorothy (Sanders) Teeters recalls a story abou huge three forked tree west on route 49 on Ze ringer Road on the north side where a man w murdered and hung. The man traveled on foot a made a living mending umbrellas and repairi other things. Since he had no known relatives etc. was buried beneath the tree. This had happen long before Dorothy's time and she recalls taki visiting cousins there to show them the grave site it was sunken in. Dorothy also recalls a huge rock the woods west of the Sanders home that had crawfoot carved into it pointing north, it w thought to have been made by Indians as a tr marker.

At the present time most of the activity at Monirey revolves around Oscar Jutte's homegrown mons, pick-your-own strawberries and reraspberries. Parking space at Jutte's Roadside Maket is sometimes at a premium on Sunday aftenoons in August. by Oscar W. Jutte

ST. JOSEPH'S Victoria, Ohio

St. Joseph's parish (or St. Joe, as the community s generally been called, or Victoria, the name aped to St. Joe when it had a post office, 1882-1932), now one of the smallest Catholic parishes in Merr County. However, in history and tradition it nks among the earliest. The original members of e parish were part of the general migration from ermany which had begun to pour into southern ercer County beginning with Minster in the early 30's. These immigrants were neither uneducated r destitute. They were drawn here by the prospect getting cheap land and improving their status. A w "Yankee" settlers had settled here a little earlier Iercer County was thrown open to settlement in 20), but the Germans bought them out. They were io a religious people, especially the early families St. Joe, a good percentage of whom had come om the Archduchy of Baden and spoke a "High" erman in contrast to the majority of "Low" (or orth) German settlers around Minster and St. hn's. But they were even more distinguished by eir strict religious and moral code, which paradoxilly occasioned the worst local religious scandal in 66 when their pastor, Fr. Joseph Albrecht, C.PP.S., I a large part of the parish into rebellion against e bishop and moved as a schismatic group to Minsota to carry on their religious convictions.

The parish of St. Joseph's began probably in late 39 when a log church was built. Greatest credit for establishment should go to a Joseph Doll, whose mily had settled on the site now occupied by Linus Huelskamp, for his family donated to the bishop the 80 acre tract of land on which the log church was built and the town later laid out (both in Sec. 15, Recovery Twp.).

In the very early years St. Joseph's was served by diocesan priests, or more accurately, missionaries on a somewhat irregular basis. After 1851 the priests were of the Society of the Precious Blood, but they did not become resident pastors until 1906. From 1853 to 1881 they came from Himmelgarten Convent, which was over three miles distant to the east. From 1882 to 1905 they came from a mission house in Ft. Recovery. Only in 1906 was the present rectory built. The present brick church had been erected in 1861, a new tower and entrance were added in 1902, and the church was enlarged and its interior remodelled 1918 to 1920. The parish was never really large. When the population growth warranted it, new parishes were created. Thus St. Joseph's has four daughter parishes: St. Anthony in 1852, St. Wendelin (shared with St. Henry) in 1856, St. Peter in 1858 and Our Lady Help of Christians in Ft. Recovery in 1882. St. Joseph's reached its high point with 70 families in 1880.

St. Joe Store, Between 1905-1908 — Far Right: Pete Sanderell.

As a town, St. Joe dates back to 1861 when Bishop Purcell divided his 80 acres into lots. Thereafter from time to time St. Joe had a saw mill, a black-smith shop, a wagon shop (the latter hired four workers), a barber shop, a shoe repair shop and for a time a saloon. The present store dates back to 1888 (John Stachler), but it was preceded by another store which had been built next to the railroad by Henry Tebben in 1880. The Lake Erie and Western Railroad had been built through St. Joe in 1879. This made possible the establishment of a post office in 1882 (Henry Tebben was also the first postmaster) and of railroad passenger service as a flag station.

St. Joseph's Public School, completed 1884; torn down in the 1960's. (photograph from Mrs. Catherine Gerlach)

St. Joe had three schools over the years, beginning with a log school at Harlett's corner, then a frame school during the 1860's, and finally a brick school built in the 1870's. The latter had a second room added in 1884. This was technically a public school, but it was intimately connected with the parish. The teachers were often also the church organist and choir director and served in various capacities in the church and the community.

The C.K. of A. Hall was built in 1926 and was originally equipped with a stage. This recalls that St. Joe had among other community activities an active drama club, not to mention a brass band which played for numerous occasions. In the 20's and 30's the building was used in connection with the annual parish chicken supper and carnival. Now the building is used for community, parish and family events. by Rev. Dominic Gerlach, C.P.P.S., St. Joseph College, Rensselaer, Ind.

St. Peter's Church, 1978

ST. PETER

St. Peter, which is located at the intersection Philothea and St. Peter Roads, is a daughter paris of St. Joe which was founded in 1829. As more in migrants from Germany came, they settled nor and west of St. Joe. These hardy pioneers mad weekly pilgrimages to St. Joe to attend Sunda Mass. After St. Anthony (1852) and St. Wendel: (1856) were organized, the St. Joe congregation wished to replace their log church with a more in posing structure of brick. Those farmers living a fe miles north of the log chapel urged the building on site on what they considered the center of their pa ish, while those nearer the old church wished the le cation to remain the same. Feelings ran pretty hig over the differences, but that is understandab when we consider that in those days people as ofte as not walked to church and an extra half mile man a big difference.

When permission was granted in 1858 by the Archbishop of Cincinnati, work was begun. Su names of some of the early settlers were Wenderser, Roessner, Trautman, Braun, Schoch, Stude Vonderhaar, Jutte, Lennartz, Ontrop, Post, Schoelein, Siegrist, Jacobs, Wellman, Uhlman, Gros Knoth, Ontrop, Buschur, Eischen, Mertz, Murph Klosterman, Portz, Weis, Doll, Waller, Kint Schmidt, Stolzer etc.

School and Church, St. Peter. 1912?

When it came time to choose a patron for the new ngregation several saints were suggested. The llingness of one Peter Kerber to do the extradinary was the deciding factor in the choice of St. ter.

A log schoolhouse was converted into a church to used until a church could be built. This first edife was a brick structure the work being done by the rishioners even the making of the bricks. The st Mass was celebrated on Jan. 1, 1860. The first stor came each week from Mary's Home (Trinity, diana) to conduct services. For a time St. Peter ared a pastor with a neighboring parish alternate the first mass and the later High Mass on every her Sunday. In 1886 the parish had a pastor of its on.

In 1902 steps were taken to build a new church nich resulted in the present day structure. It was mpleted in 1905. The present rectory was built in 12. More recent changes — in 1964 a basement is dug and finished complete with kitchen. The lished basement is used for C.C.D. classes and rious social community activities. In 1968 the stees was removed and rebuilt forty feet lower than original. In 1972 a new garage was added.

Twenty daughters of the parish have become Sissof the Precious Blood and five sons have beme priests. Today the community has 82 house-

Interior St. Peter's Church, early 1920's

The first school was a log structure at a place which now corresponds to the southwest corner of the present church lawn. In the year preceding 1878 a new log school was built south of the road south of the church. In 1910 a new one room frame building was constructed on the same school grounds. With the advent of the school buses in the early 1940's the one room schools were closed and children bused to the small towns. An outlying frame building, Washington Township School, was moved beside the one already there. There were then two teachers with four grades in each room.

In the 1950's the state began pushing that the small school districts consolidate with the neighboring towns that had high schools. Officials of the St. Peter Public School District couldn't do much about the dilapidated conditions of the two frame buildings because spending money on buildings about to be abandoned was a "no-no." The members of the tiny farming community, however, agreed with the pastor of their church that small schools have better control over children and voted to build a new school with parish funds. The building east of the church was the result. It contains four classrooms and is rented by the Southwest Local School District and houses grades one through three and a special class. In 1962 another separate building was constructed by the Southwest District north of the church owned building. Grades four through six attend this building which also has a library and general purpose room used as a cafeteria and a gym. Sister Othilda Fullenkamp, a daughter of St. Peter's, is head teacher at these two buildings. by Mrs. Linus Huelskamp

FATHER JOSEPH ALBRECHT

Mercer County has had its share of colorful characters but one of the most controversial and complicated men to pass through the county was Father Joseph Albrecht.

Father Albrecht came to America as a layman in 1848 and had formerly been mayor of his hometown of Kirchenzarten, Germany.

He followed his wife, Mary Ann, to America, after she was ordained as a Sister of the Catholic religion. Their daughter, Rosalie, also became a religious Sister, died in October of 1847 at the age of twenty and is buried at New Riegel, O.

Albrecht was ordained to the priesthood in June of 1849 at the age of forty-nine. Tumultous years followed for Father Albrecht, who gained a devoted following of persons who ascribed miracles to him and called him "Holy Father Joseph".

Albrecht was the first pastor at St. Marys Church in Philothea and also pastor at the former Himmelgarten convent and St. Joseph's Church in St. Joe.

He was an extremely righteous and charismatic man and is described in "Not With Silver or Gold" by the Sister Octavia, C.P.P.S., as having a disposition "inclined toward vigor, self-will and scrupulosity" and as being "Rigorous to the extreme, distrustful of the hierarchy, obstinate in his views, he pursued his own course of action, which he considered the only right one ... The psychological influence he was thus able to exercise over his subjects largely accounts for his success in gaining a following."

Although much respected and a personal friend of Father Frances de Salles Brunner, who established the Society for the Precious Blood in America, Father Albrecht's stridency led to his fall from grace with the Church, when one Sunday morning while at St. Joseph's Church, in the summer of 1866, using a hickory stick, he literally drove a group of girls from the church. The girls were wearing hoop skirts, which he found offensive for church wear.

Conditions for Father Albrecht to follow in the future were then laid down by Archbishop Purcell. Albrecht refused to comply and was suspended.

The suspension led to his establishing, with fifteen Sisters, eight Brothers and a number of parishoners, a communal settlement in Rush Lake, Minn.

In 1871, his community still in operation, Father Albrecht finally was excommunicated on the charge of hearing confessions, from which he had been barred. Father Albrecht died in the spring of 1884, apparently still unreconciled to the Church. Shannon McFarlin

hn Boroff (1843-1865) Mary noades Boroff 1842-1904

BOROFF

Richard E. Boroff, minister of Ft. Recovery Chrisan Church since 1972, traces many of his roots to ersonages in the early history of Mercer and Van Vert Counties. Five generations of Boroffs have entributed to Mercer's growth, and ancestors with least six other surnames have played their part in s development.

Richard's father, Clayton E. Boroff, was born in fendon August 16, 1895, son of William Harrison 866-1954) and Lurinza (Dull) Boroff (1877-1948). Iter service in France in the First World War, Clayon married Mary Iola Patterson, daughter of Loren and Margaret (Billings) Patterson of Allen Co. and tey settled in Findlay, Hancock Co., where they used three children: Richard, Donna (LeMay), and tayid Boroff.

Grandmother Lurinza (Dull) Boroff was three gentations removed from John Dull (1778-1834) and anna (Lenhart) Dull (1780-1834) whose children eter, Jacob, and Elias were settlers of Van Wert Co. efore 1840. Peter and Catherine (Schlater) Dull's on Josiah (1829-1909) was Lurinza's father. Her 10ther, Mary Ann (Miller) Dull (1836-1889) was a daughter of Abraham and Martha Miller, who came from Perry Co. to Mercer and Van Wert in 1838.

Grandfather William Harrison Boroff's parents were John R. (1841-1918) and Mary Catherine (Rhoades) Boroff (1842-1904). John served in Co. A of the 46th Ohio Veterans Volunteer Infantry in the Civil War. Both William and John and their spouses are buried in Tomlinson Cemetery. Mary Catherine Rhoads' father, Jacob, was born in Bucks Co., PA, but early migrated to Ohio in 1835, living in Licking, Delaware, Franklin, and by the 1850's Mercer and Van Wert Counties.

John R. Boroff's parents were William Harrison (1812-1896) and Rebecca (Ross) Boroff (1821-1896). Rebecca was daughter of John and Mary (Tomlinson) Ross. John Ross acquired land in Van Wert and Mercer Cos. in 1835. His wife's parents, John and Rebecca (Foster) Tomlinson came to Mercer Co. in 1826 and were instrumental in beginning the Wesley Chapel Methodist Church opposite the Tomlinson Cemetery east of State Route 127 on the county line.

William Harrison Boroff (1812-1896) was son of Michael (1779-1867) and Elizabeth Baltzell (1789-1874) Boroff. Elizabeth's parents, Henry (1735-1821) and Mary (Alexander) Baltzell (1741-1821), were born in Klingen, Germany, and one of their nine children, Peter, settled in Mercer Co. in 1830. Michael and Elizabeth Boroff came to Mercer before 1840 from Hamilton and Miami Cos.

Most of these ancestors were farmers, though some had mills, and several had children who were successful in business. Scores of their descendents remain in Mercer Co., though hundreds have scattered across this land. Their ancestors, many of them refugees from religious persecution in Germany and other parts of Europe, came to America, worked for their freedom, farmed our land, fought in our wars, and became the great middle class which is the backbone of America. JACOB BRAUN FAMILY

When Jacob Braun, Sr., who had learned the carpenter trade in Germany, was eighteen years old he came to America with only 50¢ to his name and settled one mile east of St. Peter, Mercer County, Ohio. His brother Peter and several sisters were also in America.

Jacob married Anna Buschor, and they had five boys and two girls. In 1915 he died having lived past the age of 90. One of Jacob and Anna's sons was Jacob, Jr. (b. 2-12-1852, d. 8-18-1920) who in 1875 married Mary Fullenkamp and they had one daughter, Anna (b. 2-05-1876, d. Recovery, Ohio, Mercer County.

Jacob's primary occupation was farming but he also was a successful stock-trader, buying and selling horses but mainly hogs until he retired in 1918. NICKALOUS HARLETT FAMILY

Nickalous Harlett was born in Bavaria, Germany October 17, 1837. As a young boy he came to America and settled in Knox County, Ohio. He married Catherine Eifert in 1860 in Knox County. He had four sons and one daughter — John, Joseph, William, Frank, and Mary.

John was the oldest and when he was two years old his parents moved to Mercer County as the land was too hilly in Knox County.

They moved to St. Joe and lived in a one room log house that had only one door and one window and ground floor. They lived in it until land could be cleared and another log house built. He bought the farm June 28, 1864 for $1500.00 from a Daniel and Sarah Jones.

At the early age of eight John had to quit school to help his Dad with the Farm work. Time goes on.

On February 15, 1887 John married Anna Schneider at Wendelin. They had eight children — Henry, Leo, Edward, Rose Harlett Huelskamp, Ray, Rudy, Clara Harlett Koverman, and Agnes. After various moves due to renting farmland John bought this farm from his Dad, Nickalous, in 1907. Ray and Agnes bought this farm from their Dad in 1931 and it has been in the Harlett name from 1864 to the present time.

John was hard of hearing, as a result of walking to St. Henry to get the funeral director at the death of his grandfather, in January 1862. This hearing loss resulted in his tragic death at age of 82 of being hit by a train — the tracks which ran through his fields. This happened June 17, 1944. His wife survived until August 30, 1948 when she died of complications at the age of 84.

Neither Ray nor Agnes married. They devoted their lives to the care of their parents. Agnes died of a ruptured esophagus on January 6, 1972. After her death Clara took over Agnes' duties.

At the present time Ray and Clara reside in the log house which their grandfather built in 1865.

THE HEDRICK FAMILY

Peter Hedrick and his wife, natives of Glasgow, Scotland, migrated to the United States in the early 1800's.

Their eldest son, John was born in Pennsylvania November 2, 1805 and his gravestone in the Pisgah Hill Cemetery dates his death June 27, 1862. Other stones mark members of this family.

John and his wife Rebecca (Runkle) came to Mercer County in 1837 according to the 1882 Mercer County History. Another record gives the date 1839. He was a farmer and miller with a homestead of 120 acres in Gibson Township near the Sharpsburg Road. He was a member of the Pisgah Hill Church. The family was one of the oldest in Fort Recovery — John Hedrick having been the seventh voter in the area.

John and Rebecca had a family of twelve children. Four passed away at an early age — William, Hannah, Sarah and Daniel. Three moved away from the village — Henry, Simon and Philip. Five had homes in Ft. Recovery - John, Mary Ann, George, James and Rebecca.

At the present time descendants of John and Rebecca residing in the village are Elizabeth Hedrick, granddaughter of John, and Emily Sawyer Barger, granddaughter of Rebecca. Elizabeth Hedrick

THE HEIBYS

In 1870, five Heiby brothers came from Crawford County and bought farms in the area just northeast of Fort Recovery. John Heiby owned the farm now owned by Onalea Armstrong. Phillip Heiby owned the farm where Mike Fullenkamp now lives. William Heiby lived on the farm where Jerry Griesop now lives. Valentine Heiby lived back of this land on the St. Joe Road. These four brothers raised their families on these farms. At the deaths of the family heads, the land passed into the hands of strangers.

The farm at 2600 Wabash Road, purchased by the fifth brother, Fred Heiby, in 1870 is still in the family. When his estate was settled, Frank Heiby became the owner of the farm on which he was born on September 23, 1882. He has lived on the same

IOHN THEADOR JUTTE

John Theador Jutte was the son of John Henry (Heinrich) and Katharina Jutte. According to the 1907 Mercer County History, John Theador and his wife Katharina (Flotama) Jutte came to America in 1846. John Theador was born May 10, 1810 and Katharina October 18, 1821. The 1907 history says they were both born, reared, educated and married in Germany. John Theador died September 7, 1887 and Katharina on August 17, 1890. John Theador's father John Henry (Heinrich) Jutte, according to the 1907 history, came to America two years earlier in 1844. The Mercer County Courthouse records show that John Henry purchased 80 acres (the west half of the east quarter of section 35) in Washington Township on March 5, 1845 from John H. and Rebecca M. Lulman of Cincinnati, Ohio for the sum of $125.00. The records also show that John Henry and his wife Catharine (Katharina) deeded 40 of these acres to John Theador on September 25, 1848 for the sum of $350.00. The remaining 40 acres were deeded to John Theador by John Henry's widow on August 6, 1862 for the sum of $450.00. This land lies on the north side of Seigrist-Jutte Road and is presently owned by August Jutte, son of Bernard Jutte and Grandson of John Theador.

According to an inscription on the bottom of John Theador's and Katharina's tombstone in the St. Peter Cemetery, John Henry's wife was born October 21, 1783 and died April 3, 1865 at age 81. Thus she would have been 61 years old if she came with John Henry in 1844. From all indications there isn't a gravesite for John Henry at the St. Peter Cemetery. According to Bernard's son, August Jutte, John Henry died of Cholera in 1849 while on a trip to Minster for supplies. August thinks he was probably buried somewhere between Minster and St. Peter in a mass unmarked grave. August believes the lutte family came from Holland and not Germany. According to August his grandfathers John Theodor Jutte and Bernard Post were noted in the area for building log houses.

Wilma Huelskamp of Dayton, Ohio has an old Strausburg Bible dedicated to an Armado Gaston Von Rohan September 24, 1734. The art work in this book was done by Danneker a very noted German artist. According to Wilma this book has passed down through the Jutte side of the family. This is interesting from the standpoint that there were very few bibles and they were very expensive at that point in time. According to Halbert's Inc., Beth, Ohio the colors and symbols in the Jutte coat of arms indicates royalty. This might explain how th Jutte family had a bible of this nature in the earl 1700's.

John Theador and Katharina had six children Mary, Theador Jr., John, Bernard, Peter and Ph. lomena. Mary and her husband, Samuel Jacob an Peter moved to Uniontown, Washington, Theodo Jr. moved to Genesee, Idaho; Philomena died at ag nine; John and Bernard remained in Mercer County Thus it would appear that all of the Jutte's in this area are descendants of John and Bernard. Word ha it that if you look in the Seattle, Washington phon book you will find a whole page of Jutte's listed Also as another point of interest, there are Jutte's i Northeastern Missouri whose ancestors Frederic and Andreas Jutte come from Germany and up th Mississippi in 1869 and settled in Clark County Missouri.

Information available indicates that in 1970 ther were less than 300 households in the U.S. with th old and distinguished Jutte name. by Oscar W. Jutte

The farm is now owned by Melvin Evers. Elizabeth's father Ted came from Germany by himself at the age of twelve. His parents wanted to get him out of the country because they didn't want him being taken into the military like his older brother. According to Elizabeth, Ted came up the Miami-Erie Canal and disembarked at New Bremen and found a home with an Evers family near St. Rose. Ted was born December 8, 1853 and died July 12, 1917. He married Anna M. Post of Wendelin. She was born April 25, 1862 and died February 7, 1941. Ted and Anna had six other children in addition to Elizabeth as follows: (1.) RALPH B. JUTTE

Ralph B. Jutte, retired, resides at the site of the old town of Monterey (see article about Montery). At one time the entire town of Monterey was owned by Ralph. He was born just a few miles away in Washington township September 9, 1912 on the 100 acre farm of his parents John C. and Elizabeth (Koesters) Jutte. He was the fifth child of ten. The house on the farm where John and Lizzie moved after their marriage was in bad shape and another house from Macedon was moved to the farm just prior to Ralph's birth. The lower part of the old house was torn away and the upper part put into use as a grainery. Ralph was unable to finish high school as he was needed at home to help work the farm etc. It was the beginning of the Great Depression and he recalls hauling logs for Rutter Saw Mill at Ft. Recovery and how they would leave home before daylight with the teams and wagons. They also worked for the county and township hauling gravel from the Wabash River for road improvements. He recalls working for neighbors for the sum of one dollar a day. Ralph started working for a bridge construction company in 1929 that was putting in the concrete bridge on route 219 over the Toti for the WPA. He then traveled with this company and helped construct bridges in many areas of Ohio. In June of 1936 Ralph and his brother Alfred went into partnership on a new threshing machine and tractor. It was the first threshing machine in the area with rubber tires and one of the first tractors in the area with rubber tires. Ralph and Alfred remained in partnership for five years; then Ralph bought Alfred's interest when Alfred came home from WW II and from that time forward Ralph did a considerable amount of custom harvesting. In 1937 Ralph purchased a tractor drawn 2 row New Idea corn picker. Then a hay baler and later self propelled combines. In 1938 he purchased his first combine with a motor.

In 1941 Ralph started a milk route picking up the product from farms in ten gallon cans and delivering it to the Equity Dairies Inc. at Ft. Recovery. He owned the route for 21 years and drove the route himself for 17 years.

In 1951 fifty acres of the Daniel Runk farm (which had been in that family since the m 1800's) was purchased. In 1963 the Dell and Flo Cummins farm, consisting of 171 acres 1/2 mile nor of Ralph's residence was purchased. The farms we all incorporated in 1967 as Ralph Jutte Farms Inc.

Peter King

PETER KING

This book would not be complete unless some mention was made of Peter King, an early resident of Mercer County. A grand old man who lived to be 101 years, 4 months and 27 days old. He was my great-grandfather, and I have many pleasant memories where he is concerned. We used to have King Reunion which was an annual affair held a park called Millers Grove in Dayton, Ohio. We looked forward to this "get-together." It was only time we got to see a lot of the relatives, an was a nice feeling to see all those people and kn that they were all part of your family. We still han occasional "King Reunion" but they aren't same. Two whole generations are gone now.

Great-grandpa lived for a time with his daugh Arminta Gross (my grandmother) before he died. was very clean and particular about his appearan He wore a full suit, white shirt and tie every day. chewed tobacco, but most people never knew t because he kept an old Alka Seltzer bottle in his side coat pocket and when necessary he very c creetly turned away, spit in the bottle, and slipped back in his pocket.

He was an avid fan of the Cincinnati Reds, a carried a small transistor radio around with h with the ear plug in his ear. We never heard the dio, but we sure heard grandpa grumbling when game wasn't going to suit him.

Our family has always played a card game call "Sheephead" which is a lot of fun, but no one con ever enjoy the game more than great-grandpa Ki and grandpa Gross (John P. Gross) my grandfath Those two old men spent years trying to see whi one could cheat the other without getting caug We kids were drafted as their partners and loved Of course we knew they were cheating, but none us had the nerve to accuse them and spoil their fur

Grandpa King was never senile. He had control all his faculties until the day he died. He died pneumonia on Jan. 20, 1952, but while he was in t hospital he wouldn't stay in bed. The nurses had go looking for him every time they needed to gi him his medication. They always found him talki to another patient. He would say, "I was just visiti with that old man."

He knew he was going to die. He told the doctor and nurses to get him a birthday cake so he could have a party. They did, and had a birthday party find him in his hospital room. He died a few days later.

One of Grandpa King's most prized possessio was a telegram from the President on his 100 birthday. He was also interviewed on television st tion WLW-D in Dayton along with his olde daughter Arminta Gross, her oldest daughter Leo: Segui (my mother), and Leona's oldest daught Agatha Schmid, thus featuring four living gener tions. When our first child was born, we took pi tures of the five generations.

Peter King was the third child of Anthony Kin and Gertrude Kiever Who moved to America fro Urlufen, Germany in 1845. They first located Holmes County, Ohio, but moved to Danville, Kno County, Ohio in 1882. They later moved to Merc County, 1½ miles East of Ft. Recovery, Ohio.

Anthony and Gertrude had seven children: Althony, Lawrence, Peter, Andrew, Katherine, Joseph and Julia.

Peter, born Aug. 24, 1850, married Anna Mille whose parents were Vincent Miller and Magdalir Stillinger. They had twelve children: Cletus (marrie Caroline Weis), Arminta Mary Gross (John), France Mackey (Henry), George (married Mary Showmacher, then after her death he married Nellie. He st name unknown). Joseph (married Clara Merkle), ose Stachler (August), Herman (married Theresa ron), William (married Anna Bergman), Aloys narried Viona Bensman), Laura Grote (Clement), ernard (married Mae Barhorst), and Roman (mared Agnes Moorman).

Arminta King Gross was my grandmother and ie, like her father lived a long life. She was 92 years

d when she died in 1969 in Dayton, Ohio.

I might mention too that Peter King's father also ved to be over 100 years old. Submitted by: Helen (Seii) Godfrey, Celina, Oh. 45822

THE LAMM FAMILY

The Lamm farm at 1303 St. Joe Road, in 1976, was varded a "Century Farm Citation". The same farm ill owned and operated, and the century brick ome still occupied by the Herman and Theresia amm family. Their grandchildren are the fifth genation of the Lamm family.

The roots go back to Anton Lamm, who came om Kappelrodeck, Baden, Germany and settled in Iercer County. Here he met Catherine Blum, who 3 a small child also came with her family from Gerlany and settled in Perry County before moving to ie St. Joe area.

Anton and Catherine were married in 1857 and urchased the present farm from the government, nd began farming on what was still mostly forest nd. Here they built a log cabin, one and one-half illes N.E. of Fort Recovery and a mile (walking disince) West of the St. Joseph Church. The couple ad 9 children and were quite active in establishing nd supporting the church and congregation, as well 3 civic projects. A new brick home was built in 1874 hich is still occupied. Their family included; six aughters all married, Caroline (John Coughlin), lagdaline (John Speck), Clara (Mike Schoch), Cathrine (George Lauber), Margaret (John Volz), Mary Adam Hoening), and three sons; Peter died age 19, inthony first married Lena Frey, after her death narried Angeline Ranly, and John married Anna

On May 7, 1901 the youngest son John was mared to Anna Lechner of Wendelin. Anna's father nd mother, Bernard and Mary Ann (Agney) Lecher, for many years owned and operated a saw mill 1 that area. The young couple took over the farm nd the elder Lamm's moved to the village of St. Joe, nen known as Victoria.

The John Lamm's continued to be active in both eligious and civic projects of the community. John as one of the founders of the "Victoria Dramatic lub", their first performance was "The Heroic Jutchman". He was also an organizer of the "John : Bill" picnic which was a forerunner of the present larvest Jubilee. For a number of years these picnics vere held in the woods on the Lamm farm. A Delco ower plant and a car became a part of the family's ssets. John and Anna were the parents of nine chilren; Matilda Grieshop (deceased), Charles (deeased 1977) married to Leona Dillhoff, Alvira (Herert Becker), Elizabeth (Thomas Connell), Emma Virgil Bey), Robert (deceased 1978) married Agnes atte, Herman (deceased 1968) married Theresia eumer; 2 sons died in infancy. John died in 1932, but by working together the family survived the depression years.

In 1943 Herman and Theresia, a graduate nurse, were married; Theresia's ancestors had also come from Germany from areas of Westphalia, Hanover, Osnabruck and Billerbeck. The maternal grandfather, Frank Kemper, arrived in Cincinnati, Ohio as a teenager and unable to find a job, joined the Union Army and served during the Civil War. The Beumers and Kempers had settled in the South, Tennessee and Alabama, but in 1919 when Theresia was a small child the family moved from St. Joseph, Tenn. to Mercer County, Ohio. These were war years and Robert was drafted and served two years in the army, while Herman and Theresia remained on the farm, in order to meet the government demands production was increased - more grain, more cattle, more hogs, more tomatoes to feed the hungry nations. Gas rationing, food rationing, sugar stamps, meat stamps, shoe stamps, all became a part of liv-

In 1945 the war was over, Robert came home safely, and the long awaited power lines became a reality. A new well and the wind pump came down, tractors replaced horses, combines replaced the threshing machine. Grandma Anna lived with the family until her death in 1957. Robert was married and left. There were six children in the family now; Barbara, Kenneth, Paul, Joan, Thomas and Anna Marie. Herman a life member of the St. Joseph's choir enjoyed singing. Truly these were the best years of our lives. Changes came and Herman died suddenly in 1968. Theresia continued with her nursing career. The family all graduated from Fort Recovery High School and continued to operate the farm. As Herman often sang "As Time Goes By", so names changed and new members arrive. Today we have Barbara, a L.P.N. married to Ed Muhlenkamp, three children — Amanda (Mandy), Eric and Todd. Kenneth, served two years in the U.S. Army, an Accountant and Farmer, married to Janice Kremer, two children - Sherri and Tricia. Thomas married to Joan Jutte. Joan, Social Worker, married to Harry McPheron. Paul in electronics, presently of Alexandria, Va., and Anna Marie, student at Wright State University.

The year 1978 will find Sherri and Mandy in kindergarten - the fifth generation of the Lamm family starts to school. And again "Times Goes By"

The neighbors would help each other. In the fall they would make cider and cook applebutter in large kettles outside. In the winter the neighbors got together and did the butchering, mostly pork for the coming year. They cured their own meat. In the evenings they would play cards, have sausage fries and drink cider. There usually was several among the crowd that played the harmonica, so they sang and danced. The women made all their own clothes. Baked bread and made two kinds of cookies, Sugar and Mollasses. They churned butter and sold it as well as eggs, lard and applebutter to the grocer. They also made their own soap. larning a living during the depression years was : easy. A farmer's wife invariably carried a basket eggs into the store to exchange for groceries. nted 'feed' sacks were made into dresses. Any ld who owned two pairs of shoes at one time was isidered very lucky indeed. Remember the old ing, "Eat it up, wear it out, make it do, or do hout!" And most everyone did without, but evone was poor, so no one thought much about it. There were happy times, too. Uncles, aunts, cous-, and neighbors came to visit, and when a family ne a considerable distance, all the relatives gath-

d for a reunion. Lively card games were pleasurapastimes that cost nothing. Children amused mselves; they seldom tired of softball, or games Tag, Hide-and-seek, Go Sheep Go, or Pretend.

When World War II began, Albert was drafted o the Army. While he was in the Pacific, his ther died, August 1, 1943. Harold, the youngest, s nine years old at the time. The girls took over housekeeping, and when Carl was called for vice in the Navy, Helen helped with the farm ores until the brothers returned.

After the war ended, Albert helped his father with farm, and Carl worked at the New Idea Farm Imment factory in Coldwater. Rose Mary moved to Sebastion after her marriage to Mark Schwietern. The same year, 1949, Albert married Teresa mmelgarn, and they remained on the farm. The er sisters and brothers married, one by one, and ved elsewhere.

When Aloys retired, Albert bought the farm ere Aloys has spent more than eighty of his hty-two years. Many changes have occurred in lifetime: from washboards and sadirons to autotic washers and dryers, from pot-bellied stoves to tral heating, from fruit cellars, sauerkraut crocks, i salt-pork barrels, to refrigerators and freezers, m farming with horses to fully mechanized plant-, cultivating, and harvesting of crops, from horse I buggy and the Model "T" to modern automoes, diesel engines, jet planes, and space capsules. e list is almost endless.

Albert and his wife have twelve living children: vern, Daniel, Steven, Kathleen, Robert, David, h, Joan, Christine, Mary, Jim, and Barbara. Four their children are married: Lavern to Joann Tobe, n to Marion Wasenda, Steve to Linda Knoth, and thleen to Thomas Stammen. There is one grandld, Brent, son of Kathleen and her husband.

Because of its many rural churches, southern rcer County was often called "God's Country" we who live here really appreciate the rich heritthat is ours? Our ancestors were God-fearing, hardworking, and self-sufficient. "A day's work for a day's wage" was a well-known motto in days gone by. Their lives and their accomplishments have made our years on this earth very comfortable, even luxurious when compared to theirs. We would do well to follow the example set for us. Albert Steinbrunless than a mile southwest, to court Agnes.

From a xeroxed copy of an atlas of Germany, one can clearly see the towns of Staufen and Grunern. Staufen is a town of 4000 inhabitants. Grunern less than a mile to the southwest, is about half as large. Both are located in the extreme southwest corner of West Germany, which 150 years ago was called Archduchy of Baden. It is now in the province of Baden - Wurttenberg.

Their marriage certificate states: This is an official testimony that the single Clemens Steinbrunner, Grunern, and the single Agnes Maier of Staufen were on the 23rd of January, 1849 joined in matrimony according to the present law. Grunern, in the

Clemens became a United States citizen on Oct. 1, 1852 in District Court of Crawford County at Bucy-

to Allen County, Fort Wayne, Indiana. Three children were born here: William, Mary, Henry. Clemens brother Robert, settled in Fort Wayne, Indiana, married and had a family. These families kept in contact with each other.

Clemens and Agnes moved three times in their married life. They first settled in Galion, Ohio. When they lived on a farm in Fort Wayne, Indiana, they found the land to be too swampy for farming. THE VAN TREES

The Van Trees of Mercer County have as their pioneer progenitor Daniel Van Trees, Esq. (Justice of Peace, Recovery Township 1853-1856) who was born northwest of Cincinnati June 25, 1807 and married Mary Ann Downs along the Whitewater River in Franklin County, Indiana July 26, 1832.

The first four children of this union (Hezekiah, Clarica, Elizabeth, and James Frederick) were born in Butler County, Ohio. Historically the Van Trees have always shown an avid interest in new land opportunities and accordingly have made frequent moves. In 1840, after some pioneering work in the area, Daniel brought his family to Mercer County and settled on a farm of eighty acres just east of Fort Recovery where eight more children were born. Daniel was laid to rest June 28, 1873 in the old cemetery west of Fort Recovery and Mary Ann was placed beside him in 1901.

Four of Daniel's children headed west with Nathaniel and John settling in northwestern Indiana. Alexander and the oldest son (Hezekiah) made their homes in western Missouri. A great grandson of Hezekiah (Dr. Harry Leslie Van Trees, Jr.) graduated number one in the West Point Academy Class of 1952 and currently resides in McClean, Virginia.

James Frederick Van Trees (1838-1890) made his home west of Fort Recovery just across the state line in Jay County, Indiana and was a gunsmith of some repute. The rifles he made are collector's items today and a grandson (John L. Van Trees) provided one of these rifles to the Fort Recovery Museum where it is displayed along with other pioneer artifacts. A marking tool used to imprint "J. F. VANTREES" on the barrel has been passed down through succeeding generations and today is a prized possession of Junior Floyd Van Trees.

In 1860 James Frederick married Matilda Cummins and they were blessed with two daughters and a son. One daughter died at an early age and the other (Rosetta) married Thomas A. Chamberlain. J. F.'s son Daniel E. Van Trees was a Fort Recovery blacksmith and married Almeretta Atkinson. To this latter union were born James Floyd; Clyde Eugene; Cecil Fay; Guy Carlton; and John Lyle Van Trees, World War I Veteran. With the exception of Cecil Fay, who married O. V. Ault and moved to Bartley, Nebraska, the other children made their homes in and near Fort Recovery. Still residing in Fort Recovery and now eighty eight years of age, Clyde Van Trees and his wife (Ica Irene, nee Golder) celebrated their 67th wedding anniversary in 1977. Although many of the descendants of Daniel and Mary Ann have scattered, two great-great grandsons (Bruce Allen and Junior Floyd Van Trees) still live in Fort Recovery. Floyd's grandson, Jason Floyd Van Trees (born 1973) is the youngest boy of the family progeny carrying the family name in Mercer County. Another great-great grandson (Robert V. Van Trees, Major, USAF Retired) put aside his pilot's wings in 1961, worked as Cubic Corporation's mid-west representative for more than 17 years, and now lives in Dayton, Ohio where he is continuing a research of historical data on the Van Trees genealogy hoping to tie the Van Trees progenitor to the Conrad, Hartman and Emanuel Vantrees who reportedly came from the Monocacy Settlement, Frederick County, Maryland to Bedford County, Pennsylvania and then about 1795 to southwestern Ohio. GRANVILLE TOWNSHIP

Granville was first organized on June 5, 1837. It vas struck off from Recovery Township and origially comprised only those sections of the present ownship that lie north of the Greenville Treaty ine. The southern portion was added in 1847, thus orming Granville as it is today. The township conains sections from town 7S, range 2E; town 15N, ange 2E; and town 13N, range 3E. It is bounded on he west by Gibson and Recovery Townships, on the 10rth by Butler, on the east by Marion, and on the outh by Darke County. The present trustees are lyril Dues, Mark Kremer, and Victor Boeke. The lerk is John Dippold. The last township constable vas Iacob Kunkler who served in 1938-1939. Ferd lengers was the last Justice of the Peace. This posiion was abolished on Dec. 31, 1957 when its duties vere absorbed by the Municipal Court.

The township has shown steady growth over the ears. The population in 1900 was 2329, today it is 326. It has two incorporated villages, St. Henry and urkettsville.

Granville contains approximately 24,618 acres of enerally low and level land. In 1900 about 16% of is land was covered with trees, today about 5% is till woodland. Corn, wheat, oats and hay were the najor crops at the turn of the century. Most individal farmers raised livestock. Today many acres of oybeans must be added to the above list of grains. The silver-domed silos scattered across the landcape indicate the growth of dairy farming in the rea. There are about 50 Grade A dairy operations in the township. There are also some hog, chicken, and teer raisers.

1900 found Granville with 518 individual farms aving an average size of 46 acres. Now there are ess than 250 farm owners and the average size has acreased to somewhat over 100 acres. This move to irger farms can be attributed in part to the advent f mechanized farm machinery. Early in this century armers had to rely on human labor and animal ower to plant, cultivate, and harvest crops. The ork was hard and slow, and productivity was limed. This changed dramatically with the coming of ne tractor. The Farmall with steel wheels first apeared on the scene in 1922. In 1937 Fordson came ut with a popular rubber-tired model. Power comines brought an end to the picturesque fields of nocked wheat seen at harvest time. Custom comining in the late 30's cost from $1.50 to $2.00 an cre with wheat selling at 39¢ per bushel. Today the ost is $15.00 per acre and wheat sells at about $3.25 bushel. One Granville farmer with a self-propelled ombine can harvest between 30 and 40 acres a day. he many improvements in farm machinery have icreased both the speed and the efficiency of farmig operations. Crop yields have risen accordingly. the 1930's corn averaged 41.4 bushels to the acre, 1 1977 the average yield was 91.6 bushels per acre.

The early 30's were the years of the Great Depreson and farmers were sometimes so hard pressed at they were forced to sell their land. $1.00 a day lus board was considered good wages for a day's ork as a farmhand. Adult laborers were plentiful at its price. Federally funded WPA projects brought nployment to the township through the construction of the St. Henry High School, the building of cement bridges, the laying of concrete sidewalks, the clearing of ditches, and the building of roads.

The "muck" soil of the Cranberry Prairie has been very good for the growing of Granville's specialty crops of potatoes, tomatoes, and snap beans. These crops have led to the development of two large farm related enterprises, Stucke Farms Inc. and the Beckman and Gast Canning Co.

Henry Stucke began growing potatoes on 1 acre of rented land in 1932. He harvested his crop by hand and sold his produce to local stores and other farmers. He bought his first 60 acres in 1934. His business continued to increase in size utilizing migrant labor in the 60's. The switch to mechanical harvesting came in 1969. Today the company raises over 400 acres of potatoes a year. They still supply the local markets but the majority of their crop is sold to the Frito Lay Chip Co.

The Beckman and Gast Co., celebrating their 50th anniversary this year, packs tomatoes, tomato juice, and green beans. The original Pioneer Canning Company, started in 1901, packed tomato puree in wooden barrels and 5 gallon square cans. During the first half of this century tomatoes were grown and picked by individual farmers. In the beginning of World War II migrant labor was recruited and the raising of tomatoes gradually was done by a few large acreage growers. In the last 5 years the Beckman and Gast Co. has raised most of their own supply. Although most of the harvesting is still done with migrant labor, the choosing of tomato variety and the spacing of the plants in the fields are done to accommodate mechanical harvesters which were first used in 1969. Originally all tomatoes were peeled by hand but lye-bath peeling was introduced in 1970.

Green beans became a specialty crop in the late 1950's. They were first picked by hand, but mechanical pickers have been used since 1958.

At the turn of the century Granville had six churches; four Catholic, St. Bernard's at Burkettsville, St. Francis's at Cranberry, St. Henry's at St. Henry, and St. Wendelin's at St. Wendelin; one Baptist church in section 12 along Philothea Road which served the Negroes in that area, and a Campbellite church in Burkettsville. Only the four Catholic churches remain today. These have been served over the years by the Fathers of the Most Precious Blood. This Society established Himmelgarten Convent, located west of St. Henry, in 1852 to house the priests, brothers, and sisters who served the German

Novitiate of the Fathers of the Most Precious Blood, Burkettsville, Ohio

Catholic settlers in the surrounding area. The sisters opened a school in 1871 which later became the Home School. A novitiate to train priests was established in 1893 near Burkettsville. It continued in operation until the spring of 1969. In the summer of that year the Community Action Commission, CAC, used the facilities as an experimental school for troubled teenagers from the city areas. It was called Project Liberation. On January 1, 1971, a disasterous fire destroyed the oldest wing of the main building. The remaining buildings stood empty until the fall of 1978 when they were razed.

Home School, west of Saint Henry

Granville had 11 schools in 1900, nine of these were one room country schools. Today they have been consolidated into one school district utilizing 4 buildings. Three of these are located in St. Henry; the 1961 elementary, the 1903 junior high, and the 1939 high school. The 5th and 6th grades have used the 1939 Burkettsville building since 1961. School bus service began in 1934 when St. Henry first purchased buses. Other areas of the township received bus service a few years later. Cafeteria lunches became available in 1952. Kindergarten began in 1971. Due to a Supreme Court ruling, religion is no longer taught in the schools but released time is given so the students can attend the Catechetical Center which was built south of the St. Henry Church in 1964.

The schools have shown considerable growth throughout this century. The first high school graduating class in 1905 had one student, Alfred Davis. This year's class of 126 seniors will be the largest class ever to graduate. Thirty years ago about 50% of the student body graduated; today over 95% does so.

Township library services began with the founding of the Granville Township Library on July 4, 1976. This branch of the county library is located in the Granville Township House in St. Henry.

Granville has had fire protection since 1905 when St. Henry founded the first volunteer fire department. Burkettsville's volunteer department was organized in 1909. The Rural Fire Protection Association was formed in 1960. They purchased their first pumper-tanker truck in 1963 thus giving extra protection to the farmers who were assessed $10 a year for this service.

All roads in the township are paved. There are miles of state highway, 40 miles of county road and 30 miles of township roads. The last gravel rowas Tobe Road which was tarred in July of 1970.

Although a few Granville citizens had autom biles before 1910, it was several decades before t car replaced the horse and buggy. Since 1950 t number of cars and trucks in Mercer County h more than doubled. 31,639 motor vehicle licen plates were issued in the county in 1976. During the same year, 1,594 car licenses were sold in Granvi Township.

Granville's only railroad had stations at St. Hen and Burkettsville. It began as the Cincinnati Nort ern, later became part of the New York Central Lin and finally was absorbed by Penn Central. The fit train arrived in the fall of 1883 and the last Per Central train rumbled through in the spring of 197 Tom Zitter, a private operator, still uses some of the track to ship freight between St. Henry and Celina.

Gone are the windmills which once stood li proud sentinels in most farm-yards. They have be replaced by the electric pump. St. Henry had eletricity as early as 1915 but this only provided ci zens with 2 hours of service a day. Farmers had rely on Delco plants which consisted of a series batteries charged by a generator. Western Farm B reau Electric Cooperative, which later became Mi west Electric, brought electric lines to rural Granvi in 1937.

Along with electricity came the wonder of rad. In the late 1920's only a few people owned a "wir less" and often the neighbors would gather arou eager to listen to the latest program. It was well in the 30's before most households had their own r dio. Television was not common until the midc 1950's.

Telephone service which was available before the turn of the century has improved over the year Seven-digit telephone numbers and nationwide corect-distance dialing were introduced in the ear 1960's.

Although there were many natural gas wells the township in the early 1900's, West Ohio Gas C was the first large distributor to bring natural g from the southwestern part of the United States Granville. They laid lines to St. Henry in 1965 b had to stop adding new customers in 1972 due to nation wide shortage of gas. They hope to increa their lines as soon as the gas becomes available.

In order to stop the serious flooding of the W bash River a group of farmers formed the Granvil Township River Commission. This commission were sponsible for the formation of the Upper Wabas Watershed. In 1962 three dam-like structures we built; one in Darke County, one in Gibson Township, and one in Granville Township. This was ershed project had a total installation cost of $1,260 911. Farmers in southern Granville benefitte greatly from this conservation project. Now that the annual flooding has ceased, the rich farmlar drained by this river brings premium prices as hig as $3,125 per acre.

Fertile land, advanced machinery, new varieties a seed, better fertilizers and weed controls, fine strains of livestock; all of these are making Granvil one of the wealthiest and most productive areas i

WENDELIN

At the intersection of Township Line Road and Ft. ecovery-Minster Road is the little community of lendelin. Although it has never been incorporated a village, Wendelin has been a religious, social, nd business center for many years.

In 1856, St. Wendelin Catholic Church was organed, a daughter parish of the Ft. Recovery church, ith a membership of eight families. They met in a nall frame building until 1867, when the brick and one church (still in use today) was built, at a cost $1200.00. The parsonage was constructed in 1905, sting $3500.00. By 1907, the parish had grown to ty-four families, which is about the same as tony's membership.

SCHOOL

Although old records are unclear, the one-room schoolhouse at Wendelin was opened around 1890. In 1892, the Sisters from the Society of the Precious Blood took over teaching duties for the students, grades 1 through 8. At some later date, the school was partitioned off into two rooms, one housing grades 1-4, and the other 5-8. The Wendelin Local School District was terminated on December 31, 1957, when students were divided between St. Henry and Southwest Local schools. by Kathy Snider

WENDELIN STORE

In 1869, a general store was opened at Wendelin, Sebastian Lauber, who was a prominent busissman and farmer in the area. He bought 3,000.00 (quite a large sum in those days) worth of bods on credit in Dayton and brought them back to lendelin himself. On January 2, 1870, the store was estroyed by fire, started, according to one source, by a rough gang of the locality." The store was retilt soon after, and apparently did a thriving busisses, as Mr. Lauber had many offers of credit to finance his new venture.

From 1873-1877, Lauber and his brother Valentine berated a saw, planing, and shingle mill at Wenden. Lauber later sold his interest in the businesses to ke up other ventures in Ft. Recovery. He also had yo oil wells on his farm, located on the Lauber rnpike (now Lange Road).

The store changed hands several times in the next w years, but was bought in 1895 by John Cough-1, who ran the business with his family for over venty years. Around 1900, there was also a post of-12 located in the store, although it is unknown how ng it operated.

In April of 1922, Henry and Odilia Heuing bought e store. In it, they stocked everything from grocers to hardware to auto tires, and had gas pumps out ont and a tavern in the back. During the Christmas ason, business was unusually brisk. Mr. Heuing ways made a trip to Dayton and came back with s car loaded down with toys and such, which peo-e came from miles around to buy.

In October of 1947, the store was again destroyed fire, this one caused by faulty electrical wiring, tree fire departments battled the blaze, but were table to save the old two-story building. For seral months afterwards, business was carried on in e basement of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Lefeld (the Heugs' daughter) across the street. The next Spring, e store was re-opened in a new brick building, hich is still in use today.

After 50 years, the Heuings retired and sold the ore to Charles Bornhorst, who changed the name Charlie's Bar, and enjoyed quite a success with it a night spot.

The present owners, Tom and Diane Weller, purased the store in June of 1978. Very little has anged here over the years. They still have the genal store, gas pumps, and the ever-popular tavern.

ST. WENDELIN PARISH

St. Wendelin Church is situated in the Northwest Corner of Section 17 Granville Township on the Greenville Treaty line. The parish members are mostly German and some English and German.

In the year 1856 John and Valentine Esser went to Archibishop Purcell in Cincinnati to ask permission to build a Church at the present site. His Grace told them that if the neighboring pastors were satisfied they should bring a written permission from the Respective Rev. Neighbors. Frs. Van Den Bosch-St. Henry, and Joseph Albrecht of St. Joseph Victoria gave their consent and the Archbishop gave the permission to organize. The following organized St. Wendelin Parish; John and Valentine Esser, Adam Fliehles, Peter Writz, Balthasser and Henry Hoening, Hubert (Robert) Lennartz, Micheal Hammann, John Weber. Five acres of land was bought with an unfinished frame building 22x30 for a sum of $200. Every member was to pay $20. Hubert Lennartz bought a lot off the five acres where he built his cobbler shop. Altar and benches were furnished by home talent. The Church was blessed by Fr. Maximillian Homburg. An oil painting of St. Wendelin was secured from a painter in Europe for $100, donated by Adam Fleigher. This was the beginning of St. Wendelin.

The members of the parish made the bricks themselves and the stained-glass windows were donated by different members of the parish. The Church was finished in two years, it was dedicated on St. Wendelin's Day, October 20, 1870. Cranberry Store

Cy Schwieterman, Inc., (½ mile north of the church) began operating a farm drainage service in 1950 and continues today.

Bruns Building and Supply began operations in 1953 and operates today with R. E. Bruns and Jack Bruns. They service the area with erection of steel buildings, farm drainage, and all forms of excavating.

John Karch, founder of Karch Stone Co., was born and raised on a farm three miles southeast of the church on State Route 127. His heirs still own the farm.

Some of the names of families that were early settlers in Cranberry Prairie were: Bernard, Dirksen, Fiely, Hemmelgarn, Huwer, Karch, Knapke, Langenkamp, Link, Nietfeld, Reier, Rindler, Schmitz, Stachler, Staugler, Wehrkamp, and Zahn.

CRANBERRY PRAIRIE

Most probably Bill Simmison (1827-) is the most ridely known and wrote about person from the ranberry Prairie area. Many articles were wrote of im and his many escapades with the draft board nd soldiers who came to arrest him for evasion of the draft during the Civil War. A biographical teme was presented about him at OSU in recent pars.

The Bertke store was founded in the late 1800's by . J. Bertke. In 1924 his son, Frank, purchased the ore and he or his family operated it until 1971. Mr. ud Whitsett then operated the store until 1977 hen the building was purchased by the Archdiocse of Cincinnati.

Since then the building has been used as a Hisanic center with a chapel and social center for the panish speaking people in this area of Ohio and Iniana. Father Quentin Hauer, OFM, is the resident irector for the approximately 200 settled out fami-

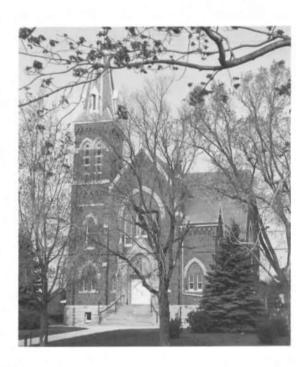

Through the years, Cranberry residents were ranville Township trustees or Mercer County ommissioners. Among those were Frank Dillhoff ad Joseph Hartings.

In the late 1930's John Fullenkamp of St. Henry egan purchasing land in the prairie one-half mile est of church. In the 1940's he built the large quont buildings on what is known as Black Acres. It has oused various businesses such as: selling muck for rtilizer filler and additives for soil, plastic injection rolding for industry from 1970 to 1973, tire recaping 1974 through 1978.

Bill Kaiser operated a large sawmill (½ mile north the church) from approximately 1915 to the early 920's. Shortly thereafter he moved to Indiana.

Henry Stucke began the Stucke Potato Farm (1 ile south of the church) in 1934. His sons continue to operation and today they are one of the largest otato producers and shippers in the state of Ohio.

Ray Stachler had a carpenter service (2 miles west the church) from the 1930's until his retirement in 772. His sons are operating the business today as achler Bros., Inc.

ST. FRANCIS PARISH

St. Francis Parish was organized in 1858 through the efforts of Christopher and Jacob Schunk and Henry Hemmelgarn. A brick church was built in 1860 and was used till the present church was erected and dedicated in 1906. The church was built during the pastorate of Fr. Edmund Lohmiller C.PP.S. It was designed by William P. Ginter an architect in Akron, Ohio. Construction of the church was in the hands of N. A. Ley, a contractor, of Minster, Ohio. The church has been in the care of the Society of the Precious Blood during its entire history. The present rectory was built on the site of the first church. The congregation of St. Francis is made up of 60 to 65 families, which figure has never fluctuated much either way from the founding of the parish to the present day. The parish cemetery lies immediately to the west of the church. The total picture is an appealing rural parish plant. Rev. Cletus G. Bihn, C.PP.S. is the pastor of the St. Francis Church, Cranberry Prairie.

CY SCHWIETERMAN INC.

On August 10, 1946 Cy Schwieterman along with his brother Louis and Father Ed began a new farm drainage service in southern Mercer and northern Darke counties. Cy just being discharged from the Navy in July of 1946, began the operation by work-ing for neighbors and friends. In a short while Louis

As it was after the war and the demand was great for this service, Cy purchased a new Buckeye ditching machine in October of 1947. In May of 1949 he married Merdella Borgerand in 1950 they purchased a small farm at Cranberry Prairie and continued his operations from this location. In 1953 another Buckeye was added and in 1954, he purchased a new trencher from Speicher, which began manufacturing this product in Celina. Another new Speicher was added in both 1955 and 1956 along with a used Speicher in 1959.

In 1958 he began taking aerial photos of completed systematic drainage jobs and this practice still continues to this date.

In the early 1960's, the clay tile manufacturers began palletizing and concrete manufacturers began shuttle service with wagons to deliver their products. In 1962 an auger backfiller with a backhoe mounted on the rear was added, which greatly improved the quality and ease of backfilling the trenches.

In 1962 Cy Schwieterman became incorporated under the laws of the state of Ohio.

By the late 1960's corrugated plastic tubing and the laser lite was introduced. Both of these new products made farm drainage easier to install and decreased the man power needed. The Laser is an automatic grade control that eliminated the need for setting targets.

Installation of home sewage systems began in 1965 and continues today with Vern Lange performing this service in a 6 county area.

In 1974 a new 8000 sq. ft. maintenance shop was built at 1663 Cranberry Rd., thereby satisfying a need for a place to repair the machinery and fabricate the many things needed for their operations.

Due to the necessity of faster operations, Speicher began to build an experimental model for which they chose Cy to do the field experimenting. From 1970 to 1974 this machine was operated in all conditions. In 1975 when the machine was ready for production, a new Model 7060 was purchased. Another was added in 1976.

In 1976 a Buckeye 318, which digs 7 ft. deep an 36wide was added. This machine is used to insta large farm drainage tile from 12to 30inside diameter

Today Cy has approximately 20 employees whic include three of his sons, Mike, Jerry and Davi Some of the other long time employees are: Ver Lange 26 years, Lester Harting 23 years, Jerry Water cutter 20 years, Ron Schwieterman 11 years, Nic Bruggeman 10 years, Ed Knapke 5 years and Stev Lange 5 years.

Some of the other services covered today ar trenching with small chain trenchers, backhoe serv ice of all kinds and snow plow service for parkin

BURKETTSVILLE

The Village of Burkettsville was platted by Be nard Romer, Jr., Edward Frummel, William Suthe land and Jackson Golder in November, 1876. Ear. settlers here had formed a colony in 1871. Earlie records show that one John B. Borgerding born i 1832, settled in Mercer County in 1852 and marrie in 1859.

Burkettsville was given the name, honoring one its pioneer settlers, Mr. Burkett. Burkettsville ol tained its first Post Office in 1872, when in 1871 th settlers decided that they should have mail servic Before this they received their mail from the Po Office from North Star once a week when a rider t the name of William Mung brought all of that ma to a designated place and the people would get the mail at that place. One can imagine that in the wild erness area here only a few settlers that it was problem. One must realize that the roads were di and only routes until engineers and surveyors lai out the sections and roads.

The religious services for the Catholic people an the church is given under another space in th book. The Protestants in this area also had the church, called Disciples of Christ, however n records are known of their parishoneers. They wer disbanded around 1920 when more and more of th population were Catholic. The church building wa old and it now is located at what was once known is Hierholzer Garage, east of town. The Asiatic Cholera was a problem also here as many of the citiens lost their lives. A cemetery which is located on he Hemmelgarn property, west of here but hardly ioticeable, contains the bodies of many of the vicims. Early records of Darke County (1844) lists mong the property owners the names of Theodore Iemmelgarn, Henry Rutschilling, M. L. M. Bingham, W. H. McFarland, Henry Middendorf, Andrew Cunkler, Bernard Stuckenborg and Paul Heinseth. Mercer County records (1883) lists among the pioneers as John C. Gilbert, A. E. Gilbert, Ann Gilbert, N. Schoenberger, F. Z. Mory, Mary E. Pepple, ouis Krockebert, W. L. Bingham, W. Neal, C. J. Tius, Joseph Anthony, J. W. Birt and August Knosnan.

Burkettsville's first Doctor was a Dr. Inman. He vas succeeded by Dr. Brown and then Dr. Charles fullivan and later around 1940 was a Dr. M. E. Harell who was also our last Doctor. The Veterinarian vas Dr. Neal McNeal who had his office in the old ivery stable. He called on customers around 1940 rom Ansonia and later retired.

Our Town Hall Building was built in 1906 several ears after Burkettsville became an incorporated /illage. It was on April 21st, 1902 when the first Council set in session with S. S. Earhart, as Pres. of he Council, C. C. Snyder was Clerk. Members of he Council were James Birt, William Arnold, Cass rnett, William Shook, H. Mills, Joseph A. Werling nd J. B. Hemmelgarn. OCCUPATIONS

During the growth of Burkettsville it had a stave factory manfacturing Barrels in the early part of the century. The first house was built in 1840 in Section 30. Township Fifteen was given to Mercer County from Darke County in 1848. Bids for the erection of a railroad bed were begun in 1858 and completed in 1883 when the first Mackinaw railway system was established, later known as the Cincinnati Northern. The railroad depot was named Gilberts in honor of the Gilberts family who donated the ground for the station. The railroad had a single track with a siding for loading and unloading freight. Some of the early stationmasters were R. W. Herman, Willis Jones, Murl Carmack and Clarence Manning. In the early days of the Railroad they loaded livestock, sugar beets and grain besides freight shipped for various merchants.

Mr. Aaron had the first brick yard in the early 1900's. The tile factory owned and operated by Mr. Lewis Minch had a good business with two kilns and made some of the best tile in the country, but it was destroyed by fire around 1945 and was then operated by the Hancock Tile Co., of Findlay, but later discontinued. A pond had taken the site of the excavated tile yards location.

Lawrence Wimmers was the cement and mortar man in the early 1900 to 1920. One of the most widely known stores in the area was the Birt's Store in general merchandise, and then purchased by Joseph Frank, who operated this store until his demise in 1926. Another general store was the Kaup's Store, the first being operated by Gehrhart Kaup and upon his death was succeeded by his sons Jos. A. and William. Joseph became the sole proprietor when William became cashier at the Farmers & Merchants Bank. This Bank operated from around 1910 to 1926

St. Bernard Church Cemetery, Burkettsville, Ohio

and did a good business but was forced to close by the State Department of Banking, because Mr. Henry Reichert had made too many bad loans. However upon liquidation nearly 70% was paid to its creditors.

At one time this town boasted of having three saloons, up to and until Prohibition. When Darke County elected to have its county dry, Mr. August Kothman moved across the street. Later operating this saloon, converted from a buggy and wagon shop, is the present tavern owned and operated by Ivo Schwieterman. Former owners of this tavern were Joseph Dresher, John Heinrichs and Leo A. Huber who operated for 371/2 years.

We also had a few blacksmiths the best known was Henry Steinke, whose shop was located on the now Walter Hierholzer property. Upon his death he was succeeded by his son Isadore. He quit around 1925. Fred Hoorman, Joseph Bruggeman, Dave Sargent and Dave Marker operated in the building known as the Nick Cordonnier Shop years ago. This building was located on the property that is now the Romer's IGA Store. Another blacksmith who did minor repairs was John Will who had a small shop located on the property now owned by Mrs. Marie Rindler.

William McFarland operated a Hotel Service and was later purchased by Joseph A. Werling who did a livery service in addition to the Hotel. After working for the Kleinhenze Stock Yards, Albert Brunswick and Albert Werling opened and operated the live stock market at the present location. In addition to the live stock operation Werling and Sons also operate a fine custom butchering, service and meat packing plant, doing a very fine business today.

Another good business is operated by the B. J. Kaiser Trucking, Inc. who gather milk from the areas. Starting out with a small truck around 1930 picking up can milk, he now operates a five truck milk hauling business for Miami Valley, Neal's et al for the outlet of this product. The Hardware stores operating with D. Kent, followed by George Van den Bosch, Henry Dahlinghaus, William Link, Henry Schlarman, Jacob Willhoff, E. J. Hierholzer, Howard Best, Victor Lochtefeld and finally William Hemmelgarn. Today we have no Hardware Store. In the early fifties, Frank Kramer and Herbert Gottes operated an Electrical Appliance Store, which la only a short time. They operated in the old ban building. In a series of barber shops, it began wit John Bowers, later at Ft. Recovery, William Brun John Ullman and now we have Matthias Kelch.

In the early days of road building were contractors, Joseph Flayler, Harvey Manning, Matt Staugle and the bridge builder was Henry Balmert. Walte Lorton operated a saw mill around 1930 to 1940 le cated on the present W. L. Rammel property.

The first grain elevator was operated by Stoke Earhart, followed by John Homan and now E. Klosterman. They also sold coal years ago. Prior t October 21, 1923 the village owned and operated is own power plant, with the generator being locate in the Grain Elevator's seed cleaning building. After above date the Ansonia Lighting Co. furnishe power for street and domestic lighting until April 1930 when the plant was sold to the Ohio Electric Power Co., Sidney, Ohio, when they in turn sold the present Dayton Power & Light Co.

After the dirt roads, gravel was made possible an after a good bed was formed, the first oil treatmer to our streets was made July 26, 1953 at a total cost of $156, and the next year oil was again applied at cost of $180. This was done annually until 192 when tar was applied. This was done each year, untit the center of the streets became too high, and i 1976, all of the old material was removed and a new cement road was built from the railroad tracks wes to the west end of the church property line.

A Hardware and implement store was operated b George Rammel and sons, the main office was in th building now operated by Matt Kelch. This store op erated around 1915 to 1930. The building on th north side and east was taken away before ceasin operations. When they ceased operation Anthon Vonderhaar of Ft. Recovery put in a meat marke service for a year or so and sold out to Urban Hem melgarn and after a few years it was sold to A. W Gottes who operated a short time. When he close out business, William Bruns bought the buildin and operated a barber shop, which is the present lc cation. He also operates a bicycle shop across th street, formerly being the hardware store. On th east side of the old hardware store building was small building, now razed, which was the site for a ice cream parlor operated by Aloys Kothman, later meat market operated by one Jesse Pierron for short time and it was after that, when Wm. Brun operated the barber shop there, until he move across the street. Before being in the past location Mr. Bruns operated his shop in the east room of th Werling Hotel for a long time. When he move from the Werling Hotel building, this location housed a meat market service operated by Pete Stammen for a short time.

It must have been in the late forties that Linus an Esther Wehrkamp operated a meat and grocery fo at least ten years in the front part of the Augus Kothman building, now razed. Years ago, Mr. Kothman operated a saloon in this building. Before th Wehrkamp's had this store, it was occupied at on time by Dennis Eyink as a shoe repair shop and late by John Uhlman as a barber for about a year.

Louis Dorner operated a shoe repair shop at on time in the east room of the Werling building bu most of the time he had his shop at his home on the

In the old days before the auto, J. B. Hemmelgarn perated a livery barn the site being on West Main reet, immediately east of the home of Henry Hemnelgarn. In the front part of the home of Mr. Hemnelgarn, Joseph Frank operated a small general tore, before acquiring the Birt's Store. Later this ont part was the home of the Catholic Knights of the merica's Fraternity Branch 1044, which was later than the same of the Catholic Knights of the merica's Fraternity Branch 1044, which was later than the same of the Catholic Knights of the same of th

In the early 1900's the Fourth of July was celerated by having a large dance floor on the street, etween the Werling Hotel and August Kothman uilding. Herman Quinter had a drilling rig for oil and vater around 1940 and dug quite a few wells. It is ow operated by his son Ronald, who has a very nodern well drilling equipment.

After the decease of Joseph Frank in 1926, the tore was liquidated by his nephew, Edward Klingsirn. This same store building was purchased by Verner Romer and operated as a general store for a hort time, and after being vacant for a short time, it is purchased by John Heinrichs, who operated a eer and restaurant, and in the front part a fresh neat and small grocery store business was conucted by his daughter Veronica. Then after a few ears it was sold to Clete Albers, who obtained a ight club license. After a few years it was sold to Vilfrid Bruns, and this place exchanged hands quite ften, now being owned by three young men of St. lenry.

BURKETTSVILLE FIRE DEPARTMENT

Burkettsville Fire Department was organized October 26, 1909 with about twenty members, with Stephen Oliger as chief. The department first had a hand pumper. They had monthly meetings and examined the fire equipment. Other members on the fire department were Nick Cordonnier, Wm. Leugers, George Spillers, Ora Walls, J. A. Flayler, John Leugers, George Sanderell, John Byrne, Peter Sanderell, Herbert Wimmers, John Werling, Lawrence Cordonnier, Hosea Birt, James Birt, Frank Birt, C. C. Corwin, Gerhart Kaup, Edward Jones, Mart Sanders, Frank Flayler, Aloys Kothman, Wm. Blakeley, Cary

Birt, Roy Blakeley.

For water supply, the town dug cisterns located at various places in the middle of the street. January 11, 1915, the Fire Chief asked the board of council to put up markers at the village cisterns so that they could be found easily. The old pumper type was discontinued around 1920. The 1936 truck was the first truck. On August 4, 1936, the present fire department was organized with John Homan as temporary President, A. W. Gottes, Chief, Jos. A. Kaup, Treas. and Leo A. Huber, Sec. and the Burkettsville Council as executive committee. The new officers were elected as follows to serve one year terms, unless changed later: John Homan, President; O. A. Willhoff, Vice President; Leo J. Klingshirn, Secretary; Jos. A. Kaup, Treasurer; Albert Werling, Chief; A. W. Gottes, Assistant Chief.

The next truck was a 1952 truck and the 1936 truck was converted to a tank wagon. The 1952 truck was replaced in 1968.

The number of fires varies from year to year. Some years there were as many as twenty fires or more a year. Other times there were as few as a half a dozen. The biggest fire the department ever had was the Burkettsville Novitiate on State Route 118, which burned January 1, 1971.

Today the department serves an area of over 200 certificate holders (farmers), in addition to the residents of New Weston and Burkettsville. Today the department has three trucks: a 1975 grass fire unit; a 1968 pumper and a 1968 tank truck. There are twenty-three members on the Burkettsville Fire Department. The department is all volunteer and has monthly meetings. Every Monday, a group from the department checks the equipment, cleans the equipment and makes necessary repairs. Funds which come to the department are from assessments from the townships, the towns, and the farmers.

ST. BERNARD CHURCH

St. Bernard Church is located in the extreme southern part of Mercer County. The parish boundaries extend into both Mercer and Darke counties, including the villages of New Weston and Rossburg in Darke County. The church and rectory are in Mercer County, the cemetery in Darke County. Parishioners worship in Mercer, but go to Darke for their final resting place.

The story of St. Bernard Parish, centering around its imposing church edifice which dominates the village scene at Burkettsville, began in 1874. A small group of German pioneer settlers in the area — six families in all — made the beginnings. These were the families of Theodore Hemmelgarn, Sr., John Borgerding, Sebastian Fink, Joseph Nordenbrock, Frank Beckman and Henry Borgerding. Fifty years later, a commemorative booklet published for the Golden Jubilee notes that there were about five hundred parishioners. At the present time there are about a thousand members of the parish.

The first church, a frame structure, was dedicated in 1875, enlarged and embellished in 1902. The present impressive brick structure was begun in 1915, but World War I shelved all building plans and the basement was covered with a roof. Construction work was taken up again in 1922 and brought to completion in 1924, the golden jubilee of the parish. Major repairs and improvements have continued. Most recent, renovation of the sanctuary and blue carpeting of the entire church during the centenary year, 1974. The St. Bernard rectory, a large, red brick structure was built in 1906.

From its founding in 1874 up to 1902, St. Bernard parish was served by fourteen different pastors, with most of these being in charge for comparatively short terms. In the spring of 1902 this pastoral pattern changed completely with the appointment of Fr. Denis Schweitzer, C.PPS. as pastor. Fr. Denis led the Burkettsville parish through the next thirty-seven years, years of constant progress for the parish. Upon his retirement in 1939 there again followed a period of comparatively short term pastorates: Fr. Francis Krull, C.PP.S. (1939-1945), Fr. Jerome Hoepf, C.PP.S. (1944-1945), Fr. Theodore Koenn, C.PP.S. (1945-1948), Fr. John Zeller, C.PP. (1948-1957). Fr. Erasmus Gengler, C.PP.S. becam pastor in 1957 and promptly offered added impett to the parish's improvement program which contitued for the next sixteen years. The present pasto Fr. Mark Dorenkemper, C.PP.S., coming from S Lawrence, Rhine, Ohio, replaced Fr. Gengler in 197.

In less than six years after the founding of th parish, St. Bernard Parochial School appeared on th Burkettsville scene. A frame building (18' by 20 housed a small flock of scholars under the directio of teacher Magdalena Schindler. In 1893 the fir parish school was replaced by a new and larger or (30' by 50') and in 1907 more space was gained for classes with a thirty-five foot addition. Followir Miss Schindler in the role of teacher in the St. Be nard Parochial School were: J. Omlor, H. Schall Francis Mueller, V. Samberg, Frank Harlett, Joh Dwenger, B. N. Natheis and Ferdinand Mader. Th Sisters of the Precious Blood began to staff th school in 1904. In 1927 the parish school became a elementary public school under County supervision The Precious Blood Sisters, however, remained part of the teaching staff of the public school through the following years up to the close of th

"Church Wardens", "Trustees", "Council Members", are just so many different titles for those paishioners chosen or elected to work with the paste in the decision making process of the parish community. The present members of the St. Bernar Parish Council are: Ex officio Members: Cordul Schmitz, CCD Coordinator, Jim Werling, Finance Leo Huber, Buildings & Grounds; At Large Members: Elmer Klosterman, President, Mary Gelhau Vice President, Lou Donna Van Den Bosch, Lloy Groff, Mary Mestemaker, Deanery Representative Steve Heitkamp, Deanery Representative; Commission Representatives: Mary Liette, Education, Frances Siefring, Laity, Earl Schlater, Missions, Marily Schlater, Worship, Rosella Hierholzer, Ecumenism

Dick Shook, Communications.

Parishioners at St. Bernard, by the Parish Const. tution, are not only members of the parish, but ar also members of one of the three officially estab lished societies of the parish. The following are th officers of these three societies. Ladies' Guild: Jud Stemley, President, Lillian Knapke, Vice Presiden Alvera Schmitz, President Elect, Anna Lee Dahlin ghaus, Secretary, Betty Dull, Treasurer. Men's Soci ety: Norbert Kremer, President, Eugene Hoening Vice President, Victor May, President Elect, Jame Naseman, Secretary, Leonard Hemmelgarn, Trea surer, Jerome Siefring, Marshal, Terry Stammer Marshal, Carl Miller, Marshal, Thomas Stammer Marshal. C.Y.O.: Ann Werling, President, Jacki Siefring, President Elect, Vice President, Wand Schoen, Secretary, Donna Gelhaus, Treasurer, Pan

The story of St. Bernard Parish would be incom plete were nothing said of those parishioners mos responsible for the daily operation of the parish plant by the many tasks they do that are so often taken for granted until not done. The present custo dians of St. Bernard Church are Elmer and Dolore Buehler; preceding them were Henry and Marthi-Hemmelgarn, Sebastian and Catherine Rindler, Wil liam and Clara Bruns.

ST. HENRY

The village of Saint Henry, Ohio, located in the southern part of Mercer County in Granville Township, was being settled in the early 1830's, at the same time much of Southern Mercer County was being settled by the German Immigrants. Many of the early settlers told of working on the Miami Erie Canal in order to earn money to purchase farms. The area consisted of virgin deciduous forest inhabited by wolves, deer and other forest fauna. Times were difficult for these pioneer settlers. They had to build log buildings and hunt wildlife for food until they cleared the land and began raising crops.

The Romer (then spelled Roemer) family was among the early settlers. Mrs. Herman Henry Romer and her children; Henry, Bernard Frank, Herman I, Herman II, Fred, Agnes, Frank, and John Joseph emigrated from Ehlerup, near Damme, in the province of Oldenburg, Germany in 1834. Oldenburg was in the northern part of Germany, near Holland. After arriving in New York, about 1836, the Romers traveled over land and down the Ohio River to meet relatives in Cincinnati. Three of the sons, John Joseph, Bernard Frank, and Henry, traveled to Saint Henry. The rest of the family stayed in Cincinnati. (In 1849, their mother, while traveling via the Miami Erie Canal to Minster to escape the cholera of Cincinnati, died en route. After she was buried in Minster, her sons were told she had had several gold pieces sewn into her clothing.)

The Bruns family arrived at Saint Henry about six months after the arrival of the Romer family. The obituary of Gerhard Bruns stated he was one of the first settlers in this area because he came in the year 1838. The Beckman family arrived in St. Henry in

The Romer brothers made the decision to purchase land from the government and establish a town. On the fourteenth day of October 1836, Franz Romer of Hamilton County, Ohio, entered at the land office at Lima, Ohio the following real estate: All of the East Half of North West quarter of Section (21) twenty-one in Township Number (7) Seven South of Range Number (2) two East containing eighty acres of land. This eighty acres, at one dollar and a quarter per acre, cost Franz (Frank) Romer one hundred dollars. On July 7, 1837, Franz Romer sold this eighty acres to his brother Henry at the handsome price of one hundred and fifty dollars; whereupon Henry Romer laid out the town of Saint Henry, Ohio. The Romer Brothers erected a log home and in the hastily constructed home, seven families spent their first winter. Henry Bruns built the second home in Saint Henry.

John Henry Lange, Jr., born in 1855, spoke of hearing his father tell of the wild condition of the country when he first settled here. On many occasions he had had to drive the deer out of his wheat field. He raised flax and kept sheep for wool, which the women of the household spun and then wove into fabrics with which they made clothing for the family. (This material was sometimes known as "hard times' stuff.") The people were accustomed to going to church in wooden shoes. At first, they went forty miles with their grist to secure flour for bread. No mention was made as to the name or place of this mill; it may have been at Piqua.

Important as a stimulus to the economic develo ment and to the population growth of Saint Hen was the construction of the Miami and Erie Can. Early settlers arrived in Cincinnati and many them took the canal north. Some worked on the c nal to earn money. Others used the canal for tran portation. At first, they could not travel the enti distance by canal because of partial completion the canal. The canal was completed to Dayton I 1829 and the thirty-two miles between Dayton at Piqua were completed in 1837, with the next thirt two miles to Saint Marys completed by 1839. Tl following years, laborers worked on this canal, un by 1845, the canal was completed between Toler and Cincinnati. Numerous settlers followed the c nal north from Cincinnati and embarked from tl canal at Minster and New Bremen. Going west fro Minster, men chose the higher ground for hom steads, rather than the swampy ground. Thus, Sai Henry became settled early. This route betwee Minster and Saint Henry became marked with n merous German Catholic settlements.

Several men claimed the distinction of being the first businessman in Saint Henry. John Josep Romer, arriving in Mercer County in October 183 started a store in 1840. Before completion of the M ami Erie Canal, he transported farm produce to Cir cinnati by wagon and returned with merchandise for his store. For example, he took furs, dried veniso rabbit, quail, and roots and herbs, e.g. snakeroot ar seed turnips. Romer would return with such iten as rice, coffee, crackers, sugar, vinegar, starch, o meal, paints, varnish. Occasionally, he sold all the items on the return trip from Cincinnati before I arrived home; once, he even sold the hat off h head, and had to borrow a cap from Mr. Drahman return to Cincinnati. John Joseph Romer's son, Joh Henry Romer, told how he assisted his father durir boyhood, on the farm and in the store, and late hauled goods between Cincinnati and Saint Henr with a four horse team. The trip required three of four days. Henry Beckman was a pioneer Justice (the Peace as early as 1839. Henry Bruns, Josep Drahman, and Henry Steinlage were also early bus nessmen in the 1840's and 1850's. Henry Steinlag born in Hanover, Germany July 27, 1830, emigrate to America with his family in 1846, being on th ocean nine weeks and two days before landing i Baltimore. He learned the trade of tanner in Colum bus, Ohio, and moved to Saint Henry in 1851 an opened the first tannery in St. Henry. He had only the sixty-three dollars which he had earned. At firs his tanning was accomplished in a few whiskey ba rels which he bought, and later he put up a large va increasing the capacity of his tanyard as necessit required. He built his home in 1855; added a stor room in 1884 and began operating his tannery i 1887. He tanned a large amount of leather according to the old traditional method. He received from Ch cago ox-skins weighing 75 to 100 pounds eacl which he processed into leather for heavy horse has

Michael Schlegel was born in New York in 185 and came to Saint Henry in 1866 and went to wor for George Guenther. Schlegel went into busines for himself in 1878. He not only manufactured fur niture, but also had an undertaking business, a jo printing press, sold a line of paints and varnishe d in 1891 established a quarterly journal newspar, called the Economist, which he was still publing as late as 1908. Schlegel did printing for busissmen and the church, both in German and Iglish. He also constructed a great deal of church rniture, until his death in 1920.

John Panning (1859-1930) was in the hardware d roofing business for fifty years, 1877-1927. He is the church organist from 1870 until 1903; he so taught school.

Joseph B. Drahman began operating his harness op prior to 1882; Bernard Lammers purchased the op in June 1895.

The Bruns family was one of the original settlers Saint Henry. An ink drawing in the 1882 History Van Wert and Mercer County Book illustrated e Paint Shop, the Feed Stable and the Bruns House they appeared. Henry Bruns' blacksmith and igon making business grew until he added a steam achine and employed five workers in his shop in 98. In 1881, Frank Bruns took over the hotel ben in 1870 by his father. Frank Bruns began builded a new hotel early in 1902, for twenty guest oms at two dollars a day. Frank Bruns also built a w livery stable in 1904. This entire complex of illdings burned in the fire of 1905.

By 1884, Saint Henry had become an established mmunity. What makes this year important is not mething special that occurred in Saint Henry it-If, but that someone or several people were interted enough to report what was going on in the mmunity to the newly established weekly newsper, Der Mercer County Bote, which had begun iblication in Celina the year before under the me of Deutsches Kleeblatt. There is slight suspion that the weekly reports were at times more wsy than factual, more opinionated than objece. Thus, a study was made of the social, business, d political activities of the village in the year 1884. The year of 1884 was preceded by a gala celebran in December 1883. The second Wednesday of ecember about six o'clock in the evening, the railad workers, about seventy in number, were a good stance to the south of town. Townspeople promed them a treat if they completed the laying of the ils to Saint Henry yet that day. The workers lared with lanterns under the moonlight on the ncinnati and Jackson, Michigan railroad until they ached the village about nine o'clock that evening. ie news spread quickly and the inhabitants gathed under the sounds of the Germania Music Band. grand banquet was served the workers.

February 3, 1884, the Germania Band put on a small festivity in order to gain money to pay for their new band wagon. The band also played in May at the thirty-ninth birthday party of the Justice of the Peace, John G. Beckman.

Another gala day was celebrated in June when over two hundred people gathered in Saint Henry to see the parade which was arranged by Jacob Bany, agent of the Champion Reaper Co. During the season, Mr. Bany had sold twenty-three machines which were delivered that Saturday. After the machines were taken from the train and loaded onto the wagons, Mr, Bany treated his customers to a free dinner at the American House which he later purchased from I.F. Romer in 1885. A man by the name of Otis from Montezuma recalled having attended one of these dinners and having a dish which was new to him - rice with red sugar. A parade followed, with grand speeches given in German, concluding with a couple of barrels of genuine Gerstensaft, 'barley juice.' There was truly something to celebrate for during this decade, Jacob Bany sold between thirty and sixty machines - self-binders, mowers, and reapers — each season.

The fourth of July was celebrated in a true German way. Parishioners found great pleasure in socializing. The well-attended picnic was accompanied by the music of the band. Two fiddlers played for the dance. The Germania Music Band also took part in the Jubilee festivities in Fort Recovery, Ohio.

Whenever the newspaper correspondent announced a child's birth, he utilized the story story; for example, "The stork flew over the house roof of Joseph Mackey and Joseph Mackey became the father of a twelve pound girl. The mother was not mentioned.

The October game of 1884 between the St. Henry and Burkettsville baseball clubs ended with a victory for the latter. The Burkettsville team had good players brought in from Greenville. When the game was over, there were four people with scars; one lost his eye; another had his nose broken. The newspaper correspondent suggested, "This kind of ball, especially during church services, should be brought to an end!"

Religious celebrations were an integral part of the life of the people. Corpus Christi Day and the Feast of the Precious Blood were observed with a procession around the church property stopping at the chapels built the previous decade by Anton Mueller. The Priest then gave a blessing. The throng of people, proceeding on the first Sunday to the first and third chapels, sang, Grosser Gott, Wir Loben Dich, (Holy God, We Praise Thy Name). Altar Boys carried the Blessed Sacrament with a canopy above it, and others carried banners. The second Sunday, the procession was to the second and fourth chapels. The chapels were used until they were sold in 1914. On July 15, St. Henry's Day was celebrated. In August, the feast of St. Cyriacus, patron Saint of the sick, was marked with impressive services. This day was important because of the epidemics of cholera and diptheria and other illnesses which were serious due to the helplessness of medicine.

Businessmen were very active in the year 1884. Frank Bruns opened a livery stable, enlarged his saloon to make space for a pool table, and placed a lantern in front of his business that year. The men employed in building the Cincinnati Northern railroad stopped at Bruns' Tavern; Bruns housed and fed daily forty to fifty men. It took two hours to serve one meal; they ate in three shifts of about fifteen each. Next to Bruns' Hotel was the carriage and wagon manufactory of blacksmith Henry Bruns. (The Bruns' buildings stood at the site of the Hogankamp Funeral Home today, 1978.) John G. Beckman, son of Henry, was justice of the peace, appointed postmaster since 1871, township clerk, and a dealer in medicine, books, and notions. Caspar Schoeneberger worked as a blacksmith in the old building on lot 30.

The Moeder brothers operated their sawmill and dealt in lumber at the site of Rutschillings, on lot 18 in Altenhofel's Addition. Anton Mueller made furniture and built homes. Joseph B. Drahman had a harness manufactory on lot 61. Frank Bernard Romer built a twelve room brick home. John Henry Romer had a general mercantile store which he had operated since 1867 at the site of J.J. Romer's Store. John Panning was a dealer in stoves, tinware, roofing, and spouting. J.B. Kipp put his saloon on wheels in 1884 and moved it to the lot next to the railroad station; the newspaper correspondent's description, declared, "Kipp drove close to the train doors and extended to the passengers whatever the human heart desired. Michael Schlegel manufactured furniture and was in the undertaking business, on lot 34. In 1884 Albert Gulde arrived in St. Henry and embarked in the General Merchandise Business. Henry Steinlage operated a tannery; in 1884 he erected a storeroom, on lot 43. Ignatz Siegrist had a harness shop. There was a flour mill built at the site of Schockman Lumber Yard.

Every winter the newspaper pages were filled with people having the grippe. Prior to 1877, Dr. William Jones had been the local physician and surgeon. Dr. Adam Edelman, suggested home cures. There was a Dr. Ryan. Doctor J.J. Mory built a new office in 1902.

The year 1884 saw the Democrats in firm control in St. Henry during the national elections. In the first week of September, the Cleveland and Hendricks Club of St. Henry held a meeting "for political freedom and against bigotry and knownothingness." The newspaper correspondent told how the club met and subjected Blaine's life to sharp criticism and proved from his deeds that he was a corruptionist. On election day, "many hard words were said; the Republicans were insulting." That day citizens of Cranberry Prairie came to St. Henry on a wagon pulled by six horses in order for to the citizens to vote; forty-two voters were on the wagon — all for Cleveland and Hendricks! The election passed with 354 Democratic votes to 46 Republican votes in Granville Township. Jacob Bany had a rooster put on a pole so that it would announce the victory for Cleveland and Hendricks. A victory celebration wheld. A manikin which represented Mr. Blaine was put on a pole near the train station to greet the train Celina. A parade was held; short speeches was given. Thereupon, the effigy of Blaine, after the nasic band had played several funeral songs for it, was blasted apart by explosives for the enjoyment of Democrats and to the sorrows of the Republicans.

Politics was often a topic of conversation; whet at party rallies, at places of business or at so events. A Democratic assembly took place at Henry in October 1889. Speeches were given on issues of the times; especially that of the tariff qu tion. The May 21, 1891 Bote mentioned that Champion Reapers were selling well despite hard times. It was the era of McKinley's campa for Ohio's governship. McKinley was well-knoafter the passage of his tariff law in 1890, but v defeated for re-election to Congress by a Democra gerrymander. Although McKinley was elected Gi ernor of Ohio in November 1891, he lost the electi in Granville Township. The Republican McKin received 65 votes and the Democrat James Campt received 316 votes. Democrats seemed to dominthe Grenville Township elections; even in 18 Cleveland received 354 Democratic votes to the Republican votes of his opponent, Blaine. At a other Democratic rally in November 1893, N Schlosser gave his speech in low German which ga merriment to the crowd.

On August 1, 1885, the St. Henry Band attend the annual picnic of the Negroes at Carthage which celebrated the freedom of their brothers. T Negroes and Whites amused themselves together the dance floor and ate from a common table. O Negro commented, "If the Democrats in the Sou were as good-natured as the Democrats in Merc County, then things would go far better."

In the 1880's Jacob Bany was a dealer in agricu tural implements, engines, threshers, Champie Binders, Reapers and Mowers, wind pumps, gradrills, cultivators, plows and harrows. Jacob Bany i vented the Bany Washing Machine and beg producing them in the early 1890's. He accept bids for 250 washing machines from Springfield at Cincinnati in October 1894. The following sprin Bany put an addition of sixty feet to his buildir besides sending a carload of washing machines Cincinnati and another to Fort Wayne, Indiana, v the railroad. Bany put a new patent on his washin machine, called the "ladies' friend," that sprir Bany and sons improved their business by addisteam power the spring of 1897. More additio were added to the factory in 1899 and 1900; the even had their own electric plant. Washing m chines were bound for Minnesota, Dakota, Col lo, California, and Texas in the spring of 1901. y 1902, Jacob Bany received a patent on his adtable awning, his adjustable parasol and his "Oh-Easy Lawn Swing." Mayor Bany died September 33; his son, Jacob, Jr., continued the business untiley moved it to Delphos late in 1907. A year later ny resigned his position with the washing maine company at Delphos and returned to St. nry. One of the old Bany Washing Machines is display at the Mercer County Historical Mu-

Parishioners proudly viewed plans of the new urch in June 1893. In the summer of 1894, John : Curtins was awarded the contract for building : new church. John DeCurtins' father, Anthony :Curtins, had built the earlier brick church in 54. The Architect was Mr. A. Druiding, of Chi30, Illinois. The cornerstone was laid June 1895. A ge celebration was held in the village. Profound remonies were held at the new church grounds. en greater celebrations were held when the urch was dedicated in July 1897.

I.J. Schlosser was in the butcher shop for thirtyne years, c. 1889-1928. A frame building preceded s brick building for his butcher shop. In 1897, hlosser had a glass front built on his butcher shop. 1903, he not only renovated his butcher shop, but o built a new ice house. He continued in the shop til 1928. August Luttmer, the shoemaker, fol-

Henry Feldhake improved his saloon with a new box in 1899; six months later thieves broke into saloon and stole ten dollars worth of whiskey, pacco, and cigarettes. By December of that year, ldhake opened a new saloon. Among those esent were Mr. Louis Huedepohl and Mr. Pruelge of Cincinnati, who were managers of the Bucker Brewery there. Henry Kevelder followed Feldke, c. 1907; Bob Sutter followed, c. 1927; John ondrell had the business next. Carl Knapke had business from 1950 to 1955; then the Rinderle others to 1957, then Donald Frilling had the Frilley's Restaurant until it burned down in 1963.

In 1890, Clemmens Meinerding built the liveryrn which stood south of Kite and Katy's Restaunt. His son, H.C. Meinerding drove the liveryigon and took salemen "drummers" around to the ms and returned in the evening. Andrew Buschor

e twenties.

William Romer had a hardware store in an old log ilding which stood at 255 East Main. He was agent the Osborne Mowing Machines in 1895, and in 96, was selling buggies and building material. By 00 Romer had a complete selection of farm impleents, binders, and threshers. The building was a rdware store in the following years. The business used in 1971; today the building is the eastern half the St. Henry Bank.

In 1896, Mrs. Christina Weingartner advertised r trade as a leather shoemaker and saddler; she ntinued her tannery as late as 1909.

The flour mill stood slightly behind the office of hockman Lumber Company. The mill was erected in 1885; by August, they had cemented in the steam boiler. That autumn they were prepared to produce flour. Kreusch, Hoying and Company purchased the mill and sold it the following winter to J.F. Romer. George Hirsch of Rossville purchased this mill in 1893. Bernard Plummer of Coldwater took over the mill in 1904. The mill made "White Oueen" and "Log Cabin" patent wheat flour and whole wheat flour and did general custom grinding. The mill was totally destroyed by fire in 1908. The machinery, grain, and several hundred pounds of flour were a total loss. The city scales, owned by a company of St. Henry citizens, and located east of the mill were also burned together with the building in which they were located. The Cincinnati Northern stock yards were also damaged.

Dr. J.A. Schirack moved from Cassella to St. Henry about 1896. He built a new office on West Main Street in 1902. He served the villagers' medical needs for several years. Dr. Schirack was also a partner of Sebastian Ranly in the Storm Buggy Plant, c.

On the northwest corner of Main and Linn Streets, Henry Goettemoeller conducted a sa'n, a general store, and a millinery store which burned down in 1898.

The Bimel Wheel and Spoke Factory, later known as the Bimel Handle Factory, began operations in 1899. The Bimel Company purchased the Moeder Brothers Sawmill in January 1903. J.H. Hartings was the manager of the Bimel Company, c. 1907, and in 1910, Hartings purchased the sawmill. Hartings had the mill until his sons, Aloys and Urban, took over the mill operations in 1925. The following article was included in the newspaper review of the 1937 St. Henry Centennial: "Most of the dimension stock cut at this mill is trucked to St. Marys Wheel and Spoke Co., St. Marys, Ohio. At present time they are cutting out an order of stock for this particular firm for Ox Cart billets, which are to be used in the rice swamps and canebrakes of Louisiana and Mississippi. They also transport to several industries in Sidney and Piqua where there is a ready market for this type of material. All types of native hardwood timbers are cut and sold. Thousands of feet of lumber are also cut each year for general building purposes throughout this community and for many miles around." Hartings continued the mill until selling it to Lawrence Rutschilling late in 1952.

The number of St. Henry businesses had increased considerably the last two decades of the century. The population had increased from 200 in 1880 to 682 in 1890. Not only did the railroad play a part in this expansion of St. Henry, but the attitude of the people also played a role. The Mercer County Bote commented about the new houses being built and that the people could not complain about a lack of business. A July 1897 Bote told about everything being built up; the McKinley prosperity was slowly coming in. In spite of the acknowledged prosperity of the Republican administration, a Democratic William Jennings Bryan Club (versus McKinley) had been organized in 1896 at St. Henry. Amid this prosperity, people were complaining about the "lousy streets and sidewalks" and that the town's incorporation would be the best remedy to receive modern streets. As early as 1893, a petition had been circulated for incorporation of the town. The telephone was also a topic of conversation as it was completed to St. Henry by November 1898; the line was extended to Burkettsville the following spring. Besides the topics of McKinley, the telephone, and incorporation, the war was the general subject of conversation in 1898; the newspaper stated, "There is no lack of patriotism and there are many who would want to fight for the rights of their country and to do something worthwhile for their country in the form of soldiering." Politics were again taking a strong hold on St. Henry citizens. They went to Celina to hear William Jennings Bryan speak in October 1899. Bryan was again nominated for the presidency and was again defeated, by McKinley.

The tramps apparently presented a very real problem to the townspeople. The September 10, 1885 Bote entered a long bitter article about tramps in the area here. The tramps were so bold as to threaten physical harm, even the burning of buildings, if the farmers did not feed them properly. A murder in July, 1887 was attributed to one of these tramps. Still, a building stood on the west side of town, known as the tramp house, and was used for shelter by these people of the road. Apparently, not all tramps were considered a negative influence within the village. In the early 1900's this tramp house was Numerous varieties of recreation were available to the villagers during the 1890's. The citizens met at the town hall in September 1891 to make plans to take part in the German Day at Celina. At this holiday 10,000 persons attended the German Day Celebration. The Barlow Brothers Circus gave presentation and was well attended in 1899. An innovation came to St. Henry in the form of 5000 pictures which were to be shown to the public at lightning speed; many were disappointed because it took only twenty minutes to see the entire 5000 pictures! Moving pictures was a new form of entertainment. Euchre and Pedro parties were being held. The gun club held stationary and trap shoots in the 1890's and early 1900's; an 1893 contest offered $28.25 and a steer worth $16.00 as prizes. Sleighing was good winter fun besides being good transportation; the town streets were filled with sleds on Saturdays when people came to town to do their trading.

By 1890, underground natural gas wells were dug. Many of the people began digging gas wells and using gas in their homes. By Christmas 1890, the church was also using gas. The Natural Gas Co. was incorporated in 1892 in order to furnish gas for the village, including the school. The Citizens Gas Co. was formed and by 1894 was free of debt and paying dividends of eleven percent. As the old village gas well began failing, a new derrick was built and the well dug in 1898. Accidents occurred with this new fuel. People went down into their basements and lit matches in order to see and caused explosions. The regulator on the gas well was not working correctly;

the summer kitchen of Ben Romer went up flames. Innovations were needed and acquired. Co sumers were asking for gas meters for justice prices for individual consumers. Others complain about having two gas companies and still n enough gas to keep a warm house. Their solution was to return to the old way; heating with wood!

The Mercantile Agency Reference Book, Volur 123, New York, 1899, page 80 listed the various bu nesses in St. Henry. The chart gave insight into t kind of business life which was active in this rul community at the turn of the century. The but nesses were: Jacob Bany and Sons, manufacturers washing machines; Frank Bruns, hotel, saloon as livery; Henry Bruns, blacksmith and manufactur of wagons; Joseph Bruns, general store; Augu Buckholtz, merchant and tailor; Henry Feldhake, S loon; Joseph Gardner, hotel; Fred H. Goettemoelle undertaker; Albert Gulde, dry goods; George Guenther, furniture; George Heiser, wagonmake J.B. Hoyng, flour; Kuntz and Herr Co.; Anthor Lammers, shoemaker; B.J. Lammers, harness; J. Langenkamp, saloon and restaurant; Mader Brot ers, sawmill; H.C. Meinerding, livery; J.J. Moi drugs; John Panning, stoves, tinware; Bernard Re ing, shoemaker; Henry Romer, drugs and stationer J.H. Romer, general store; Jos. J. Romer, groceri and millinery; Wm. H. Romer, hardware; M. Schlegel, furniture, undertaker and publisher; Jos. Schlosser, meat; Joseph Schoeneberger, blacksmit J. A. Schirack, drugs; Ignatz Siegrist, harness; H. St inlage, leather and tanner; Mrs. Theo. Weingartne tanner and leather.

The election for incorporation of St. Henry Villa was held August 17, 1901 with 71 votes cast; 54 vot for and 17 against incorporation. The proceedings incorporation were presented for record August 2 and were recorded September 9, 1901 at the Merc County Court House. The following week, Preside William McKinley was assassinated at Buffalo, Ne York, where he had gone to deliver an address at the Pan — American Exposition. The bells of St. He ry's Church were tolled at the news; mourning praers were offered and business houses and priva homes were decorated with flags at half-mast which a mourning crepe had been attached.

Nominations for village officers were made in O tober and the following gentlemen were elected office in November: Mayor, Jacob Bany, Sr.; Ma shal, Joseph Schoeneberger; Treasurer, Edward Romer; Clerk, H.A. Beckman; Council, J.H. Rome A. Gulde, Caspar Schoeneberger, Joseph Moeller, J seph Davis and J.A. Schirack. These elections we held in the old township hall which had been bu in 1887. The council accepted their responsibiliti and held their first meeting November 21, 1901. Tl council discussed bonds and ordinances and by Jauary 20, 1902, a total of 38 ordinances had bee adopted. They also appointed a board of health; 5 Henry had been plagued by diphtheria epidemics the extent the school was often closed for weeks at time. Also, during the first years of the new formed town council, the jail cells were ordere from Detroit. They were installed in the town ha by March 1902. At the November 28, 1903 Villas Council meeting, a motion was made that H., Beckman see to get a stove and a cord of firewoo for the calaboose.

At the October 27, 1902 Village Council meeting, Mr. E. Buck from Portland, Indiana was present d wanted to sell a one hundred gallon Babcock e Extinguisher (chemical) for six hundred dollars. action was taken by the Council. In September 03, the drain tile factory was almost destroyed by e; the larger part of the plant was saved. Later, ouncil allotted fifty dollars for a fire protection nd in January 1904. The calm village remained lm until July 1905. FIRE! The following account is written about one of the largest fires in the hisry of St. Henry Village in the Bote, August 3, 1905: he little village of Saint Henry was subject to a nflagration on Monday around one o'clock in the orning and only by the combined work of the citins and the people who live in the neighboring area as the damage limited to a small space. It is also rtly circumstance that the fire was immediately scovered and the neighborhood had been well uipped with cisterns and deep wells. The alertness the citizens themselves is the reason the town es not now stand totally in ashes. The fire had its igin under the roof in the hay mow in Bruns' Livy Stable. A customer who had just returned from a p noticed the smoke when he wanted to enter the very stable and when he looked up he saw that it as burning under the roof. He immediately awakied Oscar and Robert Bruns who were sleeping in e bed in the stable. They gave the alarm. Pretty on the bell in the town hall and the church bell as ringing. And this brought the citizens to the e. The horses, the carriages and the horse harness ere saved, but the fire raged so terribly and the eat became so great that other buildings caught fire id the men fighting the fire had to give their attenon to saving the other buildings. The fire was not ought under control until the hotel, nearby buildgs, and the carriage and Smith's workshops had en destroyed. The livery stable and another stable anding next to it contained forty tons of hay, seeral hundred bushels of wheat, oats, corn and seeral wagonloads of unthreshed oats and wheat. The sidence of Elizabeth Miller was saved after it had en considerably damaged. Also the furniture store M.A. Schlegel over the street, the hardware store the Gels Brothers, and the residence of William Roemer were saved in time. A large part of the buse and hotel furniture of Mr. Bruns was saved ut his damage will run at least ten thousand dolrs, and his loss therefore will be at least seven iousand dollars."

The citizens and the town council gathered on uesday evening in a communal session and deded to organize a Fire Department and to purchase ach apparatus to provide the necessary fire protection. At the July 31 special meeting, council made notion for purpose of issuing bonds in the amount $6000 for City Hall and fire protection. By Sepember, council had bought a chemical fire appara-

St. Henry Depot — After the February 15, 1906 fire, a new railroad station was built. Mr. Ben Spoltman was the ticket agent; Mr. Henry Meinerding was an assistant and baggage man; Mr. John M. Tohle was the drayman. The new railroad station is shown.

The Volunteer Fire Department was organized. That November, John Losekamp, contractor for building the town building, completed his task. The fire fighting machine had been purchased that fall; none too soon. Fire destroyed the Cincinnati Northern Railway Station early one Sunday morning in February 1906. Fire destroyed the flouring mill two years later. The following description of the mill fire was given in the July 18, 1908 St. Henry Advocate: "Had the flouring Mill fire communicated to the Tumbusch property on the north from the mill, there is no doubt that most of the west end of town together with the big lumber yard would have gone up in smoke, as St. Henry's facilities for fire fighting are poor and her supply of water is limited. This is the second time within the past few years that the village has narrowly escaped being wiped out and it is time some action was being taken to provide better means for fighting fires. We have an efficient fire company but they are powerless to fight flames without proper equipment. It would give us better protection and lower insurance rates.'

Citizens rallied to the cause, or rather to the need. The September newspaper gave notice for an election to be held on the third of November for the purpose of putting in water works at St. Henry. The returns were favorable and the bonds were sold. By September 1909, the water works were nearing completion. The mains were laid; the pump was in position; the engine house was about finished; the tower, and tank had been erected. The tanks and mains were filled with water and tested. The supply of water and pressure was more than anticipated. October 12 the water works were opened and the firemen celebrated with exhibitions of throwing water. The first water tower was built in 1909.

The Water Works was not the only improvement in the village! The Gem City Acetylene Generator agent from Celina exhibited this type light to St. Henry citizens in 1907. The gas can could also be used for cooking and heating purposes and was in-expensive to operate. Barney Bertke bought an acetylene plant for his hotel, the building west of Kite & Katy's, which was torn down. Of course, the village streets were still being illuminated by gas lights. A. Barther was being paid a nickle per light for lighting the gas light and another nickle per light for extinguishing each gas light in 1907. Eight years later the Village Council passed a motion to pay $4000 to Jaspensen Supply Company for completion of an electric light plant. Jaspensen Supply Company was awarded a franchise in 1923 to furnish St. Henry Village electrical energy for twenty years. Citizens in 1971 recalled the first generators at the site of the 1971 fire department building. The citizens received two hours of electricity a day. Gasoline engines ran the generators from 6:00 P.M. to 8:00 P.M. daily. The church also began using electricity. The church wardens met with Rev. Kunkler in November 1917 and signed a contract with the Beerman Electric Co. of Covington, Kentucky to wire the church building for electricity and to furnish chandeliers, etc., everything complete for $1,625.00.

Progress at St. Henry! During this first decade of the incorporated village's history, much effort was spent constructing sidewalks and curbing, allowing for proper drainage, repairing and cleaning streets, repairing street lamps, giving adequate care to ditches, and watering the streets with the sprinkler to control dust. Houses were being built. The St. Henry Advocate advertised fifty businesses. People were buying automobiles and selling them. Dr. Glew, the dentist, traded his auto to Mr. Donovan at Celina for a horse and buggy, and Fred Romer sold his auto to Dr. Miller at Ft. Recovery, in 1908. Dr. Schirack owned an auto even though he was part owner in the buggy manufacturing plant. Remarks were made in the newspaper comparing the cost of keeping horses and automobiles and that once a person got outside the corporation with a horse and buggy, it was very seldom that anyone had to haul the driver home! However, the automobile did remain on the scene. The January 22, 1912 Village Council members put a speed limit on automobiles and autocycles, etc., a limit of eight miles per hour.

The first decade of the century included the following highlights. Forty-nine local farmers faced legal action involving their land. Prohibition, politics and local news filled their newspapers. Their routine work of caring for their land and livestock consumed the majority of their time. Also, during this decade, the parish built a grotto, and bought new al-

Between 1902 and 1912, several Negroes brought suit against area landowners; claiming that they, the Negroes, owned the land. Their claim was based upon a purported will of John Randolph (1773-1833) an American Lawyer and statesman, who by the provisions of his will, set apart $8000 to transport his newly emancipated slaves and to buy lands for their settlement. Randolph died in 1833 at Roanoke, Virginia, but his will was never recorded in that county. William Leigh undertook the task of carrying out the provisions of the will. William Leigh bought land in 1846 in Mercer County, Ohio. However, there is no evidence that Randolph's money was invested in Mercer County lands. Randolph's slaves set out for Mercer County in 1846. Upon reaching Cincinnati, they then took the canal to New Bremen; where they were met by groups of hostile citizens. They returned on the canal to Piqua and camped there until taking to future places of residence. It was then Leigh's duty to change his plan, dispose of the lands in the hostile neighborhood and settle the Negroes in a friendly one. Then Leigh authorized Joseph Plunkett to sell the Mercer County lands, which he did sell between 1848 and 1852. It must be remembered that these lands did not belong to John Randolph, and were no part of his estate. The Negroes did nothing to determine if Leigh had the right to purchase or sell this land. They discussed this land in Mercer County among themselves over the years, but did nothing to try to gain this land. Finally, succeeding generations, descendants of these Negroes, decided to take the case to court. On January 12, 1904, a purported copy of Randolph's will was recorded in Mercer County, Ohio. The Negro had decided to reclaim the land which had be bought and sold by William Leigh. August 15, 190 forty-nine people around St. Henry gathered to fig the Randolph Land Suit and protect each of the own properties. Each party involved was assess twenty-five dollars which was paid to the committ to defray the legal expenses. The amount collect totaled $1225.00. The Negroes tried to prove frai on the part of Leigh or the persons who had pu chased the land. Thus, instead of bringing si against all the landowners, the suit was broug against one man, Gerhard Kessens. Forty-nine pa ties gathered to fight the case, jointly, as a who Between 1902 and 1912, studies were made and d fendants and plaintiffs were heard by the court. The decision was made that "how, when, and where the executor was to settle the slaves, were entire within the discretion of the executor," i.e. he pra ticed no fraud. The judge concluded that each own of the land believed the land to be his and that f thirty-six years prior to the beginning of the actio Gerhard Kessens had taken possession of this lar and paid for it and by unremitting toil and indust had changed this land from a wilderness to rerti and productive fields. Even if Kessens had made search concerning Leigh, he would have found not ing illegal. Thus, it was ordered that the claims ar demands of plaintiffs be declared null and voi Kessens was given full right to his land, as were the other landowners who were also fighting this case.

Prohibition became a major topic in the 1908 ele tions; newspapers were filled with pros and con The newspapers claimed sixteen counties had got dry under the Rose law and 287 saloons were pr out of business. Mercer Countians were warned the amount of money to be lost if the revenue from liquor sales was lost; for example, the collections for the year from St. Henry amounted to $2500.99; th distributed Mercer County funds amounted $1075.01 to St. Henry. An advertisement called for sale of whiskey sandwiches, a method of evadir the law. The elections influenced the Democrats i Granville Township to review the William Jenning Bryan Club; they went to Dayton to hear him spea in September. Elections passed. Bryan and Ker were "beated to a frazzle" by William H. Taft. Bu 'twas a wet victory for the county on the prohibitio question; wets carried Mercer County by 243 majo

Local newspapers covered other news events. At parently, an explosion, high wind, or earthquak took place in 1903; the newspaper stated entil houses were shaken to their foundations and a things were thrown into the streets; it looked like small cyclone had hit St. Henry. Several citizer took the excursion train to the Celina Chautaugu in 1907. Citizens visited the Fort Recovery Harves Jubilee. Citizens went to Piqua, Ohio to watch th Buffalo Bill Show. The May 13, 1910 St. Henry Ac vocate contained an unusual article: "At three in th morning Thursday, the south side slumberers wer aronsed by the click of the alarm clock to see Ha ley's Comet. Our young hustling merchant at th East End injured his right toe while descending i the elevator. Such pandemonium took place o Main St. that it required the best efforts of our loca police and militia to keep some of the panic stricke zers from committing acts of violence. Gradually, the comet disappeared, all subsided." Fox and Agriculture was the major business of the St. enry parishioners. Wheat, oats, and corn were pular crops. Winter activities consisted of butching and making sausage and cutting trees and takes tree trunks to the sawmills via sleighs. In the ring, livestock were shipped to the larger markets; ten loads of cattle and three carloads of pigs are shipped out on the Mackinaw Railroad in arch 1899. Farmers were buying threshing maines, self-binders, self-band cutters and straw owers before 1900. Horses were used a great deal the farm: therefore, horse sales were frequent.

the farm; therefore, horse sales were frequent. r example, twenty-nine horses were sold at one e in September 1900. A year later, a notice was ren on a public auction of three wagonloads of stern horses. Farm prices in July 1897 were wheat, ty-eight cents per bushel; oats, seventeen cents r bushel; corn, twenty-one cents per bushel and twenty-five cents per bushel. The local hard-re stores served the farmers' needs. The St. Henry rdware Co. advertised shelf and heavy hardware, ints, oils, glass, roofing, farm implements, the ker windmill, pumps, piping and fittings, wire ucing, rock and barrel salt.

St. Henry parish members built a Grotto to the uth of the church, at the site of the present Elerntary School Building. The day was spent in celeation, at its completion, in 1907.

In the early spring of 1908, a company was formed the manufacture of gloves and mittens. Land was rchased from Henry Wimmers, and workmen ben on the foundation. The first building was enty feet by forty feet and was two stories high. It is upper room was used for the machinery and the ver room for the office, cutting and packing dertment. The company was incorporated with Present Dr. J.A. Schirack, Vice President J.J. Moeller, easurer F.H. Gels, and Secretary Manager H.M. inkeljohan. Later, Ben Reiling managed the busiss. Reiling would do the cutting on the main floor. You a dozen girls upstairs did the sewing. A could days a week Ben would go out and sell gloves to a stores. This business lasted about five years.

The autumn of 1910, Sebastian Ranly and Dr. J.A. hirack leased the old Bany Factory and began to the storm buggies. Previously Ranly had a blacksmith shop at the site of Wm. Uhlenhake's shop, and did blacksmithing, horseshoeing, and repairing, and manufactured farm wagons. Ranly was previously in the coal business with Gels, which they sold to the Pioneer Canning and Manufacturing Co. in 1907. Ranly disposed of his blacksmith shop to Gerhard Leugers in September 1910. Then Ranly devoted his attention to the Storm Buggy on which he and Dr. Schirack had received a patent. By October they had the buggy on the market. The buggy insured protection from rain, snow, and mud and was an overall wind-splitter, by being much narrower in front than the rear. They did a constantly increasing business; by 1910, the newspaper stated they were doing a rushing business and were constantly adding to their force. They had fifteen people working there and were unable to keep up with their orders. However, the automobile was coming of age and progress gradually left the buggy to become obsolete. Even Dr. Schirack owned an auto as early as 1907 because the newspaper commented how he met the Bishop in his auto when the Grotto was dedicated.

Mrs. Jacob Bany built the Bany Building in 1910. On the south side of the building, there were three places of business. Wallpaper was sold on the west side; pianos were sold in the center; an ice cream parlor was managed on the east side. Harry Romer had a dry goods business in this building in the 1920's, until he moved to Buschor's Department building about 1929. Other businesses, e.g. a grocery store, were also housed in this building. Dances and programs were held on the second floor of the building. Charles "Tubbie" Schrage had the station from 1937 until 1957; Oscar Borgerding and Alvin "Squeak" Uhlenhake were his employees; Schrage sold out to Nip Wehrkamp in 1957; Ron Moeller bought the station in April 1970. The Mobile Oil Company office is in the south side of the building at 331 West Main.

Kremer Hoyng Road.

William Uhlenhake started his blacksmith shop on July 10, 1911 at 241 West Main Street. When he was twenty, he started in the blacksmith business with Ben Wimmers. A little later he worked for Sebastian Ranly and then the Hinkle Brothers until 1911. In 1970, Uhlenhake recalled that he had shod thousands of horses; one cold winter he put 82 shoes on horses in one day, and that he had not shod a horse after 1951. In the sixties and seventies, he made artistic railing and porch rails, besides other iron work.

April 28, 1914, a train wreck at one and a half miles north of St. Henry drew crowds and photographers. Twenty-one railroad cars were strewn across the tracks, their contents dumped wherever the shattered cars lay.

Young men from St. Henry Parish served their country during the war. Many citizens ceased speaking German; the school suspended German classes and discarded German texts, because of the war with Germany. Finally, terms of the armistice were accepted November 11, 1918 and the Peace Treaty was signed at Versailles, France June 28, 1919. (The older generation spoke German among themselves and in their homes, but refrained from encouraging the children to continue speaking German at school.)

The decade of the twenties found the parish growing. Two hundred families were listed with a total of nine hundred and ninety souls in 1920. Thirty-eight baptisms, thirteen marriages and eighteen deaths were recorded that year. Rev. Pious Kanney replaced Rev. Kunkler in 1925. Rev. Kanney visited the parishioners in 1925 and spoke about buying an organ and reported everybody in favor of the same. Thus, in 1926, St. Henry Church bought a new organ from the Votteler-Holtkamp Sparling Co. The church's annual financial statement of 1926 listed the cost of the organ at $13,243.52

(Gebele had earlier operated a saloon in this building; he sold out to Frank Sunderhaus in 1904.)

A poultry house was built on Railroad Street by The E. L. McKinley Co. of Piqua in 1927. Frank Morsey and Sons acquired it early in 1930. The building was a collection point for poultry and eggs. For a few seasons, eggs were graded there and shipped from there in carloads. A few cars of live poultry were also taken care of. Later the grading of eggs was discontinued and the building was sold to the Schockman Lumber Company about 1949.

A highlight of the 1930's was the Village Centennial Celebration in 1937. The centennial of the recording of the plat of St. Henry in 1837 was celebrated. The Dayton Daily News, June 27, 1937, entered a large article about St. Henry's past and present activities; plus articles about the busines men and various businesses and the baseball clu which had played games with the Cincinnati Tige Dayton Shroyers, Dayton Marcos, Cincinnati Wh Sox, House of David of Benton Harbor, Michig and the Black Barons of Birmingham, Alabama. Between 1949 and 1963, Wally played the major leagues, with the Cincinnati Reds, Philadelphia Phillies, Minnesota Twins, and Celveland Indians. The Saturday Evening Post, June 30, 1956 carried a highly complimentary article, "Cincinnati's Wally Post," by Harry Paxton. Paxton stated that Wally Post became a star by the simple technique of lambasting the daylights out of the ball. Wally played in the 1961 World Series with the Cincinnati Reds against the New York Yankees. After that, St. Henry had a big welcome home party at the Nite Club for Wally. The October 12, 1961 Mercer County Chronicle carried the following article: "A proud St. Henry village turned out in force to welcome home Wally Post of the Cincinnati Redlegs. Post led the Reds in hitting during the recent World Series with a .333 mark and led both teams with a slugging percentage of .556.

Highlights of the 1960's in St. Henry included the St. Patrick's Day Parade, an early snowstorm, and the village's installation of the sewage treatment plant.

The first St. Patrick's Day Parade in March 1964 began with a dare; three Irishmen in town said they would rch down the street on St. Patrick's Day. Each year the size of the parade increased and the size of the crowd increased. The 1970 parade, despite the snow, had 65 entries in the parade with an estimated 4000 to 5000 persons on hand to help celebrate. The largest crowd in the history of the parade was the 1971 parade when the spring-like weather brought people by the thousands; net receipts were unofficially listed at over $2500, earmarked for the St. Henry Park Fund. The crowds became too large; local citizens complained. The public parade was discontinued. Local citizens still have their own Saint Patrick's Day celebration.

The first of November 1966 brought an early snow storm. The roads became dangerous quickly. People going home from work had to stop and stay at homes along their route. Some busloads of children spent the night in area homes whose families kindly took them in.

Another improvement within the village during the sixties was the installation of the sewage treatment plant. The question was brought to the voters in the November 1957 elections with 61 favorable votes and 243 negative votes. The issue was put to the ballot again in the 1963 elections, with 275 in favor and 129 against. A great deal of work went into this project by Mayor Heitkamp and the Council (1964-1966): John Borgert, Leander Eyink, Thomas Livingston, Ralph Broker, Arthur Gerlach, William Wourms, Lester Buenning, Robert Kanney, Edward Zumberg; Paul Niekamp, Clerk-Treasurer; Dean James, Village Solicitor; Anthony Nieport, Street Superintendent; Sylvester Delzeith, Assistant Superintendent; and the Board of Public Affairs: Flo Cron,

The extended aeration treatment plawas placed in operation in 1966 and as of December 1966, seventy percent of the potential custom were connected to the system. When the project wompleted, the total cost of the program was $44,000.

In 1971 a group of concerned Jaycees started Pool Fund. By 1974 a total of $13,800 was raised th a variety of projects. In 1975 a Pool Committee w formed to raise money to help the Jaycees in the project.

The first $13,800 was used to purchase appro mately ten acres of land north of the new housi development off of Kremer-Hoying Road. After t purchase of this land, there was enough money install sewage and water lines, grading and sowi

The Pool Committee Pledge Program was start in February, 1975 with 811 pledge letters being se to area citizens. With about a 40% return of pleds and private donations there was about $72,000 ceived. The total cost of the Pool Complex was a proximately $124,000 which left about $52,000 de which was pledged thru private notes. We have page this balance off at a rate of $10,000 a year. Inother project that citizens had worked for over years was a library. Late in 1974, Mr. Louis Hunan, Superintendent of Saint Henry Local tools, began contacting people about the possibilof establishing a library in Saint Henry. January 1975, Mr. Huelsman and four citizens sent a letto the Mercer County District Library, requesting t the Board of Trustees establish a joint commitwith Saint Henry Citizens to investigate the eslishment of a branch library in Saint Henry. Repentatives of organizations and communities in anville Township, joined these citizens and all rked together; this group of people became the anville Township Branch Library Promoters in 75. This organization's work resulted in the openof the Granville Township Branch Library in the anville Township House, on the Fourth of July, 76, the year of our nation's Bicentennial.

Arthur Bernard has been the St. Henry Police Chief since 1968. In 1976 he assumed full time duties and now dedicates his time serving the community. He was presented with a Certificate of Appreciation for his outstanding service to the community by the St. Henry Jaycees in 1970. Also the youth of the community presented him with an appreciation plaque in 1976.

In 1970 he had the Christmas house built and since that time Santa has had his own little castle near the church in front of the school during the holiday season. Each year the small children of the community come to visit Santa and tell him their wishes, all made possible through the efforts of Arthur Bernard.

In 1978, St. Henry has a population of approximately 1600. The rapid growth of the 70's has seen approximately 125 new homes and 15 new apartment houses built in St. Henry. The closing of open ditches and the building of a 5000 square foot town building to house town equipment have been major projects of the village in the late 70's.

In the future there probably will be other community services and facilities which the village will consider supplying for its citizens. St. Henry will be continually on the alert in order to furnish those things which make St. Henry a better place to live.

AINT HENRY CATHOLIC CHURCH

The Saint Henry Catholic Church stands on Main eet, Saint Henry, Ohio. The parish is supported about 550 families in the northern part of Granle Township. Father Raymond Bauer, C.PP.S. is pastor.

Myron Huelsman is the church organist. The astant organists are Annette Sutter and Mary Alice ins.

Christian Education is taught in the St. Henry Cahetical Center which was dedicated May 31, 1964. e Sisters of the Most Precious Blood are the inuctors. They live at their home at 172 North WaltStreet; the home was built by the parish in 1968. Mr. and Mrs. Paul Jansen are custodians for the urch. They also care for the Catechetical Center. ey also maintain the grounds for the church, the techetical Center, and the Church Cemetery.

The first settlers of Saint Henry had to go by rseback or on foot to Minster to attend Mass. But on, as settlement moved westward from the Mini-Erie Canal, a priest came out occasionally to celrate Mass in a private log cabin. By 1839, there are enough settlers in St. Henry to lead Bishop rcell to grant permission for the formation of air own parish. Mass was celebrated once a month the Henry Beckman home, on the northwest corr of Main and John Street, by Reverends Francis rtels and Henry Herzog.

Rev. Louis Navarron attended the parish once a onth from December 1841 until October 1845. Unr his direction the first church was built. This ilding, fifty by twenty-five feet, was made of logs d weatherboards, hewn by hand. The church aprently stood on lot number 33. The Most Reverd Archbishop Purcell dedicated this church in 42 to the honor of St. Henry, the pious Emperor Pary II of Germany; also honoring incidentally ur of the first six church wardens: Henry Romer, Pary Bruns, Henry Wimmers, Henry Hemmelran, Gerard Beckmann and Bernard Romer. Aprently, there was a rectory at that time because ere is an inventory of the kitchenware in the 'parhouse' dated 1842.

The Society of the Most Precious Blood served the rrounding parishes when the Maria Stein Convent is established in 1846. Himmelgarten Convent was illt in 1852. This convent stood across from the ome School, on the north side of the road, two and half miles west of town on route 119. This convent rved the needs of the congregation until it was ld in 1901. A few sisters remained to live in St. enry and teach within the local school system until ey left the village in 1904.

By 1852, the parish population had increased to rty-one families; the need for a larger church was cognized. Anthony De Curtins built the church in 54, and it was dedicated in 1855. The increasing imber of settlers in the neighborhood gave rise to o filial parishes. St. Wendelin's was founded in 56; St. Francis' at Cranberry Prairie in 1858.

As the parish population increased, plans were ade for a new church. In 1892, bricks were being ade; a well of eighty feet was dug and a windpump is purchased. The Cornerstone was laid in June 1895, with great celebration. July 25, 1897 was the day of dedication of the new church. The church was a magnificent edifice of the Gothic style of architecture, built in the form of a Latin cross. It was built of brick, ornamented with blue Bedford stone, and had an entire length of 163 feet. The width of the church proper was 66 feet and the transept width was 86 feet. Ten stone columns, 19 inches in diameter, supported the arched ceiling, the center nave of which was 52 feet above the floor. The church had an approximate seating capacity of 1200.

The parish continued growing. A stone grotto was built to the south of the church in 1907. A tower clock was installed in 1914. A new organ was purchased in 1926. The 1950's and 1960's were years of changes within the church. An electrified tower clock was installed. The concrete walks about the church and street were replaced; new steps were included. A new red carpet was laid in the sanctuary. Wooden transoms in the stained glass windows were replaced with steel frames, and the glass replaced and releaded. The church organ was rebuilt. The church basement was renovated. A new oil heating system was installed. This care for the church reflects the pride and generosity of the parish in her church.

The Second Vatican Council opened in Rome October 12, 1962. The council initiated a wide range of changes for the St. Henry parishioners, not only in the church's religious services but also in the hearts of the people. Changes were difficult. The church interior was completely renovated in 1970. In 1978 the Parish Council renovated the church basement.

Leo Huber wrote about the early Burkettsville hool. From the records, it appears that a public nool was started in 1875, with a two room strucre. It was located on the grounds, immediately rth of the present Werling and Son Meat Market. out 1880 a new St. Bernard Parochial School ime building was built. For some years prior to is the children of the pioneer families attended the rthwest Rammel School or the northeast Gilberts hool, or a small log cabin school west of the vilge where Mrs. Elizabeth Nordenbrock taught. In 93, the first parish school was replaced by a new d larger one. An addition was made in 1907. The sters of the Most Precious Blood began to staff the hool in 1904. (May 10, 1910 minutes of the Board Education, a bill was submitted for $4.30 for kinrgarten supplies.)

Burkettsville Board of Education minutes in 1922 l of a high school. (The minutes tell of high school idents' tuition being paid to Ansonia and St. enry.) The Board held their meetings at Werling otel and later at the school. April 27, 1927 Darke ounty School Board passed a resolution offering irkettsville District to Mercer County Board of Edation. Mercer County Board of Education acpted the Burkettsville School District September , 1927. The Burkettsville High School was disconnued in 1937; the high school students then went Saint Henry. Burkettsville District was annexed to Saint enry Consolidated Local District July 1, 1959. The ecious Blood Sisters remained a part of the teaching staff of the public school until the spring of 1971.

At the Village of Saint Henry, the earliest school building was a one story building which stood on Main Street, just west of the Church and in front of the present Junior High School Building; this first school was built in 1842. In 1893, this old building was remodeled and used as a kindergarten; hence, the appellation, "baby school," which was given to the school.

The School Teachers met to organize a Teachers' Institute in Granville Township in October 1886. At their meetings, discussions were held about such subjects as, "Teachers should choose the books;" "It is the duty of the parent to have an interest in the schools;" and "Should girls receive a better education than boys?" In November 1886, the German Teachers Institute of Mercer County was organized; their purpose being, "to meet once a year for the purpose of encouraging the German language in the schools." (German was spoken and taught, in addition to English, in St. Henry Schools, until World War I.)

In 1887, a new school building was built, about the site of the present Junior High School Building.

School 1888-1903

Diptheria epidemics closed the schools. In the 1890's, the attendance records between September and December, have notes about school being closed due to Diptheria. One of the latest school closings due to Diptheria was in November and December of 1913.

Saint Henry Elementary School

The Sisters of the Most Precious Blood taught at St. Henry from 1891 until 1904, when they left St. Henry. In the forenoon, school was conducted in German and in the afternoon, English. There were no grades in school. There were five reading texts, each more difficult than the preceding one. After the most difficult reader was completed, the student quit school. After three years of schooling, the students were taught English. School attendance was not mandatory at this time.

When the school building of 1888 became too small, a new school was built to the west of the church, on Main Street. The old school was torn down and the new building erected on the same site in the summer of 1903. The school was built with six large rooms, a basement; complete with steam heating. This building not only was for the first eight grades, but also for the high school. Thus, in 1905, the first high school graduate was Alfred Davis. As the number of students increased, an addition was put onto the back of this building in 1924.

In the 1930's, other changes were being made. The August 28, 1937 Board of Education members passed a resolution for the purpose of installing sa itary toilets indoors, constructing a cesspool outsi and purchasing land for same. The May 27, 19 Board of Education members accepted a contra with the Soft Ball Division of the athletic assocition, in regards to permitting the Community Chof Saint Henry, the Soft Ball Division to install lighting system on the school ground for playis softball. The High School was built in 1939 on lot at the northeast corner of Walnut and Columb Streets; an addition was made in 1959 and in 196 which included expansion of the gymnasium.

In 1961, due to an increased number of studer plus additional students when surrounding scho districts were annexed or consolidated, a new El mentary Building was built at 192 South Walnut. Kindergarten was begun in the autumn of 1971.

In 1978, plans were being prepared for a new Middle School Building to be built just South of the preent High School Building. By Joyce L. Alig

Al Homan, Robert Boeckman, and Ray Kremer bught the tile yard April 1, 1960 from Linus Lamiers. At that time, the business was basically a lanufacture and resale of farm drain tile and contete block. They bought the building, land, porons of equipment which could be used, and the bal resale business for residential homes, schools, ic. Homan, Boeckman, and Kremer proceeded to uy a new tile machine in 1960.

In 1966, they expanded operations and began sellig ready-mix. They also expanded the number of ockholders in 1966.

In 1969, they bought the builder supply business om Rutschilling Sawmill. (Linus Lammers had riginally had this business and then sold it to utschilling which in turn sold it to St. Henry Tile o.) The Tile Company added brick, block and vitried sewer pipe at this time.

In December of 1972, Robert Boeckman sold out is stock, and at this time Louis Stahl became active

1 the business.

Between 1970-1978 the company bought up seeral properties to expand on storage space. Land nd a building were purchased from St. Henry andmark. The Alvin Uhlenhake property was purhased and the house was moved to a lot purchased com the Henry Fiely property. The barn and rear lot of the Joe and Edith Mader property was purchased. Part of the Ray and Freida Moeder property was also purchased on which a new building was built in 1978 to be used for truck and products storage.

The history of the tile company goes back to the early 1900's. Mr. Herman Knapke, brother of Mrs. Bernard J. Lammers, came from Maria Stein to St. Henry in the early 1900's. Herman "Kroger" Knapke bought the St. Henry Tile Company from Ben Macke, who also had the canning factory. The tile yard adjoined the canning factory on the north end. Knapke made cement tile and began making cement block. He sold coal, cement, and gravel. He stopped manufacturing cement products during World War II and traded his building to Beckman and Gast Co. in 1944, for the building on Main Street housing Julius Bruns Grocery and Luttmer Shoe Shop. Knapke sold the coal and cement business to Linus Lammers in 1946. Mr. Lammers built a new concrete products plant to the south of the canning factgory, which he sold to Homan, Boeckman, and Kremer in 1960.

St. Henry Bank, remodeled in June of 1973, which consists of original bank and old hardware store combined.

THE ST. HENRY BANK

It took a great amount of planning and organizing by the minds of the late J. H. Romer, Henry Romer, William H. Romer, John G. Romer, and Edward F. Romer to establish The St. Henry Bank in 1904.

They did not open for business until January 5, 1905, in temporary quarters. This was truly a new business venture for St. Henry, because from the start the bank seemed to fill a great need. The southern part of the county was practically without direct banking service until then. The business grew steadily, and in 1906 a two-story brick building was erected.

To make the bank a standardized institution, complying with all the laws of the state, it was incorporated under the seal of Ohio with a state charter on March 11, 1913.

J. H. Romer was the first President, being active in business and seen practically every day in the banking room until his death January 5, 1918, just 13 years after the opening of business. Henry Romer, Vice-President and Assistant Caslier, then assumed the title of President; but he he that position for a very short time, for on May 1918, he passed away. He devoted thirteen years conscientious and careful effort to promote the we fare of the institution.

In 1924 the original bank built in 1906 became to small, and a new modern bank was erected at the present location, which is where the old saloon use to be located. Total resources at that time was $500,000.

William H. Romer, who from the beginning was Cashier, became President and General Manager a ter Henry Romer's death. He held these position until his death on March 18, 1941.

Miss Elizabeth A. Romer was then elected Pres dent, after having worked in the bank from its beginning. She studied every aspect of banking, staring as bookkeeper, then to teller, then Assistat Cashier, then President, till her death on September 4, 1951.

In 1959 the bank was remodeled. Total resource at the time was $3,400,000.

He began is career with the bank as Assistant Cashier in 1925 nd later advanced to Cashier and General Manager, om which positions he was promoted to the office f President on September 4, 1951. He had been on ne Board of Directors for nearly 45 years. His expences as a banker had been many and varied, and e can be proud of the fact he was instrumental in uiding the bank through the depression of the hirties without any loss to its depositors or stockolders. Mr. Romer was also President of The Ottoille Bank Co. in Ottoville, Ohio.

John F. Romer started his banking career in Janury of 1961. As Assistant Cashier, he was promoted a Cashier on July 1, 1967, and elected Secretary of he Board of Directors.

ne board of Directors.

Donald F. Evers was employed on July 1, 1967, as assistant Cashier and was elected as a Director on anuary 8, 1971.

On December 30, 1967, Leo E. Romer decided to etire from the bank. However, he remained Presilent of the Bank until his death on June 8, 1974. At his time John F. Romer was elected President of the Board, and Donald F. Evers was elected Secretary of the Board and Cashier.

In January of 1972 the building just east of the present bank building (the old hardware store) was purchased from Ferd Franck. This building and the present bank building were remodeled to make one large bank building to handle the growing needs of St. Henry and the surrounding area. Open house of the new facilities was June 24, 1973. The total resources was $12,300,000.

On November 2, 1973, the Board of Directors decided to build a branch bank in Maria Stein, Ohio, for the convenience of their many customers in that area. Opening date of the new Maria Stein Branch was March 31, 1975.

In May, 1977, the bank purchased a vacant lot from Loretta Romer to further expand their facilities when needed.

Today, June, 1978, the total resources of the bank are $25,000,000. The Directors of the bank at present are: John F. Romer, President; Leo A. Huber, Vice-President; Donald F. Evers, Cashier and Secretary of the Board; Clem Bills; and Albert Romer. We want to thank the community for their fine support.

LEFELD PLUMBING AND HEATING

The Lefeld Plumbing and Heating Company is owned and operated by Henry J. Lefeld. It is located on Main Street in St. Henry. Mr. Lefeld started his business in 1955 and his first plumbing shop was established in the building formerly occupied by the Henry Wimmer's Upholstery Shop on Sycamore Street. Later this building was replaced by a new one on the same location. As his business grew, he moved his shop to its present site in 1962.

Through the years, there have been many change in the heating of homes. First, hand-fired coal an wood stoves were used. Then, fuel oil and gas fur naces came into use with hot air or hot water sys tems. Next we saw the electric furnaces and then th heat pump to help supplement the electric furnace and also used in air-conditioning. Now, we are experimenting with solar heat. Today, with the high cos of producing electricity, oil and gas, people are re turning to wood burning stoves and fireplaces.

Plumbing has seen as many changes or more. A first, we used soil pipe and galvanized pipe, exclu sively. Next, came the copper plumbing and today plastic is used extensively. Bathroom and kitcher fixtures have made significant changes. Not only have styles changed, but we have gone from the basic white to an array of colors. Material to make these fixtures has included china, cast iron, fiber glass, imitation marble and stainless steel.

Pumps are another major area of change. We have progressed from hand pumps to windmills to automatic jet pumps and ones that are submerged.

Progress seems to be limited only by a lack of imagination. There has been no such lack in the plumbing and heating industry.

the earliest businessmen in St. Henry.

J. H. Romer, who originally operated the store on this site from 1867 to 1903, sold his business to his nephew, Joseph J. Romer, who is the present owner's grandfather. The May 25, 1907 St. Henry Advocate advertised J.J. Romer's general store as carrying an immense stock of dry goods, clothing, furnishings, shoes, hats, and caps - everything that went to make a general store. After J.J. Romer's death, Harry, Harold and Stanley Romer sold this business to Beckman and Gast who had a retail grocery and dry goods business at this site between 1923 and 1927. Harry ran the store until his sons, Harry, Jr. bought the dry goods side on the west and Lowell bought the grocery side on the east. In 1949 Mr. and Mrs. Louis Buschor purchased the business from her brother Harry Romer. Jr.

The merchandise today includes ready-to-wear clothing, notions, drygoods, and shoes. The present owners reside in St. Henry. Joseph J. Romer was born and reared in St. Henry and is the son of Stanley A. Romer. His wife, Patricia Ann, is the daughter of Clem Hoelscher of Yorkshire, Ohio. The Landman Milling Co., and Fox and Hess Elevator

MERCER LANDMARK INC. St. Henry Branch

The Farmers Grain and Milling Company built their elevator in 1910. It was later known as the Landman Milling Co., and the United Grain and Milling Co. Circa 1939, they installed a new scale, and built a new two story warehouse to handle their increasing business. Landmark purchased the elevator from United Grain and Milling Co. in December of 1957. Equally historical was the old elevator which was built by Fox and Hess in 1901; Joe Davis was in charge of this elevator. Fox and Hess were the sole owners of that mill until its sale to Landmark about 1947 or 1948. It was operated until 1958 when it was torn down. The Fox and Hess building stood at the site of Rutschilling Sawmill.

The present elevator made bran, midds and bagged Silverleaf Flour until 1950-1951. The equipment was run by steam engine power until that time. In 1961, an 850 ton fertilizer warehouse was built for bagged facility and then was converted to a bulk warehouse and blend plant in early 1967. In 1962, 20% N solution (agua ammonia) became available to the farmers as a side dress for corn to be knifed into the ground. A 300 ton bag fertilizer building was built in early 1970 with a heated room to keep farm chemicals from freezing. A few years later, 28% nitrogen solution was made available to be used as topdressing over wheat in early spring, or as a plow down or side dressing (knifed in) in corn. Certain chemicals can be mixed with 28% at the same time to be put on top of the soil. 82% anhydrous nitrogen was also made available to the farmer around this time, with equipment for the farmer to use as a preplant or side dressing of corn.

In 1976, a capacity bin of 25,000 bushel, with aeration floor was erected. Construction was started in Sept. 1978 of a grain pit dump, a 3000 bushel per hour grain elevator leg, a 2000 bushel wet holding bin above a 500 bushel per hour batch grain dryer, and two 20,000 bushel grain storage bins with aeration floors. Landmark's services to its customers are marketing of grains, handling of complete feeds, feed formulation, grinding and mixing of feeds, animal health products, seeds, chemicals, farm supplies, livestock equipment, custom delivery of bulk and bag feeds, and custom application of chemicals and fertilizers to name only a few items. ST. HENRY SQUAD THREE

The St. Henry Branch of Mercer County Ambulance Service came into being when Don Hummel became interested in attending classes on Emergency Victim Care. This course began in August of 1974 and was held in conjunction with the Celina Fire Department personnel.

After the completion of the classes, in September of '74, Hummel approached the St. Henry Fire Department members with the possibility of having them run an ambulance service in St. Henry.

It was decided this would be impossible, so Hummel, Gerald Bruns, and several others decided to approach the public with the possibility of acquiring an ambulance squad for the southern portion of Mercer County. A public meeting was held in November of '74 with 44 people in attendance. Twenty-four people volunteered to attend the first session of classes to become EMT's (Emergency Medical Technicians). Chuck Miller, of the Celina Department, was to be the instructor.

In December, 1974, the Mercer County Commissioners, the Mercer County Ambulance Board with Junior Robbins as President, met with St. Henry personnel and it was decided to have a volunteer Emergency Branch in St. Henry. This branch would be in charge of giving emergency care to residents of Southern Mercer County.

A committee was set up to find proper housing for the ambulance and an organization meeting was held to elect officers. Elected were Carl Hart, President; Gerald Bruns, vice president and Doris Rutschilling, Secretary-Treasurer and Don Hummel, Coordinator.

COMMUNITY HOSPITAL AUXILIARY

The Saint Henry Hospital Auxiliary was organized in January of 1974 by Mrs. Anita Bible. Mrs. Bible had become involved with the hospital due to an illness in the family, and realized how important a well equipped facility was to this area. After getting some of the Saint Henry women involved it was not difficult to start an organization. The first goal was to provide equipment for the pediatric wing of the new hospital.

The auxiliary quickly got to work raising money for much needed crib beds, high chairs, feeding trays, and rocking chairs. With these purchases our first goal was accomplished. We then acquired enough money to purchase a delivery table, 61 clocks, for the patient's rooms, and a warming cabinet for surgery.

To list some of the means of raising the much needed money are as follows: 1. Bake sales twice a year. 2. Fancy stand at the community picnic. Tickets sold for raffle at the community picnic. Lunch stand at various public auctions. 5. Refunding and saving cents-off coupons. 6. Chinese auction Christmas time. 7. Sale of Christmas candy. A these projects bring money to make Communi Hospital the best medical facility it can be.

This year the organization has grown to 79 mer bers with three types of memberships. Active $1.00 dues, take part in all activities, have a voice all matters and the right to vote. Inactive — $2.0 dues, these members have no duties and no vot may attend meetings and functions and may mal suggestions. Volunteer — No dues, no vote, but he when necessary.

Each year the auxiliary holds elections in Octoberand the new officers take office in January. Thank to the dedication and support of the women in the area the past four presidents, Anita Bible, Eilee Delzeith, Marjorie Stachler and Mary Ann Meschethe organization has prospered and grown. Ne members are welcome to join at anytime.

THE ST. HENRY COMMERCIAL CLUB

The businessmen of St. Henry, Ohio, met in the Catholic Knights of America hall on April 12, 1907. They discussed possible means of locating a proposed business in St. Henry. This subject was dropped temporarily, and a motion was made to organize a Board of Trade or Commercial Club.

At the first meeting a motion was made to call the organized club the Board of Trade. However, at the next meeting it was unanimously changed to the St. Henry Commercial Club. The new officers were: George Schlosser, President; Joseph J. Romer, Vice-President; Joseph J. Moeller, Secretary; and Frank H. Gels, Treasurer.

In the early years the club was very active in attempting to locate new business in St. Henry. Throughout the next seventy years it remained active in promoting social intercourse and good fellowship among its members and to advance the business interests of the community.

The present officers are: Charles Gels, President Dick Francks, Vice-President; and Gerald Bruns Secretary-Treasurer.

One of the main projects of recent years has been raising money to help pay off the debt of our community swimming pool. The total cost of the project was $121,359.00 in 1975, and there is a balance o $27,540.00 remaining today.

The Commercial Club holds an annual Irish Day Sweepstakes at the Irish Day Celebration with all proceeds to the pool. They also hold a ticket at the annual July 4th picnic, with all the merchandise given away being donated by the area businessmen They have been very successful in the past four years in that they have raised approximately $20,000. for this project.

Another important project of the Commercia Club is conducting the annual Combined Charities Drive. For the past several years they have been very successful in raising money for this worthy cause.

SAINT HENRY AMERICAN LEGION POST 648

Saint Henry Legion Post 648 was organized in .946. There were nineteen potential members present at the first meeting held, April 9, 1946. Temporary officers were elected and Linus Lammers was he first commander. After the charter was granted, he temporary officers were then installed. The Post had various fund raising projects from fish fries, to lances and to picnics. The first dance netted 3304.00. The Auxiliary Unit was organized in May of 1947, with Lois Lammers as the first president. It has been a strong link for the Post since then.

The Legion members met for several years in the old Commercial Club Hall, which would now be above Bertke's T.V. Store, then known as Mupps Bruns Grocery Store. Then, the members purchased the Nite Club Building from Julius Rose, and had the building converted into a bar, and a meeting room. The building has been extensively remodeled several times. The Nite Club side is now being ented and managed by Edna Koesters.

The Legion has always donated to all civic activities, Children's Christmas Parties, Legion Baseball, Boys State, Veterans Hospitals and Orphans' Parties. Also, the Legion members have been large contributors and volunteer workers for the Saint Henry

Park and Pool Project.

Probably the most important project that the members started in 1947 to get funds for a building, was the Fourth of July Picnic. The members continued this project for several years. Then the firemen joined the Legion members for several years in order to get a new fire truck. When the firemen dropped out, it became a Community Picnic, with all organizations participating in the work and profit. The Legion members are very proud of the new park and pool are the main recipients of the proceeds of this Fourth of July Picnic. The Legion members also provide the facilities and a lot of the help for the famous Irish Day Parades and programs, to help provide funds for the pool and park.

The 1978 Officers are: Al Homan, Commander; Ron Rindler, First Vice Commander; Victor Moeder, Adjutant; and Ron Clements, Treasurer. prepared by: Linus Lammers, Former Commander and Mercer County Com-

Over the years, the Auxiliary has been involved in many projects, some for the purpose of raising money to carry on the works for which the American Legion Auxiliary is noted: Child Welfare, Community Service, Americanism, and many others. Daughters of Isabella

DAUGHTERS OF ISABELLA AVE MARIA CIRCLE 417 — St. Henry, Ohio

The first Circle of the Daughters of Isabella was instituted as an auxiliary to Russell Council No. 65, Knights of Columbus in New Haven, Connecticut on May 14, 1897. On July 7, 1907, by a special act of the General Assembly the Daughters of Isabella Secured a National charter, and since have become an international organization of Catholic women. Not only were organizations spread across the United States, but also in Canada and the Philippines. The St. Henry Circle was organized in 1927 with fifty names appearing on the charter. LEWIS H. GAST

Lewis Henry Gast was born on June 25th, 1895 in Chickasaw, the son of Lewis and Mary Koenig Gast. He was born at the home of his aunt and uncle, Henry and Rosa Koenig Everman.

His father died prior to his birth and his mother followed in just a few years. When a young boy he moved with his aunt and uncle and family to Celina where he attended I. C. parochial school and graduated in the class of 1913.

He worked for "Big Pete Schunck's Shoe Store" until he was called into the ranks during World War I, and resumed working there after his return in July,

On November 6, 1919 he was married to Leona Beckman, who is the daughter of the late Henry and Clara Gottemoller Beckman of St. Henry. Leona was born on September 20th, 1897.

Lewis and Leona Gast made their first home in Celina and their first son was born there on March 12, 1921 and was named James Warren.

In September 1922, Lewis Gast joined his wife's father and brother, Henry Beckman and Luke Beckman, in purchasing the general merchandise store of Mrs. J. J. Romer in St. Henry. This partnership was called the Beckman and Gast Co. At that time, Lewis, Leona and son James moved to St. Henry. In April 1923, Henry Beckman died and his wife Clara took his place in the store.

On August 30th, 1923, the family added another son, William Henry. John Lewis was born on September 24th, 1925, with Robert Allen joining the family on January 30th, 1927. A daughter, Jean Ann, was born September 7th, 1935.

In 1928 Lewis Gast and Luke Beckman bought the Macke Canning Co. of St. Henry, and in 1930 sold the "General Merchandise Store". At a later date the Minster Canning Co. was purchased and during World War II a cannery at New Carlisle, Ohio was bought. The latter, however, seemed too far from home and was only kept for a few years.

Sometime after World War II, in which three sons participated, it was decided to divide the holdings of the company; Luke Beckman taking the Minster Canning Co. and Lewis Gast keeping the home plant. Lewis then took his sons and later his son-inlaw into the business with him. The company had purchased the small Osgood Canning Co. in Darke Co. John Gast left the company around 1960.

The children of Lewis Gast are all married. William (Bill) married Geraldine Feldhake, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Al Feldhake of St. Henry in July 1945. John married Marjorie Buschor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Al Buschor of Coldwater R.R. in April 1946. She has passed away and John has since re-married. Robert (Bob) was married to Joan Backs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Backs of Montezuma in June 1950 and James' (Jim's) wife is the former Beatrice Froning, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Froning of Coldwater. They were married in November 1950. Jean married Charles (Jack) Bergman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bergman of Ft. Recovery in October, 1956.

Lewis' health began to fail in the mid 1950's. In the summer of 1964, during a terrific heat spell, he became ill with pneumonia from which he never recovered. He died on November 20th, 1964.

Leona, who had always helped in the office at the canning factory, continued to work during packing seasons for another ten years. She is now retired, and after selling her home lives in an apartment at 242 Washington St., St. Henry. She spends about four months of the year in Florida.

All of the children live in St. Henry except John who has his business in Indianapolis, and makes that city his home.

Lewis Gast's descendents are five children, 24 grandchildren, and 12 great-grandchildren. Leona M.

Joseph Homan was born Oct. 23, 1886 and died May 1, 1969. Mary Osterholt was born June 25, 1882

On August 21, 1848 Joseph Homan's father, Theodore Homan, was born in Westfallen, Germany. He served in the German Army in the Franco-Prussian war under Bismark for three years. In 1871, at the age of twenty-five (25) he came to America. He journeyed to what is now Mercer County working for one year for Joe Homan, a first cousin, at St. Rose to pay his passage over. He worked for farmers for several more years. In 1875 he purchased 100A of woodland in what is now Granville Township. This farm is now owned by his grandson, Arnold. He had been told by a friend that Bernard Pleiman, who owned a neighboring farm, had two lovely daughters - Mary and Elizabeth. When Theodore asked Mary to marry him, she wanted time to think it over. He told her that she had a week, then if she did not accept, he would ask her sister. So Mary accepted. Later Theodore wrote his brother Henry in Germany telling him about Elizabeth. Henry came to America and married Elizabeth.

When the banns were published, the whole congregation came to help build a log house. They were married May 11, 1875. After the wedding the congregation came again to clear some land. They had a log-rolling, clearing about five acres. After seven years a frame house replaced the log house still in use today.

There were no roads in those early days. The pioneers traveled through the swampy woods on foot, on horseback, or with wagons. When going to church with a wagon, other parishioners were picked up along the way.

To self their produce they had to journey to (New) Bremen. If they had butter or eggs to sell, it was put in a pillowcase, tied to a pole, and carried over the shoulder. Livestock was driven through the woods.

JOHN KANE

Born?? Died June 24, 1941. Approx. 65 yrs. of age Who was this man that practically everyone Mercer Co. knew, but nobody really knew? Whe did he come from? Why did he decide to settle in ! Henry and Mercer Co.? What was his real nam Why with all his talent, did he live a life similar to pauper? I have seen this man give his last dime to hobo that asked for it.

He was a brilliant speaker and orator, a master the English language. He was an artist and made I living painting signs. A superb singer, organist, ar ier talents, besides a broad knowledge of world und for hours with his oratory.

Sitting on a store bench, he could hold your spell-

He stayed at the Tohle boarding house, when he ald afford it, and knowing Mrs. Tohle probably my times when he couldn't afford it. Many times stayed in vacant buildings, hay lofts, etc. Hower he was welcomed to stay at many places where painted signs or mail boxes.

He had a horse and buggy for sometime, and he d me a nickel or a dime to feed it, which was a lot money for a kid those days. But, sorry to say, I n't think Dad, Bernard Lammers got much money the feed, but Dad didn't seem to care.

He liked to imbibe at times, and sometimes had to lect part of the sign money before he started to ady his hand to paint the sign.

Myron Huelsman, our present organist, gave me s information as John Kane was very close to his cle, and I quote; "To the best of our knowledge, in Kane studied for the priesthood and this perps explains his expertise at oratory and also his od background in music. For many years, John ne, played the organ for the Keith circuit, and folved these films to all the large cities. Why he setd here, no one really knows."

Who was this man that could sing and play the gan better than anyone in the area? He played the gan in Church, but got fired by Fr. Kanney when played Yankee Doodle as the closing tune. I her liked it myself, at least everyone was listen-

He was found dead in a school bus, by some chilen two days after he died on June 24, 1941. His th date was unknown, but Fr. Kanney assumed was about 65 yrs. of age. He had two cents in his cket when he died.

Many people like myself, respected this man, and eel he belongs in history, and I am proud to conbute this to the Mercer Co. History Book. Linus B.

In this part of Germany (Oldenburg) the oldest living child inherited the land when the father died. This could be either a girl or boy. If a girl inherited the land she kept the name also. This way the farm name stayed the same from one generation to the next. Inheritance laws were different at different places and times. Carl Knapke

KNAPKE

Heinrich Knapke (1797-1874) was the oldest of the three brothers that came to Mercer County, arriving at the port of Baltimore on November 4, 1833 aboard the Lucilla, sailed to Bremen, with his wife, Elizabeth, and two sons, Joseph and Bernard. They came from Oldenburg and their destination as Cincinnati. Others of his family settled in Mercer County was Bernard Henry, Great-grandfather of Luke Knapke, Minster. (Much credit due Luke Knapke for getting records back to 1647.)

The ship Lucilla was quite small, only 368 tons carrying from 75 to 175 passengers. The immigrant ships varied in size. Time length of voyage took from 3 to 8 weeks until about 1850 when all the ocean crossings were made in sailing ships often at the mercy of the weather and the passengers suffered hardships if the voyage took more than the average time. Food and water often became short. Bad weather, the passengers would stay in below decks in cramped, uncomfortable conditions.

Heinrich recorded his deed for 160 acres on December 20, 1833. Land bought was then from Government land offices for $1.25 per acre. His land located on SW corner of Ohio 119 and 364. He and his family listed on the earliest roster of St. Augustine Church, Minster, joining the parish in 1834.

Heinrich took his oath of allegiance to the US November 11, 1840. In 1837, he sold 40 acres to brother, Frederick. On February 9, 1850, wife Elizabeth died. Both sons, Joseph and Bernard, are listed as coopers on 1850 census, an important industry at that time. Much of the local farm produce was shipped in barrels on the canal boats which traveled through Minster in 1845. Many of the new settlers helped dig the Miami-Erie Canal in Minster for 50¢ a day, real cash desperately needed. The wife helped by making a week's supply of pancakes (very necessary to make them palatable). The man would set off through the woods and walk miles to work at Minster.

Depending how desperate the contractor was to get laborers, whiskey furnished by the contractor (4 to 16 drinks per day) was part of wages. Life then was difficult for new settlers. Very hard task clearing land; back breaking "dawn to dusk".

Tragedy of sickness and early deaths plus fear of the unknown. Just imagine the terror when they heard the wolves howling, fear for their livestock's safety. It's a credit to those people. They faced their problems and didn't scurry back to Germany. Incidentally, bounty hunters got $4.25 per wolf's scap.

Heinrich's son, Bernard, married Elizabeth Brandwie. Children: Caroline 1853 — Joseph 1856 — John Henry 1859 — Bernardine 1861 — Bernard 1865 — Catherina 1868 — John J. 1871 — Mary 1874.

John J. married Elizabeth Huelskamp in 1902. She died December 23, 1922. A sad Christmas it was. Left 8 children behind to do for themselves. That they did in helping each other. KNAPKE

Knapke family ancestors are traced back to Herman Knapke (1647-1709) married — 1677 Taupke Stenkampf (1630-1712). Children: Anna (1678-1751) and Catharina (1681-?).

Later on, Heinrich Knapke (1797-1874) wife Elizabeth, sons Joseph and Bernard. Heinrich, first of the 3 brothers lived at Neuenkirchen, Oldenburg, Germany, located near southeastern boundary of the Grand Duchy of Oldenburg. Town lies 5 miles west of Damme, only 40 to 50 miles east of the Holland border. Much of this is flat crisscrossed with drainage canals. Large areas are Moorland — Marshy — Canals part of which is farmed. The country side was not too different from the land our ancestors found here. Our ancestors were mostly small farmers. Perhaps a few acres 10 or 15 which were part of a large estate. Perhaps for the right to farm, a portion he paid for the right to farm it.

They did not live on this land but rather in a small cluster of houses nearby along with similar people from which he went out to his land each day either on a bike or horse and wagon. Also had bike trails along side the road, as my sister saw on a tour through Germany in 1972. They also pitched hay up on a wagon. Women helping the men. One Sunday my sister went to a church that was built in the seven hundred. They built them to stay and lasted for centuries.

The parish of Neuenkerchen Oldenburg Germany had about 3000 people in 1810, but supposedly lost half of its people. They immigrated during the 1830's, 1840's and 1850's. Most went to the United States. Some went to Brazil or Australia. Then so emigrated to the US in the 1700's. People w mostly of the southerly areas in Germany settlec Eastern US. Well known as the Pennsylvania Dut

Minster parish has records of births, deaths a marriages for a very large area surrounding the e liest years 1830's and 1840's. Was the only churaround. Minster priest would travel through area saying Mass in the homes of settlers who neighbors could congregate. Minster church recoinclude places as far away as Troy, Wapakone and West to Indiana line. One must credit the poeple with much courage to risk exchanging I land of their birth for the unknown.

Born in 1838, a carpenter by trade, I had several businesses in St. Henry, one was a taren, which he sold Dec. 11, 1884, after his bartende Mr. Storp died Nov. 6, 1884. Bernard married Bernaline Romer July 24, 1866 and they had one daughter, Mary. They moved to Pinkneyville, Ill. and the Lammers name died out for my great uncle.

Anthony was a shoe cobbler and according I Mercantile Agency Reference Book, his credit wa good for $500.00. He married Anna Lange Nov. 2. 57 and they lived on the home place. She was rn Sept. 5, 1848 and died Nov. 26, 1910. Anthony s born Oct. 5, 1841 and died Nov. 2, 1913.

This was my father and he married Catherine tapke on Jan. 15, 1902. They had seven children, e died in infancy. At this writing, my mother is ll living at age 96.

Since my ancestors were all Catholic, I can only sume that they had a part in not only helping ild the town, but the church as well. The corner-one was laid in 1895.

My dad died when I was sixteen, and I never ew any of my aunts, uncles or grandparents. It ikes me appreciate my grandchildren a lot more, ien they sit on my lap, and I tell them a story.

When I look at my Grandpa's gun over the fireice, I can dream, but I can't hear the stories he uld have told me, if I could have sat on his lap. Prered by Grandson Linus B. Lammers

In the shop they made new horse harness, reired and oiled them, also repaired binder canvas r reapers. They sold horse collars, shoes, whips, unks, lap robes, curtains for buggies, etc. They ould make or fix anything from a leather watch b, to a fancy leather belt, or even a saddle, or a in holster.

On Jan. 15, 1902, Bernard married Catherine napke, born May 11, 1882, daughter of Bernard and Mary Bertke Knapke of Maria Stein. As of this riting she is still living at age 96. They lived in the

Due to Dad's illness of 4 yrs., I learned the trade and Mom and I continued to operate the shop, while I was in the Navy, the shop was condemned and tore down in 1944. It was a shame the antiques that were discarded. Ken Jacobs bought and tore down the house in 1978. The staircase, doors, trim, and some joist were all walnut wood.

Dad never drove a car, so I drove 1919 touring Buick at age 10. Farmers didn't have money, so we would collect a sack of wheat, oats, chickens, meat, etc. to pay off their accounts. In a dark stable one night we traded in a fresh cow with calf. The next day we brought home a dry cow with calf.???

Dad always had chickens, pigs, and one or two cows, but some times, the eggs were gone and the cows were milked before we got to the barn. Many families were hungry, and many people don't remember the big depression. I do! Preparer Linus B. Lam-

ROMAN — BERNADETTA LOCHTEFELD

On a crisp sunny fall day (Sept. 13, 1941), Roman Lochtefeld and I, (Bernadetta Nieport), spoke our marriage vows in the St. Henry Church, St. Henry, Ohio.

Roman was born June 20, 1919 and Bernadetta March 12, 1922.

We later became the parents of five living children; all of whom are now married and have presented us with 14 grandchildren.

Virgil was born in 1943 and is married to Mary Lynn Nieberding. They have 2 children — Betsy and Michael.

Martin, born in 1945, is married to Elaine Knapke. They are the parents of David, Nancy, and Kevin.

Esther, born in 1948, is married to Kenneth Homan. Their children are Karen, Chuck, and Joe.

Alice, born in 1950, is married to Donald Rammel. They are the parents of three daughters — Marcia, Lisa, and Sara.

Henry, born in 1953, is married to Freda Dues. Their children are Craig, Darrell, and Jill.

All of our children presently live here in the Mercer County area.

We have farmed here in Granville Twp. most of our married life. Also, Roman has worked for 32 years as a jobsetter for the Minster Machine Co., Minster, Ohio. He also is a World War II veteran, having served in the Pacific area.

And now something about our ancestors. Roman's parents were Joseph and Rose (nee Luttmer) Lochtefeld. Roman's grandfather was Henry Lochtefeld and great-grandfather was Henry Lochtefeld, Sr. They all resided on a farm north of St. Rose. The farm is still presently in the Lochtefeld name — has been for over a hundred years. All of Roman's ancestors were of German descent.

Bernadetta's parents were Henry and Mary (nee Borgerding) Nieport. My grandparents were John and Anna (nee Nordenbrock) Borgerding and William and Louisa (nee Uhlenhake) Nieport. My grandparents from my father's side were deceased before my parents were married.

I have vivid memories of my grandparents from my mother's side. Also I remember my greatgrandmother (Anna Nordenbrock) who lived to be just over 100 years old. She and her husband came to the United States from Germany in 1865. She taught school in a small log schoolhouse.

The Nordenbrocks and Borgerdings were some of the earliest settlers of southern Mercer County around Burkettsville, Ohio.

Roman and Bernadetta have now been married for 37 years and reside at 5059 Kremer-Hoying Rd., St. Henry, Ohio. Mrs. Bernadetta Lochtefeld

MOEDER (MADER)

I am the oldest in a family of twelve, born in 1921, the Moeder (pronounced "Mader") Home still ocpied by my brothers - Richard and Charles, on ate Route 119, 1 mile west of St. Henry, Ohio. My andfather (Joseph) and Grandmother (Adelheit) oeder lived in the red brick home about threeurths mile west of St. Henry, still occupied by my ther's sister Eleanora. Route 119 was still a gravel ad in those days. Traffic was minimal in those ys. I can remember taking walks with my sister ary and Dad to Grandpa's house in the evenings pick up our milk. We would have fun splashing iter from the puddles with our bare feet. We also irned about the Big Bear and Little Bear and other anets from our dad while we were walking. My ter died at the age of 2 years and 8 months in a me accident. That was in 1925. It took years for y father to get over this tragedy as he always inted to blame himself for her death.

I can remember my Uncle Aloys (who lived at andpa's house) and my Dad driving Grandpa's illys-Knight — a big black touring car with collapple seats which folded into the back of the front at. This was in the early 1930's. My sister Rita and would enjoy using those seats when we were inted to take little trips with Grandma and Grandpa such places as the Maria Stein Convent to visit e Sisters of the Precious Blood. Grandma would ing clothes and rags to the Sisters who in turn ade beautiful rugs.

There were days in the 1930's when I would help y mother plant and hoe garden, we would can vegables. I would help my aunt Tillie to milk somenes and then we would separate the cream in the immerkitchen, which is still standing. It has a ick oven in it where Grandma baked all her bread id pies. I would ride to St. Henry in a buggy, somenes a two-seated surrey, with a horse driven by y Aunt. We went to the White Mountain Creamy to sell the cream and eggs. Grandma Moeder alays churned her own butter to serve her family id even our family got lots of it.

I remember a Huckster Wagon coming to our ouse every week (in the late 1920's and early 130's) to bring all kinds of staple foods, dry goods, c. Our flour that Mother used to bake her bread as ground from the wheat that was raised on our rm and taken to St. Henry Mill for grinding. We oduced almost every kind of food in our garden id canned it for use all through the winter months. randpa and Grandma butchered at least 16 or 18 ogs in the wintertime, plus 4 or 6 cattle, for our eat to be eaten during the winter and summer onths. Grandpa, my Dad, and two uncles farmed ree farms and four families lived off the things oduced there. Threshing and butchering times ere like big parties to the young generation in ose days. It was hard work for the oldsters. These vo functions brought all the families together, plus I the neighbors, to do these jobs and then randma and all the wives of family and neighbors ould prepare meals for the men. Grandma even ot out her best dishes and made the best meals ith lots of pies.

Mother had quilting parties (Grandmother too); and our front room was always closed off in the wintertime so that mother could let her quilting frame in position. Two or three weeks at Christmas time were used for our funmaking with our new toys. Then back to the quilting frame. Mother made lots of our clothes. Dad enjoyed music and taught us lots of sacred songs in addition to modern songs of the time. He also played Piano, Organ, Cornet and Violin. So we had many evenings of entertainment. Mrs. Aloys H. THE JULIUS R. MOEDER FAMILY

Julius Robert Moeder was born June 18, 1888 in a log house on the family farm one mile west of St. Henry. He was the fifth child, third son in a family of eight children born to Joseph and Adelheit (Haubert) Moeder. He attended school in St. Henry where he graduated in 1908. Julius then went to St. Joseph's College, Rensselaer, Indiana. While there he played basketball and baseball and established a school record of 21 strike-outs in one game. He graduated in 1910.

He returned home and began teaching in St. Henry, teaching all the science and math subjects as there were only two high school teachers at that time. He began a basketball program and became the first basketball coach of St. Henry High School.

During the summers he took extra courses of study at Bowling Green State University and Miami University, at Oxford.

In 1915, Julius and his brother, Aloys, traveled to California by train to attend the International Exposition (world's fair) in San Francisco. One of the highlights of their trip was a stop in Utah to see the Morman Tabernacle Square in Salt Lake City.

On April 14, 1920 he married Anna Winkeljohn in St. Henry. This was quite an exciting day for the young people of St. Henry to see their teacher get married!

Anna was born July 22, 1895 on the Ben Borger farm, now known as the Walter Dues farm, northeast of St. Henry. She was the third child, third daughter in a family of eleven children born to H. Mathias and Rosina (Dabbelt) Winkeljohn. She attended primary school in St. Henry. When she was 15, her Aunt Elizabeth wrote and asked if Anna could come to Cincinnati to help her do housekeeping at Our Lady of Perpetual Help Parish. She went there and stayed until her mother called her home when her younger brother, Ed, was born in 1912. She worked at home until her mother was able to manage herself and then went to Ft. Wayne, Indiana to do housework for the Karns family, a very strict Jewish family. She worked for about five years and returned home at Christmas in 1917. She worked at home until she and Julius were married in 1920.

They moved on their 80 acre farm 1½ miles west of St. Henry. Here they raised their family of six daughters and six sons: Marcella (1921-), Mary (1923-25), Rita (1924-), Norbert (1925-), Ruth (1927-), Richard (1929-), Victor (1930-), Jerome (1933-), Mary Adeline (1934-56), Charles (1936-), Leander (1938-), and Rose Ann (1940-). Mary died in 1925 at the age of two when she ate some of her father's pills. Mary Adeline, who became Sister Mary Julian in 1954, died of a brain tumor in 1956.

Julius retired from teaching in 1935 and became a full time farmer. He enjoyed music and directed and sang in the church choir for over 60 years. He was assistant organist for some years and also played the piano, violin and harmonica. When he retired he was proud of his large garden, much of which was raised for their children.

Anna was always ready to lend a helping hand to her children and helped the families when many of the grandchildren were born. In later years crocheting was her favorite pastime, and making quilts and comforts kept her busy in the winter months.

Anna died December 15, 1975 of heart disease and Julius died April 8, 1977 of complications of age. The family farm passed on to their sons Richard and Charles. Rose Ann Siefring
